Mrs. Bailey's Fifth Grade
At Wollaston School

A NEWSPAPER BY AND FOR THE CHILDREN OF QUINCY

Happy St. Patrick's Day!

Come Dig Out Our Roots With Us

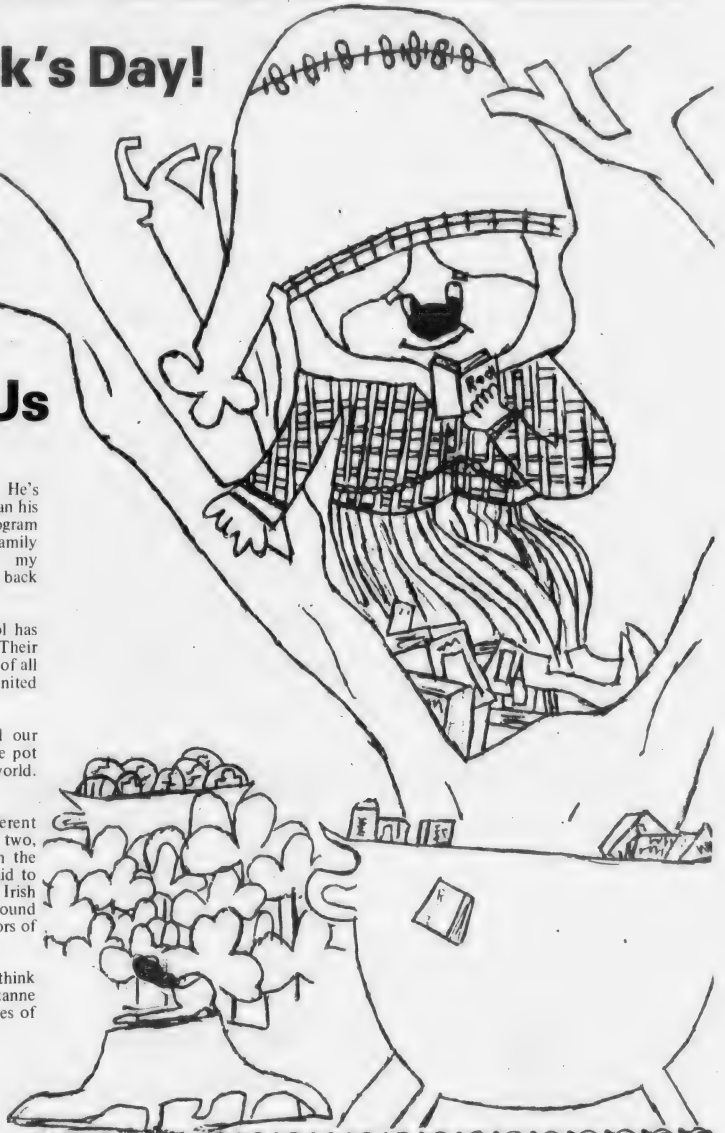

Shawn Kennedy, 11, drew our Irish leprechaun. He's much more interested in finding out about his roots than his pot of gold. Because of the recent television program "Roots", everyone seems to be interested in his family heritage. Where did I come from? What were my grandparents like? And my great grandparents? How far back can I trace my family tree?

Mrs. Carol Bailey's fifth grade at Wollaston School has been digging out the roots of their family trees. Their classroom is a microcosm [that means a small sample] of all of Quincy. And Quincy is a microcosm of the whole United States.

Mrs. Bailey's classroom, our city of Quincy, and our country are all like the leprechaun's pot of gold. In the pot are descendants of practically every nationality in the world. Each makes the pot more valuable.

In Mrs. Bailey's class of 36 children, we found 16 different nationalities. Many children found a combination of two, three, four, even five nationalities in their heritage. In the family trees, the children found a Navejo Indian, a maid to the Adams family, even Robert E. Lee. They found Irish cooks, Italian stitchers, Norwegian soldiers. They found Lebanese, French, Dutch, Portuguese and English ancestors of every profession and craft imaginable.

Each brought with him his heritage, and his skills. "I think this is what makes our country so strong," said Suzanne Therrien, 11. "We're blending together the best qualities of all the different nationalities in the world."

Great Grandmother Was a Maid to the Adamses

Guess what I found out when I traced my ancestry. My great grandmother came over from Ireland to this country in the late 1800's. She became a maid to the famous Adams family on the Adams Estate. My great grandfather came over from Ireland at about the same time. He became a farmhand on the Adams farm. They met and married. The man they worked for was Charles Francis Adams, a descendant of John Quincy Adams. He was the last member of the Adams family to live in the Adams Mansion.

Tara Dillon, 10

Look What We Found In Our Roots

I traced back my roots to 1799, when my great, great, great grandfather John O'Neill in Ireland married my great, great, great grandmother Marie Glavine from France. Everyone else in my family tree was Irish. Maybe that's why I like Irish stepdancing so much!

Maureen Monahan, 11
[Maureen is wearing her Irish step dancing costume with the many medals she has won].

In studying my ancestry, I found out my great grandfather was the architect who built St. Margaret's Church in Dorchester. I had seen this church from the outside but never knew that. It was very exciting finding out about my ancestors. I'm going to try to find out more now. Especially I want to find out more about my great grandfather Patrick who I am named after.

Patrick Joseph Hynds, 11

My children will be saying - "My mother was born in Italy when they have class projects like this." We came to the United States when I was four years old. As I traced back my family tree, I found that all my ancestors came from Italy. It's so interesting to find out about all these family trees. They're all so different.

Mirella Gullifa, 10

In my family tree, I found Italian, Irish, Spanish and Indian ancestors. My great grandfather was a Navejo Indian. I think the most interesting thing I found out was one of my grandfathers and one of my grandmothers both had lots of brothers and sisters. They started working when they were about 14 years old to help their families. I'm proud of them and glad to be their grandson.

Mark Vialpando, 11

Meet my great grandfather [front center] and my grandmother [right] in County Cork, Ireland!

Susan Therrien, 11

Guess what! I found out I'm related to Robert E. Lee. I'm not a direct descendant. But he's a cousin to one of my ancestors. I loved studying my family tree. I couldn't imagine I went back so far. This is my great grandmother's picture. Wasn't she beautiful!

Joanne Burke, 10

My ancestors come from Norway, Sweden and Wales. It's fun to study about them. One great grandfather was a machinist. I wonder what machines were like back then. One of my great, great grandfathers, Samuel Samuelson, lived in Rustad, Norway. It was a custom to change your last name to the name of the city you're from. That's why my last name is Rustad.

Scott Rustad, 10

My ancestors came from Ireland and Canada. My mother's father was a pipe fitter. My mother's mother was a housewife. My father's father was a carpenter. My father's mother was a housewife. My father's grandfather was a farmer. My father's grandmother worked on the farm too. I thought it was interesting to see how each mother and father works hard for their family. Then the next generation works hard for their families.

Suzanne Therrien, 11 [right]

I traced my ancestry back to 1861. I'm almost all Irish and a little bit of Scotch. You know what? I'm kind of like an ancestor now myself. I'm an aunt. And my baby niece starts a new generation!

Here's a picture of four generations in my family - my sister, my mother, my grandmother, my great grandmother. Practically all my ancestors came from Lebanon. My great, great grandparents had a big home in New Hampshire. Four generations of my family lived in this home. It's still there but someone else lives there now. Doing this family tree project made me feel good inside. I saw "Roots". And I said to myself - I'd like to find out about my ancestors.

Four Generations of Horans

This is my great grandmother.

This is my grandmother.

This is my mother.

This is me -- Beth Horan.

Finding out about my roots was the best project we ever did. I loved it. It makes me feel .. solid. I traced back to my great grandparents. They all came from Ireland. I think the most interesting thing I found out was I had a great grandfather named Gibbons. He married a woman also named Gibbons, though they were not related.

Beth Horan, 11, with her teacher Mrs. Bailey

Mrs. Feeney Tells About Ireland

Ann Feeney is one of the children in Mrs. Bailey's class. Ann's mother, Mrs. Bridget Feeney, comes from Ireland. Ann asked her mother to visit her class during their study of families trees and tell the children about life in Ireland. Mrs. Feeney came and told the children about coming from Ireland and settling in Quincy. "When I was in school in Ireland, we got paid for speaking in Gaelic," she told the children. "We had to speak in Gaelic in every class. At the end of the year, a man from the government came to class and gave each child five pounds." As Mrs. Feeney was leaving she said: "La Padraic Maitaid." This means "Happy St. Patrick's Day" in Gaelic.

'Twas No Time For Devilment'

"Twas no time for devilment in our classrooms," Donna Barry's [left] grandfather Mr. Michael M. Barry tells the fifth grade class at Wollaston School. He was telling the children about life in Ireland when he was a boy. "We went to school from 9 a.m. to 3:30. Some children walked six miles to get there," he said. "The teachers were very, very strict, with men teachers for the boys and women teachers for the girls."

"Ireland is very rainy. There was a small stream beside our school which would become swollen. The teacher would send strong boys with poles out to the stream to help the children get across."

The children asked Mr. Barry about St. Patrick. "He was a slave who herded sheep," Mr. Barry said. "He became a Bishop who converted all Ireland. He lived to be over a hundred years old. They say that on the day he died he dressed in his bishop's robes and went out into a field to die. A young altar boy saw his body and completely covered it with flowers," Mr. Barry said.

Heather Studies The Family Tree Of Josiah Quincy

Quincy Cooperative Bank sponsored this issue of Young Ideas. The bank is named after Josiah Quincy because he is considered the father of cooperative banking. Cooperative banking is different from commercial banking because there are no stockholders.

Because our Young Ideas is about family trees, Heather McKeon, 11, [above] tried to do a family tree on the Adams family and on Josiah Quincy.

The Adams family was not difficult. She traced the family tree all the way back to Henry Adams born in 1583. Henry had two sons John and Joseph. Their offspring included John Adams who married Abigail on Dec. 25, 1765.

Abigail was the granddaughter of Col. Quincy who also was an ancestor of Josiah Quincy. John Adams became our second president. The son of John and Abigail was John Quincy Adams. He became our sixth president. [Tara Dillon's great grandmother was a maid to the next generation of Adamases [See front page of Young Ideas].

Heather found it very difficult to trace the family tree of Josiah Quincy. It seems that there were at least six Josiah Quincy's born in one hundred years. As she tried to trace the family tree, the roots of all these Josiah's got kind of snarled together.

Heather did find out the Josiah that the bank is named after was born on Jan. 17, 1802 and died Nov. 2, 1882. He spent sixty of those eighty years in dedicated service to the working man of his time. He developed railroads in the Northeast. He built a water system for Boston. He organized the city's police force. He introduced cooperative banking to the Commonwealth.

For Heather's research, we say: "Thank you, Josiah would have liked that." [This line is the advertising slogan of Quincy Cooperative Bank.]

Morrissey Concerned Over MBTA Increased Usage Ability

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey has expressed his concern over the ability of the MBTA to be ready for increased usage by South Shore commuters this summer during reconstruction of the Southeast Expressway in Boston.

Morrissey criticized MBTA service in the past and noted that there will be an increase in "traffic congestion on city streets and roads that will affect local neighborhoods and school children" during the construction period.

Morrissey and members of the South Shore legislative delegation met recently with State DPW Commissioner John Carroll.

MBTA Director Robert Kiley and Transportation Secretary Fred Salvucci to hear their plans to meet construction problems.

Starting in June, when construction begins on the overpass near the Mass Ave. exit, the southbound lanes of the Expressway will be closed and traffic rerouted over the northbound lanes with northbound traffic using the frontage road.

Morrissey said that plans are now being made for increased commuter parking, car pools lanes, increased bus and train schedules and a commuter boat service to handle expected transport snarls.

Den 2 Pack 27 Cubs Visit Quincy Sun

Cub Scouts from Den 2, Pack 27 visited The Quincy Sun recently and viewed the workings of a newspaper first hand.

The scouts, sponsored by Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy, are: Michael Berio, David Curley, Richard Perry and Scott Stephens.

Absent from the tour was John Outerbridge.

Den mother, Mrs. Barbara Perry, accompanied the scouts on their tour.

The boys first visited the editorial and advertising departments of The Quincy Sun. They then toured the production department where they saw the story of their visit set into type on an IBM computer system. They saw news headlines set on a Compugraphic 7200 photo typesetting machine. They also saw newswriters being set on the Compuser Junior.

The scouts watched a paste-up artist fix the story and headline into proper position on paste-up boards.

They watched photographs being reduced and screened for publication by an Agfa Gevaert Promaster camera in the Sun's new camera department.

After a brief explanation of how The Quincy Sun is printed, the boys asked questions about what they had seen on their tour.

Before leaving the office, each scout received a complimentary copy of The Quincy Sun.

Keen Sensitivity

Q. After reading your column regularly I thought it might be interesting to submit a birth from another state. I am curious also to know which cusps, houses, etc. concern my birth. I was born on June 22, 1939 at 4:22 P.M. in Great Falls, Montana and would greatly appreciate whatever you can tell me.

C.R.G.

A. At the moment of your birth the Sign of the Zodiac Scorpio was on the Ascendant; the Sun and Mercury were in Cancer; the Moon and Neptune in Virgo; Mars in Aquarius; Jupiter and Saturn in Aries; Uranus in Taurus; Venus in Gemini and Pluto in Leo. These usually indicate one who early in life may have been somewhat shy, very sensitive, easily hurt and plagued by anxieties.

In time this tends to develop into an ability to sense or have a "feeling" for the needs and desires of others. This form of extra-sensory perception and the ability to project yourself into the position of others can give you certain advantages and enable you to control situations which are important to you.

You have a keen depth of perception and reasoning powers but are inclined to take everything in a very personal sense. Until you learn to dissociate yourself from things you are likely to be frequently offended. Try to be objective and you will not be easily hurt.

You like very nice things, quality is very important to you. Your desire for the best, whether you can afford same or not, may result in others considering you somewhat extravagant.

Your excellent imagination and inspired feelings could prove valuable in any creative or artistic endeavor. Music of the right vibration, soft lighting and a peaceful quiet environment could do much to help you relax. Relaxation is very necessary for your well being.

For questions to be answered through this column, mail the year, month, day of the month, city of birth, time of day if known and question to Ask Oscar, Box 114, Canton, Mass. 02021. Please sign your name which will not be published. Selected questions can only be answered in this column.

Fantastic Framingham Vetoes Presidents

Amorosino: 'A Season I'll Long Remember'

One of Quincy's finest basketball seasons came to a disappointing end last week when the Presidents ran into a fantastic shooting Framingham South team and absorbed a 79-59 beating in the semifinals of the state tournament's South Section Div. I play.

Joe Amorosino's Quincy team had finished the regular season with a 17-3 record and second place in the Suburban League and had polished off two tourney-wise foes, Catholic Memorial and Boston English, in the tournament.

The Presidents looked like good bets to knock off Framingham South, which had to struggle to get by North Quincy in the quarter-finals.

But South had a shooting night few teams enjoy as it shot 79 percent from the floor in the first half and 65 percent for the game. In contrast, Quincy shot only 37 percent in the first half and 41 percent for the game.

"There wasn't anything we could do," Amorosino said. "I told the boys during a first-period time out that they had to cool down, but they never did. We kept changing defenses, but everything went in."

"It was simply a case of a team shooting the eyes right out of the basket. No matter who shot or where they shot from, it went in. They did to us what we did to Catholic Memorial in our first game."

South poured it on during the first three periods, leading, 23-14, after one, 43-25 at the half and 70-40 after three. The Presidents came back to outscore the winners, 19-9, in the finale but it was all over long before that.

"This was an outstanding season and one which I'll remember for a long time," Amorosino added. "Every one of the boys contributed to our success and it was a real team effort. I'm very proud of every one of them."

The game marked the end of a brilliant career for Jack Uhlar, 6-6 center who went over the 1,000 point career mark in his final game and who broke several school records.

His 33 points in the finale gave Jack 1,011 for his career. He also scored the most points in a season, 473; most points in a game, 40; had the most rebounds in a career, 697; most rebounds in a season, 253 this year, and played the most career varsity games, 67.

The defending champion Alley Kats bowled the high for the day in ousting Kemper Insurance, 1635-1481, in the quarterfinals of the 22nd annual South Shore Women's Candlepin Bowling Tournament Sunday at Wollaston Boulevard Bowladrome.

In the other three matches of the Koch Club-sponsored event; Weymouth Landing edged out the Queen Pins 1482-1478, State Street 5-2 defeated Supreme 1472-1408, and the Friday Morning Women of Hull squeezed by John Hancock Insurance 1464-1462.

The Alley Kats could only pick up an 8-pin lead over Kemper in the first string, but caught the insurance bowlers cold in the second frame to roll up a 73-pin win and carry an 81 pin lead into the final, where the winners outscored their opposition by another 73 pins for a 154 pin triumph.

Marion Alibrandi with 319 was high for losing Supreme.

In one of the closest matches in tourney history the Hull Friday morning Women and John Hancock Insurance were tied at the close of the first string. John Hancock moved ahead by 3 pins at the end of two strings, but the Hull Women squeaked out a 5 pin third string win and a 2 pin tourney victory.

John Hancock's leading scorers were Frances Zaleskas 332, Judy Gordon 303 and Pat Ciccolo 297.

Not Bad For Rebuilding

ENC Bows To Geneva, Winds Up With 20-6 Record

The Eastern Nazarene College basketball team finished what was expected to be a rebuilding year with an outstanding 20-6 record last week under first-year coach Ron Bradley, but the season ended on a disappointing note.

The favored Crusaders fell before Geneva College of Pennsylvania, 80-68, at the ENC gym, thereby failing to make the National Christian College A.A. finals in Chattanooga, Tenn., in which it last played in 1973 when Bradley starred for ENC.

ENC was rated number one in N.E. and was favored over the taller Geneva team in the Eastern Regional championship game.

However, the Crusaders failed to get their running game going and Geneva, after ENC had pulled to within one point with 10 minutes to play and stayed within two or three points for the next five minutes, scored 12 straight points to clinch the win.

"Their height was a factor and we just didn't get the rebounds," Bradley said. "They had much more experience and it paid off for them.

"Naturally, we are disappointed at the loss, but it was a very successful season. This was supposed to be a rebuilding year for us with an extremely young team."

The future looks bright with Capt. Gordie Wetmore the only senior.

Jerry Perara paced ENC in the final game with 18 points, Mike Barefoot had 14, Pete Ribeiro 12 and Rick Ward 10.

Crusaderettes In Best Season

The Eastern Nazarene College women's basketball team finished its finest season ever under first-year coach Don Constantine, former North Quincy High and ENC standout, by winning the Women's Christian Intercollegiate Tournament at Barrington, R.I., and advancing to the semifinals of the state NCAA tournament at Bentley College in its first appearance in that event.

The Crusaderettes, who were ranked fourth in Div. 2 in New England, finished with an overall record of 15-2 and won 14 games in a row before bowing to top-seeded Worcester State, 76-64, in the NCAA semifinals.

ENC had won its NCAA opener, 51-50, over the U. of Lowell on Reggie Gomes' basket with 30 seconds left. She had 24 points and 13 rebounds. Quincy sophomore Cindy Tozzi had 9 rebounds.

In the loss to Worcester, Quincy's Jean Macchi, ending an outstanding career, scored 16 points. Sparkplug Janet Ranstrom had to sit out most of the game with an injury, handing the team a serious blow.

The ENC women won the WCIA tournament crown with a 60-54 win over Houghton, N.Y., College.

Tournament MVP Reggie Gomes paced the attack with 28 points, while Quincy's Donna Fandel grabbed 12 rebounds and Weymouth's Janet Ranstrom had 12 assists.

ENC opened tournament play with a 75-32 romp over Nyack, N.Y., with two Quincy players, Jean Macchi and Maureen Mulcahy, sparking the offense with 20 and 10 points respectively. Sophomore Mulcahy also had 11 rebounds.

In the semifinals ENC topped King's, N.Y., 84-74, as Quincy sophomore Cindy Tozzi scored 19 points. Games had 29 points and 15 rebounds.

Quincy's Macchi was named to the tournament second team as was Ranstrom.

Gardner's Hat Trick Powers Sundowners, 8-1 In Executive League

Ken Gardner had the hat trick and assisted on another to pace Sundowner's Cafe to an 8-1 bombing of Al's Cafe.

Tom Roberts and Dave Hickey tallied two goals apiece for winners, while Bob Bannister got the remainder. Assists went to Roberts (2), Bannister (2).

Hickey, John Cappizzo, Tony Quintiliani, John Crossman, and Curt Ford. Al's lone goal was scored by E.J. Breen, assisted by Mike Haines.

In other league action Sunday at the Youth Arena, Washington Tap defeated Darcy's Pub, 5-2, as Tom Malchow scored twice and Pete LaBerge, Wayne Gauthier, and John Emmott scored once apiece. Assists were credited to Ed Staskyewicz, Bob Murray, Bernie Toland, Emmott, Charlie Duffy, Kevin White and Ed Grogan. Alay Gulkickson and Jack McDonald, assisted by Jim Daly, scored for Darcy's.

The Hofbrau defeated Sportlight Tavern, 7-4, sparked by Warren Mills' two goals and three assists. Other scorers for Hofbrau were Art Boyle (2), Dave Towle (2), and Paul Milot. Towle assisted twice and Russ Erickson, once. Sportlight scorers were Joe McGillivray (2), John McNeil, and Charlie Chambers. Bob Kallstrom, Chambers, Ralph Younie, and Bill Sweney got the assists.

Undermanned Nets Defeat Roxbury, 90-80

Undermanned with only five players available, the Quincy Nets basketball team defeated the Roxbury Boys Club, 90-80, in a TARO League [Sanders Division] game as center Rick Jackson scored 24 points and pulled down 20 rebounds.

Guard Don Connors had 20 points and seven assists, leading scorer Rick Sprague had 16 points and Mark Jaehnig scored 13.

The win upped the second place Nets record to 7-3.

The Nets will play Saturday in the third annual Plymouth A.A. tournament in which the Nets last year were semifinalists.

Basketball

Central, Wollaston Win Tourney Openers

The Quincy Recreation Department All-City Basketball Tournament got underway with action in two locations Saturday.

In play at Atlantic Junior High School, the Northern Division Seniors had two games. Central coached by Brian Buckley, edged Atlantic, coached by Paul Bregoli, 34-33. Wollaston defeated a strong Atherton Hough team, 49-32.

In the Wollaston game, Mike Piazzola led all scorers with 17 points, followed by teammates Jerry Ford with 13, Mark Roberts 6, Steve Jaehnig 4 and Steve Millane, Paul Principato and John Hanna 3 each. Wollaston is coached by Mark Jaehnig.

Ron Donovan was high man for Atherton with 14, followed by Sean Murray 10, Mark Giordani and Bill Brennan with 3 each and Rich Gibbons with 2. Atherton is coached by Manny Parros.

The closely fought Central-Atlantic game saw balanced scoring for both teams. For Central, Arthur Bertoni had 10 points, Dennis Dierf 9, and Eddie Lee 8. Completing the scoring were Dennis Doherty with 3, Bob Stack and John Govoni with 2 each.

10 for Atlantic, Kevin Doyle 8, and Mike Adams 6. Brendan Coffee 4, Billy Harrow 3, and Steve Bonoli 2 to finish the Atlantic scoring.

In Southern Division action, Broadmeadows and Beechwood Knoll both advanced to the semi-finals.

In the first game Broadmeadows with all five starters scoring, defeated Snug Harbor 37 to 28. Wayne French led all the scorers with 14 points, followed by Mark Manganaro with 10 points and 5 rebounds. Ronnie Moore chipped in with 7 points and sparked defensively. For Snug Harbor, Mike Bondrick had 10 points and 6 rebounds. Broadmeadows next game will be with the winner of the Sterling vs. Beechwood Knoll game.

The second game featured a 32-point performance from Paul Barry as Beechwood Knoll defeated Point 70-57. In addition to topping all scorers, Beechwood's Barry also had 13 rebounds. Jim Holleran contributed 16 points and Tom Quinn added 8 for Beechwood. Point was led by Ray Coscia with 16 points and Jim Mayer with 10. Mike Cortey added 8 points and played a strong defensive game for Point.

LaRaia, Harborview Committee To Continue Fight For Nieters

The City Council has refused to confirm Mrs. Ellen Nieters to a seat on the Quincy Housing Authority but Mayor LaRaia and the Harborview Residents Committee have served notice that the fight is not yet over.

"We're not giving up," said James Miller, president of the HRC shortly after the Council voted 8-1 not to confirm Mrs. Nieters, who was nominated by Mayor LaRaia following a screening by a special committee of the HRC.

The chief objection to Mrs. Nieters on the part of the City Council was that senior citizen residents of public housing played no voting role in her selection and Councillor Daniel G. Raymond introduced petitions to that effect.

Both Miller and LaRaia indicated that they would take no immediate action pending an investigation by the State Department of Community Affairs [DCA] into methods used to obtain signatures on the petitions.

The HRC is also continuing the fight to remain the recognized representative of the public housing tenants in Quincy, said Miller. Recognition was withdrawn by the QHA. The DCA says the move was illegal. The QHA says it was not.

Mayor LaRaia said he has obtained copies of the petitions, said to contain some 1,000 names protesting the Nieters appointment, which had been locked in a safe in the office of City Clerk John Gillis.

"Some of the petitions were addressed to the Mayor," said LaRaia, "yet I had to go chasing after them. I got them Saturday morning after almost a week had passed while they were in possession of the city council. I should have at least had those addressed to me."

He said that there is a "serious question about the manner in which close to half of the 1,000 names were obtained."

The DCA has said it is investigating charges that tenants were coerced into signing and that some were not even aware of what they were affixing their signatures to.

LaRaia said he is waiting for the results of the DCA investigation before deciding on a candidate to succeed the Rev. Dr. Peter Corea, whose five-year term on the QHA expired Feb. 26. He continues to serve until a replacement is named.

Meanwhile, the tenants' newsletter bitterly castigated the City Council for its refusal to confirm Mrs. Nieters, calling Councillor Raymond's motion not to confirm a "Pearl Harbor-type" attack on democracy in the city of Quincy.

"It is a manipulation designed to maintain a balance of power hostile to progressive leadership," said the newsletter article, which was written by Faye Hennebury, correspondent at the Germantown Service Center.

"With or without Ellen Nieters as the central figure in this issue, the issue remains: Do the people of this city have the right to an equitable level of self-determination in the makeup of the housing authority?"

At least one councillor, James A. Sheets, said he cast a negative vote on confirmation for fear tenants might be over-represented on the authority. Senior citizen member Alphonse Papile is a tenant and Mrs. Rosemary Wahlberg, the state appointee, is a former tenant.

The newsletter had warm praise for Councillor Paul D. Harold, who cast the only vote for confirmation, noting that "his manly performance unquestionably separates him from the 'establishment boys' and identified him as a courageous, independent mind."

New Federal Funding

CETA Accepting Job Project Proposals

The Quincy office of the Comprehensive Employment and Training Act (CETA) program is entertaining project proposals by local governments and non-profit organizations to be undertaken with about $2 million in new federal funding.

The deadline is April 4. Under the new funding, eligible units in the 11-member Quincy Subgrantee area are to submit proposals for projects of three to 12 months duration which create jobs and have a substantial impact on life in the community.

"The major emphasis is on projects which are labor intensive in nature," said Ricca. "Consideration will be given to organizations that demonstrate a capability to service CETA eligible, long-term unemployed persons.

"Eligibility requirements state that participants of proposed projects must fall within a specified income level and be long-term unemployed, AFDC or SSI recipients and recently discharged Vietnam veterans."

"Innovative projects are highly encouraged, but projects which expand existing services which could not be provided without CETA funds will also be considered for funding."

Project proposals will be reviewed and forwarded to the Balance of State Prime Sponsor Council which will approve the final projects selection, probably in early May so that they can begin in June.

Guidelines and submission details and application forms are available through the Quincy CETA office, 1073 Hancock St., Quincy 02169 or 773-3983.

QJWV Post Deplores CBS Segment On American Nazi Party

Bernard Pokat, commander of the Quincy Jewish War Veterans Post, has joined the national organization in condemnation of a CBS television program on the American Nazi Party.

Pokat said CBS should not have shown the program because "the corruption and destruction of young minds, portrayed in this segment of 60 Minutes, is violent evidence that racism must be learned and is not ingrained in anyone's thinking."

Said Pokat: "Anti-semitism, the disease that infects gentiles but ultimately kills Jews, must be understood as a virulent disease spread by the racist hate-mongers whose ultimate objective is the destruction of the American democratic society."

"In their vicious denunciations of Jews, blacks and other American minorities, these individuals affront the dignity, sensibility and humanity of the entire world."

"Not only must we combat this virulent disease, wherever it surfaces, we must educate and instill in all of us an understanding and appreciation for each American's unique heritage."

"The men and women who comprise the ranks of our organization, together with their brethren of other faiths, have all participated in those conflicts of our nation in which the ultimate objective was the freedom and dignity of the individual."

"It would be a catastrophic break of faith with the legions of our revered war dead and those who proudly served in the Armed Forces of the United States to condone the continued behavior of an obscene and bigoted rabble."

5 Reappointed, One Named To Library Board

Five members of the Board of Trustees of the Thomas Cane Public Library have been reappointed by Mayor LaRaia and a sixth member, Dr. Saul Goldstein, was named to fill the vacancy created by the resignation of Richard Chrystal. Members reappointed were L. Paul Marini, who has been on the Board for 28 years, Arthur Ciampa, Mrs. Harold Walsh, Lloyd V. Carroll and Joseph T. Wood. Marini was re-elected chairman, Ciampa treasurer and Mrs. Walsh secretary.

Marini named Carroll chairman of the auditing committee along with Wood.

Sheets Bill Would Give Householders

Better Defense Against Intruders

A bill permitting householders to use reasonable force to expel intruders from their homes has a good chance of being reported favorably out of the House Judiciary Committee, says Rep. James A. Sheets (D-Quincy).

Sheets filed the bill which will become part of a Senate bill in redraft.

The bill would authorize a resident to use whatever defense he deems necessary to remove the intruder from the premises after the intruder has been warned to leave and does not. The intent of the intruder is not considered to be an issue.

The right of a householder to defend his home from intruders has been watered down considerably by recent court decisions which hold that a resident can not use force until all avenues of escape have been exhausted.

"If this legislation is passed," said Sheets, "criminals who like to break into homes have a clear warning that people are going to protect themselves and their families and they have legal sanction to do so."

"It is going to let the criminal know that we respect a person's home. It is still a castle. Now, if an intruder breaks into your home and your house has a back door, you are under obligation to run away."

LaRaia Forecasts $7 Tax Hike

submitted in an election year by former Mayor Walter J. Hannon.

The Mayor said the city budget, his second as chief executive, will be sent to the City Council sometime in mid-April.

"We are working on the budget now," he said. "We probably will take advantage of the 30-day extension which is before the State Legislature now. I am sure the Legislature will approve it."

Said LaRaia in support of his tax prediction:

"This administration has been seeking ways to reduce its budget in working to arrive at a stable increase in the cost of operating City Government for at least the next two years."

"The administration has changed its hiring policy by eliminating jobs and not filling vacancies throughout city departments and is presently compiling an accurate total as evidence of this economy."

"This year's capital outlay for equipment will be kept minimal since major equipment was purchased last year under a $1.5 million bond issue. These funds were primarily used for public works, police and fire equipment. The only capital outlay spent in the year prior to the bond issue was at the hospital and school department. "A centralized maintenance facility instituted this past year will help extend the life of city vehicles and provide added savings in operating costs."

"A mini-computer system incorporated in the auditor's office will handle payroll accounts, accounts payable, water billings and other in-house functions for added savings and will provide a valuable tool for management decisions in city finances."

"Hospital receipts which are reflected in the tax rate will meet the projected estimate of some $20 million this year brought about by a change in management at Quincy City Hospital and emphasis on collections of receivables and tighter controls on inventory and purchases."

"Last year's total city deficit reflected a $14.50 increase in taxes mostly caused by the unrealistic estimates of hospital receipts which contributed to the high increase of taxes last year. Little or no deficit is expected this fiscal year ending in June."

LaRaia indicated that the predicted tax increase might have been less but for the "hold the line fiscal policies of state government," which withheld from cities and towns the "much needed assistance to reduce the cost of local government."

"The Cherry Sheet which reflects state reimbursement and charges to the city of Quincy reflects little or no change in net revenue over the previous year," said the Mayor.

"Cities and towns have always enjoyed an increase in these state disbursements to offset local costs but disbursements have dwindled in the last two years reflecting a hardship to many communities."

"Hopefully, the governor and the state legislature will be adopting programs to increase the revenue to the cities and help to further reduce the cost of city government."

"The issue of complete fiscal autonomy of all school systems throughout the state will be again put to the test this year and hopefully will be compromised in the interest of taxpayers."

Cherry Sheet figures received at City Hall from the state last Friday showed a decrease in state aid of $571,007.84 and an increase in state charges (MBTA, MDC, etc.) of $235, 018.90, a loss of $806,026.74.

However, LaRaia said that $850,000 expected in reimbursement for school construction at North Quincy High School and the Merrymount School was not included in the Cherry Sheet.

"We should be receiving a readjustment," he said. "That would give us an increase in revenue but it would be negligible."

Quincy's MBTA assessment is up some $317,000 - from $1,800,000 last year to $2,117,000 this year. That figures out to be a little more than $1 on the 1978 tax rate, following the rule of thumb that $287,000 equals $1 on the rate.

McGinley Indicted For Alleged Income Tax Evasion

A federal grand jury has indicted former Cemetery Supt. Daniel F. McGinley, 58, of 84 Sonoma Rd., Squantum for evasion of federal income taxes totalling some $12,000.

McGinley was listed in the indictment as reporting taxable income of $49,165 with taxes of $9,511 for the years 1970 through 1973 instead of taxable income of $93,747 with taxes of $22,144.

McGinley, who was chief operating official of Folsom's

Market in Boston during the period in question, was named Quincy cemetery superintendent by Mayor Joseph LaRaia but served for only one week last August.

He resigned for what he said were reasons of health.

At the same time it was revealed that he was under indictment in Boston for making false entry in a cash disbursement book and larceny of more than $100 while manager of Folsom's Market.

Quincy Cooperative Bank Presents

Quincy Sq. Photo To Historical Society

A copy of a large photograph of Quincy Square by night has been presented to the Quincy Historical Society by The Quincy Cooperative Bank.

The picture was commissioned originally by the bank for use as a double page spread in the bank's annual report and since then considerable interest has been shown in the picture.

Mayor Joseph LaRaia, for instance, was asked some months ago by the Mayor of Quincy, Illinois for a picture of downtown Quincy - the night scene was sent along.

The picture was taken by Charles Flagg, a veteran newspaper photographer now associated with the Miller Studio, which prepared the color print and did the framing.

The presentation by the bank was made by President and Board Chairman John R. Herbert to Historical Society President William A. O'Connell. Also present at the ceremonies were Administrative Vice President Frank Mitchell, for the bank, and Lawrence Yerdon, for the Historical Society. In making the presentation, Herbert said:

"Too often historic pictures of a community are lost over the years. This Quincy Square scene is a contemporary classic, but in the years to come, it will become a valuable historic statement of our community in 1976. There is no better depository of this picture than the Quincy Historical Society, and I might add that I hope other businesses or individuals will think about the Historical Society if they have interesting local pictures needing a permanent home."

The picture was taken in three segments by Flagg at 10 p.m. For camera buffs, he used an EM Hasselblad equipped with a 50mm lens. The three photos were taken on 120 color film type "L" film. Exposures were 45 seconds at f22 each.

Flagg, after a 13 year association with The Patriot Ledger, assumed the duties of Regional Manager of Wide World Photos, the commercial division of the Associated Press.

TAKEOVER NOT AUTOMATIC

When buying an existing home, taking over a mortgage can be practical and profitable. But be cautious. Don't take for granted that assigning the mortgage to another is automatic.

The lender has a stake in who's going to repay him. Many mortgages are written which specifically prohibit this practice without the consent of the mortgage lender. The teeth will be found in an inserted acceleration clause which makes the whole balance due and payable upon sale.

The bank can activate or waive this clause depending on the credit rating of the buyer, maintenance of the property or spread between original and current interest rates. If the interest spread is great - don't count on a takeover mortgage.

Before you advertise "low int. mort. takeover", and set yourself up for a letdown, why not have us check your mortgage and advise you.

Thinking of selling your home? It makes sense to list it with PRESIDENT REAL ESTATE, 356 Hancock St., Phone: 328-8345.

Through our nationwide network of ERA Realtors, we can help you relocate anywhere in the country.

Also, we have available a one year warranty on all plumbing, heating, mechanical, electrical systems and built-in appliances on homes that we sell.

depressed tracks but "only the MBTA is still balking."

He said city officials had set up a tentative appointment to meet with Dukakis yesterday morning (Wednesday) "since the only way to get the MBTA to respond is to have the Governor tell them."

Ryder said in his letter to Dukakis:

"We need not point out to you the obvious benefits of depressing the tracks and the incalculable and irreversible harm which will result if the tracks are not depressed."

"You need only look at the effect of the Expressway in Boston and the recommendations of your own Economic Development Plan for Massachusetts."

"The economic health of our population centers is vital to improving the Massachusetts economy."

"Improvements such as the extension of the Red Line to the South Shore and the influx of several corporations has helped to boost our economic base, but the downtown section, our historical and government center, is suffering."

"Some retail stores have departed, causing an economic blow in the loss of jobs and tax revenue and threatening deterioration of the downtown area."

"Instead of thriving private businesses, an environmental and aesthetically pleasing mall, a magnetic area for persons coming to the courthouse, the City Hall, the Church of Presidents, the downtown area will become one gigantic parking lot."

"The reconstruction of the existing right-of-way is a relatively minor requirement, from both a time and financial standpoint, to insure the economic vitality of Quincy Center."

"The South Quincy MBTA Task Force, made up of station neighbors, and environmental and business interests, has voted to support the depression, and agree that enduring the reconstruction is well worth the final product."

"The city of Quincy is asked for a contribution of $500,000 for the depression and the Commonwealth has over $1 billion in federal reserve interstate transfer monies for such an investment."

Anderson, who went with Mayor LaRaia to Washington and met with officials of the Urban Mass Transit Administration (UMTA), told the news conference:

"The problem is to get the MBTA to apply to UMTA for an assessment. UMTA looks favorably upon such local projects where the community benefits."

"The MBTA says its time schedule calls for the line to South Braintree to open by the end of 1979 and everything has to go perfectly to achieve it."

"It's nice to have a goal but it doesn't seem to be realistic. The MBTA is trying to stick to an artificial schedule and won't admit it."

Mayor LaRaia was optimistic about getting the MBTA to change its mind.

"Sometimes," he said, "it takes a while to penetrate bureaucracy."

After Nieters Defeat

LaRaia Nominates Frank Myett For Housing Authority Post

Mayor LaRaia plans to submit the name of Frank A. Myett Jr. for membership on the Quincy Housing Authority as his "personal choice" and not as a product of the Harborview Residents Committee's screening process.

Myett, a postal supervisor, was second among 12 HRC-endorsed candidates behind Mrs. Ellen Nieters, whose nomination by the Mayor was rejected by the City Council, 7-1, for the final time Monday night.

"He has more than a fair shot at Council approval," said Arthur Casey, the Mayor's executive secretary, who said he talked about Myett with six of the nine councillors, including Council President Arthur H. Tobin.

The chief reasons given for Council rejection of Mrs. Nieters were that senior citizens did not have voting input into the screening process and that her confirmation would give tenant-oriented members a 3-2 majority on the HA.

Mayor LaRaia said Mrs. Nieters offered to step aside as nominee prior to Monday night's meeting and permit Myett's name to be offered but "the reaction of the Council was not enthusiastic."

"If the Council's reaction was positive, Frank Myett's name would have been submitted Monday night," said LaRaia. "But there were no assurances the councillors would vote for a second candidate so Mrs. Nieters remained to the end."

Lydon Explains 'Relationship'

Licensing Board Takes No Action On Wollaston Liquor License Issue

By TOM BRADY

The City Licensing Board, Tuesday, refused to act on a request to allow the construction of a liquor store at a mini-mall on Newport Ave. in Wollaston after several dozen residents of the area expressed opposition to the proposal at the board meeting.

The request, submitted by Leo F. Gaquin of Dorchester, would have transferred the liquor license of the bankrupt Beverage Supply Co. of 1647 Hancock St. to LG Liquors at a new location at the mini-mall under construction at 179-203 Newport Ave. Gaquin would own the store.

Opponents of the license transfer, many from the Wollaston Citizens Association, said they based their opposition on the fact that there are already several liquor stores in the area and cited problems with teenage drinking in that area.

At a previous Licensing Board meeting abutments to the proposed mall spoke in favor of the granting of the license.

Despite a ruling by Licensing Board Chairman John Gillis that the public hearing on the matter had already been held, several people took advantage of the second meeting Tuesday to voice their objections.

One, Norman Forde, chairman of the Wollaston

Citizens Association demanded to know why the area's city councillor [John J. Lydon] was not at the meeting. Forde said there was a rumor circulating that the councillor was related to Gaquin.

Gaquin's attorney, Robert Langlois, made no comment on the rumor. However, he rebutted the outbursts and statements from the spectators saying that there were those present who favored the license transfer as well.

Asked for comment by The Quincy Sun, Lydon said he was not related to Gaquin, but that Gaquin was a second cousin to Lydon's wife.

April Trial Date Expected For Finn-LaRaia Case

An April trial date for the case of Finn vs. LaRaia is expected to be announced April 4 by Superior Court Justice Alan J. Dimond.

"The case has been placed on the priority list in Norfolk Superior Court," said City Solicitor Thomas F. Williams. "It definitely will be heard in April, hopefully as soon as possible."

Police Chief Francis X. Finn brought suit against Mayor LaRaia in January, 1976, seeking to limit the Mayor's authority over the Police Department.

Finn obtained a temporary injunction, still in force, on Feb. 22, preventing the Mayor from obtaining certain confidential information from the Police Department until a declaratory judgment is handed down.

'Political Overtones'

Bullet 'Encourages' LaRaia To Make Re-election Bid

By TOM HENSHAW

Mayor LaRaia indicated Tuesday the bullet fired through the rear window of his unoccupied car Monday morning may help him to decide to run for re-election in the fall.

"It will have no [negative] effect on my plans for re-election," he told The Quincy Sun. "Any decision I would make will be based on my accomplishments in office after I have had time to appraise them."

But, he added, "if anything, it probably would encourage me to run."

The shot apparently was fired at LaRaia's car at 4 a.m. Monday while it was parked in the driveway of his home, 54 Grogan Ave., West Quincy. No one was in the car at the time.

Arthur Casey, the Mayor's executive secretary, said neighbors reported hearing what sounded like a shot at 4 a.m. and one nearby resident who was up at that hour said he saw a car drive away about the same time.

The bullet went through the rear window of the car and struck the back of the front seat. Fragments of the bullet were recovered from inside the car and sent to the state police ballistics lab for examination.

The shattered window was discovered by the Mayor's wife, Louise, about 10:30 a.m. Monday. She called her husband at City Hall and the Mayor took off for home without even pausing to put on his coat.

LaRaia described the shooting as having "political overtones."

"Anyone in public office who is involved in controversial issues can assume political overtones when something like this happens," he said. "Something similar happened back during the cemetery investigation when someone drained brake fluid from my car."

"But it's not something you get used to."

Quincy Police placed the LaRaia family under surveillance but neither the Police nor the Mayor would say how the surveillance is being carried out.

"They are watching my family more closely," said LaRaia. "Let's leave it at that. I don't want to go into details."

Officials, Parents To Meet On Sidewalk Snow Plowing

Meetings on a precinct level between city officials and parents of school children are scheduled to begin next week to discuss a new program for snow plowing the sidewalks around some schools.

A city-wide meeting was held last week, called by City Councillor James A. Sheets, and attended by principals and PTA members from the Furnace Brook, Willard, Gridley Bryant, Lincoln-Hancock and Adams Schools.

Also in attendance were Councillors Daniel G. Raymond and John J. Lydon Jr. and Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson.

Would You Like To Commute To Boston By Boat?

Plans are in the first stages of development for a commuter boat to make runs daily from the Boston Harbor Marina in Squantum to Boston during the period May through November when the Southeast Expressway is being repaired.

Tentative plans are for Alan Ciricio of Waltham, who runs a tourist boat from Boston to Gloucester, to operate a commuter boat from the Marina to his wharf by the Northern Ave. Bridge in Boston.

Ron Courville, who would provide parking facilities for commuters at his Marina, estimated the cost of the commute would be about $1 each way.

The big questions now, says Courville, is how many people would like to commute to Boston by water and what time would they like to leave and return.

Anyone with comments on the plan or anyone who would like to distribute questionnaires regarding commuter times should get in touch with Martha Reardon at the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, 479-1111.

O'Neill, Council Discuss Nut Island

Lt. Governor Thomas P. O'Neill, III was scheduled to attend a special meeting of the Quincy City Council Wednesday to discuss a proposed secondary sewage treatment at Nut Island.

Proposals for the treatment will tie into the long-range $850 million clean-up program for Boston Harbor.

O'Neill has expressed his commitment to secondary treatment, and to seeking a plan that is acceptable to all concerned parties.

"I am certain that we can find a solution that will meet our commitments both to Boston harbor and to secondary treatment," O'Neill said.

Senator City Council

President Arthur Tobin and others oppose M.D.C. study proposal to locate a secondary treatment facility on Nut Island by filling in over 26 acres of Quincy Bay. Tobin said the proposal would cause damage to Quincy Bay and is "quite unacceptable to the citizens of Quincy."

Secretary of Environmental Affairs Evelyn Murphy has joined him in opposition to the plan.

O'Neill was expected to hear the issues involved in the different plans. Tobin asked the Quincy Legislative Delegation and civic group heads to express their feelings Wednesday night.

The special meeting in the City Hall Council Chambers was set for 6:30 p.m.

Quincy Point Trucking Hazards Compromise Reached

A compromise proposal in the dispute between D & M Products, 117 Lancaster St., Quincy Point, and parents of the area over trucking hazards has been presented to District Court Clerk Dennis Ryan.

Ryan set the date for hearing on June 2.

The proposal stipulates that D & M Products will eliminate all tractor trailer trucks from unloading at the company and that only four trucks a day with a maximum length of 20 feet will be doing business at D & M.

"There has been a problem with the trucks blocking the street not only to local traffic and school buses but also to children going back and forth to school," said Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli (D-Quincy).

"D & M Products agreed to consider adjustment of the time of truck arrival especially on Tuesday, when children will be on the street after noontime and also during school and summer vacations."

"All trucks delivering at D & M Products would also be required to park parallel to the building so that trucks would not block the street."

"D & M has made arrangements to have snow removed from in front of the building in the event of any snow storm."

The compromise was reached during a meeting between D & M Products and members of the Quincy Point Junior-Daniel Webster Parent Advisory Board.

The Quincy Building Department had brought a complaint against D & M.

"If this compromise proposal is successful and all the parents are satisfied I believe that the complaint will be dismissed," said Cerasoli.

Lydon, Harold To Coordinate Xway Traffic Plans

Two city councillors will play key roles in Quincy's plans to handle expected excess traffic caused by the closing of the southbound lane of the Southeast Expressway from June to November.

will coordinate bus traffic which will increase in the city streets and Councillor Paul D. Harold will coordinate auto traffic, including parking around the city's three MBTA stations.

The two councillors, both members of the Council's Transportation Committee, were named by Councillor James A. Sheets, the chairman. Sheets asked James Eddy, downtown development coordinator, to assist Lydon while Harold will work with Ron Tober, chief operations planning officers of the MBTA.

MBTA Director Robert Kiley has estimated that there will be an increase of some 20 per cent in passengers on the Red Line.

McDonald Firing Called 'Ridiculous'

The attorney for County Commissioner George B. McDonald has called his client's dismissal from his post with the MDC "an attempt at a coverup by certain persons in the MDC...the commissioner (of the MDC) is trying to cover his coattails."

McDonald, it was disclosed this week, was fired from his job as principal storekeeper at the Nut Island Sewage Treatment Plant on Jan. 28, for "neglecting to perform his duties."

The case is under appeal to Civil Service.

George Howard of Westwood, attorney for McDonald, termed the charges "false."

"The MDC was looking for a scapegoat," he said. "It's too bad that a man who is doing his job was the most available. It's a terrible thing that it has to be reduced to that level."

McDonald was discharged shortly after a series of stories appeared in the Boston Globe involving MDC employees who allegedly were seen arriving late for work and taking long lunch hours.

A spokesman for the MDC declined to comment on the McDonald case. He said a statement is being prepared by the MDC covering the entire issue of alleged employee absences and tardiness.

"The charges are ridiculous," said Howard. "I don't believe in solving problems through the newspapers."

McDonald, a former City Councillor lives on Grove St., West Quincy.

McCauley Proposes $300,000 School Budget Cut

School Committeeman Francis X. McCauley planned to propose a general cut of $300,000 in the school budget at Wednesday night's meeting of the School Committee.

McCauley predicted that when contract negotiations with various school department groups are concluded, the 1978 budget will show an increase of $1,800,000 [6%] or $6.61 on the city tax rate.

McCauley pointed out that for the first time in many years, the School Committee has made no cuts in the general school budget. However, a total of $157,900 was cut from the New Programs budget.

A general cut of $300,000 represents one per cent of the total budget and will reduce the budget increase to 5% and decrease the impact on the tax rate to $5.50, he said.

Bill To Prohibit Bay Filling Gets Favorable Report

The House Committee on Natural Resources has given a favorable report to a bill filed by Rep. Thomas F. Brownell (D-Quincy) that would prohibit the filling in of more than 28 acres of Quincy Bay adjacent to the Nut Island Sewerage Treatment Plant in Houghs Neck.

The bill, which is supported by both the MDC and Environmental Affairs Secretary Evelyn Murphy, would permit the plant to be converted to a secondary treatment plant but only by filling in no more than two acres of water.

"The bill effectively prevents a massive land fill operations as part of the plan to convert the Nut Island facility to a secondary treatment plant," said Brownell.

"Support of the Dukakis Administration of my bill has been of invaluable assistance. I am pleased that the governor has listened to the out cry of the citizens of Quincy against filling in the bay."

Brownell predicted that since the bill has widespread support it will be in the Ways and Means Committee only a short time before being reported out to the House floor for approval.

"Chairman John Finnegan of Ways and Means has assured me that the bill will be reported out of his committee at the first opportunity," said Brownell.

WHAT DOES IT TAKE TO TURN A REGULAR SAVER INTO A QUINCY COOPERATIVE PAID UP SHAREHOLDER?

When you have $100 in a Quincy Cooperative Regular Savings account we'll make you a shareholder and pay you 5½% on your savings.

Here's how it works.

Simply authorize us, say how much and how often, and we'll automatically transfer funds from your NOW to a Quincy Cooperative Regular Savings account.

Our Regular Savings accounts pay a higher interest rate than our NOW account. So it's in your better interest to keep as little as you need in your NOW account, and as much as possible in your Regular Savings account.

When you have $100 in your savings account, you qualify for a Paid Up Share in Quincy Cooperative. Which means you'll be a shareholder earning 5½% interest. That's the highest interest rate the law will allow. And there are no restrictions on Paid Up Shares, so you can withdraw them anytime, easily, and without fuss in $100.00 multiples.

So why not turn into a Quincy Cooperative paid up shareholder? All it takes is a little authorization on your part. And you'll find when you become a Paid Up Shareholder that saving for something special comes especially easy.

And you know what...

200 Women Attend Workshop

Prevention, Prosecution Goals Of Norfolk County Rape Unit

By KAREN WEBBER

Prosecution and prevention are the two major goals of the newly formed Norfolk County Rape Unit, Sheriff Clifford Marshall informed those attending a special Woman to Woman Program at Quincy High School Saturday.

Approximately 200 women attended the morning and afternoon workshops also featuring "Career Workshop and Goal Setting", "Credit", "Resources for Battered Women", "The Job Search" and "Women as Entrepreneurs".

The program was sponsored by the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women and the Quincy Women's Center.

"Our goal is to make prosecution more of a reality and improve prevention methods," Marshall said at a "Services for the Rape Victim" workshop.

Marshall, who founded the unit, added:

"We also want people to be aware of our services. We haven't gone public at this point. We're evaluating services available and identifying problems in the system."

Norfolk County Rape Unit members explained the importance of being aware and understanding the rapid growing crime of rape.

"It's important to remember the victim is a person and needs tender loving care from beginning to end," said Natalie Rammel, investigator for the unit.

The Rape Unit has a 24-hour Hotline service. The phone number is 326-111. In Quincy, residents can call 479-RAPE for rape crisis service.

"Rape - A Preventive Inquiry" was a film featured in the workshop. It dealt with the feelings of rape victims, rapists, and law enforcement officials.

Answering questions during the workshop were Sheriff Marshall, Miss Rammel, counselor Patty Sadler, counselor Stella Xanthanos and Atty. Sydney Hanlon.

Laurie Handlers, leader of the popular "Career Workshop and Goal Setting", had participants choose and analyze long range goals.

Methods to reach goals, such as how to obtain new information, were discussed. Workshop techniques included self-evaluation and value clarification.

"You need to take different actions in your life to satisfy different needs and values," Miss Handlers said.

Support groups where battered women can talk out their fears and problems were discovered to be important in the "Battered Women" workshop.

Workshop participants discussed the problems and possible solutions for battered women with Marie Siraco and Martha Black, counselors at RESPOND, Inc., a battered women support organization, psychiatric social worker Audrey Ely, psychiatric nurse Pauline Serkey, and Atty. Hanlon.

The life of the battered woman is often complicated by an alcoholic mate.

One battered woman shared her experiences with the group. She described herself as a physically and mentally battered woman.

"You can address anger, fear, and hurt in the support groups," she said.

RESPOND also provides housing for battered women.

"We give them a place to stay to get away from the crisis," Marie Siraco said. "After the support groups they can walk away instead of running away."

Also during Woman to Woman day, guest speaker Diane Gallagher, stressed the continuing need for hard work on women's equality issues. Mrs. Gallagher is guest co-host for Women '76 and '77 and columnist for the South Shore News.

Workshops were followed by an afternoon wrap-up and evaluation. Quincy Cooperative Bank sponsored a social at Peter's Landing to finish the day.

Instrumental in organizing Woman to Woman Day were Toby Felton and Janice D'Avignon, co-chairmen for Women and Work, Elizabeth Van Tuyver, chairman for Women and Money, Anne Keating, chairman for Social Services for Women, and Alicia Coletti, director of the Women's Center.

Stay Alive!

By Jack Silverstein

The One-For-Ten Rule

To help your car stop short of trouble, use the one-for-ten rule. For every ten miles per hour of speed, remain at least one car length behind the vehicle you're following. At 20 mph you would stay back two car lengths, at 30 mph, three car lengths, and so on.

Imagine you are cruising at 60 mph, staying the recommended six car lengths behind. Suddenly, the driver of the car in front sees a wreck ahead and locks his brakes. With average brakes, he now has 300 feet to go before coming to a stop. You see his brake light and slam on your brakes. You will also travel 300 feet AFTER BRAKING. Those two words are vital. Your reaction time is about three-quarters of a second. A split-second doesn't seem long, but it's enough to send you another 66 feet. The other driver goes a minimum of 300 feet and you go a minimum of 366 feet coming to rest about two and one-half car lengths behind; a safe margin.

Remember, the one-for-ten rule applies only to dry roads. On slippery, wet roads you must double the distance.

Mrs. Deborah Zigun, 4-H Coordinator, developed the course to prepare and train potential babysitters. "Over the past few years, parents and concerned adults have made numerous requests for a 4-H program that would give young people a better understanding of the safety and care of young children," said Mrs. Zigun.

"Babysitting is a first job for many young people. Job training and experience are important to any job."

Quincy Red Cross Chapter Annual Appeal Drive Underway

The annual membership appeal drive of the Greater Quincy Chapter of the American Red Cross now underway is aimed at the residents of Quincy, Braintree, Holbrook, and Randolph whom the local chapter serves.

Irving J. Boyes, campaign chairman, emphasizes that the Red Cross gets all of its money from volunteer contributions.

"The United Way funds over half of our budget of $99,136. The rest is up to individuals through memberships."

Last year, 5,902 units of blood were collected, 280 families of military personnel were served and 4,244 certificates were issued in First Aid and Water Safety Classes. The chapter is also on call 24 hours for disasters, primarily 1-5 family fires.

President Carter, designating March as Red Cross Month, said, "During this period I hope all Americans will reflect on the selflessness that has led so many of our neighbors to serve the Red Cross, and their fellow Americans, with their time, their energy, and their love."

Membership contributions may be sent to the Greater Quincy Chapter, 57 Revere Rd., Quincy.

Combined Wednesday Lenten Services At Lutheran Church

The combined mid-week Lenten services between members of Faith Lutheran Church of Quincy and the North Quincy Church of the Good Shepherd are continuing each Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

Title of the series of sermons is "I Met Jesus When He Suffered". The two pastors, the Rev. James L. Kimmell and the Rev. Darrell Urban, in turn are giving their sermons in the form of monologues, depicting a different person each time.

No Action Taken On Wollaston Liquor License

Lydon emphasized that this relationship had nothing to do with his absence, from the License Board meeting Tuesday. He said he was on a business trip out of state during the meeting and pointed out that he had attended the initial hearing before the board last week.

Lydon said he has opposed liquor licenses in the same area in the past and that he did not favor the granting of this one.

"Positively not," he said, "Especially when there was a petition for a liquor license three years ago and the only reason it was defeated was because I opposed it."

When Gillis asked for a show of hands of those in favor of the liquor store, about a third of those present waved their arms. Langlois then repeated that none of the abutators have expressed opposition and asked the board to act on the matter.

After several more statements from the floor and a ruling by City Solicitor Thomas F.

Williams that the transfer to an uncompleted building was legal, Gillis asked for a motion on the matter.

No member of the board was willing to move either way on the transfer. Police Chief Francis X. Finn disqualified himself from the voting saying he had been prejudiced by the public opposition.

Gillis pointed out that if the Licensing Board took no action, the request could be transferred to the state Alcoholic Beverage Control Commission and would be out of the hands of Quincy officials.

But still neither of the other two board members present, Fire Chief Edward Barry and Health Commissioner Samuel Solomon, would move on the matter.

After several minutes of silence, Gillis ruled that no action had been taken and ended discussion of the transfer.

Langlois would not say whether the request would be taken to the ABC.

Tobin Entrance Has Far Reaching Effects

Entrance of City Council President Arthur Tobin into the mayoral ring will have far reaching effects on this year's municipal election.

It could be another one of those bitter campaigns like the Joseph LaRaia-Walter Hannon battle royal of two years ago. If, of course, LaRaia seeks a second term. There are some observers who think he may yet say "The hell with it." Or circumstances could convince him not to run.

No freshman mayor in memory has had as many problems as LaRaia has had. He must be working on Excedrin headache No. 329 at least by now.

But if he does run, this campaign could make the LaRaia-Hannon fight of 1975 look like patty-cake in comparison. Just stand back and give them room.

Tobin's decision to get into the race makes it highly unlikely that any of the major names being mentioned earlier as prospective candidates will get in. Names like: Walter Hannon, James Sheets, Thomas Brownell, George Burke, etc.

And if Atty. George Turk, who has officially announced, doesn't stay in, you might not have a September preliminary election. You need three to tango.

That would save LaRaia and Tobin some money but it would deprive both of a true voter barometer: neither would know how the voter really feels until the final election in November. And for one of them it would be too late.

Tobin's decision to run for mayor would seem also to pave the way for Ward 6 Councillor Dennis Harrington to make a bid for a council at-large seat -- Tobin's.

Harrington was leaning toward either a move for mayor or council at-large. Now he has an open at-large seat to shoot for. It's doubtful he would buck Tobin for mayor.

And, of course, one other effect: Quincy will have a new City Council president next January for the first time in eight years. Tobin has been elected to eight consecutive one-year terms as council gavel wielder.

IF YOU LIKE political rumors, try these on for size: Edward Brooke may get a job with NBC, and resign his Senatorial seat. Quincy's Francis Bellotti will be named by Governor Dukakis to succeed Brooke. Quincy's William Delahunt will leave his Norfolk County district attorney post to succeed Bellotti as attorney general. Now, that's what you call musical chairs. But that's the rumor making the local rounds right now.

QUINCY Atty. Stephen T. Keefe, Jr., has been nominated by President Carter for promotion to Major General in the U.S. Air Force Reserve. Keefe has held the rank of Brigadier General for the past four years. The new post is the highest a reserve can go in the A.F. reserve.

Keefe, who was assistant city solicitor under Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa, is a 35-year Air Force veteran with service in World War II, Korea and during the Cuban missile crisis.

OBSERVATION : Some of those meters in the Hancock parking area need a doctor. Or the mint is turning out cheezy dimes. It's bad enough to have to feed a parking meter but in the Hancock area you sometimes can't get a dime in without the meter spitting it back at you. Or you can't get two dimes in without one blocking the second. Then you wind up getting tagged.

WONDERING whether Ward 3 Councillor John Lydon is seeking re-election this year or running for Arthur Tobin's open at-large seat? It appears he plans to stay in Ward 3. The "Committee To Re-elect" Lydon is planning a reception for him May 11, 6-8 p.m. at Monaquott Village, Braintree. Tickets $20 per. [Braintree seems to be getting more of Quincy's political functions than Quincy].

PERSONAL: I want to thank all of you who telephoned, dropped a note or just mentioned it on the street that you were moved by our column about Kitty. I guess there are still a lot of people around who still love pets and have compassion about animals in general. It's nice to know there are people who can shed a tear over a pet -- even someone else's. Thank you.

Cerasoli Seeks Traffic Lights Change In Point

Rep. Robert A. Cerasoli (D-Quincy) has asked that traffic lights at South and Washington Sts., Quincy Point, be changed from flashing to steady signal to permit a pedestrian crossing cycle for residents of the area.

He also requested that the unit and other along Washington St. be coordinated to as to work as a system rather than as individual units.

"It is my understanding," said Cerasoli in a letter to the State

DPW., "that this unit was placed on flash to facilitate a smooth flow of traffic along Washington St."

"The problem, however, arises due to the fact that children, elderly citizens and other residents in the neighborhood are now unable to use the pedestrian signal because it has been turned off."

Cerasoli said he did not think it right to "attempt to facilitate a smooth traffic flow at the expense of the pedestrian."

Carter's Clinton Visit A Master Political Stroke

[City Councillor Paul Harold was among local Democratic officials invited to Clinton last week for the President's visit]

By PAUL HAROLD

For a few short hours last week, Clinton, Massachusetts was the focus of attention for all the world, and Clintonians loved every minute of it.

It was not so much what President Carter said in Clinton that was of significance, but the fact that he came. Even the President's harshest critics would agree that the Clinton Town meeting was a master stroke - politically and media-wise. It firmly established President Carter as a man of the people.

In his opening remarks the President said that his aides chose Clinton because it was an ordinary American town. "Clinton is not an ordinary town from what I've seen," he said. "Clinton is an extraordinary town."

The anticipated response from the townsfolk was so tumultuous that the town hall almost shook.

Extraordinary or not, the town of Clinton responded to the visit as any other small town would under like circumstances. The town took on a Cinderella-like air of excitement.

As eventful as the Presidential visit was, the real story of the day was how the townsfolk responded.

Every store front in downtown sported some type of welcoming banner. Even the Episcopal church was bedecked with a hand-lettered sign which read, "Roses are red, violets are blue, peanuts are brown, but don't you frown because Jimmy's in town."

Since the Presidential visit fell on the eve of St. Patrick's Day, the unofficial motif for the day was peanuts and shamrocks.

Street vendors sold souvenirs of every shape and description, but all of one color - Kelly green.

The town hospital fund raisers pushed commemorative buttons [for money for a new ambulance], while the high school senior class sold bumper stickers that read, "Where the hell is Clinton. Ask Jimmy Carter". The daily Clinton Item proclaimed the Presidential visit in green headlines, and printed the unheard of press run of 6,000 [1,000 more than usual] to sell to out-of-towners.

The out-of-towners came as expected, from the surrounding towns of Lancaster, Boylston, Berlin, Hudson, etc.

But other out-of-towners also came, those with a cause. From all over New England, a mixed bag of guitar singers and preachers paraded around town, hoping to get national publicity for their crusade.

After wandering around the downtown for most of the afternoon, these people began to congregate in front of the town hall as the time for the President's visit drew nearer. Their competition for attention, rushing about by police and combined with the secret service men created a circus-like setting on the town common.

The town hall faced the town common, flanked on either side by the Unitarian church and the public library.

The church served as headquarters for the more than 200 State Police assigned to Clinton for the day. The library served as headquarters for the press. Or at least it was supposed to. It was equipped with a bank of phones and long tables for typewriters, but the press decided to hold up down the street at the Oldtimer restaurant. It had the added advantage of being equipped with a liquor license.

As usual with any event of this nature, the media with its bags, trailers, cameras and personnel created a side-show almost as entertaining as the main event. Some local townsfolk put the visit of WBZ's Shelby Scott on par with that of the President. Some stood in awe and pointed while others solicited autographs.

"Just think, Shelby Scott, here in Clinton," a young boy shrieked.

Only 800 of the town's 13,000 residents were able to be seated in the auditorium, so tickets were distributed the fairest way possible, by a lottery. A separate lottery for 25 tickets was held for students, to ensure that at least that number would witness the history making town meeting.

The auditorium was of similar size and design of the old Quincy High School auditorium.

Former, North Quincy resident, Fr. Gerard Walsh [Royal St.] was among the 18 people who got to ask the President a question. He is now assigned to a church in Clinton.

It was a night to remember.

LaRaia Nominates Frank Myett To Housing Authority Post

Casey said he took a telephone poll of all the councillors except Warren A. Powers, who was in Florida, and Paul D. Harold and Daniel G. Raymond who, he said, never called back.

Myett, 45, who lives at 31 Riverbank Rd., Adams Shore, is not a public housing tenant and, said LaRaia, "I can offer his name as my personal selection, not necessarily the selection of the screening process."

The HRC Screening Committee made Myett a "strong second choice" to Mrs. Nieters, giving him 48 of a possible 52 points in its rating system. The screening committee's report on him said:

"Mr. Myett's views on public housing were well balanced; he can understand the problems and respect the viewpoint of a tenant, a manager and a financing agency. He is compassionate, constructive and hard-working."

"Mr. Myett further impressed us with his innovative suggestions regarding the future of Quincy's public housing. We think that he would bring fresh ideas and insight to the QHA that would be both creative and sound."

The Screening Committee further noted that Myett "has been involved in numerous community activities such as the St. Boniface Holy Name Society, the Germantown Credit Union, the Germantown Community Council and the Quincy Community Action Organization."

"In most of his activities he has served in a leadership role -- as president, or director, or charter member. He also served on the Quincy Housing Authority's Grievance Panel as an alternate neutral hearing officer."

LaRaia said he had some question in his mind whether "to go with a second name from the Screening Committee's list in view of the City Council's refusal to accept the screening process."

"But," he added, "this is my selection and not necessarily that of the tenants' group."

The Housing Authority is made up of five members, currently Edward Graham, Carmen D'Olimpio, the Rev. Peter Corea, Mrs. Rosemary Wahlberg and Alphonse Papile.

Mrs. Wahlberg, who was appointed by the State Department of Community Affairs, and who was once a public housing tenant for 19 years, and Papile, a senior citizen who lives in public housing, were regarded by some councillors as tenant reps on the QHA.

The Rev. Corea's appointment to the authority expired Feb. 26 and Myett, if confirmed by the Council, would be his successor. Corea has indicated to the Council that he is no longer interested in another term.

Monday night's Council meeting was transferred from the Council chamber to the media center at Quincy High School to accommodate the crowd of spectators that was estimated at 500.

Councillor Harold was the only member of the Council to vote in favor of Mrs. Nieters' confirmation. Absentee Councillor Powers had voted against it as a member of the special committee that reviewed her qualifications.

After the meeting, Mrs. Nieters said she plans to consult her lawyer on the possibility of suing Councillors James A. Sheets, Leo J. Kelly, John J. Quinn and Tobin for discriminating against her because she is a public housing tenant.

Burgin To Seek Re-election Against Ross

Mayor Thomas S. Burgin announced he would be a candidate for re-election, thus setting up a ballot box confrontation in the fall with former Mayor Charles A. Ross, the only other announced candidate.

"I am in no hurry to retire from office," said Burgin. "When the campaign starts I expect to be out battling with the rest of the field. You can add, however, that if something unforeseen should happen I may change my mind."

Burgin, who had never been defeated for public office, was first elected to the City Council at age 21, served as Council President at 25 and was elected Mayor in 1935 and re-elected in 1936 by the largest margin in history.

CITY LEAGUE FOLDS

The Quincy City Baseball League went out of business when the champion Fore River team and the North Quincy Knights of Columbus withdrew to enter the South Shore League leaving only the Squantum Racketeers and West Quincy Copelands as members.

"It isn't because I think we are too strong," said Fore River Manager Jettie Saunders, "but I'm just not interested. The burden was too great last year and there were too many forfeited games."

"If it's not a six-club league with good outfits I want nothing to do with it," said John McCue, acting president of the City League. "A four or five team setup would not go. The fans see the same faces too often."

A third Quincy team in the South Shore League was the Brookside CC.

South Shore Problems In Song And Verse

The annual meeting of the South Shore Chamber is an evening of sociability and celebration.

But lest we forget what we're in business for, the very creative Manager of our Community Development Group, Martha Reardon, annually puts to song and verse the latest woes besetting this area, and members in attendance become the Chamber Parody Singers. For a few moments at least, we all laugh at our mutual plight and ongoing battle with the forces of evil.

Here are a couple of her more delightful gems ... and a one-a and a two-a:

... CUDDLE UP A LITTLE CLOSER [on the Southeast Expressway]

State Planners' Verses

Cuddle up a little closer,

That's our aim.

If you squeeze, we'll let you use the carpool lane!

Though it may not be too cozy
And you may mash your suits and toes-y,
Past the traffic lines you'll mosey,
In our lane!

Aggressive Commuter's Verses

I refuse to cuddle buddy,

That's my line!

I prefer to drive myself,

And take my time! Just

Give me Jess Cain in the mornings,
Kev'n O'Keefe for traffic warnings,
In the jams, I'll be a horn-kling
All the time!

Boat Commuter's Verses

I am going to take the Boat

And cruise to town.

I have found the sea does wonders

For my frown!

No hanging on a subway strap-py!
No carpoolers in my lap-py!
The boat to Boston makes me happy,
No more frowns!

The Expressway's Dying Words

When will Fred Salvucci build I-95?

No all concrete's dropping, and
The potholes thrive!

Salt has rotted all my cables,
I tell you I am so unstable
With all your roads I am not able To survive!

The Perfect Answer to Boston Employers

See your late employees pleading

On the floor.

Move your plants and offices

To our South Shore!

We offer transit, land and labor!
Employees are your next-door neighbor
Do yourselves a great big favor - GO SOUTH SHORE!

THIS LAND IS YOUR LAND? [The great debate about public access on private property - who owns the beaches, etc.]

The Landowner

This land is my land!

At least I thought it

I thought I bought it,

My nice green plot! It

Is where I live, and

I pay my taxes -

This land, it must belong to me!

What is the story?

Law bold and gory

For land-use planning.

The coast is spanning,

Is this still my land,

Or is it your land?

A puzzled man with land I be!

MDC Comment

As planners' plans planned

This land's not your land

This land is my land

The high and low land,

The wet and dry land

It all belongs to the MDC!

Department of Environmental Management

Oh no it's my land

Not as your plans planned

Not MDC land

But as our plans stand

This high and low land

And wet and dry land

All belongs to... DEM you see!

How to Resolve This Perplexing Issue

With 30 agencies

Who all want some land

There ain't enough land

To keep their staffs grand

That's why their plans planned

To swipe all your land,

Just join their staffs, and A-OK you'll be.

EFFLUVIA IN OUR ENVIRONS - [Moonlight Bay]

Oh they're making some plans

For Quincy Bay

And for all the Wellesey sewage

That comes that way

CHORUS: Well we've taken it all

But we won't play

With the boys who want to fill in Quincy Bay

Now Nut Island needs help

That won't go 'way

Let's construct a better system -

Up river, say.

CHORUS: Well, we've taken it all

But we won't play

With the boys who want to fill in Quincy Bay

Well, the flounder enjoy

Dover's remains

Things are usually capacious till super rains.

CHORUS: Well, we've taken it all,

But we won't play!

Send the sewage west,

And not to Quincy Bay!

Morrissey Sets March 29

Public Hearing On Proposed Wollaston Beach Comfort Stations

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey will hold a public meeting Tuesday, March 29 at 7:30 p.m. at Atlantic Junior High School auditorium to discuss the proposed future plans for Wollaston Beach.

Morrissey has invited the MDC to meet with area residents to discuss their plans to build four Comfort stations on Wollaston Beach. Morrissey has invited members of the MDC Commissioner's staff, maintenance personnel, engineers and planners.

The MDC plans to build a sub-station which will contain first-aid, life guard, police and comfort facilities on the former Kimberly's site.

Morrissey strongly supports this facility and asks that "area residents attend to express their support for the sub-station."

Construction must begin immediately if the facility is to be ready when the beaches open.

Morrissey, however, has expressed his opposition to the MDC's plans to build the other four comfort stations which are to be 30 feet by 80 feet in size and constructed on the beach itself.

Morrissey cites vandalism, limited use of the facility due to tides, over-use in some areas of these facilities, and parking problems that would be generated by the comfort stations as the chief reasons for his opposition.

Morrissey asks that area residents express their opposition by attending the public meeting. They will also have the opportunity to ask the MDC questions concerning proposed future plans for the Wollaston Beach area.

Ethics Committee

Since my last article, the Massachusetts Legislature voted to have an Ethics Committee. The Ethics Committee will set forth guidelines for the Membership's behavior. The surprise vote of that session, was the adoption of an Amendment that would require the Ethics Committee to set down rules for financial disclosure of elected Representatives. I voted for both the Ethics Committee and for financial disclosure.

The Legislature is really busy. The committees on Counties and Ways and Means are now scheduling budget hearings for various departments. Last Monday, the Committee on Counties heard testimony on the Norfolk County Budget. Yesterday, the Committee on Ways and Means heard testimony on the Metropolitan District Commission and the Building Code Commission.

On March 29th, the Committee on Urban Affairs will hear testimony on bills dealing with public housing and the Committee on Commerce and Labor will hear testimony on a bottle and can bill.

Educators representing the State's Colleges, Universities, and Community Colleges demonstrated in front of the State House to protest the Governor's Budget which calls for level funding of higher education.

Last week I met with the Governor to express my support for the Depression of the MBTA tracks through downtown Quincy Center. At the meeting, members of the Quincy Legislation Delegation and people from the business community expressed strong support of the depression because of its obvious benefits to the City.

Look forward to hearing from you. I can be reached at the State House by calling 727-7035 or at home at 328-0900.

Chip Bunker and Bill Gray gave Montclair the one-two scoring and rebounding punch. Montclair ran up a 17-13 lead in the first half and continued to widen the gap after intermission for their 12 point triumph.

In the semi-final game, Paul Gill staged a one-man show for North Quincy, scoring 35 points against Broadmeadows to assure the win. North Quincy led 25-24 at halftime, but outscored Broadmeadows 24-14 in the second half.

The O'Donnell trophy is an annual rotation award with the team gaining three consecutive championships retaining permanent possession. North Quincy and Broad Meadows have each attained that goal, and Montclair will be seeking those honors next year.

In Loscutoff's Shoes

Fitzpatrick Pilots Boston State To Best Season

It isn't often a team enjoys its best season, wins a New England championship and goes on to the national playoffs with an interim coach, but Boston State College's basketball team has accomplished these feats with a Quincy coach who was supposed to give up the reins to the regular coach after only six games.

"Jungle Jim" Loscutoff, former Celtics great who, in 13 years, had brought State to the top of the N.E. Div. 3 heap, took a Sabbatical and, with his wife, went to Europe for six weeks and directed some basketball clinics at high schools in France and Spain.

Looking for an interim coach to replace him for those six weeks, Loscutoff selected one of his former players, Quincy's Paul Fitzpatrick, who excelled for State in 1970-71 and went on to create a basketball program at Mass. College of Pharmacy.

When Loscutoff returned he found State, under Fitzpatrick, who had captained Quincy's 1965-66 Tech Tourney team, with a 6-0 record.

"What could I do?" asked Loscutoff, whose last two

PAUL FITZPATRICK

State teams had gone 56-9 and won berths in two Div. 3 tournaments. "He was doing a hell of a job and I couldn't just walk in on the team, my ego couldn't handle that. Besides, Paul had created his own rapport with the team and he developed his own coaching philosophy.

"If the team hadn't been undefeated, I probably would have coached again. I talked to athletic director Jim Sullivan and we decided to give Paul a shot at the season. Maybe next year, too. I'd like to coach at a bigger school, like Boston College."

All Fitzpatrick, a life-long Quincy resident and a physical education instructor in Quincy, did was lead State to a 23-2 regular season record (the losses were by a total of three points), defeat Suffolk, 83-73, and Brandeis, 95-69, to win the N.E. NCAA Div. 3 crown, but last Saturday the great season ended with an 82-71 loss to Oneonta State in Oneonta, N.Y., in the national quarterfinals.

Following graduation from Quincy in 1966, Paul attended prep school for a year and toured Europe for the State Dept. with an all-star team made up of U.S. prep school all-star players. He was elected captain of that team.

He played for Loscutoff at Boston State for two years, graduating in 1972.

"This was a great opportunity for me," said Paul. "Jim Loscutoff paid me a big compliment in doing this. I would have favored whatever his decision was. He is a sound man ethically.

"Can I mention somebody? Larry Siegfried. I owe it all to him. I worked at his camp for 10 years and he influenced me more than anyone."

Fitzpatrick, like Loscutoff, has his sights set on bigger things.

"I want to be a full-time basketball coach on a major college level," he said. "I'm a born optimist and an idealist. I figure if you work hard and are honest, you'll get there. Tournaments don't bother

Paul, as he has weathered them all, starting with the Tech and including prep school tourneys. Even in semi-pro ball he played in the state final. He loves pressure and is accustomed to playing his best in the midst of a hostile crowd. So is his squad, he says.

Facts And Figures On The High Cost Of Wheels

By Philip J. Lawrence, President
Colonial Federal Savings
and Loan Association of Quincy, Holbrook & Wareham
8-6 Weekdays 8-7:30 Thursdays

You know that, next to your home, your automobile is probably the most expensive thing you buy. But do you know how much your car really costs?

Now the Federal Highway Administration has come up with a study, "Cost of Owning and Operating an Automobile, 1976", which indicates that the cost for the ten-year life of a standard car is $17,879, for a 1976 compact $14,561, and for a subcompact $12,638.

These figures are based on the assumption of a single owner over the ten-year period. The study recognizes that this is not usual but notes that half of the autos were still on the road after ten years. Costs rise appreciably for the "one-year trader" and to lesser degrees for those trading at longer intervals.

It will cost you 17.88 cents a mile to drive and maintain a 1976 standard car for ten years, 14.56 cents for the compact, and 12.64 cents for the subcompact.

The purchase price is the first cost in the long line of expenditures that must be paid in operating your car during its approximate 100,000-mile 10-year trip from the assembly line to the junk-yard.

Depreciation of $4,864 on the standard 1976 model automobile is by far the greatest single cost. Other major expenditures on the standard-size car for a 10-year period are: 1. $3,664 for maintenance and repairs; 2. $3,193 for gasoline; 3. $2,209 for garaging, parking, and tolls; 4. $1,678 for insurance. Approximately $1,600 go for State and Federal taxes.

These figures make an interesting inflationary comparison with data supplied by the Federal Highway Administration in 1972. They show that costs of operating an automobile have risen almost 32% in the past four years. In 1972, the standard car's lifetime expenditure included $2,787 for gasoline, $2,147 for maintenance and repairs, $1,350 for insurance, and over $1,800 for garaging, parking, and tolls. Back in 1972, the report noted that, despite the belief of most people, gasoline was not the kind of expenditure many people believed it to be. "In fact," the report stated, "during the past 30 years the price of gasoline has risen less, relatively, than many of the other costs associated with highway transportation. Gasoline is still one of the best bargains on today's market."

Despite the OPEC-influenced rise in prices, gasoline rose from 15.5% to 18.5% of the total cost of operating a car over the past four years, remaining behind depreciation and repairs as noted above.

Those interested in the full report can obtain a copy for 25 cents from the Federal Highway Administration, Transportation Department, Washington, D.C.

Corp.; Elton B. Given Jr., president of E. B. Given & Sons, Inc.; Frank Lagroterria, Weymouth town Engineer; Ivan A. Nelson, retired Weymouth building inspector; Norman J. Reilly, president of Reilly's Laboratories; Atty. Frederick J. Sheehan of Weymouth and George H. Thompson, president of Weymouth Savings Bank.

Five new corporators were elected:

C. Earle Bestick of Braintree, real estate and insurance business; Robert B. Enemark of Duxbury, vice president, Electro Signal Lab., Rockland; Charles E. Hurd of Weymouth, sales representative for Uarco Business Forms & Equipment, Newton; John R. Lambiase of Hingham, owner of Boston Motel, Weymouth; and Thelma I. Wilde of Weymouth, assistant treasurer of Weymouth Savings Bank. Garrett J. Hennessy of Melrose was elected assistant treasurer.

Quincy Savings Bank Deposits Over $200 Million Mark

Charles A. Pearce, president of Quincy Savings Bank, announces a major deposit milestone had been achieved by the bank.

"During the first week of March, total bank deposits went over the $200 million dollar mark," he said.

He noted it was just a year ago that the bank went over $200 million in total assets.

Pearce recalled that at the bank's annual meeting in April 1976, he read a copy of the treasurer's report dated March 31, 1976, listing total deposits at approximately $10 million, while total assets were slightly over $12 million.

"During the 50 years from 1926 to 1976 Quincy Savings has realized strong steady growth despite a depression, three major wars, a couple of recessions and more recently a keener competition for the banking dollar," he said.

"Since 1970, Quincy Savings has grown by at least $10 million or more in deposits annually. These gains, I believe have been the result of the bank providing present and future customers with new services as they become available, convenient locations and hours, plus competent, courteous personnel, without whom none of these successes would have been attained.

"Because of heightened competition for the bank depositor dollar, banks in general have become more responsive to the financial needs of both their current and their future customers. Thus the public has become the chief beneficiary of many changes that have been and are constantly occurring "in the banking industry."

Pearce also indicated that there is presently a good inflow of deposits dollars, which in turn has made more dollars available for mortgage loans.

Setting The Stage

When preparing your home to be shown to prospective buyers, use subtle showmanship to help set the right atmosphere. Give your home a restful, happy, inviting look. Don't just sell a house - sell a home!

For evening inspection, brighten your home from the front porch light on through all the rooms in the house. Little decorator touches - a vase of flowers, a plant, small pillows - can add much to the comfortable feeling of a home.

If you are having your home shown in the winter, a crackling fire in the fireplace adds irresistible attraction. A working fireplace is a major attraction to home buyers.

A large fire can make a room look larger. Properly placed, it can reflect and magnify many of your best selling points.

Definitely turn off the TV and turn on soft background music on the hi-fi to create that subtle lived-in atmosphere. Your prospects are buying more than a house - they are buying a new way of life. So make your home LIVE.

Thinking of selling your home? It makes sense to list it with PRESIDENT REAL ESTATE, 356 Hancock St., Phone: 328-8345.

Home Can Become Cornerstone For Family's Financial Planning

In the past 10 years, the average value of a home has increased over 100 per cent according to Jack Conway & Co., Inc. Realtors.

By adding the build-up of equity interest and yearly tax savings, it's easy to see why financial experts and homeowners agree that buying a home is one of the soundest investments you can make, says the Conway firm.

"Many homeowners have also discovered ways to use their home investments effectively as a cornerstone in their financial planning," reports Dan DeLancey, Director of Corporate Relocation of Jack Conway & Co., Inc., Realtors. "The key to these approaches seems to be a more sophisticated attitude towards the home's value."

While it is common for many people to look forward to a day when the mortgage can be paid off, others deal with their home investment as a tangible asset that can be tapped for additional capital. This capital, in turn, can generate more income or be used to enhance the family's lifestyle.

Currently most home purchases require 20 per cent down. The homeowner who wants to maximize his or her investment potential tends to keep the equity interest at about this level, DeLancey reports.

A homeowner's equity interest increases through monthly mortgage payments, as well as through the home's growing value on the resale market. It is possible to take advantage of your home's added value over the years by refinancing, or by selling the home at a profit. Some homeowners use this additional capital to buy income-producing property, while others use it to upgrade their lifestyle with a new house.

To see how home ownership can aid in financial planning, DeLancey offered three examples:

The Jones family bought a $20,000 home in 1966.

Then, in 1976, when the home had increased in value to $43,000, they refinanced it, returning their equity interest to 20 per cent. They used the cash difference for a down payment on an income producing rental apartment building.

The second example is well known to Jack Conway Company which is a member of RELO, the nation's largest not-for-profit relocation service.

"As the RELO member serving the South Shore and Cape Cod, we work with dozens of home buyers each year who upgrade the value of their homes each time they move," says DeLancey.

Starting with a similar $20,000 investment in 1966, the Smith family relocates in new communities every three or four years. Each time they move, they use their profits from the sale of the former house as a 20 percent down payment on a house with a greater market value. Their second home was purchased in 1969 for $40,000. On their third move in 1973, they purchased a $68,000 home. Last year, they moved for the fourth time, buying a home for just under $100,000.

The Jackson family, taking a more conservative view, decided to simply let their home's growing value add to their net worth. They, too, bought a $20,000 home in 1966 and by 1976 noted that it was worth about $43,000. Monthly mortgage payments and appreciation had increased their equity interest to over 75 per cent, and deductions for interest payments saved them money on each year's income tax bill.

"Home ownership is a winning investment for the vast majority of people," notes DeLancey. "Even the conservative approach of the Jackson family reflects sound financial planning. Their goal is to own the house free and clear and that's certainly one part of the 'American dream'. The other two families effectively used their initial home investments to create additional income, assets and enhanced lifestyles. These, too, are common aspirations for many Americans."

As professionals in real estate, firms such as Jack Conway Company frequently assist homeowners in maximizing their family's home investment

Ah, Spring!

SPRINGTIME IN QUINCY — You can tell it's spring on Wollaston Beach when little girls feel the urge to throw tennis balls in the water -- and their dogs feel the urge to run in after them.

WALK IN THE SUN — Quincy folks, housebound during the long cold winter, take advantage of a warm day in the early spring by taking a stroll in the parkland near Black's Creek in Wollaston-Merrymount area.

BICYCLISTS were out in force along the sea wall Sunday at Wollaston Beach as Quincy got a foretaste of what spring is really like after a long winter of snow and sub-freezing temperatures.

'In Deplorable Condition'

Tobin Seeks MBTA Areas Cleanup

City Council President Arthur H. Tobin has asked the MBTA to take immediate action to remedy the appalling condition of the parking areas at the Quincy, Wollaston and North Quincy stations.

"I have been advised by commuters who use these facilities that they are in deplorable condition; rubbish strewn throughout the area and broken bottles which cause hazardous parking conditions for commuters," he said in a letter to Joseph F. Toomey, assistant to the MBTA chairman.

"A Wollaston resident stated she had to get out of her car and remove glass from broken bottles before she could pull into a parking space. Commuters strenuously object to paying a parking fee for such inadequate service."

Record High

LaRaia To Submit Budget To Council, Sees $7- Tax Hike

By TOM HENSHAW

Mayor LaRaia plans to submit the city budget for 1977-78 to the City Council Monday [April 4], a full month ahead of the extended deadline set by the state.

But he declined to disclose the budget figures and he added that a supplementary budget will have to be submitted during the year to cover expected wage increases negotiated with city employees.

It is expected, however, to be a record-high budget.

"Members of my staff worked overtime to prepare the budget to meet the original deadline," the Mayor said. "The City Council last year complained that it wanted the budget earlier despite the state extension.

"We didn't get word of the current extension until last Friday and we had already advertised the hearing on revenue sharing and how it would be used in the budget."

The Mayor said that his earlier estimate of a tax rate increase of no more than $7 was still operative.

"I don't want to project wild figures or risky estimates," he said. "The $7 is the high estimate. We are working hard to get it down closer to zero. Of course, it won't be zero."

He said the city might run into a deficit because of uncollected taxes, which totalled $2.2 million when the books were closed last June 30.

"As a rule there is an increase in uncollected taxes when the tax rate goes up because it is more difficult to pay them," he said. "We are watching the situation closely."

City Treasurer Robert Foy said it is too early to tell what tax collections will amount to since the second and last installment is not due until May 1.

"We have collected more than 50 per cent now," he said. "We had a good collection in November. We don't anticipate any noticeable increase in uncollected taxes."

Looking For Work?

You May Find It At The Job Fair Saturday

The fifth annual Job Fair, expected to be the "biggest and best of them all," will be held Saturday, April 2, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. at State Street South with more than 50 companies on hand in search of prospective employees.

Last year, 34 companies paid the $75 fee to set up a booth at the Job Fair and filled more than 300 jobs from the ranks of some 4,000 unemployed and underemployed persons who showed up in search of new or better employment.

"This year more companies than ever are hiring," said Timothy J. Reidy Jr., training manager for the Quincy Comprehensive Employment and Training Act [CETA] program, one of the sponsors of the Job Fair.

"We're really excited about this one," said Reidy. "It should be the biggest and best of them all. There should be several hundreds of job opportunities. We have tried to discourage companies from coming if they do not have job openings."

Cosponsors of the Job Fair are the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, the South Shore Job Center and the Norfolk County Tourist and Development Council.

The job opportunities range from such highly skilled trades as engineering down to unskilled

Fire Hydrant Testing To Start April 4

The Quincy Fire Department will start its annual fire hydrant testing Monday, April 4, under the direction of Capt. Carl Valenti and Lt. Joseph Varraso.

Hours for testing will be 9:30 a.m. to noon and 1:30 p.m. to 4 p.m. The testing will take place in all sections of the city at the same time.

During the testing of hydrants, residents may experience some discoloration in water. The water, the Fire Department said, is not harmful to drink or use, but should be checked before using in washing machines. Those experiencing discoloration of water are requested to flush the systems by opening their cold water faucet for a few minutes then wait approximately one hour. If water does not clear, repeat flushing procedure.

The Fire Department estimates the hydrant testing will take approximately four weeks.

Controversial Wollaston Liquor License Wins Board Approval

By TOM BRADY

In an unusual special meeting Monday, the Quincy Licensing Board voted 3 to 1 to transfer a liquor license to a package store planned for 179-203 Newport Ave., North Quincy.

The action, coming in the face of considerable opposition from residents of the area, took place on the last day the Licensing Board could legally have acted on the request, for LG Liquor. The action had been delayed at previous meetings because no member of the board would commit the matter to a vote.

Granted the liquor license was Leo F. Gaquin of Dorchester, who will own and operate LG Liquors to be located at a mini-mall planned for construction at the Newport Ave. site. The license is to be transferred from the bankrupt Beverage Supply Co. formerly at 1647 Hancock St.

At a March 15 Licensing Board hearing, members of the board heard abutters speak in favor of the granting of the transfer and several other liquor store owners speak against it.

A meeting on March 22, showed a strong reversal of community opinion on the matter as several dozen residents of the area expressed their opposition. The Wollaston Citizens Association, headed by Norman Forde of Wollaston, organized much of the opposition.

At the special meeting Monday, Atty. David Trainor representing LG Liquor and Gaquin, objected several times to the Licensing Board's plans to allow further testimony against the transfer pointing out that the required public hearings had already been held. Trainor further asked that the board clear the hall of spectators if they became "unruly or disruptive".

Police Chief Francis X. Finn, acting as chairman of the Licensing Board for the special meeting, denied Trainor's request to exclude further testimony ruling instead that only elected officials and one person representing the residents would be heard.

After a short break into executive session to receive personal and financial information about Gaquin, the board returned to hear a full presentation from Trainor.

Trainor outlined Gaquin's 20 years of experience in the liquor business saying he would bring both experience and a substantial investment to Quincy. He said Gaquin wanted to move with his mother to Quincy.

Answering testimony made at last week's meeting, Trainor said that traffic problems predicted for the area would not occur since deliveries would not exceed those of any small store and because the bulk of these deliveries would be made through the front entrance on Newport Ave., relieving neighboring side streets of the threat of truck traffic.

Trainor said the area could support another liquor store and backed this up by presenting the board with a map of the city which he said showed only 1 or 2 liquor stores on the Newport Ave. side of North Quincy.

Trainor gave to the board a number of signatures on a petition expressing support for the liquor license request.

"It is the duty of this board," Trainor said in summary, "to uphold and enforce the law. The law is clear and my client is entitled to a transfer under it."

As Trainor finished his presentation, Arthur Casey, Executive Secretary to Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia delivered a message from the mayor expressing his opposition to the transfer of the license.

The board, over objections from Trainor, then moved to hear City Councillor John J. Lydon, who had been accused at last week's meeting of not properly representing his constituency by not appearing at that meeting to oppose the liquor store. Rumors rested at the meeting held that Lydon, whose wife is distantly related to Gaquin, secretly backed the license transfer despite community opposition.

At the meeting Monday, Lydon called the rumors "slanderous" and explained that he had not publicly opposed the transfer because the initial Licensing Board meeting indicated abuttor support for it.

"During the last week," Lydon said, "the issue of the transfer has blossomed... I would like to record myself in opposition to the transfer."

Finally the board moved to hear Norman Forde, chairman of the Wollaston Citizens Association, representing a number of community residents who opposed the transfer.

Forde said the community's sentiments about the possibility of a liquor store in the area could be clearly seen by a petition he presented to the board Monday which, he said, contained the signatures of over 1,400 area residents who opposed the store.

He gave the petitions to City Councillor-Rep. James Sheets who was, Forde said, the first public official "to come to our aid."

Sheets presented the petitions to the Licensing Board.

With all allowed testimony heard, City Clerk John Gillis, having relinquished chairmanship of the board for the special meeting, moved that the request to transfer the license be approved.

Fire Chief Edward Barry seconded the motion and the motion was approved by a 3 to 1 vote with only Health Commissioner Samuel Solomon opposed. Building Inspector Allan MacDonald was not present.

Zones To Be Designated

Towing To Zero In On Critical Areas, Chronic Violators

Those who park illegally in certain areas and persist in ignoring parking tickets are now faced with the possibility of having their automobiles towed in Quincy.

The City Council and the Traffic Commission are getting ready to accept petitions to have some critical areas of the city, notably around the Wollaston MBTA station and the General Dynamics shipyard, declared to be tow zones.

And Rep. James A. Sheets [D-Quincy] has filed a bill in the state legislature that would permit the city to tow scofflaws, those who have five or more outstanding parking tickets charged against their cars.

The towing ordinance, introduced by Councillor John J. Lydon Jr. and passed by the Council, is aimed chiefly at commuters who park all day near the MBTA stations and shipyard workers whose cars block streets around the yard.

It authorizes police to direct the towing of any vehicle in a designated tow zone that is parked:

- Upon any way in such a manner as to impede the removal or plowing of snow or ice.
- Upon any sidewalk.
- Upon any crosswalk.
- Upon any way within 20 feet of an intersecting way except alleys.
- Upon a way within 10 feet

Four Quincy police officers will be among a class of 35 graduating in the 12th class from the Quincy Police Academy at ceremonies tonight (Thursday) at 6:30 p.m. in the Morrisette Legion Post, 54 Miller St., West Quincy.

The guest speaker will be Superior Court Judge Henry H. Chmielinski, and the master of ceremonies will be Lt. Francis E. Mullen, academy director.

Quincy officers in the graduating class are George R. Clark, Kevin G. Gibbons, William A. Horick and Paul C. Hussey. Other graduates are from 12 South Shore towns and the Amtrak police department.

They completed a 10-week course that included such subjects as first aid, riot control, recent court decisions, community relations, ethics, organized crime, childbirth, firearms and traffic law patrol.

• On a roadway side of any vehicle stopped or parked at the edge or curb of the way [i.e. double parked].

• In front of a public or private driveway.

• Upon any way where the parking of a vehicle will not leave a clear and unobstructed lane at least 10 feet wide for passing traffic.

Autos that are towed to a place of storage can be recovered by the owner on payment of towing and storage fees. The company contracted to tow the vehicle is liable for any damage to it.

Tow zones will be proposed to the City Council, referred to the Traffic Commission for investigation and then voted on by the Council.

Councillor Sheets introduced the resolution to authorize towing of cars with five or more outstanding tickets. It said it is similar to one passed in Brookline and Boston.

Where There's Smoking

For years, fire authorities have been yelling themselves hoarse about careless smoking. Despite their warning, smoking is still the number one fire menace in this nation, causing some 200,000 fires a year and claiming about twelve hundred lives.

It's appalling how quietly and effectively one little cigarette can do you in. The cigarette, because it is treated with sodium nitrate to keep it burning, does not go out. After you take that first drag, the tobacco will burn and burn, until it consumes itself in ten to fifteen minutes. That's plenty of time for it to eat through the mattress or upholstery cover, igniting the stuff (see below). And don't think a cigarette lacks kindling power. Its interior, even without the draft supplied by your puffing, is over 1,000 degrees Fahrenheit—hot enough to melt lead!

Seventy per cent of all cigarette fire victims die because smokers doze off in bed or in chairs. Don't do it! It's far too easy to kill yourself.

Aerobic Dancing: A Great Way To Keep In Shape

By KAREN WEBBER

As the tape recorder is flicked on, "Song of India" fills the Quincy YMCA gym.

Thirteen students and four instructors begin jogging, turning and twisting to the music. Forty-five minutes later, the Aerobic Dance class is over, and I, a visiting student for the afternoon, am inspired to come back and try it again.

Aerobic dancing combines jogging, dance steps, turns, kicks, and twists in an overall fitness routine. Dances are choreographed to popular music.

I was invited to attend an Aerobic class which has been in session for 10 weeks by YMCA Senior Program Director Paul Harvey. I was bewildered at first, as everyone around me darted across the room, but I caught on quickly to basic dance steps.

Attending a beginning class would have been simpler, but I was assured by the dance instructors that anyone could learn the easy steps when routines were broken down.

The instructors, Dolly Lee, Hertha McConville, Alyce McLeod, and Brenda Kelly, bounce through the routines with students and offer cheerleader-like support.

They call out "Step-cross-kick! Susy-Q!" and other fancy terminology as the dance progresses.

The class begins with warm-up exercises to gently limber muscles. In the Aerobic class, even sit-ups are done to music. Several dance routines follow. The hour long class winds up with slow "cool down" dances.

An important goal of Aerobics is to improve cardio-vascular fitness. Instructors shout "Keep moving! Check your pulse!" between dance numbers.

By checking the pulse, each student can determine how hard she must work to obtain maximum benefits.

"You may still huff and puff after climbing a flight of stairs," one instructor explained, "but people who do Aerobic dancing usually have a shorter recovery period to catch their breath."

Mary Tull, a three year student, says Aerobic dancing gives her more energy. Other students agree.

"It's a great way to stay in shape," they told me. "It's much more creative than jogging but offers the same benefits."

Aerobic dancers often lose inches and can lose weight while participating in the program.

Aerobic dancing was invented by Jackie Sorensen, who now runs the nation-wide Aerobic Dance Corporation. She choreographs 150 new dances a year and sets the standards for Aerobic dance instructors.

Instructors must pass a 12-minute running test, be a non-smoker and not be overweight. They go to clinics to learn new dance routines several times a year.

Classes at the YMCA run three times a week for a twelve week series. Women are required to have a medical clearance from their doctor before entering the program. Students should not be more than 35 pounds overweight.

Registration is now underway for the next class that starts April 4.

I can see how one could easily get "hooked" on Aerobic dancing. Many of the women in the class started dancing three years ago and keep coming back for each new session.

Dances are fun to do, the pace is quick, but not exhausting, and after class I had a good, energetic feeling.

Helping me through my Aerobic dance experience were class members Mary Tull, Marilyn Freel, Ann Wrublewski, Trudy Wrublewski, Claudia Oliver-Maggiani, Peggy Neville, Doris Dolbec, Rochelle Sugarman, Barbara Barry, Marie Forcucci, Helen Laskowski, and Maria McDonnell.

Edward Cook Honored At Surprise Testimonial Dinner

Nearly 100 friends, relatives, and long-time customers, including two mayors, attended a surprise testimonial dinner held recently at The Hollow to honor Edward F. Cook, 47 Parker St., Quincy Center, former owner of Cook's Quality Market in Wollaston.

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia presented Mr. Cook with a certificate of recognition from the city, citing him for his 40 successful years as a businessman in Quincy.

Former Mayor Thomas S. Burgin, a long-time customer at the market, reminisced about Mr. Cook and his many years of service.

Customers and friends presented a plaque "in appreciation for his dedicated and loyal service", during the dinner.

Born in Dorchester, Mr. Cook moved to Quincy when he was 12 years old, and began working shortly thereafter.

One of his first jobs was in Arthur E. Door's market on the corner of Hancock and Maple Sts., Quincy Square.

He was manager of the meat department in the First National Supermarket in Quincy Square for about five years, and then opened his own market on Sea St., across from Our Lady of Good Counsel Church in the mid-1930's.

After five years in Adams Shore, he decided to move his market to 318 Furnace Brook Parkway, Wollaston, where he stayed for the remainder of his long career.

He sold his market in February to the Open Pantry chain of small convenient markets.

He married the former Emily R. Santucci of Boston 40 years ago. They had three sons and a daughter. The daughter and one son died of cancer.

They now have three grandchildren.

Mr. Cook is a member of the Theodore Roosevelt Masonic Lodge in Quincy Square and was a cubmaster at the former Faith Lutheran Church, now the Salem Lutheran Church.

WHAT DOES IT TAKE TO TURN A REGULAR SAVER INTO A QUINCY COOPERATIVE PAID UP SHAREHOLDER?

When you have $100 in a Quincy Cooperative Regular Savings account we'll make you a shareholder and pay you 5½% on your savings.

Here's how it works.

Simply authorize us, say how much and how often, and we'll automatically transfer funds from your NOW to a Quincy Cooperative Regular Savings account.

Our Regular Savings accounts pay a higher interest rate than our NOW account. So it's in your better interest to keep as little as you need in your NOW account, and as much as possible in your Regular Savings account.

When you have $100 in your savings account, you qualify for a Paid Up Share in Quincy Cooperative. Which means you'll be a shareholder earning 5½% interest. That's the highest interest rate the law will allow. And there are no restrictions on Paid Up Shares, so you can withdraw them anytime, easily, and without fuss in $100.00 multiples.

So why not turn into a Quincy Cooperative paid up shareholder? All it takes is a little authorization on your part. And you'll find when you become a Paid Up Shareholder that saving for something special comes especially easy.

And you know what . . .

JOSIAH WOULD HAVE LIKED THAT.

50 Companies Seek Help At Job Fair

labor. Many of this year's job openings are being provided by hospitals, according to Reidy.

The first Job Fair was held Oct. 27, 1973, in the Quincy Voc Tech School gym and moved to the State Street South employees cafeteria last year to give it a more business-like atmosphere.

This year it will be held in State Street South's West Lobby on the second floor.

The idea of a Job Fair grew out of official concern for the South Shore's rising unemployment rate. It was discovered that many of the newly unemployed had been working for so long that they had forgotten how to look for a job.

The '77 Job Fair has representation from a broad spectrum of business and industrial activity: manufacturing and technical companies, service firms, hospitals, colleges and banks. Because of this support, it is expected that the fair will be the largest and most productive to date.

Participating businesses and agencies are:

Jack Conway, CETA, Cumberland Farms, D.E.S. Job Center, Dunkin Donuts, General Dynamics, G.T.E. Shareholders, Kemper Insurance, M.I.T. Office Specialties, The Patriot Ledger, Pneumatic Scale, Reliance Insurance.

State Street Bank and Trust, U.S. Army Reserve, Mass.

National Guard, New York Life, Sullivan & Cogliano, U.S. Air Force, Jet Products, Boston University, Stop & Shop, Bay Bank/Norfolk, Honeywell Information System, First National Bank, Boston.

Polaroid Corp., Inter Active Sciences, Papa Gino's, Kelley Girls, Mature Temps, Garland, I.D.S. Marketing Corp., Russell Electric, Simmons College, Mount Auburn Hospital, Building 19, Northeastern University, Paragon Park, New England Merchants Bank and Cities Service.

The first Job Fair was designed to bring employer and employable together, in the words of Paul Ricca, the head of CETA in Quincy: "It's like a big shopping center for jobs."

Four years later, it still is.

Mayor LaRaia said Tuesday that he has not been formally notified that the Massachusetts Nurses Association has filed unfair labor practices charges against Quincy with the State Labor Relations Commission.

The MNA charges that the Mayor signed an agreement last December granting raises to the 375 registered nurses at City Hospital and has since refused to ask the City Council for funds to carry out the contract.

The MNA also charges that the city agreed to a contract covering registered nurses in the Public Health Department in October but the Mayor has refused to sign the agreement and ask the Council to fund it.

LaRaia explained that the budget had been passed by the time the wage increases, covering July 1, 1976 through June 30, 1978, had been negotiated.

"If any commitments were made they had to be on condition that funds were available since the budget was passed," he said.

"Hospital rates were increased partially for this purpose but receipts cannot be used until the end of the fiscal year."

"A supplementary budget would have been the only way to raise the money after the budget was passed and the city is too limited in finances this year."

He said it is possible to negotiate contracts and pay the raises retroactively.

BUILDING & CONSTRUCTION TRADE COUNCIL Quincy and the South Shore A.F.L.- C.I.O.

ASKS CONSUMERS NOT TO SHOP K-MART

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC

This is to truthfully advise the public that Seppala and Aho Construction Company, Inc. of New Ipswich, New Hampshire does not pay area standard wages or provide area standard fringe benefits to its employees that worked on the construction of the new K-Mart store on Route 3A in Weymouth. We urge shoppers to stop doing business with K-Mart as a protest to that company's indirect support of a contractor who pays substandard wages and provides substandard benefits to its employees.

K-Mart has occupied space at the Harbor Lights Shopping Mall on Route 3A in Weymouth. The owner of the Mall is the East Bay Development Company of Grand Rapids, Michigan. East Bay's general contractor on the Harbor Lights Mall jobsite is Seppala and Aho Construction Company, Inc.

The Local Unions of the South Shore Building Trades Council have worked hard for many years in negotiating decent wages and fringe benefits in this area and we seek your support in protesting the destruction of those working conditions by such contractors as Seppala and Aho Construction Company, Inc. of New Ipswich, New Hampshire.

At the same time we urge anyone employed by any person to continue to pick up, deliver or transport any goods to or at any and all K-Mart stores. We also urge anyone employed by any person including K-Mart to continue to perform any services at or for any and all K-Marts. All we ask is that shoppers support us in our fight to maintain area standard wages and benefits by ceasing to do business with K-Mart.

To Work With Mayor

Tobin Names Committee To Help Keep ENC In Wollaston

City Council President Arthur H. Tobin has named a special committee of councillors to work with a committee appointed by the Mayor and with officials of Eastern Nazarene College in an effort to keep the college in Wollaston.

Trustees of Eastern Nazarene have voted to sell the 15-acre campus in Wollaston and move the school to 125-acre site in Newtown Square, a suburb of Philadelphia, now occupied by the Ellis School for Girls.

Named to the Council committee were Councillors James A. Sheets, John J. Quinn, Warren A. Powers and Dennis E. Harrington.

Sheets was named chairman because, said Tobin "he is a graduate of Eastern Nazarene; he has rapport with the Mayor's committee; and he shares the respect of his fellow councillors. He will be a good liaison man with the three."

The committee and members of the Mayor's committee are scheduled to meet with college officials in the Mayor's office today (Thursday) at 12:30 p.m.

"The problems facing the college at this time," said Tobin, "require the action by the office of the Mayor, by the president of the college and its trustees and by members of the City Council relative to zoning."

"I have been requested to serve in my capacity of City Council president to work with all concerned authorities because we can ill afford to have the campus empty at this time with all the other problems in the city."

Raymondi Seeks Meeting Regarding Pumping Stations

City Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi has asked for a special meeting of the Council's Public Works Committee to discuss the Quincy Point sewage pumping station as well as the proposed one in South Quincy.

"It is my opinion that if we are beginning to think in terms of constructing any new pumping station facilities we should first resolve the many problems caused by existing stations," he said in a letter to Committee Chairman Leo J. Kelly.

The Quincy Point station is located at the corner of Chubbuck St. and Des Moines Rd., while the proposed new station would be in the Fort Square area of South Quincy.

"The existing pumping station continues to cause much distress and concern in the Quincy Point area and has been labelled a 'health hazard' by some city and state officials," said Raymondi.

He asked that Kelly invite Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson, Sewer Supt. Owen Eaton, City Engineer Edward Leone and other interested state and city officials to the meeting, which he suggested be held in the Fore River Clubhouse.

Riders Sought For Retarded Fund Raiser

The Quincy High School Blue Macs are recruiting bicycle riders of all ages to take part in the sixth annual "Ride a Bike for the Retarded" fund raiser on May 1.

The statewide ride, in which riders solicit sponsors who pledge money for each mile covered, is held annually for the benefit of the Massachusetts Association for Retarded Citizens and its local affiliates.

The official route in Quincy covers a maximum of 30 miles, starting and finishing in Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Pot Luck Supper, Dance Party For Marianns

St. Ann's Marianns will meet Wednesday, April 6, at 7 p.m. for a Pot Luck Supper and Dance Party, in the school hall.

Mrs. Pat Cassetta, a dance instructor of Brockton, will give instructions in the latest dances. Mrs. Francis Plante will be hostess.

Lecture Series To Mark First Parish Church Cornerstone Laying

A series of lectures will be given to celebrate the 150th anniversary of the laying of the cornerstone of United First Parish Church, burial place of Presidents John and John Quincy Adams.

Rev. Keith Munson, pastor, announced the lectures will be held on three Wednesdays, March 30, April 27 and May 25, at 7:30 p.m. and the formal anniversary on June 12, at 10:45 a.m.

The lectures will be given by William Flavin, church historian and authority on church architecture, in the Church hall.

"There is a fascinating story here," said Munson. "The three night lectures will include information about the architect of the church, Alexander Parris, who also designed the famous and recently remodelled Quincy Market in Boston, plus a display of pictures and documents on loan from Pilgrim Hall Society in Plymouth."

"What is interesting is the religious symbolism in the dimensions of the building and the mystery of the lost cornerstone, whose contents are known but not its location," said Munson.

The lectures will also feature a chronicle of Quincy's stone temple from 1636. The Church was built in 1827 on the site of the Hancock Meeting House. The story of the latter's demolition will be told during the lectures, and pieces of that building will be on loan from the Quincy Historical Society.

Art effects, memorabilia and documents will be arranged in display cases provided by the City of Quincy.

In lending his support to the endeavor, Mayor Joseph LaRaia said, "The long and meaningful history of the United First Parish as an integral part of Quincy's heritage is well-served by this lecture series and anniversary event."

"In an era such as ours we tend to forget the significance of our roots. Present events sometimes blind us to the continuity of history. We owe a debt of gratitude to those such as Reverend Munson and Mr. Flavin who preserve the artifacts and documents and stimulate interest in them for our benefit. They help us to illuminate the past, and I applaud this effort."

"I therefore urge all citizens to lend their support to the Church by attending this series."

Communion At Faith Lutheran Maundy Thursday

On Good Friday the solemn service of Tenebrae will be observed, also at 7:30 p.m.

On Easter Sunday the church will have three services, beginning with a sunrise service of Holy Communion at 7 p.m. on the grounds of Faith Lutheran Center, 65 Roberts St., South Quincy. In case of inclement weather, the service will be held at the Center's Chapel. Immediately after the sunrise service, the Lyfe Group, the young people's organization of the church, will serve breakfast to those attending.

Exodus From Egypt

Quincy Jewry Begins Passover Holidays At Saturday Evening Services

By LESTER GLASSER

Quincy Jewry will celebrate the Passover holidays—marking the Exodus of the Jews from Egypt—with services at the city's three synagogues beginning Saturday evening.

BETH ISRAEL SYNAGOGUE, Grafton St., Quincy Point:

Rabbi Jacob Mann will conduct the following services:

Saturday, 6:45 p.m., Sunday morning [April 3-4] services at 8:45, Sunday evening service at 6. Concluding day services Friday and Saturday evenings, April 8-9, at 6; Saturday and Sunday morning April 9-10, at 8:45.

Memorial [Yizkor] prayers will be recited during the Sunday morning service.

Jacob M. Klaver is president of the Congregation.

CONGREGATION ADAS SHALOM, 435 Adams St., Quincy Center:

Abraham Greenspan, religious committee chairman, announces the following schedule for the Passover Services:

Saturday evening at 6; Sunday and Monday mornings, [April 3 and 4] at 9. Saturday and Sunday mornings, April 9-10 at 9. Memorial Services Sunday morning.

Robert Levine is president of Adas Shalom. Rabbi Samuel S. Kenner and Cantor Tevle Ring will officiate at all services.

TEMPLE BETH EL, Hancock St., Quincy Center: Services will be conducted by Rabbi David J. Jacobs and Cantor Morris

Semigran. Saturday and Sunday evenings [April 2-3] at 6 with a Family Seder at the Temple Sunday evening at 7. Sunday and Monday morning services [April 3-4] at 9:15. Saturday and Sunday mornings, April 9-10, 9:15. Memorial services [Yizkor] at 11. Sunday Morning, April 10. President of Beth El is Stanley Sorkin.

Passover comes in the early spring. In the synagogue service on Passover morning the Song of Songs is read, "The rain is over and gone; the flowers appear on the earth; the time of the singing of birds is come and the voice of the turtle is heard in the land".

In the home great preparations are made. New clothes are bought for everyone and the house is cleaned from attic to cellar. The dishes that are never used except for the Passover week are taken from the top shelf and washed. The Passover silver is rubbed until it shines. There must not be a bit of dust anywhere. Everything must be clean and pure. Many families keep up the old custom of hunting for leaven on the evening before the Passover begins. During the Passover week only unleavened bread is used, so the father searches the house to make sure there are no bits of ordinary bread anywhere. For the sake of the old ceremony the mother has hidden little pieces for the father to find. The children always enjoy the hunt.

The most wonderful meal of the year is the dinner on Passover Eve. It is called the Seder, which really means order of service because every part of the evening follows the old, old customs. The table is even more festive than it is for the Sabbath dinner, and unleavened bread in square flat cakes called Matzoth takes the place of Hallah.

There is a large platter holding the Seder symbols, a roasted lamb bone to represent the sacrificial lamb, a roasted egg, symbol of life and hope, horse radish roots and parsley for the bitter herbs to symbolize the bitterness of losing one's rights and a mixture of apples, nuts and wine to suggest by its red color the bricks which the slaves in Egypt were forced to make.

The father's chair is heaped with cushions, a reminder of the old custom of reclining at meals when one was rich and free and had others to serve him. Every one feels happy and carefree at the Seder. At sundown the family in a festive mood gathers about the candle-light table and the curtains are drawn to shut out the world. Never are the children so conscious of their Jewish heritage than on this night. For thousands of years their people have kept this feast. Tonight in almost every land countless Jews are observing it. They may be poor, they may be in exile, they may be suffering persecutions, their meal may be most frugal, but all of them know that they are a part of a great company who are remembering the past and praying that all Jews may again be free.

The father lifts his glass and blesses the wine, then all drink. A basin, a pitcher of water and a towel are passed for the ceremonial washing of hands. After this everyone dips a bit of parsley in salt water and eats it. Then proudly the youngest child, if he is six years old asks the four following questions:

"Wherein is this night different from all other nights? For on all other nights, we may eat either leavened bread or unleavened, but on this night only unleavened. 'On all other nights we may eat other kinds of herbs, but on this night only bitter herbs. 'On all other nights we need not dip an herb even once, but on this night we do so twice.' 'On all other nights we eat sitting upright, but on this night we recline.'"

The children listen as if they are hearing it for the first time as the father reads the story from the Haggadah, although it has been told in every Jewish household ever since there has been a Jewish people.

In the Torah it is written:

"When thy son asketh thee in time to come 'What mean the ordinances which the Lord our God hath commanded?' then thou shalt say to thy son, 'We were Pharaoh's bondmen in Egypt and the Lord brought us out of Egypt with a mighty hand'."

So he tells them how Moses asked Pharaoh to let the people go free, but Pharaoh only made them work harder. Then Moses told them to make ready quickly for a long journey, to bake their bread without waiting for it to rise, to kill a lamb, put its blood on their doorposts.

During the night the first born son in every Egyptian home died, but the angel of death "passed over" the homes that had been marked with the blood of the lambs. This is why the festival is called the Passover.

Frightened and sad, Pharaoh ordered Moses to take his people away. Therefore, the Passover is the festival of freedom. During the long recital four cups of wine have been served to celebrate the four stages of the redemption of Israel. When the story is finished the food is brought in. The first course is hard boiled eggs served with salt water for tears and hope have always been the lot of Jews.

Then come fish and fowl and all the other good things and for dessert each one has a little piece of a matzo. At the conclusion of the meal, the children are given an opportunity to find the concealed sheet of Matzo [the Afikomen]. The leader of the Seder redeems it and all partake of it.

The Cup of Elijah is filled with wine and the door of the house is opened to greet the prophet Elijah. It is customary to conclude the Seder with the chanting of Passover melodies. A prayer is read by all assembled.

What Did Jimmy Burke Really Mean?

When Jimmy Burke's 67th birthday party was over and the 1,100 or so attending had shaken his hand and were departing, the politician watchers were left standing around asking themselves:

"What did he really mean?"

In his remarks of appreciation just minutes before, was he in dress rehearsal for a farewell or hinting this could be his final Congressional term?

Or was he just toying with the herd of potential candidates all eagerly waiting to stampepe for his 11th district seat once he officially calls it a career?

He seemed quite firm he would run again [11th term] when he frankly admitted to his 67th milestone and said he expected "another five or six terms in Congress."

And when he observed [to applause]:

"I would rather wear out than rust out. As long as I am No. 2 on the powerful Ways and Means Committee, I'm staying to do everything I can to get the Massachusetts economy rolling."

And so what if you are 67? You're still a kid.

Why look at Senator Hayakawa of California who is a freshman senator-at 70!

And then there's the 67-year-old who takes his age in stride by reading the obituaries every morning and if he doesn't find his name there, he showers, shaves and has his breakfast.

"There are many of you out there I know who are waiting for an announcement. [To retire]. Well, it's not going to come." [Loud applause].

So, how come the politician watchers are wondering what he really meant?

Well, there was something else he said:

"I don't know what I'm going to do...the next few months will tell...If I'm not physically able to do my job, I would never ask any constituent for their votes. I won't ask unless I can attend every day, every session and every committee vote."

That's why the politician watchers who like to watch and wonder are wondering what he really meant.

SETTING FOR THE Burke milestone was the Chateau de Ville in Randolph and the head table looked like it stepped out of a "Who's Who In Politics". Among them: House Speaker Thomas [Tip] O'Neill, former House Speaker John McCormack, Congresswoman Margaret Heckler, Congressman Edward Boland and John Moakley, State and Local officials were everywhere.

The committee reportedly wanted to charge $50 per head but Burke would have none of that. He argued them down to $20. And at that price it was quite a take including an open bar, Irish step dancers, music and dinner.

EARLIER IN THE week, Richard Koch and family hosted a party at the Bryan VFW Post for more than 800 friends to thank them for their help in Koch Club and civic activities the past near 30-years.

Fr. Cornelius Heery, pastor of Sacred Heart Church, the Koch's parish, may have said it all when he observed:

"Dick, Simmy and the children are the perfect example of the ideal family...one that others should try to imitate."

And, if Fr. Heery didn't say it all, Rabbi Jacob Mann of Beth Israel Synagogue may have when he noted: "Israel was blessed with milk and honey, Quincy is blessed with Koch and honey."

Some weeks back we suggested that if Dick Koch decided to run for mayor he had a catchy campaign slogan in: "Things Go Better With Koch".

A-number of buttons popped up that evening with just that slogan. Hmmm!

SCHOOL COMMITTEEWOMAN Patricia Toland is keeping a campaign promise. She's visiting various schools to observe in classroom, teachers up for tenure. She had said she would do this before voting on tenure. Making the visits with her is her four-year-old son, Brendan. At elementary schools, he sits in "observing" kindergarten classes while Momma makes her rounds.

SUPERIOR COURT JUDGE Henry Chmielinski of Weymouth, former Quincy attorney, has been elected first chairman of the newly formed Massachusetts Judges Conference. For the first time in the state's history, all the state's trial courts are represented in a single group. The conference has over 200 members. Judge Albert Kramer, presiding justice of Quincy District Court is on the executive committee.

QUINCY'S Council on Aging will be the subject of an upcoming Ch. 7 "Elderly Americans" program hosted by Steve Gupile.

Sabina Stenberg, chairman of the council, Executive director Robert Tweedy and Rev. Bedros Baharian, head of 1000 Southern Artery, will appear. The show will be taped April 5 for viewing Sunday, April 17 at 7:30 a.m. And 30 senior citizens from Quincy are needed to be part of the audience. TV, anyone?

ONL OF THE best shows staged locally was St. John's parish "It's a Musical World". Loaded with good music and lots of talent. And for a show stopper, how could you beat this act: Fr. William McCarthy, pastor, Fr. Joseph Connolly, Fr. Joseph Byrne, Fr. Daniel Graham, Fr. David Delaney and Deacon Peter Ughetto, dressed up as little kids-complete with wigs-singing "On The Good Ship Lollipop". It brought the house down.

LIVING TODAY

Housekeeping - An Everyday Problem

I said to the custodian in the men's room of the restaurant ... "They left you quite a mess, didn't they?" Said he ... "You should see the ladies' room."

I haven't seen a ladies' room for many years ... not since I was a high school principal. In those days, I was reminded, the custodians and I were forever fighting to keep the girls' room clean. The boys wrote and drew sex oriented "information" on the toilet walls, but the girls smeared the walls with lipstick, threw paper on the floor ... clogged the toilets with sanitary napkins which caused them to overflow, over the floor, and if not caught in time, out into the hall. I never found a solution to the problem before I left the position. I couldn't understand the problem, because I grew up believing that girls were cleaner and neater than boys. So I was unprepared to find that this was not necessarily so.

Now ... as a counselor, I find that one of the problems in marriage and family life is disorder and clutter. The gap between a husband and wife can become greater and greater, unless they come to some agreement about how the home is to be kept. Traditionally ... wives have been the housekeepers. Those were the days when men went out to work and "brought home the bacon" ... while women stayed home and cleaned ... took care of the babies ... got the meals. Now, with close to half the labor pool being women, housekeeping and cooking become the JOINT RESPONSIBILITY of a husband and wife.

Try the following suggestions for dealing with this everyday problem of housekeeping ... so that it doesn't become a cause of conflict: First ... GET AN AGREEMENT ON WHO DOES WHAT. If the man likes to cook, maybe even had training in the military, or in restaurant work, let the cooking be his responsibility. Maybe the wife enjoys the cleaning and decorating. Fine! It matters not who does what. There are no longer male chores and female chores. Agree to do what you do best ... or like to do best.

Second ... BE REGULAR AND FAITHFUL TO YOUR AGREEMENT. If the agreement is not kept, by one or the other partner, this opens the way to the feeling of being used ... being leaned upon by the other. It may even reflect a loss of interest in the home ... or each other.

Remember ... a marriage is a contract ... you should just as well know the terms and have them spelled out. That way you know where you stand and thus avoid having to learn where you fell.

Charges Distortion

Sheets Hits Insurance Companies On 'Outrageous Premiums'

Rep. James A. Sheets [D-Quincy] has assailed the insurance companies and State Insurance Commissioner James M. Stone for distorting the intent of the new auto insurance law with the result that Massachusetts drivers are paying "outrageous premiums."

For one thing, he said, the insurance companies are ignoring that part of the law which establishes a two-part high risk pool distinguishing bad record drivers from good record drivers, who happen to be in the pool.

For another thing, he said, while the law was written to surcharge a driver $50 if he has been found at fault in an accident, the insurance companies have been surcharging both drivers without regard to fault.

Sheets said he is currently supporting a bill filed by Rep. David Lane [R-Essex] that would spell out "in very clear language" that a two-part high risk pool must be established.

One part of the pool is for drivers whose driving records are bad while the other is for drivers [such as those under 25 with sports cars] whose records are good but are reckoned by actuaries to be in a high risk class.

"Under the old law," said

Sheets, "it made no difference whether a person was assigned to the high risk pool because he had a poor driving record or because he was a potential risk since both paid the same premium."

"The new law is different. Drivers with bad records are assessed a much higher premium but the companies are also charging higher premiums to good drivers in the high risk pool. They should be charged the average rate which other drivers are charged."

Sheets' office disclosed that there were 533,000 drivers in the high risk pool as of last Dec. 31. Now there are 602,000 and there will be more than 700,000 by the end of the year, said Ronald Kaufman, Sheets' aide.

"Some of the 533,000 in the pool did not know they were in it when the new plan went into effect," said Kaufman.

Sheets said he was shocked to learn that the insurance companies were surcharging both drivers in accidents when the law specifies that only the driver at fault should receive a surcharge.

"This is in direct opposition to the intent of the law," he said. He said he is currently drafting legislation to correct the situation.

"Some of the blame," he said, "has to lie with the insurance commissioner, whose office is enforcing some regulations which are contrary to the way the law is written."

"One good example of this deals with hit and run accidents. The law states that if your car is involved in a hit and run accident and you report it to the police you will not be surcharged."

"But the law has been distorted and the companies are now surcharging people who are victims of a hit and run accident. This is obviously unfair. Massachusetts drivers are being shortchanged and overpriced."

Sheets office came up with these comparative figures for Quincy residents owning 1975 Chevrolet Impalas with insurance coverage that includes $10,000 property damage, $5,000 medical and $200 deductible comprehensive and collision:

Class 10, over 25 - 1976 cost $525. 1977 Kemper $495, Travelers $578, Etna $650. High risk, $600 with all companies.

Class 22, male under 25 - 1976 cost $1,079. 1977 Kemper $1,239, Travelers $1,422, Etna $1,499. High risk $1,523 with all companies.

READER SPEAKS OUT

City Officials Should Work Together

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I am writing this letter to you so that I may express my opinion and also the opinion of many people that I come in contact with in our city.

I would sincerely like to see a little more cooperation, as many many others feel the same. We have a fine clean and wonderful city as I have stated once before in one of my letters that I wrote to the Quincy Sun and was published.

Mayor Joseph LaRaia was elected by the people of Quincy - why - because the people felt it was time for a change and they felt he could do a good job. Mayor LaRaia is trying very hard to do that job but he has been fighting alone. He has no help - a general cannot win a war without an army. You must have both. I believe that if some of those that are in an official capacity would try to help, we all would get along much better, and the City of Quincy would not be in a position to be criticized by other cities that are not as well off as we are.

In six months everyone will understand what Mayor LaRaia has done - because he is honest, sincere, qualified and has the know-how. Our officials are all fine people. They are qualified and maintain esteem from all, therefore it should not be difficult in getting together with the Mayor.

I hope that the future will bring better understanding and love among all those that must work together.

QUINCY'S YESTERDAYS

By Tom Henshaw

Mother Nature Kicks Up Her Heels

High seas, raised by gale force winds, isolated large areas of homes in Houghs Neck and Squantum and caused an estimated $500,000 damage on the South Shore, largely in Quincy and Hull.

Tides three feet above normal put the Squantum Causeway under one foot of water and homes in the Rhoda and Rockland Sts. section of Houghs Neck were flooded. Winds were clocked at 53 mph at the Blue Hill Observatory.

Fire Chief Thomas F. Gorman ordered a ladder truck from the Atlantic station to standby duty in Squantum and assigned extra men to the Houghs Neck station which was all but inaccessible from the outside.

'ILLEGAL' SIGNS HELP

Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa reported the new "walk" and "don't walk" signs put up in Quincy Square have been very effective in reducing automobile-pedestrian accidents. Unfortunately, he said, the signs are illegal.

Della Chiesa, who is also a state representative from Quincy, spoke in support of bill that would legalize the signs before the Legislative Committee on Highways and Motor Vehicles.

ICE WARRIORS WIN

Bucky Zanardelli scored three goals to lead the Quincy Warriors to a 6-2 victory over Rockland and the championship of Division Two in the Old Colony Hockey League.

Gus Fletcher had two goals and Ed Cobban one for Quincy. Others in the Warriors' lineup included R. Gillis, Antonellis, D. Fletcher, Salomaa, Campbell, Robbins, Kerivan, Vincent and DeCoste.

EQUAL TAX DELAYED

The City Council decided to hold one more meeting with Mayor Della Chiesa before taking a vote on the question of tax equalization.

Della Chiesa, Councilor Edna B. Austin and the assessors, N. Norman Nickerson, William J. Callahan and Arnold O. Eastman, were in favor of all-out tax equalization by an outside firm.

Councilors William C. Ellis, John J. Quinn, Thomas S. Burgin and James R. McIntyre felt the job should be done by the assessors with local assistance.

A REGIONAL ECONOMY

By Eric Swider

Jobs And Economy---It Takes Both To Tango

Corporate profits mean capital spending, and that means jobs. But some vital trends are headed the wrong way.

The growth of new jobs in the private sector is failing to keep up with the demand for jobs.

Over the next eight years, America will need 20 million new jobs...just to keep up with the growth in the work population. We aren't creating nearly that many now.

And that doesn't even count the one-fifth of America's manufacturing capacity that is more than 20 years old and in need of replacement and modernization.

Jobs come from capital spending. The more money spent on productive enterprises, the more jobs that are created.

But capital spending for jobs in the private sector comes mainly from corporate profits - and that shows another bad trend. Profits directly support at least half of all jobs in America; and they indirectly support most of the other jobs, as well.

In the last 25 years, profits have become less and less a share of Gross National Product. In the 1970's, it's less than five percent. But, corporate profits support capital spending.

Yet, profits have been steadily declining when compared with the total of employee paychecks. Worker compensation since 1950 has risen more than six times - to more than a trillion dollars.

[A trillion is a one followed by 12 zeroes.] Back in 1950, business profits were 16 percent of employee compensation; by 1976, only 8 percent.

But perhaps the most alarming trend for jobs is the unchecked growth of government in America in relationship to the private sector. Since 1950, government employment of civilians has grown by 150 percent - from six million to 15 million.

One out of every six Americans now works for government...federal, state and local.

At the same time, private employment of civilians has grown by only 36 percent - from 53 million to 72 million.

That's not all: government spending has more than kept pace with that unhealthy growth. Such

Smyth Ineligible

Mayor LaRaia has agreed the office of cemetery superintendent has civil service status and has requested that an examination for the post be scheduled in the near future.

Former City Councilor J. Vincent Smyth, whom LaRaia appointed to the post in December, is not eligible for lack of service to take the exam, the Mayor said, but he will remain on the job until a new superintendent is selected.

Smyth's appointment was protested by the Laborers International Union, who filed suit in Norfolk Superior Court disputing LaRaia's contention that the post was exempt from civil service because it is head of a municipal department.

Mayor LaRaia said he requested that the position be returned to civil service after a meeting with James A. Shannon, attorney for Laborers Union Local 1139.

"It looked like this was going to be a long dispute," said the Mayor. "It was in the best interests of everyone to handle it this way instead of prolonging things. Settling matters will increase the morale of the cemetery workers."

The settlement, he said, will remove the necessity for further action in the workers' suit that is still pending in Superior Court. Shannon said he is satisfied that "the Mayor's decision is spending has grown more than eight times since 1950, while spending by people and by companies to create jobs has grown about five times.

Government spending now accounts for more than 34 percent of our Gross National Product, far more than the 21 percent it accounted for in 1950.

That helps fuel inflation...it diverts money away from possible investment in job-producing plants and equipment...helps create shortages of goods people want and need.

Those aren't just meaningless numbers either. Most of that money comes from taxes. And taxes are paid by people and by companies...and companies are made up of people. What's more, if government doesn't have enough, it borrows vast sums of money, in effect mortgaging the future.

These trends must be reversed. Profits should be encouraged, not criticized. Corporate profits mean capital investment, and that means jobs.

Runaway government growth and spending have to stop. Government should make people confident about the future...not uncertain and afraid.

Tax laws should be changed to encourage people and companies to invest in the job-creating tools of production.

These tax changes will help:

- Eliminate the burdensome double taxation of dividends.
- Permit faster depreciation allowances on productive equipment.
- Allow first-year write-offs for nonproductive pollution control spending, so this money can quickly be put back to work in the form of productive equipment.
- Increase to at least 12 percent and make permanent the investment tax credit which encourages job-creating capital spending.
- It's our wisest course...and we need to start following it.

LaRaia Requests Exam For Cemetery Superintendent Post

Mayor LaRaia said he requested that the position be returned to civil service after a meeting with James A. Shannon, attorney for Laborers Union Local 1139.

"It looked like this was going to be a long dispute," said the Mayor. "It was in the best interests of everyone to handle it this way instead of prolonging things. Settling matters will increase the morale of the cemetery workers."

The settlement, he said, will remove the necessity for further action in the workers' suit that is still pending in Superior Court. Shannon said he is satisfied that "the Mayor's decision is motivated by a sincere desire to improve the city's relationship with its family of employees. Also the taxpayer is spared the expense of lengthy litigation by this decision."

LaRaia said he will ask the Civil Service Commission to expedite the exam so it can be held at the earliest possible time.

The two youngest men to sign the Declaration of Independence were only 26 years old. They were Thomas Lynch and Edward Rutledge.

Bandaidd Approach Meanwhile

Permanent Solution For Strand Flooding, Sewage Problems A Year Away

Residents of The Strand area off Wollaston Beach, particularly Watkins St., will have to wait until the summer of 1978 for a permanent cure to their problems of flooding and overflowing sewers.

Meanwhile, said Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson, the city will have to take a bandaidd approach to alleviate the ills by pumping out water and sewage whenever necessary.

Two residents of Watkins St. registered angry complaints during February that raw sewage was spewing out of the pipes in one yard and that flood water stood several feet deep in the streets, short circuiting one furnace.

"It's a terrible problem, no question about it," said Anderson. "It probably will take a new sewer line to correct it. The line was put in about 30 years ago and it was not constructed properly."

The expense to the city to replace it would be prohibitive, said Anderson, but federal funding for 90 per cent of the expense will be available soon under a master plan for the whole Wollaston area.

"We hope to be eligible for federal funding by the summer of 1978," he said.

City officials explain that the houses in the Strand area really should never have been built in the first place. Current environmental impact laws would prohibit construction on such land today. Many of the houses were built originally as summer cottages and gradually became year-round homes. Recent paving of streets in the area apparently has aggravated the problem, city officials say. "Nevertheless," says Anderson, "the city will have to rectify it."

Raiders Deep In Experience

Last season was one of the most frustrating for North Quincy baseball coach Charlie Bunker, as his Raiders lost eight one-run games on their way to a 6-14 record.

"I don't think we'll lose so many frustrating games this year," Bunker said. "Last year we started out with practically no varsity veterans and depended to a large extent on the previous year's jayvees. This year we have virtually all of last season's varsity back, and the experience should help."

Steve Bell is back as North's catcher and he is backed up by Jim McGinley.

Mike McCormick is at first base, Walter McGinley is at second, Bob Stack and Kevin Cobban are battling it out for the shortstop post and Ed McElaney is the third baseman.

Bunker has several promising outfielders including Jim McGinley, Josh Alberti, Tom Nee, John Andrews, Brian Donaghy and Dennis Doherty.

Kurt O'Sullivan and John Wilkinson are the top pitchers while McCormick and Walt McGinley also will pitch. Bob Cuervels and Garry Earle are up from the jayvees and look good.

Bunker may promote some junior varsity players and among those who could play varsity ball are infielders Joe Waterhouse and Bobby McCabe, third baseman Harry Donaghy, catcher Pat Ennis and outfielder John Lothrop.

"I expect all the veterans to hit well and if our pitching and defense hold up, we should do much better than a year ago," Bunker said hopefully. "Last season we were weak in basic fundamentals due to inexperience and we shouldn't have that problem this year."

Lou Ioanilli, who has had outstanding success the last few years, is back as junior varsity coach.

The Raiders open against Milton in a non-league game on April 9.

Quincy's 'All New' Team Opens Against B.C. High

By TOM SULLIVAN

Quincy High's "all new" baseball team opens against B.C. High next Thursday at Adams Field and Coach Bud Mosher admits the Presidents will have trouble trying to equal last year's 13-7 record which put them into the Eastern Mass. Tournament.

"I lost everyone from that team except pitcher Pat Gibbons and catcher Sal Coscia, who divided his time between the varsity and jayvees," Mosher said. "Because of our inexperience, I think we will have our troubles over the first half of the season, but we should do well over the second half."

Coscia and Brian Jolley will share the catching duties and Dan Sandonato and Danny Walsh are other good prospects. Mosher expects big things from Jolley. Coscia played for Morrisette Legion.

Pete Niosi and John DiNardo will split the first base duties. "Both are fine players with a lot of enthusiasm and both will play," Mosher said. Niosi also played for Morrisette.

Jim Maze, who played for Morrisette Legion's Zone 6 champs last summer, and John Houten are battling it out for the second base job, but Maze could move over to third base.

Mike Murphy will be the shortstop. "I gave Mike the choice of playing part-time on the varsity or full-time on the jayvees last year and he decided on the jayvees," Mosher said. "That's the type kid he is, and I expect him to have a good season."

At third it will be Len Picot, who played for Morrisette or Maze.

The top outfielders are Mike Kelley, Rich Gibbons and Peter Cassidy. Some of Mosher's pitchers also will play in the outfield when not on the mound.

The leading pitchers are three southpaws, Pat Gibbons, who was 8-2 for Morrisette last summer; Rich Gibboly and Mark Giordani. Other pitchers are Tom LaBlue, Keith Larson, Ron Donovan, Art Davis and Ray Coscia. Most of them have starred in the Quincy Junior baseball program. Giordani and Donovan also were with Morrisette.

"With so many pitchers, I will have some pitch for the junior varsity to keep active," Mosher said. "I really can't say who our best hitting bats are until we have a few outdoor workouts, but several look like good batters."

Quincy will play at B.C. High on April 11, and will open its Suburban League season on the 14th against Cambridge Latin at Adams Field.

Rich Hutchinson is back as junior varsity coach.

Deer Island Treatment Plant Site?

Clean Water Bill May Stop Quincy Bay Fill-In At Nut Island

"I can't tell you how pleased I am," said City Councillor Leo J. Kelly this week. "I'm elated."

The reason for Kelly's elation was a step taken in Washington that may remove, once and for all, the threat of filling in up to 28 acres of Quincy Bay for a secondary sewage treatment facility at Nut Island.

The House Public Works Committee reported favorably on an amendment to a clean water bill that would, in effect, remove the Deer Island House of Correction and build the secondary treatment plant on the site.

The amendment, written by House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. (D-Cambridge), calls for payment of $15 million for the Deer Island jail with the proviso that the money be used to construct a new county jail near Government Center in Boston.

If the plan goes through, the Nut Island facility at the tip of Houghs Neck would become simply a pumping and screening station in the MDC sewage system and there would be no need to fill in any of Quincy Bay.

"Dennis Harrington and I started speaking out about Nut Island four years ago," said Kelly, whose Ward 1 includes the Nut Island area. "We were accused of irresponsibility by the MDC. Now everything we said and more has happened."

"We made the proposal that Deer Island be used as a secondary treatment plant two years ago and we were ridiculed. It was pushed aside as being too expensive. Now it is the thing to do."

But Kelly warned that the rescue of Nut Island from the landfillers is not yet an accomplished fact.

"The amendment should go through the House because Speaker O'Neill is all for it," he said. "But it will still have to pass the Senate."

Kelly said he has started a letter writing campaign aimed particularly at the three New England senators on the Senate Water Quality Standards Committee. They are Sens. Edmund S. Muskie (D-Maine), the chairman, Robert T. Stafford (R-Vt.) and John Chaffee (R-R.I.).

He said he has also asked Council President and Sen.

Arthur H. Tobin to lead a delegation of elected officials to Washington "at the proper time after it has passed the House to lobby with our senators for the amendment."

Meanwhile, Rep. Thomas F. Brownell (D-Quincy) whose 2nd Norfolk District includes Nut Island, fired off letters to Sens. Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.) and Edward W. Brooke, and Cong. James A. Burke (D-Milton) and Edward J. Markey (D-Malden), urging their support for the amendment.

Its approval means a great deal to the citizens of Quincy who have voiced overwhelming opposition to a plan that would require the filling-in and destruction of up to 28 acres of Quincy Bay," he said.

"This insane plan can be killed if the Deer Island site becomes available as a result of the adoption of the amendment. The plan has been looming over the heads of the citizens of Quincy for almost three years."

Disagreement Over Reppucci Status

The status of Herbert Reppucci as a city official was still up in the air this week.

Sabina Stenberg, chairwoman of the Quincy Council on Aging, quoted the Mayor as saying that Reppucci had resigned as assistant director of RSVP and that the appointment of Diane Mackie to the post is permanent.

The Mayor told The Sun, however, that Miss Mackie's appointment "is permanent until his situation is resolved or she is acting until it is resolved. It's just a play on words. Nothing has changed."

Reppucci was suspended by the Mayor after his arrest by the FBI on Dec. 23 with Public Works Commissioner Vincent LoCicero on charges of extorting $7,000 in connection with a $1 million contract for an addition to the Merrymount School. Both have pleaded innocent and are awaiting trial before Judge Walter J. Skinner in Federal Court, Boston, April 11.

Mrs. Stenberg said the Mayor told of Reppucci's resignation during a meeting last Thursday [March 24] with Donald Wright, state director of Action, which supervises RSVP.

She said Wright came to Quincy specifically to find out Miss Mackie's status and "the Mayor confirmed that it was a permanent job."

She said the possibility of separating RSVP from the Council on Aging also was discussed with the further possibility that the headquarters of RSVP might be moved from Quincy to one of the seven other towns it serves.

Mayor LaRaia said the discussion revolved around "RSVP in general, not only in Quincy. We wanted to make sure it was being run on parallel guidelines with other communities."

"We discussed whether it was best operated under the Council on Aging or another capacity. It was the consensus that the Council on Aging was the best able to handle it."

Much Talent

Q. I was born on November 7, 1956 at 10:30 A.M. in Dorchester, Mass. I wonder if you could tell me what kind of work I would be most successful at? I like to draw very much but I am not sure if I should go into it in the future.

C.C.

A. The uncertainty which you express at the present time about what you would like to do will be a thing of the past shortly when your Progressed Sun will reach the exact point in the Zodiac that your birth Sun occupied.

At the time of your birth the Sun, Mercury and Neptune were all in Scorpio; the planet Saturn was in Sagittarius; the Moon in Capricorn; Mars in Pisces; Uranus in Leo; Jupiter and Pluto were in Virgo and Venus was in Libra.

Enjoy your drawing but you were blessed with considerable ability to probe into the unknown. You should do well in some occupation offering an opportunity in research as you are inclined to be very curious. You will probably be anxious to achieve recognition for your abilities.

As you become more mature you will strive to influence and direct others. You do have the ability for administrative work. You have a keen sense of perception and in time should be able to understand others and their needs.

You should have no difficulty in expressing your opinions in no uncertain terms. Your mind is continuously active and you are able to grasp facts readily. It can serve you well if you do not let your very deep emotions interfere since they may become overpowering.

Control your intense desires, learn how to relax and above all learn moderation and control in all things, mentally, emotionally and physically. You should be able to go far in life.

$21 Million Increase In Total Bay Bank Norfolk County Resources

At the recent annual stockholder's meeting of Bay Bank Norfolk County Trust Company in Dedham, bank President John F. Graham reported an increase during 1976 of about $21 million in the bank's total resources.

This brought the year-end total to $442,101,568.12. However, the net income for the year was less than that of the previous two years. The figure for 1976 was $4,467,000 or $4.14 per share as compared with $4,602,000 and $4.26 per share in 1975 and $4,478,000 and $4.40 per share in 1974. This decrease was a direct result of the increase in interest payments due to the growing number of interest checking accounts. [NOW Accounts], Graham said.

The meeting included the re-election of the bank's board of directors and officers by the stockholders. Local directors re-elected include Philip D. Balcom and Harold B. Nash of Weymouth, Fred E. Bergfors Jr. of North Weymouth and Peter H. Murphy of Hingham.

In the Quincy Sq. office Roger E. Perfetti was re-elected as assistant Vice President and officer-in-charge and Philip A. Hoagland as assistant manager. Louis A. Prunier of the Quincy Motor Bank and Jerome F. Layman of North Quincy were re-elected as managers.

Disaster Loan Assistance For Small Businesses

Congressman James A. Burke announces that seven Massachusetts counties including Norfolk have been declared eligible for "Disaster Loan Assistance" by the Small Business Administration.

The three counties in the 11th Congressional District which are eligible under the program are Norfolk, Suffolk and Plymouth.

The loans are made available due to the severe ice conditions experienced by the coastal counties of Massachusetts this past winter. Businesses may file for physical disaster loans until May 10 of this year, and may file for Economic Injury Loans until Dec. 12. The interest rate is computed on an annual rate of 6 and 5/8 percent.

Burke encouraged small businesses to take advantage of the assistance program. The Survival, Inc. Seeking Rooms Or Apartments

Survival, Inc., a non-profit youth service center, is seeking landlords or realtors who are willing to rent rooms or apartments as alternative housing systems for young people who are unable to live with their families.

"We hope to develop a network of cooperative realtors on the South Shore who will rent to these youths, ages 16 into their early 20's, whose family lives are at best non-supportive and chaotic," said a Survival spokesman.

"No amount of counseling can help these youths adjust to an unlivable situation. Our objective is to offer alternative living arrangements to these clients: the Independent Living Co-ops."

Anyone interested in making the service available is urged to call Survival, Inc. at 471-8400 or write to Survival, Inc. at 1354 Hancock St., Quincy, 02169.

Exclusive Right To sell

When listing your home with a Realtor to sell, there are a variety of arrangements you can make. But if you are seriously intent on selling your home within a reasonable time and at the price you are asking, it would pay to consider making an "exclusive right to sell" agreement.

This gives the Realtor the right to his commission if he actually sells your home during the listing period, or if another Realtor sells it, or if you sell it yourself.

Under these conditions, the Realtor will have the added incentive and protection to go all-out in heavily advertising your house and showing it to prospects. He will not be afraid of bringing it to the attention of other Realtors who may have qualified prospects. As a rule, Realtors are willing to cooperate and share the single commission. That gives you the advantage of having several Realtors make a determined effort to sell your home.

Don't Wait Too Long

Why You Should Buy Home Now

"Why should I buy a home now, when prices and interest rates are high?" asks the typical American who is sitting on the real estate sidelines waiting for "things to get better".

"The best reason I know of to buy now," says Vito Barresi, president of the Quincy and South Shore Board of Realtors, "is that no one knows for certain what the future will bring."

Barresi presented his views on "buy a home now" in a pre-statement for the 1977 Private Property Week being observed nationally April 17-23.

Barresi continued: "Who can say where interest rates will be six months or a year from now? Will they be higher or lower, and by how much?"

"This last part - how much - also must be considered if you are planning to wait for the 'right' time to buy a home. Even if it's generally felt that interest rates will drop, they may not drop enough to compensate for increases in value."

He said that it would take at least a 1 per cent drop in the interest rate to make up the difference in the monthly payment that an 8 per cent increase in value would cause.

"For example," he said, "suppose you could buy a $27,500 home with a 10 per cent down payment, a $25,000 mortgage loan over 25 years and at an interest rate of 8.75 per cent. "Principal and interest on the home would be paid off at a monthly rate of $205.54 over the 25-year period. However, if you decide to wait a year, in that time the value of the home rises about 8 per cent to $29,700.

"The result: It would take a drop in the interest rate to just under 7.75 per cent to bring the monthly payment down to the $205 level for principal and interest.

"Can you assume that prices will appreciate only 8 per cent in the year ahead? And even if the increase is not any higher, is it reasonable to expect a 1 per cent drop in interest rates next year?"

There also is the possibility that lenders will be facing tight money times a year from now, he said, which would mean that loans would not be offered as easily and the down payment requested would be increased.

"These are good reasons why your best bet is to get off the sidelines, buy a home now, and begin building your equity and tax deductions," he said.

To Assess Performance

Will LaRaia Run? He Will Make Up Mind In May

By TOM HENSHAW

Mayor LaRaia will make up his mind on a possible bid for re-election sometime in May.

"It's important to make a decision like that in May," he told The Sun Tuesday. "It leaves time to make plans before the deadline sometime in August. You shouldn't wait until the last minute."

The date for the preliminary city election has not yet been set by the City Council but it probably will be Sept. 20 since the earlier Tuesdays are complicated by holidays.

Sept. 6 is the day after Labor Day and Sept. 13 is Rosh Hashana, the Jewish New Year.

Thus far, there are two announced candidates in the mayoral race - Council President and Sen. Arthur H. Tobin and attorney George M. Tull.

In the past, LaRaia has said that before reaching a decision on re-election plans he would like to assess the accomplishments of his administration and take a sampling of public opinion.

LaRaia won the post in Nov. 1975 by upsetting then-Mayor Walter J. Hannan after a recount during which 600 votes in blocks of 50 changed hands to give him a 473-vote victory.

There has been some speculation LaRaia may not seek a second term. But as an incumbent he has the privilege of "Keeping 'em guessing".

Public Invited To Speak Out

Finance Committee To Tackle $82 Million Budget Saturday

The people of Quincy once again are going to have a chance to speak their minds on Mayor LaRaia's nearly $82 million budget for 1977-78 when the City Council's Finance Committee holds its first hearing Saturday [April 9] at 9:30 a.m.

The Mayor submitted the budget to the Council Monday night and the Council turned most of it over to Councillor John J. Quinn, chairman of the Finance Committee, who immediately announced that it would be a "people's budget year" once again.

He urged the people of Quincy to "go through your respective ward councillors with written questions or suggestions or comments so that the various committees can entertain your thoughts and views."

The City Hospital and Public Works Department sections of the budget were sent to the Hospital and Public Works Committees for their review.

At the suggestion of Councillor James A. Sheets, it was agreed by Arthur Casey, the Mayor's executive secretary, to have a copy of the budget placed in the Thomas Crane Public Library so the public could read it.

Mayor LaRaia submitted the budget to the Council with the warning that "we have not experienced any reserve money in our account in this fiscal year or anticipate any reserve money in next year's operation of city government."

"This is unusual," he said, "because our practice in the past has been to rely heavily on our reserve accounts to offset our increases in tax rate."

"Where there is little money available it makes the job of cutting the budget more difficult. You have to keep in mind that you cannot rely during the year on obtaining resources from other accounts or other areas."

He also warned the Council that too much trimming would result in "the problem as we have experienced in the past of not having the available funds to meet our 12 months commitments and allowing departments to maintain their level of services."

"That being the case, we could run into a situation where we'd have to borrow money or end up the next fiscal year in the red."

"Tonight's budget," he said, "as presented to you and the total I have announced to you is a stabilized budget. It allows the departments to maintain the proper level of services that the public is accustomed to."

"The figure that is presented represents a little increase over this year's costs to Quincy's citizenry in its taxes."

But, he added, it does not represent a final figure "because yet to be submitted is un negotiated cost of living increases" that are largely due from the Quincy School Department representing about $1.5 to $1.8 million from the estimates we have received.

"There are offsetting revenues that would reduce the impact of those costs that cannot be adequately determined until we reach our fiscal year ending in June when we know how we have met our obligations and what other revenue is being returned to the

Court Showdown April 20

LaRaia-Finn Feud Heats Up

The fight between Mayor LaRaia and Police Chief Francis X. Finn heated up this week as a showdown neared in Norfolk Superior Court at 10 a.m. on April 20.

That's the date set for hearing on Finn's suit against the Mayor which is expected to spell out the extent of the Mayor's authority over the Police Department.

There were also these developments:

* LaRaia told a radio audience that, if he decides to fire Chief Finn it will be in the next two months.

* He told The Sun that remarks that he made on the same radio show should not be interpreted as an accusation that it was a police officer who fired an early morning shot through the rear window of his car.

The Mayor said an interviewer on the program, Bay State Forum on Boston Radio WEEI, asked him what type of person he thought would fire a shot at his unoccupied car at 4 o'clock in the morning.

"I told him it had to be someone with access to a gun and could be on the streets at 4 in the morning," he said.

The remark was widely interpreted as meaning a policeman.

"It should not be interpreted that way," he said, adding that he had no one particular in mind when he made the remark.

LaRaia said there was no significance to the two-month time period he allowed himself in which to fire Finn, if he decided to do so.

"I felt that if I acted at all it would more than likely be in that time period," he said. "I was just giving myself enough time."

The Mayor's authority over the police chief currently is restricted by an injunction

LoCicero, Reppucci Trial Starts Monday

Suspended city officials Vincent LoCicero and Herbert Reppucci go on trial Monday [April 11] before Federal Judge Walter Skinner in Boston on charges of extorting $7,000 from the successful bidder on the Merrymount School addition.

LoCicero, public works commissioner, and Reppucci, assistant director of RSVP, were arrested by the FBI on Dec. 23 and immediately suspended by Mayor LaRaia. They have pleaded innocent.

Reports that Reppucci has resigned have not been confirmed.

Judge Skinner is the same judge who presided over the widely publicized trial of Sens. Ronald C. Mackenzie [R-Burlington] and Joseph J. C. DiCarlo [D-Revere] last month for extortion. Both were convicted.

Hospitalized Indefinitely With Burns

Quincy Soldier 'Somehow' Survives Georgia Plane Crash

By SARAH RICHARDS

Jeffrey Magnell, 20, of 140 Presidents Ln., Quincy Center, is one of the lucky few who survived the crash Monday of a DC9 plane in New Hope, Ga.

Listed in satisfactory condition at Grady Memorial Hospital there, Jeffrey suffered second and third degree burns over 15 per cent of his body. He will remain in the hospital indefinitely.

Jeffrey's parents, Robert and Elena Magnell, flew to Atlanta on the 1 a.m. flight Tuesday to be with their son.

Andrea Magnell, Jeffrey's sister, told The Quincy Sun that, "My mother, with a mother's opinion, doesn't think he looks good, but he's doing better."

Andrea said: Jeffrey "somehow" escaped the wreck and subsequent conflagration after the plane split in two. His clothes were on fire when he got out, and he was rolling on the ground to extinguish the flames when a stewardess came and helped him to a nearby house, where he received first aid treatment.

Jeffrey was on the plane en route to Atlanta after departing from his army station, Redstone Arsenal, in Huntsville, Ala. He had planned to come home for a week's leave before going on a tour of duty in Germany.

Robert Magnell first heard the news of the accident on the 6 p.m. news and, suspecting that his son was on that flight, didn't mention it until 6:30, when the Army called to confirm his fears. Andrea described the family as being "in torment" until her parents called early Tuesday morning to say Jeffrey was alive and in good condition.

The Magnell family is relieved about and thankful for Jeffrey's escape.

Now that the period of torment is over, they and their friends can only wait and hope for his speedy recovery.

Truck Ban Recommended On 3 South Quincy Streets

Ward 2 Councillor, Daniel Raymondi announces he has received a report from the Quincy Traffic Commission recommending that commercial vehicles be excluded from Hughes, Lurton and Pembroke Sts., South Quincy.

Raymondi noted he and residents of the area had appeared before the Traffic

Commission on a number of occasions requesting their favorable action on this problem.

He also stressed the importance of the implementation of the ban because of the proposed construction of a South Quincy MBTA station and the present dangerous condition of large commercial vehicles passing through the residential area. Raymondi said "this is a major step forward in preserving the neighborhood quality and safety for this community."

In a letter to the residents of the affected streets, it was also noted the entire matter must be forwarded to state officials for their approval before it can be put into effect.

Steering Committee Formed To Reactivate Southwest Council

The Southwest Neighborhood Council of Quincy has formed a Steering Committee to reactivate the Southwest Community Council.

Committeemen include Donna Ames, Barbara Griffin, Dorothy Kiley, Carla Keto, Josie Mattina, and George and Edna Hood.

Among their responsibilities are to evaluate the programs of the Southwest Community Center and to develop programs that will be of interest to the community.

The next meeting of the committee will be held Wednesday, April 13, at 1 p.m., at the Southwest Community Center, 372 Granite St. All residents are invited to participate.

'Unqualified Success'

Several Hundred Jobs Expected To Be Filled As A Result Of Fair

The fifth annual Job Fair held Saturday was "an unqualified success" said Timothy Reidy Jr., CETA training manager and one of the Fair's sponsors.

Approximately 5000 prospective employees and 50 companies attended the Fair in State Street South's West Lobby, North Quincy.

"The companies I talked to were pleased with the quality and numbers of applicants," Reidy said. "The only negative aspect was there wasn't a job for everyone."

Reidy expects several hundred jobs will be filled as a result of this year's Fair.

Walter Hannon of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, another sponsor of the Job Fair, said the Fair was "extremely successful".

Hannon said although the companies may not hire within the first few months, job applications will be held throughout the year.

Hannon said a complete survey of types of jobs obtained from the Fair is being prepared.

Hannon said companies attending past Job Fairs recommended the program to other companies producing a "mushrooming effect". The amount of companies represented increased from 34 in 1976 to 50 in 1977.

The Fair was co-sponsored by the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, the South Shore Job Center, and the Norfolk County Tourist and Development Council.

Home-Most Dangerous

As the experts learn anew every year, there is hardly any spot on earth more hazardous than your home. Last year, more than 30,000 people were accidentally killed at home and some 5 million suffered disabling injuries. That's like wiping out the entire population of Fort Dodge, Iowa and injuring every person in the whole state of North Carolina - in a home accident.

Even factories full of treacherous machinery and poisonous chemicals consistently come up with safety records superior to that of our homes. Statistically, you are twice as likely to be killed at home as on the job.

Why is the home so hazardous? Primarily because it has two accident-prone age groups that most factories don't have to contend with - children and the elderly. Youngsters under four and persons over 65 account for 70 percent of accidental deaths at home. Identify your hazards and do something about protecting your family.

It's Time for Action

With the harshness of winter behind, it's the perfect time of year for you to once again think of bringing new life into your hair. Moisture-less air and drying winter conditions leaves hair without the elasticity necessary to be shiny, healthy, and manageable. A specialized protein conditioning treatment will revitalize and strengthen the natural chemical bonds that make up each individual hair.

Now your hair is beautifully conditioned and ready to accept whatever permanent or exciting hair coloring venture you are planning to undertake.

Looking forward to seeing you for the start of your "HAIR ACTION" plan.

WHAT DOES IT TAKE TO TURN A REGULAR SAVER INTO A QUINCY COOPERATIVE PAID UP SHAREHOLDER?

When you have $100 in a Quincy Cooperative Regular Savings account we'll make you a shareholder and pay you 5½% on your savings.

Here's how it works.

Simply authorize us, say how much and how often, and we'll automatically transfer funds from your NOW to a Quincy Cooperative Regular Savings account.

Our Regular Savings accounts pay a higher interest rate than our NOW account. So it's in your better interest to keep as little as you need in your NOW account, and as much as possible in your Regular Savings account.

When you have $100 in your savings account, you qualify for a Paid Up Share in Quincy Cooperative. Which means you'll be a shareholder earning 5½% interest. That's the highest interest rate the law will allow. And there are no restrictions on Paid Up Shares, so you can withdraw them anytime, easily, and without fuss in $100.00 multiples.

So why not turn into a Quincy Cooperative paid up shareholder? All it takes is a little authorization on your part. And you'll find when you become a Paid Up Shareholder that saving for something special comes especially easy.

And you know what...

JOSIAH WOULD HAVE LIKED THAT.

"So Happy I Cried"

Bishop Goes To Injured Girl's Home To Administer Confirmation

By SARAH RICHARDS

Mary Kenney of 7 Audrey St., Quincy, wasn't disappointed after all when she was unable to take the Sacrament of Confirmation at St. John's Church, Quincy Center recently.

Because she was confined to her bed due to a severe injury she sustained seven weeks ago, the Bishop came to her.

Bishop John Michael Darcy of Brighton gave the Sacrament of Confirmation to 171 children at St. John's in two separate ceremonies March 26, and then drove to Mary's house to perform the rites for her.

Mary, aged 15, broke two neck vertebrae in a trampoline accident in February, and was in traction until the bones fused one week ago. She describes herself as doing "good" now, but is wearing a neck brace and will be out of school at least through April vacation.

She had been very disappointed that she could not take the sacrament with her friends and classmates.

But when the family learned, an hour before his arrival, that the Bishop was coming to their home "I was so happy that I cried."

The Bishop had learned of Mary's plight that morning when she was remembered in the services. After the second ceremony, he drove down "all by himself in his robes in a little white Volkswagen," said Mary.

The Kenney household had been in confusion for the previous hour, but by the time the Bishop arrived there was a semblance of order. He gave the sacrament in a regular service, with Mary's mother, grandmother, and brother, a friend, and a church deacon present.

Mary even got one benefit from her special service that the other 171 children hadn't.

Because of time limits, the 171 others didn't get the opportunity to take confirmation names.

But Mary Elizabeth Francis Kenney did.

Anselmo Candidate For 5th Term

Don't ever suggest to veteran School Committeeman Frank Anselmo that he'd look good in a rocking chair.

He's liable to pick it up and throw it at you.

The furthest thing from his mind right now is political retirement. He's raring to hit the campaign trail once again.

So, in case you've been wondering, he's definitely a candidate for re-election.

Anselmo will be seeking his fifth consecutive four-year term this fall in his usual tell-it-like-it-is campaign style.

His 16 years is the longest continuous service on the present board and he is confident he will make it an even 20.

Anselmo estimates he puts in 1,000 hours of service each year—including attending meetings, research and preparation for them. Without pay, of course.

Why is he running again? Says he:

"I want to protect the school system from ill-informed and misguided political sniping and maintain the educational quality and integrity of the school system."

He'll have more to say later.

You may not agree with Anselmo on certain issues but at least you know where he stands. He's outspoken and has never hidden behind a "no comment".

Two other members of the board are up for re-election: Charles Sweeny and John Sullivan.

Neither has publicly indicated his plans but both are expected to seek re-election.

However, there's been a little speculation that Sullivan might make a bid for the council at-large seat being vacated by Arthur Tobin to run for mayor.

THE FIRST BIG political fund-raiser for this year's city election will be held for Arthur and Shirley Tobin by the "Tobin For Mayor Committee" May 22 at the State Street South Courtyard, North Quincy. Tickets $50 each.

Nice to see an event like this held in Quincy again. Too many things are going out of town.

ELEANOR WOODWARD, Mayor LaRaia's fund-raising chairman two years ago, says she'll be a candidate for Council at-large this year.

"We need more women in government," she says. "The city might get straightened out with more women. I'm starting to campaign now."

Mrs. Woodward was to go into New England Baptist Hospital for a few days' checkup and scheduled a campaign committee meeting at the hospital.

MEANWHILE, Atty. Harold Davis who finished a strong fourth in the three-seat at-large race two years ago, reportedly is giving consideration to making another bid this year. He finished something like 300 votes behind veteran incumbent Councillor John Quinn in 1975.

BOB MCCARTHY who was press aide for Mayor LaRaia's campaign two years ago and later served as his information officer and assistant director of Quincy Heritage, is a surgery patient at University Hospital, Boston. For the short time he was in the Quincy political circle he won many friends on both sides. And many still think he got a raw deal in the end.

Bob expects to be hospitalized another three to five weeks and would like to hear from you. His address: University Hospital, Room 714, 75 Newton St., Boston.

THE QUINCY YMCA Aquathon is set for April 16-17. Goal is to raise $10,000. Among those already signed up to hit the water are Councillor Paul Harold and School Committeeman Chris Kennedy. And director Paul Harvey promises to make like Mark Spitz for a $10 donation.

IT'S LATER THAN you think: The South Shore Chamber of Commerce outing is set for July 13 at the Halifax Country Club, with Irving Potter as chairman. Rain date [perish the thought!] is July 20.

BILL PRATT, the former "Quincy Clipper", gets the feature photo treatment in the May issue of Yankee magazine. Bill, who now lives in Lynn, has one of the finest collections of press clippings and research libraries anywhere. He still keeps his eye on his hometown via The Sun. The May issue of Yankee will be out April 25.

OBSERVATION: That Boston [North End] newspaper that would have you believe it sees all and knows all that is going on politically in Quincy, is still flubbing around in the accuracy department.

An item in a recent issue had Boston City Councillor John Kerrigan "marching in Quincy's St. Patrick's Day parade".

Kerrigan was in Quincy St. Patrick's Day but dining at Peter's Landing. If he marched in a parade he was the only one in it.

Someone should tell them Quincy doesn't have a St. Patrick's Day Parade.

Hospital Loophole Closed

Residency Requirement For City Jobs Goes To Committee

The City Council sent Mayor LaRaia's proposal for a residency requirement to its Ordinance Committee Monday night, but only after Councillor Daniel G. Raymond moved to close what appeared to be a loophole at City Hospital.

The residency ordinance would require that every person hired by the city on or after May 1, 1977 be a resident of the city and remain a resident as long as he is employed.

It specifies, too, that any city employee now living outside the city who is promoted shall become a resident within one year or face dismissal.

One section of the proposed ordinance, however, would permit the hospital director to hire certain people who do not live in the city provided he obtain written approval of the Mayor.

Councillor Raymond moved to amend the ordinance by striking out that provision.

Mayor LaRaia said he plans to introduce a similar regulation to the Quincy School Committee.

"There may be instances when it is deemed necessary to waive these requirements because of the need for an especially outstanding or specialized person," said the Mayor.

"But as one who believes in Quincy, I think we will usually be able to find outstanding people here and there will always be capable people to fill most positions."

"Contrary to the false impressions which some have tried to convey this administration's hiring policy with regards to Quincy residents has been very good."

"The overall number of employees in municipal departments, excluding school and hospital, is 1397. Of this number some 84 percent are Quincy Residents. Of 1237 employees at the city hospital, some 60 percent are Quincy residents."

"During the last year and more of the LaRaia administration, there have been over 206 appointments to municipal positions. Some of these have been due to replacement, but the largest portion are due to attrition, turnover and temporary employment."

"While we have left a number of positions vacant to save money, of those that have been filled, 96 percent have been Quincy residents. Compare this with the old figure of 84 percent."

"The policy of resident-hiring at the city hospital has been in the same direction during my administration. Of 1237 hospital employees, 60 percent are Quincy residents. Out of some 221 employees hired at the hospital during my administration 82 are Quincy residents."

LaRaia said he expects the residency ordinance would be a boon to business in Quincy.

"The economy of the city depends on the employment of its citizens," he said. "Business is the city, which employs local residents and helps shoulder the tax burden, depends heavily on patronage by residents."

"In recent surveys, up to 70 percent and more of the shoppers in the downtown business district were shown to be Quincy residents. The percentage of residents patronizing the neighborhood shopping areas is, of course, greater."

"Clearly, then, a better level of employment would encourage the economic health of Quincy and strengthen the tax structure of the city government."

The text of the proposed residency ordinance follows:

"Every person first employed by the city of Quincy on or after May 1, 1977, shall be a resident of the city of Quincy, and shall not cease to be a resident of the city of Quincy during his employment by the city. For the purpose of this ordinance, an employee shall be any person receiving monies from the city subject to withholding taxes by the state or federal government."

"All persons promoted by the city on or after June 30, 1977 shall be, or within one year of such promotion become, a resident of the city as defined herein. Failure to do so shall be determined to be a voluntary termination of employment."

"To the extent permitted by Chapter 31 of the General Laws, every examination held to establish a Civil Service list for employment by the city of Quincy shall be restricted to city of Quincy residents."

In the event that this section shall be deemed to be in conflict with a provision of any general or special law, the provision of that general or special law shall govern, and shall not defeat the application of this ordinance with respect to any position not governed by that law."

"If at the request of the Quincy Hospital personnel office the director recommends in writing to the Mayor that the provisions hereof be waived with respect to a particular person or position at the hospital, such recommendation would become effective on written approval by the Mayor. However, such waiver shall not act to defeat the application of this section to every other person or position at the hospital."

In the event that the Mayor with the approval of the City Council determines it to be in the best interest of the public to do so, the provisions hereof may be waived with respect to a particular person or position for any other city department and such waiver shall not act to defeat the application of this section to every other person or position."

obtained by Finn which prevents the Mayor from obtaining certain information from the Police or making assignments in the department.

But LaRaia said the injunction would not prevent him from firing the Chief for "mis-, mal-, or non-feasance in office."

"As long as he complies with my requests, I am restrained from firing him for the reasons he went to court," said the Mayor. He indicated he felt he could dismiss the chief for other reasons.

LaRaia said that "more than likely" he would appeal if the decision in the case of Finn vs. LaRaia went against him.

"But I don't see how I can lose," he said.

"It would be completely contradictory to the city's charter to restrict the Mayor's powers and authority. I can't see any judge ruling contrary to the charter."

READER SPEAKS OUT

Doesn't Think Quincy Is 'Clean'

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

While reading an editorial [letter] in the Quincy Sun, Quincy was referred to as clean.

Evidently this person has not recently been through North Quincy. I'm sure the people in our area of North Quincy would wholeheartedly disagree.

We have a new firm who is doing the rubbish collecting, and not doing a very good job, the proof of which is in the streets.

We have a city run dog pound, they are not doing a very good job, again the proof is in the streets.

We also have somewhere in the city a street cleaner, please come in our area, the proof you haven't been there is in the streets.

I like North Quincy, it's my home. Many other concerned people feel the same, but to tax us at such a rate and overlook us, we do not like.

So, officials, wherever you are, remember North Quincy, it's election year!

City Employees 'Forgotten Men'

John H. Runnalls, president of the Permanent Firemen's Association and chairman of the Salary Adjustment Committee, called city employees "forgotten men, the last to get financial encouragement in boom years but the first to get the axe in lean times."

Runnalls and John J. McDermott, vice chairman, issued a statement in support of their committee's "attempt to seek an adjustment that will enable us to keep our heads above water as the flood of living costs rises."

They cited the case of a woman employee of City Hospital who, until recently, had worked for six years at 30 cents an hour or $12 a week, adding "if she had relinquished her job to go into a defense plant she would have made three times $12 a week."

William M. Edmonston, executive secretary of the Quincy Taxpayers Association, retorted that the city is not in competition with private industry for workers since the city guarantees its employees lifetime jobs.

BANKER FOUND SAFE

A search through New York and New England for Quincy banker and industrialist Arthur H. Alden, 80, was called off when Alden returned safely to his home at 80 Dixwell Ave., Quincy Center.

Alden vanished in Penn Station in New York City while returning with his wife from Miami, Fla., where they had been spending the winter with their daughter.

Alden, who arrived home about three hours before his wife, explained that he had been separated from her in the train station by a long line of soldiers. Each checked into a different hotel. She called police and he fell asleep.

Threatened Lawsuit Delays Myett QHA Confirmation Vote

The shadow of Mrs. Ellen Nieters fell across the City Council again Monday night.

Mayor LaRais submitted the name of Frank A. Myett Jr. for a post on the Housing Authority two weeks after the Council rejected his first choice, Mrs. Nieters, who reacted to the defeat by threatening to sue certain councillors.

Council President Arthur H. Tobin, one of those named by Mrs. Nieters, indicated Monday night that the threat of a lawsuit may delay Council confirmation of Myett. He demanded to know if any suits had been filed.

"I will not act under any shotgun approach of law suits pending over my head on any confirmation on any position in this city," he said.

"Until it is verified to me that there are no law suits pending against this Council I intend to object to any action on any confirmation on any nominee until I have an answer to my request on whether there is any pending legal action.

"I'm not going to sit as a member of this Council and cast my vote and then find out two weeks later that there is some law suit and some judge has enjoined me from making a decision because of some prior action.

"I think we have a right to know. If there are law suits pending, let's go to court and get it over with and if there are no law suits pending I think we should clear the air before we take any action."

Following her rejection by the Council two weeks ago, Mrs. Nieters said she planned to consult her lawyer on the possibility of suing Councillors James A. Sheets, Leo J. Kelly, John J. Quinn and Tobin for discriminating against her because she is a public housing tenant.

Quinn, who is a chairman of the special committee named to review the qualifications of the nominees, assured Tobin that "the air will be cleared before final action is taken on this particular matter."

Quinn set Monday (April 11) at 8:30 p.m. for a hearing into Myett's qualifications.

A screening committee of members of the Harborview Tenants Committee passed on the qualifications of a dozen candidates whose names were submitted to LaRais with recommendations. Mrs. Nieters topped the list. Myett was second.

Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi asked that Quinn's committee also consider reviewing the screening process to see if senior citizens could be included as well as tenants, and "perhaps other people within the city of Quincy."

One of the Council's complaints about the committee screening of Mrs. Nieters was that senior citizens tenants of public housing did not get to vote on her selection.

Councillor Paul D. Harold, the only member of the Council to vote for the Nieters confirmation, said he was prepared to vote favorably on Myett Monday night but agreed to hold his tongue for two weeks.

Councillor Sheets, who voted against Nieters, urged the Council to move swiftly to a vote on Myett.

"I want very much to act on this nomination in two weeks," he said.

Business Council To Discuss ENC, MBTA, Expressway

The Quincy Business Council will meet today (Thursday) at 4 p.m. at the Quincy Savings Bank to discuss, among other things, the implications of the proposed move of Eastern Nazarene College from Wollaston to Philadelphia.

Representatives of Eastern

Nazarene, the Wollaston merchants and the staff of the Planning Department will speak on the issues.

Also on the Council agenda are the MBTA track depression and its meaning for Downtown Quincy development and Quincy's response to reconstruction plans for the Southeast Expressway.

Representatives of the Mayor's office and the City Council have been invited to participate in the MBTA and Southeast Expressway discussions.

Kindergarten Registration To Be Held April 26

Registration for kindergarten for the school year 1977-78 will be held Tuesday, April 26, from 9 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. to 2:30 p.m. at every public elementary school in Quincy for all children who will be five years of age in the calendar year of 1977.

Parents must present a birth certificate at the time of registration and evidence of immunization for D.P.T., measles and polio to comply with State Law, Chapter 590. A child may be admitted to kindergarten if in the opinion of a doctor he is not in a condition to be immunized and issues a certificate indicating this fact.

Appointment will be made on registration day for vision, hearing, and entry screening assessments as required by State Law, Chapter 766.

Children who will be five years of age on or before Dec. 31, 1977 will be eligible for Kindergarten.

Children who will be six years of age on or before Dec. 31, 1977 and who have not attended public kindergarten may be registered for Grade One on the same day.

Sheets, Tobin Bill Would Aid Seniors On SS

Rep. James A. Sheets [D-Quincy] announces his support of a bill that would exclude increases in Social Security payments when the state determines the income of Senior Citizens under the Old Age Assistance Law.

Sheets, who co-sponsored the bill with Sen. Arthur H. Tobin [D-Quincy], said it was designed to prevent small increases given to those on Social Security from being eaten up by decreases in state aid.

"Our seniors must be given a chance to keep up with the ever-increasing cost of living," said Sheets.

"Many times they have been granted a small raise in their monthly Social Security checks only to lose the increase by having the state take away benefits based on the larger payments.

"In most cases our senior citizens are taking one step forward and two steps back."

S&Ls Are Causing A

Revolution In Latin America

By Philip J. Lawrence, President
Colonial Federal Savings
and Loan Association of Quincy, Holbrook & Wareham

8-6 Weekdays

8-7:30 Thursdays

A quiet financial revolution has been going on in recent years in Latin America. Lacking guns and bullets, it has not made the front-page headlines, but its effect on the future of Latin Americans is becoming increasingly significant.

Any U.S. citizen who has traveled in Latin American countries is appalled at the pitifully poor housing conditions he or she encounters. The problem is not only the low per capita income in these countries. It is also the lack of a financial system to provide long-term mortgages for those who can afford them. Many Latin American families are deprived of home ownership just as our families were before the nation's savings and loans came up with a program of amortization.

As recently as 20 years ago, it was virtually impossible for a prospective home buyer in Latin America to obtain a long-term mortgage loan at any cost. Home ownership was out of the reach of most of the population.

It was at this point two decades ago that the revolution began. Savings and loan executives from the United States, in cooperation with the State Department, went to Latin America and explained to its leaders how the savings and loan system works.

Housing finance systems for entire countries were designed and put into operation. For the first time, people were encouraged to save and had an opportunity to get a mortgage for a home.

From zero, the combined assets of the Latin American savings and loan system now total over $8 billion.

It naturally followed that with a housing finance program in place, housing would be built, jobs would be created, and thereby the local economy would be stimulated.

Savings and loan executives, private investors, the U.S. Agency for International Development - all had an important role.

The result has been that 900,000 Latin American families have been able to finance their own homes. Later this month [March 20-24, 1977] the Inter-American Savings and Loan Union will celebrate this achievement at a conference in Washington, D.C., where it will also address the critical housing needs of the next decade throughout the hemisphere. The S&L impact upon Latin America is well appreciated south of the border.

Morrissey Backs Commuter Boat

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey (D-Quincy) plans to commute between his home in North Quincy and the State House by boat - if a planned commuter boat from Boston Harbor Marina gets off the drawing board.

The commuter run from Squantum to a wharf on Northern Ave. in Boston is being planned by Ron Courville, president of Boston Harbor Marina, and Alan Circeo of Waltham, who now runs an excursion boat to Gloucester.

The boat would provide service for some 70 commuters in a single daily round-trip of about 25 minutes during the time the southbound lane of the Southeast Expressway is closed for repairs at the Mass. Ave. exit in Boston.

Questionnaires are to be distributed at the MBTA stations, in North Quincy stores and at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center to determine the times commuters would like to leave Squantum and return from Boston.

The commuter boat would carry bicycles and, said Morrissey, he would ride one from Northern Ave. to the State House a couple of days a week.

MDC Promises To Seek Compromise On Comfort Station Controversy

The MDC has promised to sit down with Quincy officials and try to work out some compromise in the controversy that is raging over the installation of comfort stations in three or four locations on Wollaston Beach.

More than 300 residents of the area and city officials turned out at a recent meeting to express their opposition to the plan. Many were encouraged to attend by flyers passed out by Rep. Michael W. Morrissey (D-Quincy) an opponent.

Morrissey told the MDC he would support a central facility, containing a comfort station, a first aid room plus lifeguard and police facilities on the site of the former Kimberly's Restaurant.

City officials who attended the meeting with MDC people included Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia, Rep. Thomas Brownell (D-Quincy), Sen. Arthur H. Tobin, and City Councillors Dennis E. Harrington, Paul A. Harold and John J. Quinn.

Area residents expressed concern that the proposed comfort stations would add to such problems as parking, speeding on the beach, lower property valuations and overuse of the beach in the immediate area.

A spokesman for the MDC said the commission had an obligation to provide such services to people from the 37 other communities that make up the MDC.

MBTA To Add 400 Parking Spaces In North Quincy

The MBTA is going to add 400 parking spaces on the Newport Ave. side of the North Quincy station to accommodate extra commuters during the time the Southeast Expressway is being repaired, according to Rep. Michael W. Morrissey (D-Quincy).

The parking situation around the station is complicated by the construction of the new addition to North Quincy High School, across Hancock St., which brings in the autos of some 300 construction workers daily.

Steelwork on the school, however, has been virtually at a standstill recently due to a strike of crane operators.

Morrissey To Open N. Q. Office Monday

Since most of his constituents rarely visit the State House, Rep. Michael W. Morrissey (D-Quincy) is going to bring the State House to them.

Morrissey, a freshman state representative - from North Quincy, is opening a local office Monday (April 11) at 69 Billings Rd. at the corner of Vane St. in the Norfolk Downs business area.

"The State House is only 10 miles from North Quincy, but it may as well be 100 miles," said Morrissey. "I want to try to keep the people in my district informed on state matters and be available to them."

He said the office will be open 30 to 40 hours a week, staffed by volunteers, and he himself will be on hand Monday, Wednesday and Friday from 8-10 a.m. and Wednesday from 6-8 p.m.

For those who can't appear personally, the phone number is 328-0900.

Legislative Hearings

On April 15th all committees, except Rules and Ways and Means, must report out all legislation. The pace of committee hearings is really picking up. Last week my committee [Urban Affairs] heard testimony on rent withholding and eviction.

Yesterday, the Committee on Urban Affairs heard testimony on my bill which would direct the M.D.C. to build a police sub-station at the Kimberly's site on Wollaston Beach.

Last week, the Committee on Local Affairs heard testimony on state mandated cost bills, bills filed to help relieve cities and towns of program burdens.

The Bottle Bill was heard before the Committee on Commerce and Labor.

I have received a great deal of correspondence from educators in favor of collective bargaining and fiscal autonomy. I would like to be recorded publicly as being in favor of both issues.

Last Friday was Student Government Day at the State House. Paul Ahearn represented North Quincy High School and spent the day in the role of a State Representative.

Last week, Rep. Frank Hatch of Beverly, proposed two amendments to bills that would have increased education costs for all students at State Colleges and Universities. The Legislature did vote to increase tuition cost for out-of-state students. This was voted on favorably by a large margin. The second amendment would have raised the cost of tuition for all in-state students attending state schools. I took the floor and spoke strongly against any increase. Being a recent graduate of the University of Massachusetts at Amherst I have more insight into costs and tuition. I spoke of the state's obligation to provide all residents with an opportunity for an affordable education. This amendment was defeated by a large margin.

Next Monday, I will open my local office [69 Billings Road]. My office hours for next week will be Monday, Wednesday and Friday morning from 8:00 to 10:00 a.m. and on Wednesday evening [April 13th] from 6 to 8:00 p.m.

Look forward to hearing from you with your ideas and suggestions, or if I can be of any assistance, please don't hesitate to call me at 727-7035 or 328-0900. "HAVE A GOOD DAY"

REMNANTS SAVED FROM the Hancock Meeting House built in colonial times and replaced in 1828 by the First Parish Church are the weathervane removed from the church's steeple, codfish that was attached to the weathervane; a column that supported cupola on church, a picture of Quincy Sq. in 1822, and a book showing lithograph of church in 1828 before it was torn down.

RARE EXHIBIT - United First Parish Church recently put historic communion silver dating from the colonial period of the 1700's on rare public display. Priceless Communion Silver In Rare Exhibit At First Parish Church

By MICHAEL WIGDOR

United First Parish Church in Quincy displayed last week its priceless collection of communion silver to celebrate the laying of the church's cornerstone in 1828.

The 19 pieces date from the colonial period, oldest piece from 1685, and were believed last shown to the public 50 to 60 years ago.

Owen della Lucca, statistician of the Quincy Historical Society, said the collection represents "the finest example of colonial period communion silver service still in the hands of a church in the United States."

Silverware includes four chalice cups, two communion cups, two beakers, three tankards, four pitchers, three plates, and a christening bowl. They were donated by Quincy families from 1685-1828, including the Adams and Quincy families.

Robert Sanderson made the oldest piece, a chalice cup, in 1685, and another chalice cup was made by Thomas Dummer, the first American silversmith.

Artifacts from the colonial period, left over from the Hancock Meeting House which preceded the present church, are still on display.

A weathervane, a metal codfish that was mounted on the weathervane, and a column from the dome of the old church dated from the 1700's-1828. Hancock Meeting House, built on the right of the First Parish Church, was constructed in 1732 and torn down in 1828, when the new church was built, according to della Lucca.

The old church got its name from John Hancock's father who was the first minister. John and Abigail Adams worshipped there, della Lucca said.

The silver collection is safely locked away in the vault of the First Parish Church, and there are no plans for future showings. Other colonial pieces will be on display every Sunday for an indefinite time, della Lucca said.

On Newman Dean's List

Three Quincy residents have been named to the dean's list at Newman Preparatory School, Boston, for the fall semester.

They are James Tucker, 23 Bennington St., South Quincy; Patricia Webb, 27 Surfside Lane, Squantum and Margaret Rogers, 89 Glendale Rd, Quincy Center.

Picard Backs McCauley On School Budget Cut

Joan C. Picard, a candidate for School Committee, has urged serious consideration be given to a motion by School Committeeman Francis X. McCauley that the school budget be slashed by 10 per cent or $300,000.

"The annual school department expenditures are a heavy burden on the shoulders of the already hardpressed taxpayers of Quincy," she said in letters to members of the School Committee.

"Therefore, favorable action by you on this motion would be welcomed news to every hard working taxpayer in our city.

"At the same time, a deduction like this, being general in nature, would permit the School Department administration the flexibility to make downward adjustments in whatever areas they, in their wisdom, would determine."

McCauley's proposal would leave it up to school administrators to make the 10 per cent cut in the $30.5 million budget, which represents an increase of 1.7 per cent over that of the previous year.

Carl Leinonen Awarded $7,000 Watson Fellowship

Carl L. Leinonen of 8 South Junior Terrace, South Quincy, was recently awarded a Thomas J. Watson Foundation fellowship grant of $7,000.

Leinonen, a dean's list student majoring in economics and government, plans to study rural development in Sri Lanka, after his graduation in May.

The Watson Fellowship Program is a national competition which underwrites independent study and travel abroad for recent college graduates. Fellows are selected for their commitment to their particular field of interest and their potential for leadership.

Leinonen was graduated from Quincy High School and has held a Sordna Foundation Undergraduate Research Fellowship during his senior year.

He also has been awarded honorary James Bowdoin Scholarships in recognition of his academic achievements.

Hutchinson In Hockey Coaches Hall Of Fame

Bill Hutchinson, Quincy High faculty manager, last week was inducted into the Mass. State Hockey Coaches Association Hall of Fame at the fifth annual Hall of Fame dinner at the Garden Club, Boston Garden.

Hutchinson, a native of Dorchester, attended North Quincy High and at Northeastern University in 1943 was named to the New England all-star hockey team.

From 1948 to 1951 he was coach of an informal hockey team at Quincy High. Their practices were primarily on pond ice as were many early teams. Finally, in 1953, Quincy began its organized hockey program in the old South Shore League.

Eventually Bill helped form the Metropolitan League, which had Quincy and North Quincy, Revere, Don Bosco, Malden, Columbus, Everett and Chelsea. This league became the Greater Boston League.

During his 12-year coaching career, Bill's teams made the state tournament nine times.

Up until last year, 'Hutch' had also been active in the Eastern Chapter of Ice Hockey Officials. A member since 1956, he was secretary-treasurer from 1966-1976.

'Have fun, enjoy the game and hopefully, if you desire to go to college, be able to use hockey as a means to further your education' is part of what Bill felt the game should be for the players. Two of his sons were excellent college players.

Still active in hockey, Bill is the past commissioner of the Greater Boston League and present commissioner of the Suburban League.

Schiarizzi Wins N.E. AAU Title

Rich Schiarizzi, tri-captain of this year's North Quincy High wrestling team and a first team Suburban League all-star selection, last weekend won the 126-pound championship in the New England AAU meet in Attleboro.

Schiarizzi won five matches, all by decision and all over college wrestlers to qualify for the national championships. His title win came over a member of the R.I. College team, rated No. 1 in New England.

"I believe this is the first time a Quincy or North Quincy High School wrestler has won a New England AAU championship and we are all very proud of Rich," North Coach Vaughn Lovejoy said.

Open Against Rindge

Quincy's On The Way Back

Quincy's track teams have had minimal success since joining the Suburban League, but new coach John Lavery feels "we are on the way back."

The Presidents open their spring season Monday at Veterans Memorial Stadium against Rindge Tech, and, with the largest turnout in years, 45, including an outstanding group of sophomores, Lavery is cautiously optimistic.

"My first aim is to improve on the records of the past few years," he said. "I rate the Suburban League teams in three classes, higher, middle and lower echelons. Quincy has been in the lower echelon and I hope to at least move up to the middle echelon this year."

Lavery is Lou Tozzi's assistant at North Quincy last year but was Quincy's head coach this winter and formerly was head coach at St. Mary's of Lynn.

Lavery is enthusiastic about two sophomores, Vin Lorenzano and Peter Griffin, who will run the sprints and also be in one of the jumping events.

"Both are outstanding prospects," the Presidents' coach said. "They will definitely compete in two events and I am looking for several other dual event performers. They can really help you by competing in more than one event."

Heading the distance runners are John Saville, one of the best two-milers in the state. Lavery refers to Ken MacPhee as "a real sleeper." He never ran before last December, but was outstanding indoors. Another tremendous distance runner is Capt. Don Jones, who has received a scholarship to MIT. Another hopeful is Billy Mahoney.

In the middle distances, Lavery has Paul Ladas, Steve Kane and Jimmy Oriola, all fine runners.

There are several good sprinters, including Griffin and Lorenzano, John Golub, Mark Buchanan, John Milani and Steve Cacciatore.

Tim McHugo, Tod Catfish and

Billy Shea will take care of the hurdles.

Lavery expects to be strong in the jumping events, the high jump, long jump and triple jump. Buchanan high jumped for the first time this winter, and developed into one of the best in the league. Other good jumpers are Ladas, Lorenzano, Griffin and Golub.

Kevin Zambruno is excellent in the javelin and Danny Eaton has come along well.

Vin "Bunky" Harte, Ray Alongi and Randy Nord are the hopes in the shot put and in the discus John Carloni, Jim LaHive, Mel Nourse, John Nichols and Bob Cross will compete.

There are no experienced pole vaulters and the top prospect is sophomore Dennis Campbell, who cleared nine feet the first day of practice.

Lavery paid tribute to his assistant coach, Billy Maver, a former President himself and an assistant coach in football. "Billy is doing an outstanding job for us," Lavery said.

Big Shoes To Fill

North Opens Title Defense Against Waltham

By TOM SULLIVAN

North Quincy's track team, defending state Class B champion and runnerup to New Bedford in the All-State meet, opens its season Tuesday against Waltham at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

Coach Lou Tozzi, whose spring teams have a 31-10 record in his three years, expects a "fairly successful year" and has some big shoes to fill. Five graduated stars, Brian Doherty, Matt Constantino, Dave Lorman, Bart Petracca and Pete Hemphill, scored 47 points in last year's state meet. Last spring's team was 8-3.

Tozzi's Raiders have won four of the last five state meets, one in cross country, two in winter track and one in spring track.

"We have no locker room and must use the Veterans Stadium facility exclusively," Tozzi said. "But our kids don't let our lack of facilities act as an excuse. They know the reason for losing is a lack of hard work and a poor attitude. We expect to be one of the smallest squads but, with our usual pride, positive attitude and outstanding leadership from our nine seniors, we expect a fairly successful season."

There are 41 out for the team and for sprinters Tozzi has senior Matty King, a three-year veteran who ran on relay team which placed second in the winter state meet; sophomore Tim O'Neill, who led the scorers indoors; junior John Powell, a veteran, and junior Russ Chisholm, who will run the 100 and relay.

North looks strong in the middle distances with a large group of candidates led by senior Jerry MacKenzie, state Class C 1000 champ indoors and holder of the school record in the 440 (51.3). He will run the half-mile and will anchor the relay team. Tozzi expects him to hit about 1:57 in the half-mile.

Senior Rich Kennedy is a superb competitor who ran on the indoor relay team; senior John O'Donnell is a veteran of winter track; sophomore Dan McIntyre is a tremendous prospect and a hard worker, and senior Billy White, juniors Pete Regele and Brian Balzarini and sophomore Mike Edwards are other good prospects.

The Raiders should be outstanding in the distance runs. Senior Bobby Levenson, the team leader and a tough competitor, ran second in the state Class C mile indoors, ran 4:31.7 last spring and Tozzi is looking for a 4:25 this spring.

Bobby's brother, Marty, also a senior, is trying to come back from an injury. He missed the entire winter season but ran a 9:36 two-mile last spring, was third in Class B and sixth in the All-State meet.

Senior Mike Morin, the state indoor two-mile champion at 9:43, is an extremely hard worker with, in Tozzi's words, "The type of attitude we want in all our kids."

Other fine distance prospects are juniors Mike Barrett (9:56 two-miler indoors) and John Ricciuto and sophomores Paul McCormick and Bill Murphy.

Senior Dan Cuddy, a veteran, and sophomore Bob Ferrara, who did 5-11 indoors, holds the Raiders' hopes in the high jump; O'Neill, King, Powell and junior Tom Kane are the long jumpers, and Kennedy, Jim Conboy, John Hernon and McIntyre are the triple jumpers. Tozzi lost his best long jumper, Rick Smith, through an injury.

Cuddy and Ferrara are the hopes in the high hurdles and veterans Tom Burke and Mike Dawson, both juniors, will take care of the lows.

In the pole vault Tozzi has Steve "Beaver" Bonoli, three-year veteran who holds the school record at 12 feet, Brian Hewitt a fine looking sophomore, and Burke.

The shot putters are juniors Mike Larsen, much improved, and Mike Colby and sophs Ted Koberski, Paul McNamara and Pat McKenna.

Mike Gallagher, who has done 49 feet in the shot but specializes in the discus, threw 128 feet last year as a soph and is expected to hit 145 feet this spring. He is joined by Paul Ahern, veteran

Jim Frye and Mark Robinson.

Jim "Rocky" Hanrahan, who threw 160 feet as a sophomore, is expected to be one of the best in the league in the javelin.

Other hopes are Jim Mackiewicz, Fran McLaughlin and Chisholm.

Tozzi had words of praise for his assistant coach, George Liset, former Weymouth North great, who is handling the throwing events.

The North skipper picks Newton, Brockton and Weymouth South in that order in the league and also sees Rindge and Quincy as much improved.

Brett Club Moves Up With Sweep

The Joseph Brett Club continued its long uphill climb and moved to within one point of the league-leading Quincy Lodge of Elks in the Quincy Bowling Little Loop with a 4-0 sweep over the Harold Club.

The Elks were held to a 2-2 tie by Hennessy Plumbing Supply.

With only four weeks remaining, Saturday's Brett-Elks match could be the most important of the year.

The James R. McIntyre Club held on to third place with a 2-2 tie with the Harold Davis Club and Granite Lodge 1451 moved into fourth place with a 4-0 win over Hutchinson Fuel Oil.

Other results: Bryan Post VFW 3, Montclair Men's Club 1 (Tommy Bulger was high with a 339); Atty. George Burke Club 4, Dick Morrissey Club 0; Atlantic Fuel Oil 3, Wollaston Bowldrome 1.

Burke Would Hike Lottery Withholding Limit

A boost to Massachusetts State Lottery Numbers Game players has been provided by Congressman James A. Burke who is attempting to hike the withholding limit on Numbers Game winning bets.

Burke told a Congressional hearing studying changes in the federal tax laws that a $1,000 withholding limit on the Numbers Game was a mistake and is unfair to state lotteries. Lottery Director Dr. William E. Perrault praised Burke's effort to boost that withholding limit to $5,000.

The problem arose in the Tax Reform Act of 1976 in a provision imposing a $1,000 withholding base on all pari-mutuel wagering. That was intended to apply to horse and dog racing and jai-alai. But Massachusetts and New Jersey numbers games are run on a pari-mutuel prize payout and consequently were included in that portion of the law.

Other forms of Lottery games are exempt from federal withholding up to $5,000 and Burke has succeeded in amending the proposed changes to increase the withholding limit on numbers games to the $5,000 allowed for other Lottery games. The measure has been approved by a House committee and awaits a House vote.

Perrault said, "Rep. Burke's action will be good news to all Numbers Game players."

WHICH CLOSING COSTS DEDUCTIBLE?

Expenses connected with the sale of real estate over and above the selling price are known as closing costs. Some of these are deductible from your income tax - others are not.

Property taxes are usually prorated so that both the buyer and seller each pay the taxes for the portion of the year that each owned the property. Each may deduct this amount - and only this amount - even though one or the other pays the entire amount.

Another deductible item that appears in closing costs, is interest charged to you on the mortgage up to the date of closing. Also deductible as interest is the amount charged as points provided they are charged as a premium for the loan of the money, - not when charged for services.

Non-deductible closing expenses are fire insurance, FHA mortgage insurance, and charges for rent for occupancy before closing.

Board Of Realtors Urges

Buy Home Now-- Don't Wait For That 'Dream House'

Buy a home now; don't wait until you can afford that "dream house," says the Quincy and South Shore Board of Realtors.

The board cautions that every year that passes costs the prospective buyer money in lost equity, increased cost of the home and possibly in a higher interest rate.

Buy a home now; don't continue to pay rent when you could be paying yourself, advises the Quincy and South Shore Board of Realtors.

When you pay rent, you're helping to pay the landlord's property taxes, income taxes and other costs. If you own a home, you build equity and property taxes you pay are a legitimate income tax deduction. So is interest paid on the mortgage.

Here's how to prepare your home for sale, according to the National Association of Realtors: Cut the grass and manicure trees and shrubs; invest in a coat of paint for parts of the home that need it most, particularly the kitchen and bathrooms, and repair all loose doorknobs and leaky faucets. Best selling point is a neat appearance of the interior.

Those who like apartment living as a way of life but who also can see the advantages of home ownership, should consider condominiums as a happy alternative to both, says the Quincy and South Shore Board of Realtors. The condo owner doesn't have to worry about maintenance, but he still owns his unit and a share in other development facilities.

NATIONAL AWARD - Norfolk County received the nationally acclaimed New County Achievement Award from the National Association of Counties in Washington, D.C. for the computerized Land Inventory compiled by the South Shore Chamber of Commerce in cooperation with the Norfolk County Development and Tourism Council. From the left are John J. Pohlmeier, executive assistant to the County Commissioners, Commissioner James J. Collins, John P. Thomas of the N.A.C.O., and John J. Sullivan, Jr., director of Norfolk County Operations.

10-Year No Tax Status Sought To Ease Acquiring Industrial Land

The South Shore Economic Development Corporation, an affiliate of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, has proposed legislation that would enable it to acquire available industrially zoned land and own the property under a no-tax status for a limited period of time.

Walter J. Hannon, executive director of the corporation, has scheduled appearances before selectmen of South Shore communities to explain provisions of the bill and give assurance that the corporation would not go forward with any proposal until selectmen are made aware of the move.

Under provisions of the measure, the corporation would be able to own real property which will not be subject to taxation by the city or town in which it is located until 10 years from the date of its acquisition.

Or, until such property is leased, rented, or otherwise disposed of, whichever is first.

Purpose of seeking the no-tax status is retention and expansion of job opportunities in the South Shore area and to increase the tax base of the city or town, by attracting new industries and aiding existing ones to expand.

The plan already has been used in the Springfield and Worcester areas, in Fitchburg, Pittsfield, Haverhill and the Fall River-Blackstone Valley area.

In Springfield, the Memorial Industrial Park was developed, with the result that the yearly tax yield from the property rose from $80,000 to $412,000. Also, more than 4,400 jobs were created or retained because of the use of the no-tax status.

In the East Longmeadow Industrial Park, the yearly tax yield will be $350,000 instead of $90,000. At the same time, more than 3,000 jobs were created or retained.

Hannon says the South Shore Economic Development Corporation has an excellent track record in service to South Shore communities, especially in aid to small business firms through use of Small Business Administration loans, in retention of jobs in the area and in the creation of new job opportunities.

He said that the corporation, in utilizing the no-tax status, would not be trying to compete with private industrial development. He pointed out that private developers already have benefitted greatly through efforts of the corporation.

The Economic Development Corporation now is studying a new program, with the intention of taking part in it. This one concerns of rehabilitation of existing buildings.

Solar Energy Breakthrough

A survey of industry leaders in the solar energy field, conducted by the National Association of Realtors, indicates that the industry is on the verge of breakthroughs that would mean less expensive and more efficient solar energy equipment by 1980. Industry aim, the survey reveals, is for equipment to pay for itself in utility savings in seven years or less.

Votes Support

Council Commits City To $500,000 For MBTA Tracks Depression

The City Council has gone on record in support of a depressed MBTA track through downtown Quincy to the extent of committing the city to $500,000 to further the plans, which apparently now have the reluctant MBTA's approval.

The resolution favoring depression was introduced by Council President Arthur H. Tobin and Councilor James A. Sheets and passed the Council unanimously.

Sheets said $90,000 would be "up front money for engineering and construction plans and the balance would go for demolition of the old railroad walls for 1,800 feet and reconstruction of supporting walls that will support building over the track."

"The next step," said Sheets, "is for representatives of the city to sit down with Transportation Secretary Frederick P. Salucci and MBTA Director Robert Kiley and sign a general agreement."

"I hope it will take place in the next week."

If the depression cannot be finished by an August, 1978, deadline, it may be in trouble.

Gov. Michael Dukakis said last week he is so strongly committed to completion of the MBTA's Red Line beyond Quincy Center that he "cannot and will not allow the deadline to be extended."

The Governor told some 350 members and guests at a South Shore Chamber of Commerce luncheon last week, that the matter is becoming more urgent as each day passes and that there can be no delays.

However, he was less positive on whether he and other state officials have fully adopted the concept of a continued depression of the tracks after they emerge from the Quincy Center station.

"I can't say that depression of the Red Line can be announced at the present time," he said.

On March 16, Charles Pearce, Chamber president, and Chamber Community Development Group vice president Andrew Walsh, led a delegation of members, legislators, civic, business and union leaders to the Governor's office in an effort to enlist his support for the idea that would unite two important downtown areas.

At the luncheon, Dukakis touched briefly on other transportation issues affecting the South Shore, both in response to questions from the audience.

On the Southwest Corridor project, he asserted positively that it would not be a highway, that it would be a "first rate transit system and a first rate development operation."

Dukakis said the Southwest Corridor would be an extension and relocation of the MBTA's Orange Line, and he described it as a demonstration that such a project can enhance economic development and create jobs.

On the question of whether the T line between Quincy and Boston was prepared for additional passengers when reconstruction work on the Southeast Expressway begins, he said, "Yes, we are ready," and called on the MBTA's chief executive officer, Robert Kiley to fill in the details.

"I can say with confidence that service will be improved and adequate to the situation," Kiley said. "We plan to add 15 to 20 percent to the Red Line."

He acknowledged that the T had experienced trouble with the new "Silverbirds." "They weren't put together too good," he said, "but we're still working on them and expect them back in service soon."

In a related matter state Transportation Secretary Fred Salucci told the audience his department wants to replace the Fore River Bridge with one possessing a broader span so that larger tankers can go in and out. However, he said the bridge is considered to be in good condition and not eligible for federal funds.

"We want to get the present environmental impact study out of the way," Salucci explained, "and then seek other funding sources."

In his preliminary remarks, Dukakis credited his administration for closing the unemployment gap between Massachusetts and the nation. He said the latest figures show that just two years, not only has the gap been closed but the state is a full percentage point above the national average.

The governor praised the Chamber for being the "focal point" of a mass effort of hardworking state officials business and labor leaders at the local level. "Nearly every piece of legislation I've sent the Legislature on economic development has been passed," he said.

Dukakis singled out state Senator Allan R. McKinnon of Weymouth for playing a major role over the last two years in developing new methods to help expand business growth opportunities on the South Shore.

He criticized the Sargent administration for "burdening Massachusetts' cities and towns with programs they could not afford." But, in the last two years, he said, the Legislature hasn't passed a single bill forcing communities to pay for programs for which they had no money.

He said he is working with the legislature now on a "drastic revision of the machinery by which state funds are distributed." By tightening up the definitions of such poorly-planned bills as the '76 legislation, he added Massachusetts will be eligible for $60 million in additional federal funds.

Asked about President Carter's recent visit to Clinton, Dukakis said he thought the fact the President chose Massachusetts "so deliberately" was significant.

"It was perhaps because of the support he got here. I think it also was a reflection of his concern for older, urban-industrial states and the Northeast in general," said Dukakis.

Sheets Surveying 'Needs List' For Senior Citizens

Volunteers from the office of Rep. James A. Sheets (D-Quincy) are going door to door in the Wollaston and Montclair sections this week in an effort to develop a survey that will establish a "needs list" for senior citizens.

"Quincy has done a lot for its senior citizens," said Sheets, "but it appears that those who have always lived and brought up their families in Quincy are now faced with many problems of which we might be unaware.

"The thing that bothers me the most," said Sheets, "is that they worked so hard all their lives, and now when they ought to be able to relax and enjoy their community, they can't afford to live here."

Sheets is in the process of contacting every senior in his district, giving them packets of information on a variety of topics ranging from Social Security to nutrition, in hopes of answering some of the questions and helping to alleviate some of the problems.

He said he is working with the Council on Aging and R.S.V.P. to develop a survey that will help to establish the "needs list."

"It is my hope," said Sheets, "that we can eventually contact every senior and supply answers to any problem they may have."

Visit Quincy Sun

Cub Scouts in Den 5, Pack 2 from St. Agatha's Church in Milton visited the Quincy Sun recently to view the workings of a newspaper firsthand.

The scouts, accompanied by den mothers Dorothy Fraser and Patricia Foley included Frederick Bortolotti, Thomas Foley, Paul Fraser, Michael Murphy, Mark Porzio and David Usher.

Cheryl Fraser, Sheila Sullivan and Joseph Foley also accompanied the scouts as guests.

The boys first visited the editorial and advertising departments of The Quincy Sun.

Then they toured the production department where they saw a story of their visit set into type on an IBM computer typesetting system. They saw news headlines set on a Compugraphic 7200 photo typesetting machine. They also saw newstories being set on the CompuWriter Junior.

The scouts watched a pasteup artist fix the story and headline into proper position on paste-up boards.

The scouts watched a photograph being reduced and screened for publication using an Afga Gevaert Repromaster camera in the Sun's camera department.

After a brief explanation of how The Quincy Sun is printed, the boys asked questions about what they had seen on their tour.

Before leaving the office, each scout received a complimentary copy of The Quincy Sun.

Finance Committee Tackles Budget Saturday

city treasury.

"Last year's City Council-authorized budget was $77.2 million. There was a difference of $4.5 million between this year's budget as presented to you and the budget you adopted last year.

"That $4.5 million, although it may sound ominous, really is offset by the fact that last year's $77.2 million was increased by $4 million of the deficit from the previous year.

"So basically the expenses that we expect to meet during the next 12 months as represented in the budget presented to you does not in itself represent much if any increase to Quincy citizenry.

"Again, the impact will not be known until all other cost of living increases are sent to you in a supplementary budget and my office in June becomes aware of the revenues that will be used to offset any impact of this cost.

"The significant increase in the budget is my agreeing to provide an additional nine firefighters.

"You recall the previous year the fire chief asked for 21 and received none and this year he asked for 13 and the Mayor's office has agreed to go along with nine.

"The Germantown Fire Station, as you know, has never been fully complemented with the necessary staff since it went into operation over two years ago.

"Our commitments in contract negotiations with firefighters require us to have sufficient manpower to meet the minimum manpower requirements.

"We have been utilizing firefighters on an overtime basis and it has been costly. We're trying to offset that high cost by supporting the need for the firefighters mentioned here."

LaRaia noted that his administration has "cut 18 existing jobs and we've replaced them with the firefighters and others but the overall increase has been a total of one position."

"The budget," the Mayor went on, "represents our 12-month commitments adequately. In doing so it would prevent any abnormal drain of other resources yet unknown and any abnormal drain on taxes to the citizenry of Quincy.

"We have to bear in mind this year there is no appreciable business valuation increase or other valuation increase.

"There are many plans on the drawing boards that hopefully will reach fruition very shortly but we will not benefit from the increased valuations at this time.

"There is no appreciable increase in city revenue. Hopefully, the activity in the Legislature may eventually provide more state funds, perhaps even for this year's cost of doing business."

The Council has, by statute, 45 days during which to review the budget, make whatever cuts it deems necessary, and return it to the Mayor.

For the purpose of this ordinance, an employee shall be any person receiving monies from the city subject to withholding taxes by the state or federal government.

All persons promoted by the city on or after June 30, 1977 shall be, or within one year of such promotion become, a resident of the city as defined herein. Failure to do so shall be determined to be a voluntary termination of employment.

To the extent permitted by Chapter 31 of the General Laws, every examination held to establish a Civil Service list for employment by the City of Quincy shall be restricted to City of Quincy residents.

In the event that this section shall be deemed to be in conflict with a provision of any general or special law, the provision of that general or special law shall govern, and shall not defeat the application of this ordinance with respect to any position not governed by that law.

If at the request of the Quincy Hospital personnel office the director recommends in writing to the Mayor that the provisions hereof be waived with respect to a particular person or position at the hospital, such recommendation would become effective on written approval by the Mayor. However, such a waiver shall not act to defeat the application of this section to every other person or position at the hospital.

In the event that the Mayor with the approval of the City Council determines it to be in the best interest of the public to do so, the provisions hereof may be waived with respect to a particular person or position for any other city department and such waiver shall not act to defeat the application of this section to every other person or position.

In construing this ordinance, residence shall be the actual principal residence of the individual, where he or she normally eats and sleeps and maintains his or her normal personal and household effects. This ordinance shall be deemed to effect both Civil Service and non-Civil Service employees of the city.

Special Committee Meets Saturday

Council Looks Into Taking Over QHA Appointing Power

A special committee of the City Council will meet Saturday at 8:30 a.m. to discuss a recommendation that would, in effect, make the Council itself the appointing authority for members to the Quincy Housing Authority.

It is yet another chapter in the continuing struggle between the Mayor and the City Council for control of the QHA that has seen one mayoral appointee, Mrs. Ellen Nieters, rejected by the Council and another, Frank Myett Jr., virtually ignored.

The recommendation to be considered Saturday sprang from the investigations of a Council subcommittee, chaired by Councillor Daniel G. Raymond and including Councillors Dennis E. Harrington and John J. Lydon Jr.

It would set up a screening committee of nine members to examine the qualifications of applicants for posts on the Housing Authority and make recommendations to the Mayor.

Six of the nine members would be appointed by the Council, one by the Harborview Residents' Committee, one by Senior Citizens organizations and the chairman by the Mayor.

It was a screening committee composed entirely of members of the Harborview Residents' Committee, the citywide tenants' group, that recommended first Mrs. Nieters and then Myett to the Mayor for appointment.

Some Councillors, particularly Raymond, were incensed that the screening process did not include senior citizen residents of public housing as voting participants.

The Council voted 8-1 that "Ellen Nieters ought not to be confirmed and the process be referred back to the Mayor for review in order to establish a better screening process."

The report of the Raymond subcommittee noted that "the senior citizen population of the city of Quincy both within and outside public housing was excluded in the screening

Milton's 'Temporary Loss'

Business Center Area Seen In Healthy Condition

By TOM HENSHAW

Downtown Quincy businessmen have reacted swiftly and positively to the news that Milton's, one of the leading men's clothing stores, was moving from Hancock St. to South Shore Plaza, Braintree, after 30 years in Quincy Center.

A task force, headed by Robert Colman, of Colman's Sporting Goods, was named to help find a quality retail operation to replace the departing Milton's at 1487 Hancock St. The Colman group meets today [Thursday] at 4 p.m. for the first time.

Meanwhile, factfinders moved quickly to scotch rumors that Sears Roebuck, one of the bellwether stores of downtown Quincy, was on the verge of vacating its huge store at 1591 Hancock St.

"Absolutely untrue," said a spokesman for Edward Brennan, Sears' group manager in Natick.

One by one, merchants and other officials rose to reaffirm their faith in both the present and future of downtown Quincy.

"Of course, I'm sorry to see Milton's go," said Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia. "But I see no real cause for alarm. Quincy still has a solid base. I don't think the city has ever been any better from a retail point of view."

"I'm sure the loss of Milton's will only be temporary," said Frank Remick, owner of another bellwether store, Remick's of Quincy. "I feel that the viability of downtown Quincy is still strong and the vacancy will be filled almost at once."

"I'm not concerned about the future. I know from my own experience that Downtown Quincy is stronger than ever."

"It doesn't stun me," said Eric Swider, executive vice president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce. "Milton's is a high quality, high priced clothing store and, as such, is faced with a shrinking market in Quincy."

Swider pointed out that the Gladstone Report, a survey of the economic future of Quincy made in 1973, said that the city's future "lies in popular priced retail stores. People who

Ambulance Service License For Fire Department Approved

Senator Arthur Tobin's office announces that the Office of Emergency Medical Services of the state Department of Public Health has approved an ambulance service license for the Quincy Fire Department.

The granting of the license to the Fire Department "will improve significantly the overall quality of pre-hospital emergency medical care available to the people in the City of Quincy," Tobin said.

No Inside Track But--

General Dynamics Hopes To Get '5 Or 6' New Destroyers

By MICHAEL WIGDOR

Quincy shipbuilding division of General Dynamics will bid on a Navy contract to build new DDG-47 guided missile destroyers after plans for the design and analysis of the first destroyer, awarded in a $1 million naval contract, are completed in 10 or 11 months.

"We are hoping for five or six of the ships," said Alex Piranian, public relations director.

Quincy Shipyard does not have the inside track on getting the Navy contract as similar design contracts have been given to Bath Iron Works of Maine and Litton Industries of Mississippi.

The Navy has requested a budget of $970 million for the design and construction of the lead ship, which would displace 7,800 tons, more than three times [2100 tons] the size of World War II destroyers.

Constructing a "portion" of the 16 planned destroyers would add 200 to 300 workers to the shipyard's annual payroll of $60 million for its current force of 5,000 workers.

The shipyard's employees are primarily drawn from Quincy, Weymouth, Braintree, and other nearby communities.

Presently, their efforts are directed towards production of 12 LNG [Liquefied Natural Gas] tankers, which total $1 billion in contracts with private companies.

Ten tankers are leased to American affiliates of Burmah Oil Co., a British based firm, and two tankers will be owned and operated

Approve Brownell Bill To Prevent Quincy Bay Filling

The Massachusetts House of Representatives has approved a bill, sponsored by Rep. Thomas F. Brownell [D-Quincy], that would prevent the filling of 28 acres of Quincy Bay in order to make the Nut Island Sewerage Treatment Plant a secondary treatment facility.

Brownell said the intent of the bill is to force the Environmental Protective Agency to focus on Deer Island, site of the current Suffolk County House of Correction, as the location of the secondary plant.

A bill is now before the U.S. Congress calling for the abandonment of the Deer Island jail and rebuilding it with federal wastewater treatment funds on a location near Government Center in downtown Boston.

"I am very optimistic," said Brownell, "with the help of Sen. Arthur H. Tobin [D-Quincy], who I know is very much in favor of the bill, that the Senate will give the bill speedy approval."

'Family Tradition' Scholarship Presented To QJC By Dr., Mrs. Lawrence Creedon

School Supt. and Mrs. Lawrence P. Creedon have established a "family tradition" scholarship at Quincy Junior College in honor of Dr. Creedon's parents, the late Deputy Fire Chief and Mrs. Peter J. Creedon.

Deputy Chief Creedon, then a Navy lieutenant, died of a heart attack during World War II while rescuing a sailor from a fire, leaving his wife, Mabel, with six children, five of them in Quincy public schools.

Mrs. Barbara Creedon said it is hoped that two scholarships will be awarded each year, one to a graduate of North Quincy High School and the other to a graduate of Quincy High and Quincy Vocational Technical School.

They will go to youngsters who plan to enter Quincy Junior College to pursue careers in public service, particularly fire fighting, food services or public education.

Former Mayor and Sen. James R. McIntyre, chairman of QJC, accepted the scholarship, commenting that the backbone of any community is made up of families who devote their talents to making their home towns a better place in which to live.

He cited the Creedon family, with its long record of public service, as such a family and the scholarship as an encouragement for others to do the same.

The Creedon family has been closely linked with municipal service to Quincy for more than 75 years, mostly with the Fire Department, starting with Dr. Creedon's grandfather. Two of his cousins are now firefighters.

The first Creedon arrived in the United States from Ireland in 1853, settling in Quincy. The family has lived in Quincy ever since, making it one of the city's oldest families with continued residence.

Dr. Creedon's brother, Eugene W. Creedon, principal of the Francis W. Parker School in North Quincy, lives with his family on the same street on which the first Creedon made his home.

Dr. and Mrs. Creedon's two children attended Quincy schools. Paul, an all-scholastic quarterback, was graduated in 1973 while a daughter, Andrea, is a member of the junior class.

Dr. Creedon's father was a graduate of the Mass Maritime Academy and a veteran of World War I when he volunteered for the Navy in World War II at the age of 45 and was commissioned a lieutenant.

After his death, his wife, Mabel, raised five boys and a girl, then joined the staff of the Quincy public schools and served as head cook at North Quincy High School. She died in 1973 at the age of 75.

Priceless First Parish Church Communion Silver Kept In Bank Vault

The priceless historic communion silver of United First Parish Church is kept safely in a bank vault.

It was incorrectly reported in last week's Quincy Sun that the 19 pieces recently displayed publicly were locked in a vault in the church.

Only unimportant papers are kept in the church, and nothing of value is kept on the church premises.

Colonial pieces from the earlier church, the Hancock Meeting House, will be kept on display through June 11, the anniversary of laying of the cornerstone of the present church.

The remnants are part of a three part lecture series by William Flavin, church historian, on church architecture. For more information on lectures, call United First Parish Church at 773-1290.

Lydon Launches Survey

How Do You Feel Things Are Going In Quincy?

Questionnaires will be going out in a couple of weeks to about 1,000 residents of Ward 3, selected at random, in an effort to learn how they feel things are going in the city of Quincy.

The survey is being taken at the behest of Ward 3 City Councillor John J. Lydon Jr. by Cooperative Extension, and educational service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture and the University of Massachusetts.

It will cost Quincy nothing. Cooperative Extension Service took a similar survey recently in the town of Dartmouth, said Lydon, and the results were considered very beneficial by the town's selectmen.

"I sit up there on the City Council on a two year basis and listen to the people in my ward," said Lydon. "But a lot of people just don't speak up. This will be a useful tool to help me hear them."

The questions to be asked cover such general subjects as safety services, recreation, environment, government, traffic and transportation, health services, housing, education and "community attitude."

For instance, under safety services, the person being surveyed will be asked to check the quality of police services: Adequate? Barely adequate? Inadequate? Don't know?

Under "community attitude", they will be asked if they feel that Quincy is progressive, regressive or whether it holds the line.

Those surveyed will not be identified by name but the questionnaire wants to know sex, age, education, employment status, income in general categories, residency and length of residency in Quincy.

Lydon said those chosen for the survey will be notified by mail Friday [April 15] with the questionnaire following in a couple of weeks. Results should be made public by the middle of June, he said.

"If it works out well," he said, "Cooperative Extension is willing to work with the city to compile data on more specific issues, such as growth policy, downtown development, even the Nut Island Treatment Plant."

"Even though this particular survey is limited to Ward 3, it is the largest ward in the city in area and highly diversified so that the results should be of interest to everyone in Quincy."

Aug. 1 Deadline For MBTA

Tracks Depression Design

Mayor LaRaia's task force on the MBTA has approved the concept of depressing the tracks through Quincy Center but the Mayor himself has given no indication when he will sign the agreement officially committing the city to it.

"If he doesn't sign soon we're going to run out of time," said City Councillor James A. Sheets.

The city must have the design of the depression completed before Aug. 1 in order to prevent delays in construction of the MBTA extension to Braintree which is scheduled to open in 1979.

The agreement has to be signed by Mayor LaRaia, City Council President Arthur H. Tobin, Transportation Secretary Fred Salvucci and MBTA Director Robert Kiley. The Mayor has said he favors the depression.

The City Council has voted $500,000 in city funds for design costs, demolition of old walls and construction of new walls that will support buildings up to three stories.

The depression of the tracks would enable two sections of downtown Quincy — the Parkingway and the Grossman area on Granite St. — to be joined.

The extortion trial of suspended Public Works Commissioner Vincent LoCicero and Herbert Reppucci, assistant director of RSVF, scheduled to open last Monday in Federal

'Putting A Roof Over Your Head'

Women's Commission Workshop Topic

"Putting a Roof Over Your Head", a workshop featuring Jean Kelleher, mortgage originator at the Quincy Cooperative Bank and Elouise Troup, Elouise Troup Realty, Braintree, was scheduled to be held Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Adams Shore Public Library, Sea St.

The fourth in a monthly series sponsored by the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women and the Quincy Cooperative Bank, the program focuses on what to look for when purchasing a home and how to obtain a mortgage.

"Taking on a mortgage is one of the biggest financial decisions people make in their lives," said Miss Kelleher. "Today we are faced with historically high rents and record high home purchasing and building costs. Through this workshop we hope to provide information that will help potential homeowners build their confidence in shopping for a home and buying wisely."

Miss Kelleher, who has worked in the banking field over four years and has recently completed building her own home, will discuss such subjects as interest rates, down payments, tax escrow accounts, mortgage terms and the costs of obtaining a mortgage. What types of mortgages exist and how much mortgage a family can realistically afford will also be discussed. The potential pitfalls of building your own home will also be examined.

Speaking on the real estate aspects of homeownership will be Elouise Troup, a Realtor and appraiser, who has been in the real estate business for over 25 years and is a past president of the South Shore Board of Realtors. She will focus on how to select and choose a home that you can afford and meets your family's needs. Issues such as how to assess a neighborhood, how to look for a home, and the pros and cons of buying a home in today's economy will be discussed. A checklist of factors which should be considered when buying a home such as property values, taxes, condition of structure, schools, convenience, utility costs, etc. will be explored.

"A recent study by the Urban Studies Center at MIT showed that only one in four families can now afford to achieve the American dream of owning a home," stated Elizabeth Van Twuyver, chairwoman of the Women and Money Task Force of the Women's Commission. "At this workshop we hope to present facts which will make it easier for people to enter the marketplace."

The program is free and open to the public.

HOW SERIOUS IS SNAKEBITE?

A snake bite isn't very serious at all if the snake isn't poisonous. And even a bite by a poisonous snake isn't necessarily fatal.

How many people are bitten by snakes each year? The last study made was in 1960. That year, there were 6,600 poisonous snake bites. Of that total, according to the U.S. Public Health Service, only 14 deaths were attributed to the poisonous bites.

But that doesn't mean you can ignore a snake bite. It's not always obvious that a snake is poisonous. If it is, your life is in danger. Here are some tips to help prevent snake bites:

Familiarize yourself with the dangerous snakes in any area you plan to visit. Wear knee-high, heavy boots in snake country...Wear your pants loose, outside your boots. The snake may strike your floppy pants instead of your legs... Never put your hands or feet any place you can't see. Snakes love to sun themselves on warm, sunny ledges...If you really fear snake bites, move to Alaska or Hawaii. Neither state has any venomous snakes.

Animal Protection Group To Meet April 18

Animal Protection and Welfare, Inc., will meet Monday, April 18, at 7 p.m. in the Adams Shore Library, Sea St.

Meetings are open to the public. For more information call 335-5851 or write P. O. Box 307, Quincy, 02169

WHY WE SELL PUCH.

It's made in Austria. The way they make things over there.

It has two chains instead of one. Means easier pedaling and easier starting than single-chain mopeds.

The Puch engine. Famous. Built for easy starting. Easy running. Incredibly durable. A legend in the Moped biz. 5. Four-coil magneto. Means easier starting.

A tuned muffler for maximum efficiency, instead of the "tin can" mufflers used on some other mopeds.

Warranty backed by Steyr Daimler Puch of America Corp., the U.S. arm of the European factory.

Experience. Puch built their first moped in 1903. The company's been around for more than 100 years. By now they ought to know how to build the best.

The way it's built makes it more fun. Cause you spend your time riding it, not bringing it back to us for service.

And a lot of other reasons we'll give you when you come in for a test ride.

PUCH.

MAXIMUM
MOPED.

In Limbo For A While

ENC Doesn't Really Want To Leave Quincy, But ---

Eastern Nazarene College doesn't really want to leave Quincy.

That was the impression left by Donald Young, academic dean, and Robert Bollinger, vice president for financial affairs, during a presentation of the school's economic and demographic problems to the Quincy Business Council, last week at the Quincy Savings Bank.

"Basically, we are not unhappy with Quincy," said Young, whose grandfather was one of the founders of the school nearly 60 years ago. "Personally, I hope Eastern Nazarene College will be here a long, long time."

But...

"We are looking ahead to the next phase of our growth," he continued. "We are studying enrollment trends. For the next five to 10 years we are all right. Beyond that we begin to worry.

"We are at a point where we put in every new building with a shoehorn. We are impacted by a residential neighborhood. There is a very real question about our ability to grow physically.

"We want to be able to keep our tuition low. It is under $2,000 now. We must keep it reasonable because we serve a middle and lower income class student. If we can't grow, tuition will go up steeply."

The demographic problem, said Young, is that the Church of the Nazarene, which divides the United States into zones for purposes of education recruiting and fund raising, recently opened a new college in Ohio.

"We lost eastern Ohio and eastern Canada from our zone," he said. "We got Virginia in compensation but the distance from Virginia to Massachusetts is psychic as well as geographic. It's a long way.

"And the new school in Ohio is bleeding away our Pennsylvania students."

Young said Eastern Nazarene served about 25 per cent of the college-bound young people from the Eastern zone, while the other Nazarene colleges serve as much as 50 per cent of theirs.

Eastern Pennsylvania, where the Nazarene Church is seeking to buy a 125-acre girls' school property in the Philadelphia suburb of Newtown Square, is the demographic center of the church's eastern zone, Young said.

Both Young and Bollinger took pains to point out Eastern Nazarene's contributions to the cultural life of Quincy and the South Shore.

"One-third of the student body is made up of commuters," said Young. "We are happy to serve them. Our faculty consults in a lot of areas. I can't tell you how many South Shore teachers we have trained."

Bollinger explained that Eastern Nazarene puts about $13 million a year into the local economy.

"We have a $3.5 million operating budget," he said. "Multiply that by three to cover spending by faculty, faculty wives and students and you get about $13 million a year.

"We have spent more than $5 million in the past 10 years on building, using basically local construction firms and financing."

Last year, he said, the college made plans to fill its future needs on land owned by the college, including a new fine arts-music building, more library space and additional dormitories.

"We planned a capital outlay of $3 million over the next 10 years," he said. "But eventually we have to ask ourselves: What are the alternatives? We are at the point of asking that question now."

Bollinger said Eastern Nazarene has not laid down a timetable for moving out of Quincy.

"We are in limbo for a while depending on enrollment," he said. "We would give a full year's lead time to the student body, which means that a year from September is the first possible date."

Concluded Andrew Walsh, chairman of the Quincy Business Council:

"It behooves us to work on ways to keep the college in Quincy. Its departure would have a definite impact on the economy. And, thus far, we have had no one beating down the doors to replace it."

QCA Reaffirms Stand Against Officials Holding 2 Elective Offices

Members of the Quincy Citizens Association have reaffirmed their stand against the principle of a public official holding two elective offices at the same time.

The association also voted their support of Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia's proposed ordinance restricting city jobs to city residents.

Ronald F. Courville, president of the Boston Harbor Marina, came before the recent meeting of the QCA to describe the proposed $20 million apartment development on the site of the old Squantum Naval Air Station.

Members questioned Courville closely on the environmental impact, the cost of services to Quincy, zoning variances, financing of the project and the traffic impact of an estimated 6,000 cars on Quincy Shore Drive and the Neponset Bridge.

Mrs. Saul Lipsitz, chairperson of the QCA's 10th anniversary dinner-dance committee, and Saul Lipsitz, chairman of the program book committee, will host meetings of their committees at their home, 40 Harriet Ave.,

WHAT DOES IT TAKE TO TURN A REGULAR SAVER INTO A QUINCY COOPERATIVE PAID UP SHAREHOLDER?

When you have $100 in a Quincy Cooperative Regular Savings account we'll make you a shareholder and pay you 5½% on your savings.

Here's how it works.

Simply authorize us, say how much and how often, and we'll automatically transfer funds from your NOW to a Quincy Cooperative Regular Savings account.

Our Regular Savings accounts pay a higher interest rate than our NOW account. So it's in your better interest to keep as little as you need in your NOW account, and as much as possible in your Regular Savings account.

When you have $100 in your savings account, you qualify for a Paid Up Share in Quincy Cooperative. Which means you'll be a shareholder earning 5½% interest. That's the highest interest rate the law will allow. And there are no restrictions on Paid Up Shares, so you can withdraw them anytime, easily, and without fuss in $100.00 multiples.

So why not turn into a Quincy Cooperative paid up shareholder? All it takes is a little authorization on your part. And you'll find when you become a Paid Up Shareholder that saving for something special comes especially easy.

And you know what . . .

JOSIAH WOULD HAVE LIKED THAT.

Central Maintenance Storekeeper Finally Gets $2,326 Paycheck

By MICHAEL WIGDOR

The storekeeper at the central maintenance garage who was owed $2,326.50 in back pay finally got his check Monday afternoon.

Wayne Johnson, 24, of Randolph, quit his job Friday April 1 after working nine weeks without salary. Prior to that afternoon after work, he barricaded the storeroom door from the inside with wires and heavy transmission engines on dollies shoved against the door.

Johnson says the barricade was necessary because there are four other keys to the storeroom, and because having signed all the purchase orders, he was directly responsible for all materials.

Johnson said he left out materials the mechanics would need when they came to work Monday, April 4, and he told Beverly Operach, secretary, that he would return that morning at 9 a.m. to dismantle the barricade.

Another source alleges that there was stealing before Johnson was hired.

Mechanics broke down the barricade before Johnson arrived Monday morning. They had to go through the garage shipping door, according to Operach, to get into the storeroom.

City Councillor Daniel Raymond called the barricade "a booby trap". But Operach and a police mechanic said that the barricade was not dangerous or likely to cause injury to anyone.

Johnson was hired by the city as a consultant through a federal grant last November. When the grant terminated in the first part of February, Arthur Casey, mayoral aide and acting director of central maintenance garage, wanted to retain Johnson as storekeeper, but told him "it would be a fight to pay him."

The City Council never funded the job of storekeeper in its budget for the garage, which is under the auspices of the department of public works and services vehicles from 26 departments, according to Casey.

Casey said he planned to pay Johnson by transferring money from the mayor's personal account to mayor's expense account, but the City Council did not approve the transfer. Casey said that by drawing public attention, Johnson forced a settlement.

At the April 4 City Council meeting, Council President Tobin said he met with Johnson, City Auditor Charles Shea, Casey, and Paul Anderson interim Commissioner of Public Works, and arranged to pay Johnson out of the highway fund of public works.

Johnson owned a service station for three years before coming to work for the city.

Although no one ever questioned his competence, Johnson is now paid up, out of work, and, he said, "having difficulty getting another job."

Mayoral Primary Certain Vows Tull

If you're wondering if there will be a mayoral primary contest this fall—there will be.

So vows Atty. George Tull who was the first to officially toss his hat into this year's mayoral ring.

The fact that Arthur Tobin is now in 'the race and incumbent Joseph LaRaia is expected to make a bid for a second term hasn't changed Tull's mind.

"I'm in to stay," Tull says. "I'm not dropping out. As far as I am concerned there will be a primary election for mayor."

Three candidates, of course, are needed for a primary face-off.

Tull already has bumper stickers in circulation and is having campaign T-shirts made.

Though most political observers doubt he can put much of a dent into the LaRaia and Tobin armor, Tull disagrees.

"I think this is the perfect year for a third candidate," he says. "There's been so much fighting and leuding going on for almost two years now. I think the people of Quincy are tired of it all."

"I think they are looking for somebody new. They want an end to all this fighting, and they want Quincy moving ahead again."

SPEAKING OF A "third candidate" Richard Koch, Quincy Recreation-Park Board executive secretary, has quite a few fans who would like to see him in this year's race.

There was a lot of talk along that line at the recent party he and his wife, Simmy, gave as a "thank you" to all the people who have helped them in Koch Club and other activities the past near 30 years. More than 800 persons turned out.

We noted here earlier that there were about 50 buttons being sported that night proclaiming, "Things Go Better With Koch", which we sometime ago suggested as a catchy campaign slogan.

There's no doubt that Koch would be a formidable candidate if he were to run. He certainly has one of the biggest grass-roots bloc of votes anywhere.

One observer summed it up pretty well at the Koch party when he pointed in one direction [toward Joseph LaRaia] and in the other [toward Arthur Tobin] and declared:

"Who other than Dick Koch could get those two sides together at a function given by a man who could be political threat to both of them?"

But Koch himself isn't talking like a candidate. And had nothing to do with the "Things Go Better With Koch" buttons.

AND, speaking of the Park-Recreation Board, politician watchers wouldn't be too surprised if Recreation Director Robert Beniers got into the political ring this year. They think he might challenge Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymond. The latter has been one of Mayor LaRaia's severest critics. And Beniers has been one of LaRaia's staunchest boosters.

WORD AROUND political circles is that Mayor LaRaia has signed—or is about to sign—a New York agency to handle his campaign PR and advertising this fall.

DURING HIS Ch. 7 TV appearance Sunday a.m., LaRaia lumped the hostility toward him in the City Council as the "courthouse crowd". Which may not be quite accurate lumping.

He no doubt was referring to Arthur Tobin, Daniel Raymond, Dennis Harrington [all attorneys] and Leo Kelly, a juvenile probation officer, who have taken turns putting him through a wringer in recent months. And he may have also meant Warren Powers, another attorney.

But how about Paul Harold, still another attorney? If anyone in the council has been kind to LaRaia it's been Harold. And on a number of occasions, Harold has given him Lone Ranger support on council votes.

WHO'S WHO DEPT: Rep. Thomas F. Brownell [D-Quincy] is not only a Who, he's a Double Who.

Brownell has been informed that his name is to be included in the 1976 editions of Who's Who in American Law and Who's Who in American Government.

In addition to being a second term State Legislator, he is senior lecturer of government at Suffolk University and a lecturer in law at Suffolk Law School.

Brownell served on the Insurance, Local Affairs, Judiciary and Public Safety Committee of the Legislature and as chairman of the Special Committee Investigating Quincy District Court.

He sponsored legislation updating Norfolk County's assessment formula and co-sponsored No-Fault Divorce legislation that recently became law in Massachusetts.

SUDDEN THOUGHT: Most women who use the Women's Center at Quincy Junior College are ERA supporters.

The majority of them use the designations "Ms." and "Chairpersons". So how come the Women's Center isn't called the Person's Center?

[Just wondering Alicia and Chris.]

Your New Marriage Contract

Amidst the beautiful flowers and burning candles ... the soft music of the organ and the mellow voice of the clergyman ... you stood before your relatives and friends at the altar and made a marriage contract. What were the terms? It's doubtful that you knew ... It's doubtful that you and your partner had really formed an agreement which you publicly accepted before the congregation of God. Yes ... you agreed to love each other ... but that means different things to different people. Besides love is expressed in our everyday transactions with each other ... and, if we don't know WHAT WE CAN COUNT ON ... and what our NEEDS are, love has a way of fading quite rapidly. LOVE ALONE IS NOT ENOUGH.

I'm suggesting that most people would do well to rewrite ... or up-date their marriage contract. Most people have only a fuzzy idea of what they are agreeing to at the time of their marriage. It's little wonder that there are so many quarrels ... sad faces ... hidden resentments in marriage. We need to know what is expected ... what we agreed to.

Take some examples: what is your contract regarding breakfast? Who gets it? What time? Do you wives get taken out on Saturday night? Was that in your contract? Can you husbands watch the Bruins without interruption? Was that in your contract? Do you want pillow talk at night? What about going to church? What about the children's discipline? Do you agree sexually? Amount of affection? Number of dogs? Cats? Friends? Golf? Handling of money? Do you know what you can count on? OR is it all fuzzy leading to misunderstandings ... disappointments ... growing resentments ... Fights?

Here's an example of a new marriage contract which Phyllis and Harrell are starting ... it isn't complete yet ... it takes time to write a good contract. Phyllis and Harrell were having much trouble over ENTERTAINMENT. Here's their new contract on ENTERTAINMENT:

1. We mutually agree to entertain guests once each month ... the occasion to be agreed upon the first of the month ... dinner party ... theatre ... cocktail party ... cook-out.

2. We mutually agree to plan together for such occasions in the selection of guests ... what we do ... the cost ... and to work together both in the preparation and the clean-up.

3. We mutually agree that these occasions are for the express purpose of having fun ... enjoying each other ... expressing ourselves creatively ... and that jealousies ... criticism of each other ... or any negative attitude will be talked through to the complete satisfaction of each.

That was Phyllis and Harrell's ENTERTAINMENT CONTRACT. They're now working on other aspects of their marriage contract. Their love for each other bathes the whole relationship ... but they know what they can count on. Do You?

process as conducted by the Harborview Residents' Committee.

"Many senior citizens voiced their objections to the process to the Council by petitions, testimony, letters, phone conversations, and appearances at the confirmation proceedings."

The Harborview Residents' Committee has charged that some senior citizens were coerced or duped into signing the petitions.

"Even if the senior citizens were involved and allowed the opportunity to vote in the HRC screening process," the report continued, "the screening process excluded representation and input from people who are not public housing authority tenants."

"We find that this screening process as conducted by the HRC was one that could logically be expected to produce a tenant nominee, [Mrs. Nieters is a tenant; Myett is not.]

"We find that a majority of the City Council voiced support for a broader-based and more representative and better balanced screening process that encouraged tenant and non-tenant active participation."

The committee report called it "a decided step backward for the Mayor to nominate and have the City Council consider the nomination of an individual who is the personal choice of the chief executive of Quincy."

"We find that a majority of the City Council believes that the personal choice of the Mayor, whoever the individual may be, is totally unacceptable."

"We find that this screening committee ought not to be controlled by any one group or committee."

"We, therefore, recommend that the screening process consist of nine members. We recommend that each ward councillor be allowed an appointment to the screening committee. We recommend that the Harborview Residents' Committee and the Senior Citizens organizations appoint one individual respectively to sit on the screening committee. We recommend that the Chief Executive appoint the chairman of said committee."

Councillors Paul D. Harold, who was the only one to vote favorably on the Nieters appointment, and James A. Sheets questioned the recommendation that the Council be given six appointments to the screening committee.

Along with Councillor Warren A. Powers, they sought to have the Council act on the confirmation of Myett.

Sheets said he foresaw a "long term struggle involving the process rather than the person. I think we should concentrate on the person whose name is before us."

Instead, the Council recessed until Saturday at 8 a.m. when it will take up Sheets' and Harold's bid to modify the subcommittee's recommendations.

Mayor LaRaia said the Council's action "is not helping to solve the problems. They are just creating new ones."

READER SPEAKS OUT

'Thank You, Quincy' For United Way Support

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

Thank you for your fine coverage of the 1976 United Way campaign which was very successful! Reflecting your newspaper's support, the people of Quincy contributed generously to help the United Way raise $17 million—setting a new record.

The funds raised will support 165 health, family, youth and child care agencies serving the Mass. Bay community.

Your readers will be interested to know that the United Way uses their contributions efficiently. Ninety cents of every dollar goes directly to agencies for services. The remaining ten cents covers administration and campaign costs. This is about the best expense ratio of any major charity in the country. The United Way's low overhead is made possible because so many people serve as volunteers. We are grateful to all of them.

United Way volunteers not only help raise money but also allocate funds. Volunteers decide how much each agency will receive, based on community needs and priorities. Every agency is held accountable to make sure the money is well spent on programs that help people directly.

United Way agencies serving Quincy, include: The Quincy Visiting Nurse Association, The Quincy YMCA, The Quincy Jewish Community Center and The Quincy Chapter of The American Red Cross.

On behalf of the people who are helped through the United Way, we thank you and your readers.

Broadmeadows Development Urged

Executive Director George A. Yarrington said the Quincy Taxpayers Association is going to reopen its long campaign to get the City Council to approve a definite plan for commercial development of 110 acres in Broad Meadows.

"We cannot afford to let the Quincy tax rate go up," he said. "One of the ways to keep the tax rate from going up is to encourage the construction of new taxable buildings."

NEW HAVEN PLANS WARNINGS

The New Haven Railroad plans to install a signal light and bell to warn pedestrians of approaching trains at the Norfolk Downs station. It was announced by Mayor Della Chiesa.

The Mayor said the New Haven also plans a chain link fence, four to six feet high, along the tracks from the station to Linden St. to prevent people from walking across the tracks.

He said he will discuss with Boston Gear Works a proposal to build an overpass for employees who park their cars in a lot off Wilson Ave. and cut across the tracks to work. A fence for them would mean an extra half mile walk.

INDIES WALLOW KOCH CLUB

Pete Houston scored 21 points and Don Edmonston 16 to lead the North Quincy Independents, made up of players from last year's high school team, to a 76-71 victory over the Koch All-Stars, who had three members of the original Koch Club team in the lineup.

Joe Wetzler and Sid Cedrone, two of the originals, had 25 and 14 points respectively for the All-Stars. Also in the Koch lineup were Bob Player, Tom Clark, Bob Murphy, Ralph Beaton, and Lee Grutchfield.

The Independents, who sport a 5-2 record since the close of the high school season, included: Pete Houston, Dick Armstrong, Don Edmonston, Jim Fleming, Dwight Hubbard, Dick Ruggles, Al Elkhill, Ed Gubody, Jack Crowley, Hal Buzzell, Bob Walsh and Bob Stevenson.

The Fore River Shipyards is likely to have a role in the building of 37 new ships and converting 17 more for the Navy, according to Cong. Richard B. Wigglesworth [R-Milton], chairman of the House subcommittee that approved the program.

John R. Smith, vice president of the Fore River Shipyards Long Service Club, read the encouraging news in a telegram from Wigglesworth to club members at their annual banquet.

The High Cost Of Congress

There is apparently no way to satisfy the Congressional appetite for high living - so long as our tax dollars keep flowing into Washington.

For the first time ever, we will shell out over $1 billion this year - for the operation of Congress and its various supporting services such as the Library of Congress and the General Accounting Office. This is almost four times the cost of just 10 years ago. In terms of percentages, it's a far bigger growth than either the Federal budget or the Consumer Price Index.

And the cost will rise substantially higher next year if some important Congressmen get their way. Here's where the $80 million figure comes in. Some important Congressmen want to pass new legislation to subsidize the election campaigns of Senators and Representatives. What those very same folks, who so recently "non-voted" themselves, a hefty pay raise, are after is a guaranteed campaign kitty.

To help you decide whether that new burden is justified, consider what we are already paying for.

Each member of Congress receives an annual salary of $57,500 - as a result of their 29% pay raise in February. That increase represents an added annual cost of about $7 million.

A Senator is allowed up to $900,000 for paying his staff salaries, a figure determined by the number of constituents. A Representative is allowed up to $255,000 for his or her staff. Of course, not all members use their full allotment.

They also have sizable allowances for telephones, telegrams, newsletters, field office costs, and 26 round trips back home each year - plus six free trips for staff members. These allowances now average about $48,000 a year for a Representative. For Senators, the range is from $30,000 to $75,000, depending upon number of constituents and travel distance.

Beyond these basic costs, the legislators receive such other benefits as liberal pensions, now scheduled to reach a top level of $46,000 in 1980... government subsidized health insurance... free emergency medical care... free swimming pools, gyms, and steam rooms... free plants and flowers for their offices... and even low-priced meals and haircuts.

All in all, not a bad deal. We are currently providing a lavish life-style for the members of Congress - far better than most of us can even dream of providing for ourselves.

So now comes the new burden. On top of all that, on top of all the expenses we are now paying for, some Senators and Representatives want you to help pay for their election campaigns.

In the Senate, the plan [S. 926] is to subsidize both primary and general election campaigns - largely by providing Federal dollars to match each private contribution of $100 or less in both races, plus an initial Federal grant of at least $75,000 in the general election.

To show what this means, take a small State with a Senate campaign spending limit of, say, $225,000 in the primary and $300,000 in the general election. In that State, a Senatorial candidate whose private contributions were all $100 or less could get up to $106,000 from the Federal fund for the primary race - and up to $187,000 for the general election. In the largest States, those figures would exceed $1 million.

In the House, the plan [H.R. 5157] is to subsidize only the general election campaigns. Each candidate would have a spending limit of $150,000 - and up to $50,000 of that could be Federal dollars to match small private contributions.

Thus, total Federal outlays for 435 House races could go as high as $43.5 million - for the 33 Senate races, probably around $38 million. This is a potential grand total, every two years, of more than $80 million in public money. Apparently the job of representing us folks back home has gotten so good, those now holding seats don't want to risk giving them up.

Those who propose this new cost of Congress say the subsidy is necessary to keep them from being dependent on contributions from special interests.

Others say that's baloney - that the real reason is to help incumbents hold onto their seats, even if they aren't popular enough back home to raise sufficient campaign money on their own.

Whatever the reason, this legislation would add substantially to the already enormous cost of operating Congress.

I wonder how much longer we can support Congress in the style to which it has grown accustomed.

If you have some thoughts on this subject, now would be a good time to pass them along to our Washington bunch.

Now's the time to plan for a colorful blossoming harvest

With warm weather just around the corner, it's time for "green thumbs" to draw up lawn and garden plans that can turn a winter-weary home into the showpiece of the block.

Whether you're a seasoned gardener or an amateur florist with a penchant for plants, a little planning, a touch of common sense and a lot of T.L.C. can produce a colorful blossom-harvest without a lot of "growing pains."

To help you and your lawn prepare for the spring debut, Gillette—makers of Earth Born garden-fresh shampoos and creme rinse and conditioners—suggests you follow these down-to-earth tips for pre-spring garden planning:

- Get a jump on spring planting by potting seeds of flowering annuals—like marigolds and petunias—in clay pots indoors.

- Later, when the ground thaws, transplant the seedlings into your outdoor garden for a colorful array of early spring blossoms.

- Take an inventory of gardening tools and equipment. Check to see that lawn mowers and hedge trimmers are in running order, and check supplies of fertilizer and pesticide so as not to duplicate on the first big buying trip to the nursery.

- To begin nursing your lawn to a thriving lush green, mow grass down to a bare half-inch height. This eliminates dead and scorched grass blades and makes way for fresh growth. Fertilize the lawn as soon as the ground thaws.

- Make a diagram of your intended vegetable patch taking care to estimate space needed for lettuce, corn, tomatoes and other fresh salad ingredients so as not to overcrowd the crop.

During winter's last cold breath, as you and your lawn prepare for the spring scene, be sure to plan ahead and use a little common sense to create a natural setting that enhances the good looks of you and your home.

Put your money in hot water

Many people are unaware that the water heater is the second or third largest user of energy in the home, after the furnace and kitchen range, or gas incinerator, if there is one.

The homeowner contemplating installation of a new water heater would be well advised to consider one that has its own energy source, according to the National Home Improvement Council, because it is more economical since the main furnace can be turned off in summer. It is also more efficient in terms of fuel consumption.

Where utilities have established special rates for off-hour heating, electric water heaters have begun to enjoy a certain popularity. Water is heated during off-peak hours and stored for later use in insulated tanks.

Gas water heaters come in a wide range of sizes and types, and are built to resist water corrosion. All types feature the fast "recovery" of gas which permits them to serve several bathrooms as well as kitchen appliances.

Some models have controls which automatically vary the heating flame to the household demands for hot water. This provides additional economy as well as extra capacity for heavy demands.

Improvements are the logical solution

Finding that they are virtually priced out of the market for new and larger homes, American homeowners are turning to remodeling as the logical and most workable solution to their shelter needs.

There is no shortage of funds available for home improvements and homeowners are investing it in room additions, siding, roofing, flooring, plumbing, heating, air-conditioning — and with the continuing concern about energy supplies and costs — many homeowners are investing substantial amounts of money in insulation.

Record-breaking home improvements

According to the National Home Improvement Council, Americans spent a record breaking $30 billion in 1976, as compared with $26.6 billion in 1975.

Homeowners last year added well over four million rooms, the equivalent of 700,000 new six-room homes, while builders raised only 870,000 new one-family homes.

The addition of new living quarters accounted for $1 of every $5 of the home-care investment, according to the Census Bureau. Half the money spent on remodeling and maintenance went into do-it-yourself projects.

This increased activity among do-it-yourselfers is confirmed by a study by Frost & Sullivan which finds that within the last year or two more than half of all building materials for home renovation were purchased directly by homeowners rather than by contractors.

Even so, the National Home Improvement Council cautions would-be do-it-yourselfers to get some sound advice before tackling larger projects, especially plumbing and electrical work.

A homeowner contemplating a home improvement project usually asks the question: How much do improvements increase the value of your home?

It varies according to the improvement, but in few cases should you expect the sales value of your house to rise dollar for dollar with the money spent for remodeling.

The value of a house will rise most — perhaps by 60 to 75 percent of improvement cost — for a new kitchen or bathroom and heating/air-conditioning system.

A fourth bedroom or new family room are also desirable features home buyers look for in houses and therefore the features they pay the most for.

Other improvements, while not increasing the value of the house substantially, will aid in speeding up the sale time.

The Council urges homeowners who are about to select a contractor in their community to consider a member of the National Home Improvement Council who displays the NHIC Membership Seal in his advertising. His membership means that he is a reputable, well-established professional contractor who subscribes to the Council's Code of Ethics.

Architect can help save money

Many a homeowner is reluctant to call on an architect for remodeling because an architect is believed to be unnecessary.

This is not always true and may turn out to be a penny-wise, pound-foolish omission, according to the National Home Improvement Council.

The homeowner who wishes his home to be truly well-designed would do well to consider using an architect for his remodeling project.

An architect can make a major contribution to remodeling—and sometimes

WALL OF FABRIC

A new idea in decorating is to use fabrics on the walls. On the market recently is a sturdy cloth, in many designs, that can be used as a wall covering, as well as for upholstery, for a beautifully coordinated room design.

How does your house say hello?

FIRST IMPRESSIONS COUNT, with homes as with people, and no welcome mat can compensate for a frumpy foyer! This contemporary entry doubles as a home office, with assemble-it-yourself cubes forming a desk, and a canvas chair that folds up when company comes.

Dollar values from north to south

Things like new central air conditioning, a new carport or garage, depends largely on your climate and the desirability of the improvement of the house.

Air conditioning brings top dollar extra value in the hot South, obviously, especially in higher priced homes where it may be essential for resale.

Conversely, a new garage adds greatest value in a cold northern climate.

Cut the cost of fuel consumption: insulate against the cold and save

According to the National Home Improvement Council, the average homeowner can save up to 50 per cent of his fuel costs with the proper insulation, plus half his energy consumption. Caulking and weather-stripping storm windows can save an additional 13 per cent. Insulation provides a barrier of tiny air pockets that slow the movement of heat toward unheated space.

In wide use throughout the country are fiberglass, rock wool, vermiculite and cellulose. These products are set in place, poured, or blown by machine into walls, under floors or above or below ceilings.

To check the efficiency of insulation, the homeowner should place a thermometer on the wall inside the house. With the room at 68 degrees and outside temperature about 50 degrees, a well-insulated wall should register about 65 degrees. If it's much lower than 65, the wall is in all probability not insulated.

Insulation is rated by its resistance to heat flow. This is called its R value (R for resistance). The higher the R rating, the more satisfactory its resistance. A thickness of about three to four inches of blanketed fiberglass or rock wool is classified as R-11, meaning that it resists heat transfer as well as nine inches of lumber or four feet of brick.

INSTALLING 6" of fiber glass insulation in the attic is easy to do and can be completed in an afternoon. Utility bill savings for heating and air-conditioning can help pay for the insulation in 1-2 years on most homes.

How much the homeowner will save by installing insulation or adding to his existing insulation really depends on a number of factors: ceiling height, glass area, how well the house is weather-stripped and caulked, existing heating system and weather. However, it's safe to say that even though insulation represents an initial outlay of substantial funds, the average insulating job should save enough to pay for itself in four to five years.

Your nest's best friend: safe, protective roofing

The roof is your home's main defense against the elements. Properly chosen, it also can help protect your home against fire.

Whether you're building a new home or reroofing an older one, you should know a few things about roofing to give your home maximum protection.

Many elements currently are used in roofing shingles: fiber glass, wood, tile, slate and asbestos cement are the most common. Each has its advantages and disadvantages.

Asphalt shingles are the most popular, come in a variety of colors and shapes and are relatively inexpensive. Conventional asphalt shingles give about 15 years of good service. However, most provide only basic fire protection, and are rated Class C by Underwriters Laboratories.

Fiber glass shingles are rated Class A for fire resistance, the highest attainable. They cost slightly more than conventional shingles, but have a longer life.

Wood shingles and shakes are among the more beautiful roofing materials, but they have two drawbacks. Wood offers little resistance to fire, even in some cases after it has been chemically treated. Also, wood is very expensive.

Slate is rock; it's permanent and it carries a Class A fire resistance rating. However, it is quite heavy and expensive. It's also costly to install and requires sturdy construction to support the extra weight.

Tile of clay or cement has a lot in common with slate. It's fire resistant but heavy and costly.

Asbestos cement shingles are made of mineral fiber, highly durable, with Class A resistance, styled to imitate shakes or slate shingles. They are moderately expensive and won't wear out or burn down.

Removing Dark Panel Stain

Q. The previous owners of our home paneled the house with a medium dark paneling which cannot be removed. However, I would like to change it. Can I paint it? — D. H. T.

A. If your wood paneling is actually wood you can sand down the stain and apply another stain with a color or a wood tone or paint the wood. However, you must remove the previous finish or you will not have a satisfactory job. Rather than put a heavy paint over wood, you might like a color grain over it. This can be very effective.

What kind of face does your house present to its visitors?

If you are among the many families considering the purchase of an older home or remodeling your present home, you may be faced with the problem of deteriorating wood siding or stucco and the need for a new look.

Paint could give you a fresh appearance, but it may be costly to contract and time consuming to do it yourself. Repainting may be required again in three to five years.

New pre-finished siding could be your best investment, especially when obtained from those manufacturers who offer long-term warranties that provide reasonable protection against product defects.

First impressions count
The outside of your home is the first "face" you present to your visitors and neighbors. New siding and shutters or a new front door can give a brand-new welcoming appearance.

Consider the outside of your house in its entirety, and decide how you would like it to look when it's been redecorated.

Color is in these days—shades like olive, avocado, barn red, royal brown, colonial blue, and autumn gold will make your home look cozy and snug.

If you have a ranch-type home, you might want to accentuate its long and low lines by using horizontal siding in a color lighter than the roof.

Even the architectural extravagances of Victorian castles and other vintage styles can be preserved and enhanced by careful selection of colors and attention to the charming detail of antique design.

Decorators advise never to use more than three colors on the outside of your home. For instance, if you have a brown roof, you might think about re-siding with a barn red siding, brown shutters, white trim around the windows, and a brown and white front door.

With careful planning, your new siding and accessories will present a lovely "face" to your visitors and neighbors, and enhance the styling and value of your home. So you should put as much thought into refurbishing the outside of your home as you would into redecorating your living room.

Aluminum siding probably has the widest range of styles, colors and accessories. It has been on the market for 30 years and has been used in residing millions of homes.

Low maintenance

There are a number of reasons for this. Aluminum siding comes in durable baked-on finishes, is easy to clean, and is light in weight—which makes it easier to work with than other metals. Probably its biggest selling point is its time-proven low maintenance.

New insulated aluminum siding can help to reduce heat loss through your walls, especially when they are uninsulated or partially insulated. The potential savings in fuel bills added to the maintenance saved in repainting wood siding can usually pay for residing in less than ten years.

The newest siding on the market is vinyl, a plastic material that has been used for floor tile and plumbing pipe for many years. Because vinyl plastic can become brittle when exposed to sunlight, it must be carefully formulated and is only available in pastel colors and white.

Normal weathering

Prefinished hard board is available in various patterns and colors, but does not have the long-term low maintenance characteristics of aluminum.

The exposed edges of prefinished steel siding are vulnerable to the elements and may deteriorate if protective coatings fall.

Each type of prefinished siding has its advantages, but all will change somewhat in color over a period of time once they are on your home.

Modern methods make carpet care a snap

Your carpets and rugs are among the most expensive furnishings in your home. So, it's no wonder that you want to take the best care of them you can. That means regular cleaning and attention to spots and stains — with the help of modern carpet care techniques.

carpet is easy with the help of some of the modern new convenience products on your grocery shelf:

Easy way to save

For heavy once- or twice-a-year cleanings, there are a number of machines you can rent in your local store that shampoo or "steam-clean" your rugs. They're easy to use and much less expensive than calling in a professional. Just follow the directions carefully.

Carpet care is easier than you think. So, if you're thinking of trading in your old rugs for new, why not try brightening them instead with some modern and easy-to-do techniques!

Like kitchen floor

Actually, when it comes to cleaning, your carpet is very much like your kitchen floor. Most likely, you frequently sweep the kitchen to remove dirt and crumbs and wash it regularly to remove greasy dirt build-up.

Similarly, your carpet needs to be vacuumed to remove the gritty dirt that can shorten its life. This should be done a minimum of once a week, using long, slow strokes and going over each area several times. For best results, your vacuum should also be in top working condition.

Don't allow dulling

Furthermore, like your kitchen floor, it's important to "wash" your carpeting to remove greasy soil and grime. (You may not have noticed the gradual dulling of your carpet's color, but it's there.)

Actually, cleaning your

NATURAL MOTIFS

Many "natural" motifs and concepts are becoming popular in kitchen designs. Ideas in this area include the use of stone, brick, bamboo, terrariums, and living plants.

Flooring sunburns!

So you think that only people get sun-burned? So can your curtains, your upholstery, your furniture, and even your floor!

But here's an easy and attractive way to add protection from the sun's destructive ultraviolet rays — hang decorative shades at the windows.

It naturally follows that they will also help cut heat loss in winter and heat gain in summer.

Room-darkening window shades in pretty colors are a boon to children's rooms. They block out light for early bedtimes and naps — while adding decorative, non-allergic window treatments to the room.

For example, a new room-darkening window shade with a fresh, nubby look, features a bevy of marvelous colors pertinent to what's happening NOW in the home furnishings field. This means that one can quickly establish an up-to-the-minute window treatment in tune with the rest of the room that's functional and protective

Shop to find best finance deal

Home improvement loans have become a shopper's market. Nearly every bank and finance company will welcome an application for a loan to finance a home improvement.

Many contractors make it easy by arranging it for the homeowner. He merely signs the papers that are pulled out of a briefcase.

But like nearly every kind of merchandise sold, the price you pay for the financing and the terms offered can vary greatly from lender to lender, according to the Lenders'

Council of NHIC.

The homeowner is advised to shop around to save money and get the very best deal available.

A credit union loan is another possibility, as is a bank passbook loan, one of the cheapest of loans, which is borrowing against money in a savings account at a net cost of no more than two percent or so total interest.

Next cheapest loan is borrowing the cash value built up in your life insurance.

Winsome windows

According to Barbara Taylor, interior design expert, "There's no question about it, window shades are probably the cheapest product available today for dressing up any window in any room in your home."

The ordinary little window shade has undergone vast improvements in the last decade. Now it is available in any color as well as in numerous textures and materials.

Through the addition of fancy trims and pulls, the plain window shade can take on extra decorative looks.

Some shades are easy to laminate with fabrics through a simple iron-on method. Laminated shades with matching draperies create a handsome effect at a window."

Ultimate renovation is ultra-modern colonial!

BEST OF BOTH WORLDS — The Ross House in Cockeysville, Maryland, combines the historic authenticity of a completely restored 18th century estate house with the added conveniences of modern luxury living (right down to a swimming pool!). It is a stunning example of the potential creativity there is in today's home improvement.

For the master of the art of home improvement, the remarkable story of the restoration of the Ross House should prove to be inspirational.

This beautiful Maryland estate, nestled in the rolling countryside of Cockeysville (just outside of Baltimore), is undoubtedly one of the most interesting homes in America.

The Ross House is an astounding example of home improvement taken to its highest creative level.

Built in 1749 by Dr. David Ross in Bladensburg, Maryland, the house was razed in 1957 to make way for the construction of a highway. The foreman of the wrecking crew could see the tremendous value and beauty of the old building and very carefully disassembled the house while architects made careful drawings.

The wrecker managed to save over 22,000 bricks and brickbats along with many other parts of the house.

In 1968, the now-owner went to his architect to discuss creating an exact replica of an 18th century house.

The architect remembered the Ross House and suggested reconstructing an original 18th century mansion.

From the renovator's point of view, the Ross House project presented a dual challenge: to maintain a high standard of authenticity in the restoration of the mansion while adding to it the latest of modern conveniences.

With his vast knowledge of history, the owner supervised each and every detail of the reconstruction to see that it would be historically accurate.

He knew that at the time the Ross House was Vines save money for homeowners

Ivy and vines are nature's insulators. Planted on masonry walls, or on trellises or arbors adjacent to wooden walls, they help block out hot summer sun and keep buildings cooler on the inside.

A convection current also develops behind the cool green leaves that draws warm air away from the wall.

In winter, ivies and vines planted on the windward sides of a building help block out chilling winds and serve as insulation to keep heat in and cold air out.

Poison ivy rash can be recognized as clusters of small blisters of various sizes, on reddened shiny skin.

originally built, the lime for mortar was made by burning oyster shells, and collected bushels of shells to be pulverized into the mortar so that the final effect of the masonry would be exactly like that of the original building.

But this desire for authenticity also led to some remarkable feats of modern building — a venture into the new for the sake of the old. There are no visible radiators or air registers; oil-hot water radiant heating comes from beneath the floors.

The chandeliers contain real candles which are used. There is electric lighting, but it is completely unobtrusive — hidden behind valances, moldings and beams. Neither are there any visible sockets, switches, or cords.

The 18th century oven door in the kitchen covers a microwave oven. Also hidden to preserve authenticity is a dishwasher, stove, and refrigerator.

Some additions, of course, have been made to the original floor plan. There is, for example, a swimming pool in the back yard! The attic holds central air conditioning ducting and a TV aerial, the basement has a sauna, along with the furnace room, house vacuum cleaning system and incinerator.

To some, the Ross House may serve as an inspiration for yet another great and original home renovation. For those with less ambition and dedication to detail than the likes of this history buff and his crew, the Ross House is currently up for sale.

Den 4, Pack 27 Cubs Visit Quincy Sun

Cub Scouts in Den 4, Pack 27 of North Quincy visited The Quincy Sun recently to view the workings of a newspaper firsthand.

The boys, sponsored by Sacred Heart Church, North Quincy, are: Mark Bilton, Thomas Donovan, Stephen Gallahue, Paul Gemmel, John Higgins, Joseph Higgins, Michael Lyons, Thomas Mellor.

Den mother Mrs. Lois Bilton, and Mrs. Imelda Gemmel accompanied the scouts on their tour.

James Gemmel also joined the scouts as a guest, as he is too young to be a scout.

Scouts John Higgins and Michael Sullivan were absent from the tour.

The boys first visited the editorial and advertising departments of The Quincy Sun. They then toured the production department where they saw a story of their visit set into type on an IBM computer system. They saw news headlines set on a Compugraphic 7200 photo typesetting machine. They also saw newstories being set on the CompuWriter Junior.

The scouts watched paste-up artist fix the story and headline into proper position on paste-up boards.

They watched a photograph being reduced and screened for publication by an Agfa Gevaert Repromaster camera in the Sun's new camera department.

After a brief explanation of how The Quincy Sun is printed the boys asked questions about what they had seen on their tour.

Before leaving the office, each scout received a complimentary copy of The Quincy Sun.

YMCA Aquathon Starts Saturday

The Quincy YMCA will hold its fifth annual Aquathon Saturday starting at 9 a.m. and continuing through Sunday, for 33 continuous hours.

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia will officially kick-off the event. City Councillor, Paul Harold, School Committee member Christopher Kennedy, a representative from the Quincy Educational Association, and members of the YMCA Board of Directors will begin the event by swimming the first lengths.

Also attending the kick-off, will be Senator City Council President Arthur H. Tobin who is sponsoring YMCA Professional staff members. City Councillor James Sheets will be on hand and will sponsor his daughter Kim and two sons Jim and Tad who will be swimming.

The YMCA, last year surpassed its goal, raising $9,064.00 in pledges. This year's goal is $10,000.

Paul Harvey, senior program director, said the purpose of the annual Aquathon is to help raise funds to sponsor worthy youngsters to day and resident camps. Last year's funds enabled over 150 children to enjoy a summer camp experience. Remaining funds help sponsor youth to year-round 'Y' memberships and support the Y's International effort through YMCA World Service.

Theme "Swim for the Health of It" promotes and emphasizes the importance of Aquatics. The YMCA is recognized for its excellence in Aquatic Instruction and Aquatic Training Programs.

The Quincy YMCA has asked for the support of others in the community in this year's Aquathon in helping the 'Y' help others.

Over 200 swimmers are expected to participate in this year's event. Anyone can swim and still obtain swimmer applications at the YMCA main desk and solicit sponsors.

Swimmers collect the names of people to sponsor them based on the number of lengths they anticipate swimming (a minimum of 5 cents per length.) Swimmers may sponsor themselves. Each contribution is tax deductible.

When swimmers have all the sponsors they wish to sponsor, they should go to the 'Y' anytime between 9 a.m. Saturday to 6 p.m. Sunday and swim their lengths. If a person does not wish to swim, they may send their tax deductible check to sponsor a 'Y' Professional Staff member. Send to: Quincy YMCA, 79 Coddington St., Quincy, Ma. 02169 C/O Aquathon 1977.

The public is welcome to attend the kick-off ceremonies Saturday.

Lavery Most Happy Fella

Quincy Rallies To Defeat Rindge

One of the happiest men in Quincy late Monday was John Lavery, Quincy's new track coach, and for good reason.

The Presidents have had little luck since joining the Suburban League and, with only four events left last Monday, they trailed Rindge Tech by more than 20 points in the season's opener at Veterans Memorial Stadium.

But they came on strong and going into the final event, the mile relay, they held a two-point lead. They needed a win and got it to pull out a 76-69 win.

"This is just great," said a happy Lavery. "All of the boys did a fine job and I'm just delighted. John Saville and Jim Oriola, in particular, did a tremendous job to pull out the relay for us."

Timc McHugo was the first man in the relay and Steve Cacciatore was second. The third runner, started with a sizeable deficit, but put on a great spurt and Oriola, the anchorman, had a slight edge to start with. He had little trouble holding his lead and Lavery leaped with joy as Oriola crossed the finish line.

The new coach received a number of fine performances. Capt. Don Jones won the mile in the good early-season time of 4:42.5. Ken MacPhee, who never ran until this past winter, took the two-mile in 10:15. Saville won the half-mile in the excellent time of 2:07, and Oriola won the quarter-mile, beating the runner who broke the league indoor record the past winter.

In the field events, Vin Harte won the shot put, Jim LaHive the discus, sophomore Vin Lorenzano the long jump and Dennis Campbell the pole vault.

Quincy hosts Newton, one of the league powers, Friday at 3:15 at Veterans Memorial Stadium and next Wednesday will run at Brockton, another favorite, at 10 a.m.

North Quincy opened Tuesday against Waltham. The Raiders are at Brockton Friday at 3:15 and host Cambridge Latin Wednesday at 10.

Quincy Opens Suburban Season Against Cambridge

Quincy High's baseball team opens its Suburban League season today (Thursday) against Cambridge Latin at 3 p.m. at Adams Field and Coach Bud Mosher hopes the Presidents got all the bad baseball out of their system in two non-league losses to B.C. High.

Quincy dropped a wild 18-14 decision Monday to the Eagles in a game featuring an abundance of hits, walks and errors. B.C. High clinched the win with a nine-run fifth inning.

Len Picot paced Quincy's attack with two doubles, Pete Niosi had two singles, Jim Maze a triple, Sal Coscia a double and Rich Gibbons, Pat Gibbons, Rich Gibbody and Mike Murphy a single apiece.

Earlier the Presidents were edged, 7-6, as a Quincy rally fell short in the last inning.

Pat Gibbons, the losing pitcher, had three hits, John Houton and Rich Gibbons had two apiece and Niosi, Gibbody, Maze, Brian Jolly and Murphy one each.

"We made too many mistakes in each game," Mosher said. "We have an all-new team and most of the players lack experience. We made too many errors of omission and base running mistakes. I think we will come along and hold our own with a little more work."

Quincy will play at Newton Tuesday at noon and will go to Rindge Tech Wednesday at 2.

Meanwhile, North Quincy plays at Waltham today at 3, will host Weymouth South Tuesday at 10:30 at Adams Field and will be home to Newton at the same time and place Wednesday.

Mosher has a new assistant coach in Hank Pasquerella, who led the junior varsity to its first win, 8-6, over B.C. High Monday.

Slow Start But--

Burke Expects QJC To Warm Up With Weather

Although the Quincy Junior College baseball team is off to a slow start, Coach Dave Burke feels his team will improve with the weather and is hopeful for a winning season.

The Jaguars rallied for five runs in the last two innings on Monday but dropped a 14-9 decision to Bunker Hill Community College.

Earlier QJC had lost to Bristol Community College, 7-1. Friday QJC will host Boston University at O'Rourke Field at 3, and next Wednesday will play at Bunker Hill at 3:30.

"We made a lot of mistakes in our first two games," Burke said. "but our workouts were held down by the weather and with a little more work I think we will do all right."

Burke has a promising pitching staff of Chip Hardy, Paul Craig of Quincy, Jim Walsh and Quincy's

Brian Cochran, who pitched at Archbishop Williams. Quincy's Mark Austin is the catcher and Harold McManus of Quincy and Steve Wax share the first base duties. The rest of the infield includes Pete Banco second base, Tom Wilkinson of North Quincy shortstop and Billy Connolly of North Quincy third base.

In left field is Ed Morris, Paul Interland is in centerfield and Russ Fruzzetti of Quincy and Fran Murphy share right field chores. Tom Kelly is a utility infielder.

Burke expects most of the offensive power to come from Interland, Morris, Banco and Harding, who has been used as the designated hitter.

"The pitchers had their troubles in the first two games, but I expect them to straighten out," Burke concluded.

City Basketball Championship In Finals

The Quincy Recreation Department rolled towards conclusion of its all City Basketball Championship over the weekend.

In action at two locations the finalists were determined in the single elimination tournament Elementary and Junior High Division.

In northern end action, it will be the Wollaston B Team, facing Squantum for the Junior High Championship while the Elementary Championship will feature Atlantic and Wollaston.

In Junior high competition the Wollaston B Team advanced by defeating a strong Montclair Team 40-38. Mark Millane led all scorers with 17 points while Willy Dudley had 16 for Montclair. Other outstanding players for Montclair were Bill Murphy, Dave Yee and Chris Baker.

Wollaston then defeated Atlantic, despite a strong 16 point performance by Gill. Mark Millane paced all scorers with 23 points, followed by Brian Reale, 10 and Tom McFarland 6. Cliff Miller and Charlie Cahill played strong defensive games for Atlantic. In other Junior Division Finals, Squantum defeated the Wollaston A Team 43-37. Peter McDonough, 16 and Dennis Donaghy, 10, sparked Squantum while Glenn Ross and Jim Hudson played well for the losers.

Linda Cellini 2nd In 2.5 Road Race

Linda Cellini of Quincy, a 16-year old Abp. Williams High junior, representing the Quincy Track Club, finished second in a recent 2.5-mile road race at Fresh Pond in Cambridge.

Her time was an outstanding 16:10 and is the fastest run by a Quincy girl over the Fresh Pond course.

Teammate Linda Morash, a Central Jr. High eighth grader, placed 12th in the field of more than 200 runners.

Outdoor Tennis, Basketball Courts Being Readied

Outdoor tennis and basketball courts are being readied for what is expected to be a very active spring and summer following a long cold winter, according to Richard J. Koch, executive secretary to the Park and Recreation Board.

Park Department employees have cleaned the tennis court and skating rink combination areas and installed tennis nets.

Quincy has a total of 42 municipal tennis courts with 31 located on Park Department property and 11 on School Department sites.

Newest of the tennis courts are the two additional ones installed late last season at Bishop Playground on Holbrook Rd., Montclair, resulting in a six-court complex, the largest number of municipal courts located in one area.

The latest installation was the result of community funds allocated by Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia and Ward 3 Councillor John J. Lydon Jr. and members of the City Council.

Other large tennis sites include the Vo-Tech school (5) and Faxon Park (4). The remaining 27 are double and single courts located in every ward.

The tennis courts, where lights are located, will not be illuminated until May 1, because of the cool, rainy nights expected during April.

The Park and Recreation Board requests residents to continue to implement a courtesy code and relinquish courts after an hour's play if others are waiting to use the facility.

Nets are being replaced at the 40 outdoor basketball courts in preparation for the school vacation period next week.

Twenty-two of the outdoor basketball courts are on park land and 18 on school property.

It is expected that all recreational sites, including tennis, basketball and ballfield facilities, will receive extensive use next week with 17,000 school children on their spring vacation.

Arthur Leonard, who played with Boston (NL) in 1876, made eight errors in one game.

'Father Confessor''There Is Only One Mike Casali'

By TOM SULLIVAN

To many people Mario [Mike] Casali, 20-year three-sport coach at Central Junior High School, is just that — a successful coach.

But to the hundreds of boys he has coached and helped along the way he is more than that — much more.

Casali, also known as 'Mud' to his friends, has been called a "master psychologist" and a "father confessor", but whatever he is called, Carl Leone, coordinator of athletics for the Quincy schools, said, "We could use a million people like Mike, but there is only one Mike Casali."

Mike grew up in Wollaston and is himself a former Central student, playing soccer, football and baseball there.

"He went on to Quincy High where, after joining the Navy during his senior year, he returned after two years of service and graduated in 1946.

At Quincy Mike played hockey for a year, played football under Munroe McLean, Danny Alvino and Owen Webb, and baseball under Warren Finley.

When he returned to finish his senior year, Mike was too old to take part in sports and helped Alvino coach the football team.

"We had a great team that year [1945] with such players as Carl Leone and Guy Salucci, but we lost the Thanksgiving game to North Quincy when Dave Burke [now head coach at North] recovered the opening kickoff in the end zone for a 7-0 win in the pouring rain," Casali reminisces.

"I hung around for a year and then realized I had four years of college coming to me under the GI bill, so I went to Boston University," Mike said. "Ken Rickson [coordinator of physical education for the Quincy schools], Marty Finnegan [former Quincy basketball coach for several years] and I were classmates and played freshman baseball.

Casali was an outstanding hockey player at B.U. and played on two teams in the NCAA championships in Colorado. In his junior year [1949-50] the Terriers were New England runnersup to Boston College and lost to Colorado in the national championships. In his senior year B.U. won the N.E. crown, defeating Northeastern and B.C., but again lost in Colorado, this time to Michigan.

After graduating from B.U., Casali went to Newport, R.I., for two and a half years. He taught physical education in two junior high schools.

Mike received a call from Finnegan about an opening in Quincy. He saw Jim Carter, then athletic director for Quincy schools, was hired and began at the elementary school level. He taught at the old Washington School and coached freshman football at South Junior High, now Sterling.

When Broad Meadows Junior High opened in 1956, Hank Conroy, now Quincy High football coach, went from Central to BM and Casali succeeded him at Central and he has been there ever since.

Mike has taught physical education and coached baseball, football and basketball since that time with more than a fair amount of success in all sports. He also taught health education for a dozen years.

"My first principal was Chet Young [now a state representative from Scituate]," Casali said. "He was here for a long time and then we had Dick Chrystal for a few years. Vin Moscardelli, our present principal, took over about five years ago. Every one of them has been just tremendous and I have received full cooperation from all of them."

Mike admits his greatest satisfaction comes from helping boys "find themselves and put them on the right track."

"I don't worry about the good kids, I'm concerned with those who are trying to find themselves and don't quite know where they are going," he said. "Some get mixed up in drugs and get into other trouble and it has been very satisfying to me to see them straighten out, go on to good jobs and come back to see me with their own children. Although many people say the boys and girls of today are worse than those of the past, I disagree and think the kids today are better.

Many Quincy parents can thank Mike for keeping their sons out of the courts.

Mike has his master's degree in guidance and plans to go into guidance, which looks like a perfect field for him.

Mike admits he has had some lean years coaching, but says, "Winning never has been the top priority with me, I want to give all the kids I can a chance to play, especially in the seventh and eighth grades. I have never cut a boy from a squad in all my years of coaching here."

"I have had many chances to coach on the high school level, but I don't want to leave Central," he said. "This is the age group I want to keep working with. I just love it here at Central and there is a wonderful spirit of togetherness.

"To show you how the kids here are, I run an early bird program in basketball for the seventh graders, which operates before school each day. I pick a ninth grader to supervise the program, in which close to 70 boys take part. Last year Mitch Finnegan [Marty's son] took care of the program and this year I selected Mark Roberts. Who do you think came down every day to help Mark? Mitch Finnegan, now a sophomore at Quincy High."

Casali praised Moscardelli, assistant principal Dick Comeau and his assistant coaches, Joe Ryan, Bob Lewis and Tom Adams.

He also lauded the Park Dept., especially Dick Koch and George Page for their continued cooperation.

And what do others think of him?

Moscardelli: "The big thing about Mike is his ability to instill self discipline and apply it to his teams as well as in his physical ed classes. He puts things in just the right perspective and I think the fact so many of his students go on to teach physical education is a tribute to his teachings."

Rickson: "I think the big thing is his ability to adjust to the students' problems and needs. He can't do enough for the kids and he understands their problems and instills confidence in them. He's a master psychologist. He loves kids and he is just a great man."

Leone: "He is just great with kids and has kept hundreds of them out of trouble. He is able to reach the kids and they all love him. He has a great attitude and goes out of his way to help them. Many of them have followed him into physical education, which tells what kind of a man he is. We could use a million guys like him but there is only one Mike."

Marty Finnegan: "As a college classmate and as a fellow coach for 30 years, there are many qualities I have seen and known to be a part of Mario Casali's personality. Having been the beneficiary, as a high school coach, of receiving many of his athletes, and being able to attribute their qualities learned from him, it might lead one to select one of these as his outstanding contribution to youth: desire, teamwork, unselfishness, cooperation, citizenship and the ability to accept constructive criticism.

Mitch Finnegan: "In the three years I played for Mr. Casali, and in the many other years I watched him coach prior to playing for him, I never once saw him get angry or upset at a team for losing. I have seen him get angry only when a player has not played up to his ability or has not given 100 percent.

"I know everytime I stepped on a court or field for Mr. Casali I tried to give him 110 percent. He has exhibited a deep interest in individuals who were less gifted than others."

Casali lives in Brintree with his wife, the former Norma Gullicksen of Germantown, and his four children, Joan, 23; Marilyn, 21; Nancy, 18, and Jackie, 16, an outstanding football, hockey and baseball player at Brintree High.

He's quite a guy.

Women's And Men's Salons

Russell Edwards Hairplace To Open In Quincy Square

An "elegant" new hair and skin salon will open its doors in Quincy Sq. sometime in May.

Owner Russell Affsa said The Russell Edwards Hairplace, will occupy the building at 1 Maple Street, corner of Chestnut St., now undergoing extensive renovations.

Affsa is the owner of the Russell Edwards Hair Stylists, Inc., at 27 Cottage Ave. He expects to move into the new building, which he bought two months ago, when the renovation and refurbishing are completed in about four weeks.

Affsa said the renovated building will be a great asset to the downtown area. The building, to be known as the Affsa Building, will house separate men's and women's salons on its first floor. The women's salon, Hairplace One, and the men's salon, Hairplace Two, will have separate entrances and will be further subdivided into facial, shampooing, tinting, and cutting and styling rooms. The second floor is for rent.

Employees at the new salon will number "at least 10", and will include several of Affsa's staff members from his recently sold Boston salon, and two of his children, Russ Jr. and Cheryl. A skin specialist will also be employed.

Contractor for the renovations is Christie Construction Co.; and Scakours of Westboro will be doing the interior decorating, in earth tones of brown and sand.

Mr. Affsa is a Quincy resident who has been in the hair salon business for 25 years. He has operated his business on Cottage St. for five years, and sold his Boston salon two months ago to be able "to concentrate in Quincy." He lives with his family at Presidents Lane.

The extensive renovations to the building are the first to be approved by the newly formed Quincy Historic District Commission.

THE OPEN LISTING

When you place your home with a Realtor to sell, it's known in the trade as "listing". Basically, there are three types of listing agreements and your rights and obligations vary with each type. Let's discuss the "Open Listing" today.

As the name implies, it is open to everyone. You agree to pay a Realtor's commission if, and only if, he sells the property. But you reserve the right to hire other Realtors or to sell the home yourself.

It sounds good on paper - but, frankly, it's the most ineffective arrangement to make if you REALLY want to sell your home in a reasonable time and expect the Realtor's full expenditure of time and advertising money. At any juncture, he can lose the sale to another Realtor or to the owner himself.

In fact, it is rare when an outstanding Realtor (and I assume that's the kind you want) will even accept an Open Listing with all its lurking uncertainties.

Thinking of selling your home? It makes sense to list it with PRESTIDENT REAL ESTATE, 356 Hancock St., Phone: 328-8345.

House Hunting Can Be Enjoyable

Family Should Analyze Wants And Interests When Buying Home

Some potential home buyers put house-hunting in the same category as a trip to the dentist. It must be done, but they know they're not going to enjoy it.

This is the observation of Vito Barresi GRI, president of the Quincy and South Shore Board of Realtors Inc., who announced the Realtors will join with local home owners in the observance of Private Property Week, April 17-23.

"While a visit to the dentist is rarely enjoyable, house-hunting often is, especially when you can be certain about what you're hunting for," he added.

He said that a good early step would be to contact a member of the Quincy and South Shore Board of Realtors Inc. There are a number of other things the potential home buyer can do to move easily, and happily, from house-hunter to home owner.

Following are a number of ideas offered by members of the Quincy and South Shore Board of Realtors Inc., as part of their contribution to the observance of Private Property Week.

- Do your homework. Family members should analyze their wants and interests. Should the home be a new or existing one? Traditional or modern? How many bedrooms and baths? How about location? Should it be near a school or shopping areas? Should the neighborhood be quiet and conventional or busy and informal?

- Know what you can afford. In today's economy, the home should cost about two times the family's annual gross income. Monthly mortgage payments should not exceed 25 per cent of the monthly income. These guides are not fixed; they are changed by a family's other obligations.

- Check all your assets for down payment money: savings, investments, insurance loan value and others. And, together with your Realtor, explore all sources for mortgage money at the most reasonable interest rate.

- Be realistic. Be willing to compromise between your "dream house" and the home you can afford.

- Remember, the larger the down payment, the lower the monthly payment. Since a lower monthly down payment might enable the buyer to qualify for "more home", that compromise about your dream house could turn out to be only a small one.

- Thoroughly inspect the homes you are shown. Your Realtor will see that you have enough time for an unhurried inspection. Accompanying you in the process, he or she will also call your attention to improvements and advantages you might overlook.

- Don't hesitate to ask your Realtor questions about the home, surrounding land, neighborhood, property taxes, or anything else about the home.

"No question is 'foolish' if it involves the largest single investment a family will make in a lifetime," Barresi said.

"Following these basic tips will help to eliminate the confusion, wheel spinning, and disappointment that sometimes occurs for families that plan ahead without advance planning or consultation with a Realtor.

"But the greatest joy is still ahead: Living in your home, building equity each time you make a mortgage payment. Owning a home is an investment in your family's happiness, and there's no better investment anywhere."

Downtown Business Area Seen In Healthy Condition

shop in Quincy tend to earn less money than plaza shoppers."

"The market for stores like Milton's seems to be moving in the direction of places like South Shore Plaza," he said.

South Shore Plaza in Braintree, has not turned out to be the promised land for every retail merchant.

Franklin Simon announced this week that it will close its store in the Plaza after nine years.

Other stores that have closed their doors recently in the past include Stop & Shop, Sheridan's, Howlands, Pray's Furniture, Howard's, and Wilbur's Shoe, and Boston Baby as well as several smaller shops.

"I'd like to sign someone up to move in even before Milton's moves out in August," said Austin Wickens, executive director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association. "I hope we don't even see a 'for rent' sign in the window."

The suggestion for such a group as the Colman committee came from Swider, who told a meeting of the Quincy Business Council last week:

"We should form a task force to identify the type of retailer best suited for that facility and then do a hell of a merchandizing job to get him to come to Quincy."

"We can't allow that small chink in our armor to indicate to the world that Downtown Quincy is going downhill."

Swider said it is likely that, once the Colman committee gets organized, its members will make personal visits to prospective retailers in an effort to lure them to 1487 Hancock St.

The Sears rumor apparently got started with a newspaper comment attributed to City Council President Arthur H. Tobin, who was quoted as saying:

"The downtown is becoming a parking lot. Sears is involved in negotiating a lease. It could be there is only going to be one viable department store downtown and that's Remick's."

Spokesman for Sears said flatly that departure rumors are "untrue."

"I'm unhappy to hear such rumors," said Robert Faxon of the Faxon Trust, owners of the Sears property. "Here we are trying to put together a viable street and someone comes up with something like that."

Mayor LaRaia attributed the rumor to "the prophets of doom that are all over the place in an election year. Unfortunately, rumors like that do nothing but create hysteria among business people."

"Looking at it objectively," he said, "the only loss of business establishments in Quincy has been from influences outside the city. Grants and Gilchrist's were parts of chain store operations that were in trouble everywhere."

"There has been little or no loss of non-chain businesses."

He noted that Colman's sporting goods store is in the process of expanding and that a new business was refurbishing the old Barker's stationery store at the corner of Hancock, Chestnut and Maple Sts.

"Retail business is always undergoing change," said the Mayor. "Better products come along, better locations, better futures. There is always a turnover in business."

Meanwhile, James Eddy, downtown development coordinator, responded to what he called "inaccuracies" in the statements attributed to Tobin.

"Mr. Tobin's statements implied that Quincy is no longer attractive to the business community," he said.

"On the contrary, those stores which have vacated have done so for reasons totally unrelated to Quincy's commerce."

"In the case of W. T. Grant and Gilchrist's, both stores suffered nationwide bankruptcy."

"In the case of Milton's, the store has decided to relocate for purposes of reorganization on the advice of financial analysts."

"Raymond's former location will be occupied by two new companies by mid-May, according to Grossman Properties, the owners of the property."

"In addition, there is an affiliate of a major bank moving into Hancock St. the first week of May."

"This administration has developed a comprehensive masterplan with several major developers. Owing to the Mayor's initiative, an ongoing rehabilitation program for storefront facades and sign program have been co-ordinated by Paul Weirs Associates paid for by federal monies. This is a working program, not a proposed and shelved one."

Milton's was founded in 1947 on Maple St. by Isadore Katz. It has since moved twice on Hancock St. and currently is run by his sons, Milton, chairman of the board, and Nathan, who is president.

Other Milton's stores are located in Chestnut Hill and in Manchester, N.H. Its headquarters in Milton Lower Mills will also be moved to the larger location in South Shore Plaza.

by General Dynamics, Panhandle Eastern Pipeline Co., and Moore McCormick Shipping.

They will carry LNG from Algeria to the United States, and transport LNG from Indonesia to Japan.

General Dynamics has spent $40 million in renovations of the shipyard for construction of LNG tankers, which are scheduled to be finished in 1982.

Piranian said the shipyard is talking to companies who transport or distribute LNG as future customers of the yard, as well as trying to obtain naval contracts for new construction.

The continued growth of the yard is forecast in its annual report which shows sales have more than tripled in General Dynamics marine division since 1972, from $320 million to $1 billion.

Piranian said Quincy shipyard has become the most viable shipyard today in the world.

"Most competitors are looking at us to see what we are doing," he said.

As a major employer on the South Shore, his views are good news for future job seekers.

It May Be Spring But

Here's Your Snow Bill: $500,000-Plus

Those three big snow storms in December and January, plus an occasional snow flurry here and there, cost Quincy more than a half million dollars for snow removal, according to Public Works Commissioner Paul Anderson.

Anderson, who was named commissioner only a day or so before the fierce back-to-back storms struck on Jan. 7 and 10, placed the figure at $555,000, most of which will be paid for out of the 1977-78 budget.

"Under state regulations," he said, "we appropriate in the budget the same amount for snow removal as we did the previous year and apply the balance to next year's tax levy."

There was $118,000 earmarked for snow removal in the 1976-77 budget, so $437,000 of next year's expenses can be blamed on the severe winter of 1976-77.

Anderson said more than half of the $555,000 went to personal services, that is, overtime payments to department workers, while the rest was spent to purchase sand and salt and hire snow removal equipment.

The back-to-back storms in January, the commissioner said, probably accounted for as much as $325,000 for the total figure.

Isn't it a bit risky to announce final snow removal figures halfway through April in New England?

"If it snows again," said Anderson, "you'll see my resignation."

'Anything Can Happen' On Myett Appointment

By TOM HENSHAW

The City Council apparently has rejected Frank Myett Jr., his second nominee for a post on the Quincy Housing Authority, but the rebuff doesn't seem to bother Mayor LaRaia one bit.

"There is a good chance the City Council will support his nomination," said the Mayor blithely, seeing chances that have escaped the eye of most.

Actually, Myett was not rejected by the City Council but by the Council's special committee on the confirmation, which is made up of the Council as a whole. The Council didn't vote until last night [Wednesday].

"The official vote won't be taken until Wednesday," said Mayor LaRaia.

"We still have a chance more or less to explain more fully Mr. Myett's qualifications and his neutrality to render decisions in the Housing Authority's interests and not in the interests of a small select group.

"I'm sure that under those circumstances it will not be possible for the Council to turn him down.

"It's the last of the ninth, the bases are loaded and the count is three-and-two. Anything can happen."

If you missed the opening chapters of Quincy's longest running serial since Hoot Gibson was packing them in at the State Theater, the synopsis goes like this:

Rev. Peter Corea's five-year term on the five-member authority expired in February. A screening committee of the Harborview Tenants Committee submitted a list of 12 candidates, topped by Mrs. Ellen Nieters, to Mayor LaRaia. The Mayor nominated Mrs. Nieters.

But the City Council, while agreeing that Mrs. Nieters qualifications were impeccable, refused to confirm her, chiefly on the grounds that senior citizen tenants were excluded from voting roles in the screening process. Mayor LaRaia then nominated Myett, the second name on the screening list.

The vote against Mrs. Nieters was 8-1, with Councillor Paul A. Harold her sole supporter, but the vote of the Council's committee on Myett is a little more difficult to figure since

$25,000 Police Shortage Still Under Investigation

Investigation of an alleged shortage of some $25,000 from the Quincy Police Betterment Association accounts is still alive and continuing under Dist. Atty. William D. Delahunt.

"I anticipate it will take several more weeks to finish," said Delahunt. "It may still go before the grand jury, which is sitting all the time."

Patrolman John Tocchio, former president of the Association, was suspended and has been on an unpaid leave of absence from the Police Department since shortly after the shortage was discovered early in February.

Would Build Outdoor Amphitheatre

Mayor Seeks $1.3 Million For 176 Jobs

The Mayor's Office has filed for four federal grant requests totalling $1,381,789 through the CETA, Title 6, Public Works Employment Act.

"The four proposed projects will place a total of 176 people into new jobs," Mayor LaRia said. "Not only are these projects important to the unemployed but moreover every Quincy resident will benefit from the results of these public works projects."

The proposed projects are:

- Renovation of Merrymount Park to provide Quincy with an outdoor amphitheatre, resulting in an estimated 107 jobs being created for a six-month construction job.
- Updating of zoning, street, water, sewer, and utility drainage maps. This would require $501,219 for salaries and equipment for 403 draftsmen and associated personnel.
- Training of 12 building inspectors for inspections dealing with fire code violations.
- Studying by 13 program participants of the short, intermediate, and long range uses for Quincy's sanitary landfill.

"All four project objectives involve areas that traditionally have difficulty receiving adequate funding, especially during times of municipal cost-cutting and lean city budgets," the Mayor added.

MBTA Tracks Depression Pact:'There It Is, Believe It Or Not'

"There it is, believe it or not," said Robert Kiley, chairman of the MBTA, laying down his pen.

And there it was, indeed, a memorandum of understanding between the city and the state that will open the way for depression of the MBTA Red Line tracks through Downtown Quincy on its way to Braintree.

The City Council has appropriated $500,000 for design work, which must be completed by Aug. 1, plus demolition of old walls and construction of new walls that can support buildings up to three stories.

Previously, the sole opponent of the depression was the MBTA, which feared that the scheduled opening of the extension to Braintree in 1979 might be jeopardized if the federal government required a full environmental impact statement on the depression.

The memorandum of understanding says:

"If a full environmental impact study is required or if any environmental assessment is required, other than that leading to a negative declaration on the 1,800 feet of the proposed further track depression, then the proposal will be dropped, this memorandum will be null and void and the T will proceed with its current plan."

The memorandum specifies that the engineering firm of Parson, Brinkerhoff, Quade and Douglas, Inc., will deliver plans and specifications by Aug. 1, that construction of retaining walls will start by Oct. 1 and the right-of-way will be ready for the MBTA's contractor by Aug. 1, 1978.

Quincy will pay for the demolition of the old walls, construction of the new walls and share 50-50 with the MBTA in non-federal costs in excess of $6 million.

The memorandum was signed by Kiley, Transportation Secretary Frederick Salvucci, Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia, Council President Arthur H. Tobin and Perry Lord, for Parson, Brinkerhoff, Quade and Douglas.

Also attending the formal signing in City Hall were Reps. James A. Sheets and Michael W. Morrissey, Planning Director L. Norman Lundin, and Eric Swider, executive vice president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce.

For Ward 1 Seat

"Seeing the City Council perform for the past few months gave me the final shove," said James F. Miller Jr. in announcing his candidacy for City Councillor from Ward 1.

"I feel the way the City Council operates, the city government is not functioning with the people in mind. They are just thinking of their political careers on every issue."

Miller, who lives at 54 Yardarm Lane, Germantown, was chairman of the Harborview Residents Committee screening committee that recommended the appointment of Ellen Nieters to the Quincy Housing Authority.

The Council refused to confirm Mrs. Nieters after a long exchange of charges and countercharges, during which the fairness of the screening process was questioned by some councillors.

Miller, who works as adaptive housing coordinator for the Massachusetts Rehabilitation Commission, announced his candidacy at an organizational meeting in the home of Marilyn LeBlanc, 27 Quadrant Circle, Germantown.

He said he will kick off his campaign May 20 with a party featuring Greek music and cooking at St. Boniface Church hall.

Stay Alive!

STOP AND DIE!

Few actions are more deadly than stopping your car on a high-speed road. On some super-highways, ten percent of the fatal accidents have involved cars that were standing still. At night, it's not uncommon for a half-asleep driver to see parked tail lights and follow them right onto the shoulder with a crashing conclusion.

If you are forced to stop in an emergency, take these precautions: Get as far off the road as possible. If you want help, tie a white cloth on the left front door handle or lift the hood as signals to troopers and emergency trucks. Don't stand in the road trying to hail motorists; they may run you down.

A good emergency measure is to carry flares as truckers do, so that at night you can place one near the stalled car and another at least 300 feet behind. If you can't get the car completely off the road, don't become a sitting duck. Get passengers out and have them walk a safe distance from the car - just in case.

'Secretary Of Year' Has Served 4 Company Presidents

By KAREN WEBBER

Being named Secretary of the Year is a "great honor" says Bernice Brown of Quincy.

Miss Brown, secretary to John J. Bacon, president of the corporate headquarters of Boston Gas Company in Jamaica Plain, was chosen for the honor by the South Shore Chapter of the National Secretaries Association.

She will celebrate her award at the Secretaries Day dinner meeting, Wednesday, April 27, at The Hollow Restaurant, Quincy.

Miss Brown lives on Independence Ave., South Quincy. She attended St. John's School, Quincy High School, and a two year secretarial program at Bryant & Stratton, Boston.

A secretary at Boston Gas for over 40 years, she has "no regrets" about devoting her entire career to one company.

"I have enjoyed my work very much over the years," she said. "If I had it to do all over again, I would still choose the secretarial field."

Miss Brown started in the stenographic pool. She was promoted to the sales department, the apartment-builder division, the executive offices, and finally, the office of the president.

She has worked for four different presidents in the past 17 years.

"Mr. Bacon has been president for less than a year," Miss Brown said. "He's a wonderful person...well liked in the company and in the industry."

Miss Brown doesn't mind getting coffee for her boss. She says many of the secretaries she is associated with feel the same way.

Some qualities she believes a good secretary should have include, "conscientiousness, loyalty, dignity, poise, courtesy, knowledgeability and pride in your work."

Her advice to women considering secretarial work is "to develop skills during your school years, and to take every advantage of opportunities offered by the company to better yourself." She also feels having a business school education is helpful.

Miss Brown has taken several refresher courses in shorthand and business practices during her career.

Besides her office duties, Miss

Brown is a charter member and past officer of the South Shore Chapter of the NSA. She is currently chairman of the CPS and Education Committee.

The Secretary-of-the-Year is chosen by chapter members using a point system. Chapter involvement, as well as professional achievements, is taken into consideration.

The recognition dinner is held during the 26th annual Secretaries Week [April 24 to April 30].

"My boss will be at the dinner," Miss Brown said. "It should be very exciting."

Chairwoman for Secretaries Week is Dolores Almeida, secretary to R. J. Ferioli, president of R. J. Ferioli, Inc., Plymouth.

Harrington Elected Democratic City Committee Chairman

City Councillor Dennis E. Harrington has been elected chairman of the Democratic City Committee, succeeding Council President and Sen. Arthur H. Tobin, who resigned to run for mayor.

Harrington, an attorney, defeated Kathleen O'Donnell, a school teacher and Democratic State Committeewoman, by a vote of 78-26 at a special meeting Monday night at Montello's.

Committee members also discussed the Democratic caucuses to be held in the wards at 10 a.m. Saturday [April 23] to select delegates to the Democratic Issues Convention scheduled for June 18 at Holy Cross College, Worcester.

Chairman Joseph M. Lydon announced that the Ward 6 caucus will be held in Walsh's

DENNIS HARRINGTON
Restaurant, 9 Billings Rd, North Quincy.

Special Committee Seeks

Large Retail Unit For Milton's Location

"It looks bright," said Robert Colman of Colman's Sporting Goods following the first meeting of his committee of businessmen formed to try to fill the gap in Downtown Quincy left by the departure of Milton's clothing store.

"We plan to contact everybody in the retail business, regardless of size," he said. "We will be working particularly on the possibility of getting a large retail unit to come to Quincy."

Milton Katz of Milton's, a store that has been a fixture in Quincy Square for 30 years, announced two weeks ago that he was moving the business to South Shore Plaza in Braintree, where more space is available.

Colman's committee was organized by the merchants immediately and held its organizational meeting last Thursday. The second meeting will be held today [Thursday] at 4 p.m.

Members of the committee are: Colman; Harold Slate, business property owner; Robert Faxon of Faxon Trust; Frank Remick of Remick's of Quincy; Austin Wickens, executive director of the Quincy Center Business and Professional Association.

Charles Ryder of Ryder's curtain shop; President of the QCBPA Nissie Grossman of the Grossman interests; George Montilio of Montilio's bakery; and Eric Swider and Martha Readon of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce.

LaRaia-Finn

Case Scheduled For Court

A feud of some 15 months standing between Mayor LaRaia and Police Chief Francis X. Finn was scheduled to reach a climax yesterday [Wednesday] in Norfolk Superior Court in Dedham.

Finn was seeking to have the court spell out the extent of the Mayor's authority over the Police Department, a suit that began in January, 1976, only a few days after LaRaia became Mayor.

Right now, the Mayor's authority is restricted by an injunction obtained by Finn which prevents the Mayor from obtaining certain confidential information or making assignments in the Police Department.

four voted for Myett, three against him and two for Mrs. Nieters.

Harold, Warren A. Powers, James A. Sheets and Leo J. Kelly voted for Myett, Dennis E. Harrington and John J. Lydon Jr. voted for Mrs. Nieters and Arthur H. Tobin, Daniel G. Raymond and John J. Quinn voted against both of them.

Tobin said he felt that Mrs. Nieters would have a good case to take to the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination if the Council voted against her, a public housing tenant, and for Myett, a non-tenant.

The report of the Council's committee on confirmation also recommended that the Council virtually take over the process of screening candidates by giving the Council the right to choose six of the nine committee members.

The report said that "the personal choice of the Mayor, whoever the individual may be, is totally unacceptable."

"That," said LaRaia, "is the epitome of the ridiculousness of some of the City Council's deliberations."

Claim 'Politics' In Cronin Ouster

Insiders claim "politics" was the real reason Mayor Joseph LaRaia fired Edward Cronin as chairman of the Quincy Hospital Board of Managers.

The way they tell it, Cronin committed what to LaRaia was an unpardonable sin: he cast the deciding vote to make LaRaia opponent and critic John Cheney vice-chairman earlier this year.

LaRaia contends he dismissed Cronin for "absenteeism". Cronin got the axe while on a Florida vacation. LaRaia had reappointed him to the board in January.

But sources close to the hospital scene say that Cronin had missed only one meeting so far this year.

It wasn't "absenteeism" but "politics", they insist that brought the axe down on him.

They say a nominating committee recommended that Cheney be elected vice-chairman but when it came to a vote by the full board, David MacIntosh, son of late Mayor David McIntosh was nominated by member Simon Fireman. Both are LaRaia appointees.

The vote was 4-to-4. Cronin cast the deciding vote in favor of Cheney.

Reportedly Cronin was later told: "You deserted the ship."

For LaRaia, Cheney is an old political thorn. He was one of Mayor Walter Hannon's top political advisers. Hannon named him to the hospital board in the waning days of his administration following Hannon's upset defeat at the hands of LaRaia.

And what makes Cheney's election as vice-chairman even harder to swallow for LaRaia is that traditionally the vice-chairman moves up to chairman.

But by getting rid of Cronin, LaRaia can now name his "own man" to the board. And this will give him a sure five-man majority on the board.

With a five-man majority, LaRaia could buck tradition and block Cheney from becoming chairman.

The sources also think Hospital Director Anthony DeFalco will wind up with a long-term contract now that LaRaia is in the driver's seat. The ouster of Cronin, they say, assures that.

DeFalco, incidentally is also up for a pay-hike.

QUINCY DISTRICT COURT sources say there wasn't exactly a standing ovation when Judge Albert Kramer named Andrew Klein as chief probation officer to succeed Robert Verge. The latter retires May 21 after 43 years service.

General feeling seems to be that the job should have gone to someone within the ranks and with more experience.

Klein, who served under Judge Kramer when the latter was Gov. Francis Sargent's chief policy advisor has directed Kramer's "Earn It Program" at the Quincy court for the past 13 months or so and has served as court administrator.

The program which has gained wide attention, enables first offenders to make restitution for their offenses by working at court-placed jobs.

Reports are, however, that some court personnel and law enforcement officials think the chief probation post should go to someone with somewhat more experience. The someone most frequently mentioned is Richard Venna who has over 21 years service in the probation department at the court.

Since 1974, Venna has been first assistant chief probation officer—the No. 2 job in the department. Tradition has it that he would be the one to move up to the No. 1 spot as did Verge when John Cronin retired around 1970.

Klein's appointment is subject to approval by the state Commissioner of Probation. Reports are that a number of protests will be filed with the commissioner.

Protests are nothing new for Klein, however. He's been involved in a couple of his own in the past. Only then was he doing the protesting instead of being protested against. He was twice arrested for involvement in demonstrations in South Boston and Newtown protesting the Vietnam War. But the charges were dismissed.

THE FBI seems to be quite interested in certain city records. Very interested.

WALTER HICKEY, the Squantum civil and structural engineer who gave Dennis Harrington a good run for the Ward 6 seat, is expected to toss his hat back into that ring probably by next week.

Hickey, making his first bid for public office two years ago, came within 141 votes of Harrington in an impressive bid.

ELEANOR WOODWARD, all gungho two weeks ago to run for the City Council at-large seat being vacated by Arthur Tobin in his bid for mayor, has changed her mind. Or, rather her doctor has changed it for her, she says.

She reports her MD had advised her not to run because of her health. She was in New England Baptist Hospital for a check-up two weeks ago. She was Mayor LaRaia's fund-raising coordinator in 1975.

COUNCILLOR Paul Harold took a short break from Saturday morning's Finance Committee budget meeting to swim in the Quincy YMCA Aquathon.

And in about 10 minutes and swimming only two laps raised $100 for the YMCA from friends who sponsored him.

Your New Marriage Contract No. 2

The marital conflict that is disturbing you...and most people right now...is probably the result of having no marriage contract on the subject of the disagreement. Or...if you have an agreement, one of you hasn't kept it.

Take Mabel and Marvis for example. She wanted to go to work. Marvis opposed it. He said, "A woman's place is in the home." Then he said, "The kids need you at home."...and "I don't need what you can earn." In the argument his clincher was "my mother never went out to work"...which wasn't very convincing to Mabel. But finally he gave in and agreed to her working at the cocktail lounge.

Mabel had worked just three weeks when Marvis began to pick. First, it was the cost of the gasoline for her to drive to work. Then it was that he couldn't go to sleep unless she was close to him. "Look, Marvis"...she said when she'd had enough..."we made a deal. I'm staying by my part of it...and I expect you to stay by yours." Marvis saw that he was acting out his child...not his adult. He made an about-face...began helping with the evening meal...with the children. They became a very close working team. Both were very happy. They lived out the terms of their contract.

Now observe...their contract worked and they got happy because THEY MUTUALLY AGREED and MUTUALLY BENEFITTED from the terms of the contract. Mabel benefitted because she found fulfillment in being out with people...the house and kids were closing in on her. She needed to do something on her own...to be more than just Marvis' wife...the mother of Marvis' children. She was really happy having the new job...being her own person.

Marvis benefitted not only because she was bringing home a hundred dollars a week which enabled the family to have a winter vacation in Florida...to save $1,000...and to carpet their living room...but above that...he found Mabel lovelier...more vibrant...happier than he'd seen her for years. So, he benefitted emotionally in their relationship from this term of their new contract. Since they MUTUALLY BENEFITTED the term of the contract worked...it was not one-sided.

Marvis had to get rid of his hang-up about women working. He had brought this idea into the marriage without examining it...without discussing it...he just assumed that since his mother hadn't worked, his wife wouldn't either. When with help he was able to examine his attitude toward women...his relationship with his wife...become willing to let her have a life of her own...their agreement on Mabel's working became easy and beneficial. The wife having a job is often a source of conflict.

If you're having conflict over work...money...the use of the car...friends...alcohol...or whatever your conflict, you would do well to work through a contract that will be mutually beneficial. ADULT marriage partners do this. Maybe the problem in many marriages is that there are too many 35-year-old "children" in the role of husbands and wives. Marriage is only for adults.

Brett Possibility?

LaRaia Mum On Cronin Hospital Board Successor

By TOM HENSHAW

Mayor LaRaia says he plans to wait until the end of the week to name a replacement for Edward V. Cronin, who was fired over the weekend as chairman of the City Hospital Board of Managers.

"I have several people in mind," the Mayor told The Sun Tuesday, but he declined to name them.

He also refused to comment on a report that he would appoint former Rep. Joseph E. Brett, who was defeated last fall in his bid for an 11th term in the State House.

Selection of Cronin's successor will give LaRaia appointments a majority on the nine-member board.

Robert Denvir, Joseph M. Aristide, Simon Fireman and David MacIntosh were named by LaRaia; Syria Mayo, Dennis Ryan, Leslie Brierly and Robert Cheney by previous administrations.

Ryan told The Sun he was "disappointed" by Cronin's ouster.

Mayor LaRaia called Cronin's dismissal "a matter of availability, really."

Cronin, who was reappointed to the Board four months ago by the Mayor, is on a six weeks vacation in Florida.

"I thought the decision he made regarding time off did not meet my plans," said LaRaia. "As chairman, I would expect the individual to be available at all times.

"We have been involved with the budget and other plans for the hospital. The bulk of the decisions on these matters has taken place since the first of the year. I feel it's important for the chairman to be on call all the time."

Cronin was the second member of the Board of Managers to be fired by LaRaia.

John T. Williams was dismissed on grounds of excessive absences in September the day before the Board was to vote on the appointment of Anthony DeFalco as hospital director. Williams opposed the appointment.

Council Trims $82,000 From City Budget

The City Council's Finance Committee will meet in City Hall Saturday [April 23] at 10:30 a.m. to review the Police and Fire Department sections of Mayor LaRaia's proposed $82 million city budget.

The meeting time has been set an hour later than usual to permit Councillors and others to attend Democratic party caucuses in the city's six wards, said Finance Committee Chairman John J. Quinn.

Thus far, in two Saturday morning sessions, the Finance Committee has trimmed some $82,000 from the budget in this manner:

Health Department, $10,000; Recreation, $2,000; Cemetery, $5,000; Planning Board, $10,000; Library salaries, $31,174; Library expenses, $17,500; Treasurer's legal fees, $1,000; Treasurer's overtime, $2,000; Tax Collector salaries, $3,000.

A REGIONAL ECONOMY

By Eric Swider

Referendum Vote Favors Mass Transportation

A small portion of the Quincy electorate voted overwhelmingly in a referendum in favor of some form of mass transportation between the South Shore and Boston, left stranded by the demise of passenger service on the New Haven's Old Colony line.

About 5 per cent of the registered voters turned out to cast ballots, 1,668 to 704, in favor of mass transportation, even if it meant a tax rate increase; and 1,414 to 185 in favor of Budd railroad cars over rapid transit.

The Quincy Taxpayers Association, supporters of rapid transit, withdrew its objections to a plan to subsidize railroad service to Boston by floating three bond issues totalling $12 million.

Meanwhile, Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa blamed the state for the South Shore's transportation problems by building too many superhighways. He said the state should assume the cost of solving those problems.

"I am opposed to the various transportation plans," he said, "because Quincy and other cities and towns involved will have to guarantee the millions of dollars to install the new system and to guarantee any deficit.

"Such legislation would place a mortgage on our residential and business property for the next 40 years."

NO-HITTER FOR CROWLEY

Sophomore Phil Crowley pitched a no-hitter and his brother, Gerry, collected three of North Quincy's eight hits as the Raiders blanked Christopher Columbus, 4-0, at Adams Field. The week before, Crowley allowed Don Bosco only one hit.

Bill Devine limited Somerville to two hits but both were doubles in the eighth inning and Quincy lost its Greater Boston League encounter, 3-1. Fran Walsh and Claude Chase, with two hits each, had all the Quincy safeties.

The North Quincy baseball team absorbed a 7-0 whitewash at the hands of Hingham as Dick Omar and Ed Carroll each had two of the Raiders' six hits.

DRAINAGE SCORED

The Quincy Planning Board, in a letter to Mayor Della Chiesa, registered its opposition to acceptance of The Strand and adjacent streets until a solution to drainage problems were solved in the low-lying area off Wollaston Beach.

An emergency meeting scheduled by the Wollaston Park Association to discuss the drainage problem had to be called off when the custodian of the Beechwood Knoll School failed to show up to open the doors to the school.

City Councillor George G. Burke was to have been the main speaker.

'Employee Theft'

There has been a lot written about employee theft...shoplifting...and shrinkage of all forms, and the tremendous cost to business which this problem has created.

There is another form of employee theft which occurs more frequently at the upper management strata, and which becomes disguised as "activity", and it, too, is costing business a considerable amount of money.

Business executives, because of their very nature, find themselves prey to an excessive amount of freedom. This freedom is one of the aspects of the job which is most cherished and yet, it is also a trap.

Insurance agents, particularly those who operate on a straight commission, will tell you that the mortality in that profession is directly attributable to the freedom trap. It can be expressed in another way, and this is the inability or unwillingness of the individual to guard and protect their "business" time...and to separate it from their "personal" time.

When that person is on a straight commission and the end product of his work is the weekly paycheck which is directly linked to production, you find the inevitable happening...either they become a success and flourish in the business for many years, or they find their production wanting and are soon "out of business" from lack of an adequate financial reimbursement.

When a person has that same degree of freedom and is on a monthly wage, it takes considerably longer for the realities of their production to catch up...or to be discovered by their employer.

Except for the non-exempt employees [those on a 40-hour work week], "coffee breaks" should be replaced with "business appointments". The act is somewhat identical...that is, the individual is achieving a change of environment and enjoying some refreshment. However, the results of tying the break with someone in business will generally result in some positive follow-through to the benefit of the organization. The trap which one falls into with a coffee break is that the time one sets aside for that purpose becomes sacred and will often take precedent over more important matters. The other and more familiar pattern which coffee breaks take is the actual time loss.

A 15-minute coffee break will, in most cases, approach 30 to 45 minutes twice a day...a classic form of employee theft. A business appointment may take that amount of time and more, but it results in production.

Management's ability to plan becomes all the more important when one considers the "employee theft", which results from poor planning. There is not only the loss of time and efficiency of the management person, but all of those who are subordinate to him become caught up in his inefficiency. For example, the individuals who leave all of their dictating or preparation for events for the last minute, forces subordinates into either a frenzy to complete the work in the closing minutes of the day or requires them to put in overtime to accomplish the task. This then becomes time and one-half theft. There are some simple planning functions which eliminate such abuses...

* Spend the last 15 minutes of your day in preparation for tomorrow. Start a "Things to do Today" list, if nothing else. You will find that this simple procedure alone will generate a much more even flow of work and create a demand on your time which will ease out your personal time obstructions.

* Live by a Daily Log...commit nothing to memory! This simple act will relieve your mind of untold confusion and allow you to concentrate totally on the project before you. When that nagging feeling hits you that you've forgotten something, you can wash away those hidden fears by simply referring once again to your pocket calendar.

* Confirm Appointments! There is nothing so exasperating as rushing from important work to that engagement that doesn't materialize. Pick up the phone and confirm the appointment.

* Learn the Art of Dictation! The most inexpensive piece of office equipment from the standpoint of production is dictating equipment. This tool not only allows you to write letters simply and speedily, but it also can program a full day's activities for your help in only a matter of minutes. Personal dictation requires two people present and then the act of transcribing shorthand notes. You completely "free up" your secretary for the period of dictation by using electronic equipment.

A recent study reveals that the average manager "works" about 53 hours per week. Perhaps this is a loose use of the word "work", for I'm sure none of us spend 53 hours of productive time on the job each week.

Someone once said that the average person works at about 10 per cent of their potential...and that if we improve that percentage by 50 per cent, or up to 15 per cent of our potential, that we become superstars. Should we become proficient and move that percentage to 20 per cent, we fall into a tiny group of individuals who usually are very wealthy and successful.

This all leads to the point that "spending time" should not be confused with "working". Unless some distinction is made between those two by the individual, there will always be employee theft. It is much better to PLAN a full day to the golf course or on the stream with a fly rod after you WORK each day to its fullest.

Guzzi's Office To Continue State House Tours

Rep. James A. Sheets [D-Quincy] announces that the Tours Division of Secretary Paul Guzzi's office will continue to provide tours of the State House to its visitors.

Presently the division offers two types of basic tours - one for adult interest groups and another for senior high school students. Their goal is to clarify government processes.

For adult interest groups a basic legislative tour is offered that starts at the House and Senate Clerks' Offices and moves on to a committee hearing, the House, Senate and Governor's Office with a final stop at the Legislative Documents Room.

The high school program is a highly participatory program that includes, in addition to the basic legislative tour, a slide presentation, discussion groups and a mock legislative session, at which students are encouraged to debate issues of their choice and vote on them.

Sheets said anyone interested in these tours should contact him at his State House office at 727-2584 or 727-2585.

REALTOR® PRIVATE PROPERTY WEEK

Driving Force Behind Settlement

America's History: The Development Of Its Land

"The history of America is to a very great extent the story of the development of its land," according to Vito Barresi GRI, president of the Quincy and South Shore Board of Realtors. His remarks were made in connection with the national observance of Private Property Week, April 17-23.

"Following the Revolution, America offered a unique opportunity for the common man to own land," he said. "In America, land ownership was considered a civil liberty. Nowhere else in the world was the ownership of land free of feudal duties.

"The desire to own land was a driving force behind the settlement of the United States. It drew immigrants like a magnet. It enabled settlers by the thousands to endure the hardships of the trek westward. "At the conclusion of the Revolution, the American government found itself faced with a serious debt. In 1791 Congress decided to extinguish that debt by the sale of public land.

"The Land Act of 1796 permitted Americans to purchase a minimum of 640 acres at $2 per acre. Half the purchase price had to be paid immediately. The rest fell due no later than the first anniversary of the day of purchase.

"In spite of the low price, a land boom did not develop. The average man could not afford the price. Also, the program bucked a public attitude that land was a free commodity. Settlers believed they were performing a patriotic duty just by clearing virgin territory and settling it.

"Revisions of the act in 1800 and 1804 reduced the minimum tract and liberalized the payment policy but did not increase sales as expected. The Preemption Act of 1841 and later the Homestead Act of 1862 demonstrated a change in government policy. The first permitted individuals already settled on a piece of land to purchase the property, up to 160 acres, from the government at $1.25 per acre. The second Act provided settlers with 160 acres of free public land provided they resided on it continuously for five years and paid a small registration fee.

"In spite of the abundance of land in early America," Barresi pointed out, "land speculation and land speculators flourished. Their goal was the rapid turnover of undeveloped land for quick profit. Many famous early Americans, including George Washington, engaged in land speculation which was not considered an unworthy occupation.

"Unfortunately," he added, "land speculation had its share of deceitful practitioners. But even they played a role in the development of the country as it expanded westward.

"Faced with the competition of cheap federal land, speculators devised a scheme to sell large tracts. They laid out entire communities and sold them to investors. Among the cities created in this manner were Cleveland, Toledo and Cincinnati, Ohio.

"Very early the development of transportation was linked with that of Private Property. The opening of the Erie Canal in 1825, for example, proved to be a major boost for New York and other cities which benefited from the traffic on the canal.

"The railroads created an even greater impact. When the federal government began granting alternate sections of public land along railroad right-of-ways to private investors as an incentive for construction, railroad expansion began in earnest. The investors plotted the land and vigorously promoted its sale.

"The largest grant of this kind was made to Philadelphia investment banker Jay Cooke. Cooke received 47 million acres in 1864 to link Duluth, Minn., with Puget-Sound, Wash. By 1917 the railroad, the Northern Pacific, put together at a cost of $70 million, could report that $136 million had been received from land sales.

"The overriding benefit of land sales activities during the first 100 years of our U.S. history was that the ownership of land was distributed evenly through the country," Barresi said.

"Federal and state laws, along with professional standards advanced by organizations such as the National Association of Realtors, today have virtually eliminated the abuses of land speculators. It still pays to deal with a Realtor when considering an investment in real property."

Decide What You Want In A House Before You Start Looking

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following question-and-answer column, provided in conjunction with Private Property Week, April 17-23, deals with two questions that frequently are asked members of the Quincy and South Shore Board of Realtors Inc. The answers given by Vito Barresi, board president, will assist home owners and potential buyers of homes throughout the area.

QUESTION: How do I decide what home-style - size, location and cost - to buy for me and the family?

ANSWER: Before you visit a Realtor's office to be shown homes, sit down with all members of the family and discuss what it is you want in a home.

Do you want a modern, rambling ranch-style or an older two- or three-story home, for example? Is yours an active, sports-minded and recreation-minded family? If so, you would want a home with a family or recreation room and the home should be located near a park or near baseball, tennis or football facilities.

Do you have young children? Then you wouldn't want to locate in a neighborhood that has few young playmates for them.

In short, Realtors try to fit the home to the family and not the family to the home.

QUESTION: I have enough of a down payment now to buy a nice home, but not the kind of home I really want. Wouldn't it be best for me to wait until I have the money for my "dream house" instead of buying less of a home now?

ANSWER: Waiting to buy your dream house likely will put you further from the date that you will be able to buy the home. Each year you wait to buy a home costs you money. It's not just the equity you won't be gaining. The cost of the home goes up.

Nationally, the price of homes has risen faster than the rate of inflation, so a home that this year might cost $40,000 could cost as much as $44,000 next year.

Finally, there is no guarantee that the prevailing interest rate this year will be the same or lower next year. An increase of .5 per cent would mean about $9 more monthly on a $25,000 mortgage. Carrying the $9 over the length of a 25-year mortgage, the loss would be about $2,700.

The best time to buy is when you can afford to buy a home. Don't wait to be able to buy that dream house; buy the "nice home" now, built equity, enjoy living in your own home. Later, buy the dream home with the equity, profit from the sale of the "nice home" and the additional savings you've accumulated.

Members of the Quincy and South Shore Board of Realtors Inc. will help find a home suitable for you and your family, one you can own now and not have to dream about.

Private Property Week is an annual observance of the right of all Americans to acquire their own home and land. It was a right guaranteed to them even before the Constitution was written. The 500,000-members of the National Association of Realtors are joining with home owners across the nation in a quiet observance of this historic right to own private property. The dates are April 17-23.

Fire Dept. Urges Installation Of Smoke Detectors In Homes

By MICHAEL WIGDOR

The Quincy Fire Department urges installation of smoke detectors by Quincy residents in their homes as an early warning signaling device for fire.

Approved detectors cost as little as $25 and average $40.

A regulation in the State Building Code in 1976 requires that all new buildings being constructed for human habitation be equipped with smoke detectors from the highest habitable level down, from the attic to the cellar with emphasis on the sleeping areas.

However, older homes are not covered by this regulation, and "it is up to residents to purchase smoke detectors to insure their own life safety," according to the Fire Department.

There is a provision for heat detectors in a Quincy ordinance [first in nation] for homes constructed in and after 1958, but "smoke detectors will react faster than thermal if put side to side," says Captain Francis Daly, head of the fire prevention bureau.

A smoke detector will trigger an alarm faster than a heat detector.

Smoke detectors are of two types, ionization or photoelectric, electrically or battery operated, and single or multiple station.

The ionization type reacts to the products of combustion before smoke becomes visible. It enables quick detection in the area of a fresh fire. An ionization chamber contains a radioactive source that emits alpha particles that ionize entering air molecules. When products of combustion enter the chamber, from one to 10 microns in size, they impede the flow of ions and short the field out tripping the alarm.

In the photoelectric type, a beam of light in the detector is deflected when smoke is injected into it. The light is deflected toward the photocell which increases the current and trips the alarm.

Manufacturers make ionization models that are operated by electric plug or batteries. Pyrotechtor of Hingham and Captain Kelly will soon have on the market single station battery operated photoelectric smoke detectors, according to Fire Chief Edward Barry, but most photoelectric models are electrical.

Detectors which are single station or unit do not have contacts to attach to other detectors in the home, and would only alarm in the area of the fire. All detectors would alarm residents if one was tripped with a multiple station detector.

Chief Barry said, "I am primarily interested in the single unit battery operated detector of either type, located near the sleeping areas. I would encourage people to start off with 3 or 4 detectors in the home if they can afford to buy them."

Any brand or model that has been tested by Underwriters Laboratories, UL, or other nationally recognized laboratory is acceptable, and some manufacturers whose models are UL approved include Pyrotronics, a maker of ionization types, Pyrotechtor, Honeywell, Captain Kelly, BRK, General Electric, Edwards, Statitrol, and Wellen companies.

Prices start from $25.00 and average around $40. for smoke detectors, Captain Daly said, but buying in bulk would make the price much cheaper.

He says both types are equally good and recommends buying one of each "to cover all bets."

Some do's and don'ts of the Fire Department concerning smoke detectors:

- Make sure with electric detectors that the circuit is always live and can't be switched off.

- If battery operated, replace batteries at first warning sign. UL models give a warning signal for at least seven days, and usually 30 days on new models, before batteries die out.

- Get a detector with a battery that is easily replaceable.

- Check detector regularly, at least once a month, because household dust might interfere with the proper working of the detector.

- Don't pay exorbitant prices, many good products are on the market at reasonable prices.

"Detection buys you time to get out," says Captain Daly. The main idea is life safety. Smoke detectors give up to four more minutes to get to safety, than a home without them."

Education Important Role

Realtors Stress Dedication

"As the National Association of Realtors approaches its 70th anniversary next year, its 500,000 members and associate members maintain a tradition of dedication to the needs of the American home-buying public," said Vito Barresi, GRI president of Quincy and South Shore Board of Realtors Inc.

"Society and the needs of the American family have become more complex, and it has become increasingly important for Realtors to keep far ahead of developments in their field. Consequently, education continues to play an important role in every Realtor's professional life."

Realtors and home owners all over the country are joining together in the national observance of Private Property Week, April 17-23.

"In looking back now, it is difficult to imagine that formal training in the real estate field in this country did not exist before 1904, and that not until the mid-1920's did good textbooks on the subject exist in any number."

He noted that historical credit for the first attempt to establish some form of real estate training belongs to the Real Estate Board of Broken of New York City. In 1904, that board sponsored lectures on the subject at the West Side YMCA. By 1913, this initial effort had spread all over the country. Formal texts on real estate did not play a part in the education process because they then did not exist.

"The lack of formal training in the real estate field evidently plagued the founders of the National Association of Realtors in 1908," Barresi said. "This concern was reflected in one of their objectives: the compilation of relevant information in the field."

"The Association took its first steps in real estate education five years later when it adopted a Code of Ethics; began a program to license its members as qualified practitioners; and implemented its first education program by printing relevant technical articles in its publication."

The Association concentrated on the textbook problem. In [Cont'd on Page 19]

TAKING OVER A GI LOAN

VA loans are partially guaranteed by the Veterans Administration and hence, like FHA loans, involve less risk for the lenders than conventional loans and carry lower interest rates. Many low-interest VA loans have been made with little or no down payment which makes them real bargains to assume when buying a home financed in this manner.

A veteran can now normally transfer a GI loan with no strings attached if the VA approves the new owner's credit, and the new owner assumes the veteran's loan obligation.

But there are legalities to observe and pitfalls to avoid. For example, shifting the debt to the new owner doesn't automatically erase the seller's responsibility for repayment of the loan in case of default. But this can be arranged with just a little extra effort. In these matters, it's wise to have the professional guidance of a Realtor.

1915, survey of the Library of Congress revealed 40 books on real estate. Only eight to ten were judged to be worth reading.

A continuing publications council, to bring worthwhile texts into existence, was founded in 1917. World War I delayed action until 1923, a year that turned out to be a landmark in real estate education.

Two national conferences in that year launched systematic real estate education. Taking part were the YMCA Schools, the Association of Collegiate Schools of Business, the Institute of Research in Land Economics and the Association. One of the results was the development of a standard two-year course in real estate. Plans were also put into motion to establish a four-year college level course and a 17-week short course. A joint committee of the participating organizations was formed to screen and hire authors to write nine needed texts, the first of which was published that year.

"As the Association grew and as the real estate field diversified," Barresi said, "nine affiliate organizations were founded to answer the needs of real estate specialists. One of their primary goals has always been education. Six of them award designations based on education and achievement."

In 1964, the National Association sought to coordinate state association-sponsored training programs offered to people entering the real estate field. Standards for the programs were established. Persons successfully completing the course are awarded the G.R.I. or "Graduate, Realtors Institute" designation.

The Association's Herbert U. Nelson Memorial Library is a most valuable educational asset. Established in 1923, it is the largest collection of materials on real estate in the United States. A total of 14,000 books, 400 periodicals and some 75,000 miscellaneous reference materials are on file.

"Education plays an important part in the professional life of a Realtor," Barresi said. "In order to provide the American family with the quality of service it rightly demands, it is incumbent on each member to not only keep abreast of current affairs but to look to the future. It is part of the Realtor's dedication to professionalism."

Private Property Week aims at emphasizing the historic right of Americans to own land and their own homes. The United States was the first nation in the world to guarantee this right. Even before the Constitution was written, settlers were able to acquire and sell land, all without government interference.

Over 3 Million Transactions

1976 Banner Year For Resale Of Single Homes

Last year was the best year in history for the sale of existing [resale] single-family homes in the U.S., according to the National Association of Realtors.

"Just over three million existing single-family home transactions took place in 1976, making it the best year ever for the resale market," said H. Jackson Pontius, executive vice president, in releasing the annual report prepared by the association's Department of Economics and Research.

Pontius attributed the record volume of 3,002,000 units to a number of factors. Among them were the ample supply of mortgage funds at interest rates that were the lowest in recent years, bright employment prospects and a substantial rise in personal income.

Accompanying the sales increase was a record growth rate in dollar volume, the report indicates. During the year American consumers spent $126.7 billion on resale homes, a 32.5 per cent increase over the 1975 figure.

Of the $31.1 billion rise, the report says, 70 per cent resulted from the increase in the number of sales transactions and the remainder from a rise in selling prices.

"Historically, the growth in dollar volume has been spectacular," Pontius said. "The value of sales in 1976 was almost double the total of four years earlier and more than three and one-half times the 1968 level."

Somewhat surprisingly, the report says, the growth rates were almost identical in each of the four regions of the country. Existing home sales in the South and North Central regions grew by about 23 per cent, in the Northeast by 21 per cent and in the West by 20 per cent.

With 1,110,000 sales, the South became the first of the four regions to record more than a million resale transactions in a single year, the report notes. The South accounted for more than one of every three existing single-family homes sold during the year. The percentage of the total for the other regions were: North Central, 28.1 per cent; West, 19.7 per cent; and Northeast, 15.3 per cent.

Despite the strong level of activity, the report says, the median sales price rose a relatively modest 7.9 per cent to $38,100, the lowest price rise since 1973 and the first increase of less than 10 per cent in three years. However, there was a wide variation by region, with a 16.4 per cent increase in the West, 9.3 per cent in the North Central region, 6.4 per cent in the Northeast and only 4.9 per cent in the South.

The report graphically illustrates the steady rise in home prices in terms of the growing proportion of single-family home resales occurring in the higher price ranges. Last year 28.2 per cent of all such sales were of homes priced at $50,000 or above. Just four years ago, only 9.0 per cent of the homes sold were priced that high.

Not surprisingly, the report notes, the high-priced Western region led the nation in the percentage of homes in the upper price bracket, with 41.2 per cent selling for $50,000 or more and 16.6 per cent for $70,000 or more.

"Despite the rising cost of energy, buyers have not lost interest in larger homes," Pontius said. "In 1976 sales of existing homes containing four or more bedrooms accounted for 26.4 per cent of market activity, virtually identical to the preceding year when these larger homes represented 26.6 per cent of all resales."

The growth in resale housing activity over the past six years has been spectacular, but highly uneven, the report notes. During the period sales rose by 86 per cent — an average of 14 per cent annually — from 1,612,000 in 1970 to 3,002,000 in 1976.

However, the average was not achieved in any of those years. From March 1970 to March 1973, the average annual increase was over 25 per cent. Then for the next two years, a combination of high interest rates and recession led to a decrease in sales. But in February 1975 resales once again took off, and the market regained its lost ground and went on to new highs.

Private Property Rights, Energy Savings Programs Launched By Nation's Realtors

The nation's 500,000 Realtors and Realtor-Associates recently launched a double-barreled campaign from Chicago.

The first is a coast-to-coast observance of "Private Property Week" April 17-23 in which the association's members join with the nation's home owners in marking the historic right of Americans to own property freely and without government intervention.

The other is a national program started simultaneously to assist home owners in saving more energy and in conserving more natural resources.

Harry G. Elmstrom, the association's president and a Realtor from Ballston Spa, N.Y., was joined by N. Allen Anderson, Chicago, regional Administrator for the Federal Energy Administration, in a press conference at the association's headquarters building.

"We have been encouraging home owners to conserve energy for years," Elmstrom said, "and this new campaign introduced simultaneously with Private Property Week is an intensification of that program. It is an ongoing campaign at the grass roots level. Our members in the thousands of communities where they have offices, are encouraging home owners to do all they can to make their home more energy efficient."

"Our Statement of Policy has taken note of the energy situation for a long time. In the real estate field, conservation measures center primarily on energy required to heat and cool buildings and energy required to transport people and goods between them."

REAL ESTATE/HOME IMPROVEMENT

Choosing a contractor? Here's how to pick one

The right contractor can be a big asset on any major home improvement project. Since a contractor's stock in trade is his knowledge and reliability, he ought to be selected on that basis.

Most contractors are legitimate businessmen. But when planning a home improvement, the homeowner is a vulnerable target for "fly-by-night" home remodeling operators who take advantage of their unsuspecting victims.

For this reason, a homeowner can be confident he is in good hands when he deals with a locally established contractor, someone who is proud of the work he does and is anxious to promote his company's goodwill for the future.

Pick a company or individual who has been in business long enough to build a reputation; ask for a list of jobs he has done so you can inspect his work and talk to his customers; check with the Better Business Bureau; be sure he is insured for on-the-job accidents; and, obtain a copy of the contract to determine whether it covers everything the contractor has said he will do.

There is no mystery in choosing a dependable contractor. But your care in selecting the right one at the start will pay handsome dividends in a job well done, and in many years of satisfaction and enjoyment.

Quincy Cooperative Bank Establishes QJC Scholarship

Dr. Edward Pierce, president of Quincy Junior College, John Herbert, president and chairman of the board of Quincy Co-operative Bank and School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Crendon jointly announce establishment of "The Quincy Co-operative Bank Scholarship" at a recent luncheon meeting in The Three Seasons Restaurant at Quincy Vocational-Technical School.

Herbert said the bank has designated $1,500 to aid a Quincy Junior College graduate to further his or her education at a Baccalaureate degree institution. It will be awarded to a student receiving an Associates Degree from Quincy Junior College in June who has demonstrated strong academic achievement and has contributed to the College or community in extra-curricular, student government, social service, or other civic activities.

Dr. Crendon commended the Quincy Co-operative for its continued interest in the citizens of the communities the bank services. Among the many civic endeavors the bank supports are the Retired Citizens Volunteer Program, the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women, and Quincy City Hospital.

Dr. Pierce announced that while many organizations and people contribute scholarships to assist students in attending Quincy Junior College, the Quincy Co-operative Bank Scholarship is the first such award directed to a Quincy Junior College graduate.

"We are delighted to be able to assist our students in continuing their education through this scholarship," said Dr. Pierce, "and we have many students who fit the set guidelines - students who maintain good grades, contribute to the betterment of their community, and often work part-time as well."

Also attending the luncheon were Quincy Co-operative Administrative Vice-President, Francis Mitchell, who will be presenting the Quincy Co-operative Bank Scholarship at Quincy Junior College's Commencement June 5; Jeremiah Foley from the bank, Arthur Woodward, Quincy Public Schools, and Toby Felton, Quincy Junior College.

"Because of the good healthy inflow of savings deposits, Quincy Savings currently is able to offer more mortgage money with reduced interest rates," he said.

"I am also pleased to inform the corporation that several marketing goals developed for the bank last fall are either right on target or close to being attained. These goals are in the form of numbers of net new accounts and net dollar additions.

"Much of the bank's present and future marketing successes can be tied to a recently launched spring promotion campaign," said Mr. Pearce. "This campaign has been running for about a month now, and as I mentioned earlier, I am pleased at the trends which appear to indicate we will be achieving and even surpassing our original marketing goals."

Morrissey noted that Sen. Arthur H. Tobin (D-Quincy) also has voiced objections over the condition of the lot.

"We have been in touch with the office of the director of the MBTA," he said.

Morrissey said the MBTA leases its parking lots to outside contractors who are responsible for their maintenance.

The Pay Raise

Last week the Legislature voted state employees a raise. Included in the raise, was a raise for Legislators. Last year, the Legislature voted to place themselves on the state employees pay scale at level 19, [$13,800]. Rep. Frank Hatch, the House Minority Leader, offered an amendment which would take Legislators out of the scheduled pay level and raise. I supported his amendment. I knew what the job paid when I took it. I felt that the raise would subject the Legislature to much criticism, accepting a raise through the back door.

I would like to make it clear that I will vote for a raise for Legislators to take effect January 1, 1979. On January 1st, 1979, the Massachusetts Legislature will be reduced from 240 members to 160 members. Many districts will almost double in size. The House cut was voted to encourage more full time Representation. This is why I will support a pay raise for full-time Representatives.

The Bottle Bill is still alive after almost being defeated in the Senate. I hope to keep you posted on its progress. If you have any comments on the Bottle Bill, I would like to hear from you.

Last week the Governor testified before my Committee, Urban Affairs in support of his Elderly Housing Package. The Governor recommended a $50 million bond authorization for renovations and construction of new facilities. The Governor's proposal could provide up to 3,000 units of elderly housing which could benefit over 25 communities. The State has only met 20% of the elderly housing need. The Committee acted favorably on the proposal but increased the authorization to $100 million. The proposal was then sent to the Ways and Means Committee.

Look forward to hearing from you with your ideas and suggestions. I can be reached at home or local office by calling 328-0900 or at the State House by calling 727-7035. Every Monday, Wednesday and Friday morning from 8 to 10 a.m. and on Wednesday evening from 6 to 9 p.m. I will be available at my district office, 67 Billings Road. Drop by and see me.

Raymondi Complains About Elevators At Pagnano Towers

Ward 2 Councillor Daniel Raymondi, has complained to Clement O'Brien, administrator of the Quincy Housing Authority, regarding the condition of elevators at the Pagnano Towers Senior Citizen's apartment facility.

"The elevators...are in constant need of repair and maintenance," Raymondi said in a letter to O'Brien. He noted that the lack of elevator service imposes not only a physical hardship on the residents of the Towers, but inconveniences emergency help which may be needed on upper floors.

Raymondi asked O'Brien to look into the matter and arrange a special meeting of the Housing Authority to solve the problem.

'Certificate of Need' Metro Health Council Topic

The South Metro Health Council will present an explanation of the Massachusetts "certificate of need" process at a meeting April 25, at 7:30 p.m. at the Barnes Auditorium Hingham Town Hall Office, 7 East St., Hingham.

This process is designed to cure rising health costs using cost and quality control.

Council member Dr. William Ridder, of Quincy, will report on the Acute Inpatient Care Committee.

Other Quincy members of the Council are Ruth Dobbie, R.N., Clarence Edwards, Marilyn Hamel, John Nigro, Theresa Phelan, Samuel Solomon, M.D., Deborah Timcoe and chairman Rosemary Wahlberg.

Heart Effect Testing At YMCA

Concerned about the effects of physical activity on your heart?

A program of exercise testing, risk factor evaluation and exercise prescription will be held by the New England Cardiovascular Health Institute April 24, at the Quincy YMCA.

Testees will undergo a thorough medical evaluation, including an electrocardiogram, and then will perform various test exercises while a member of the NECHI staff continues to monitor the heart.

Blood pressure, heart rate and electrocardiogram results measured during the test provides the information to determine if your cardiovascular function is normal or if you run the risk of disability from exercise.

NECHI doctors also will obtain blood samples to be analyzed for serum cholesterol and plasma concentration of glucose.

Persons interested in being tested should contact Bill Johnson at the Quincy YMCA, 479-8500.

Burke: GD Job Situation Good Studds: Fishing Enforcement Vital

Congressman James A. Burke [D-Milton] says he feels that the General Dynamics Quincy Shipyard may soon be able to supply enough jobs to take many Massachusetts residents off the welfare and unemployment rolls.

Burke told a Congressional workshop held by the South Shore Chamber of Commerce at Valle's Steak House in Braintree that the Shipyard has received contracts totalling $1.5 billion to build 12 liquefied natural gas [LNG] tankers.

He criticized those people who remain on welfare and unemployment unnecessarily, adding, "They should work and I'm interested in jobs in the private sector for them."

But, he warned his audience of mainly businessmen, that "unless we cut taxes on a broad scale and put a lot more people back to work, we're in trouble."

Congressman Gerry E. Studds [D-Cohasset] told the workshop that the seizure on Easter Sunday of two Soviet fishing vessels for violating the 200-mile limit was an action long in coming.

He blamed the State and Defense Departments for "interfering" with two White House decisions not to enforce the 200-mile fishing limit which was passed by Congress earlier this year.

"The entire purpose of the statute is to save an important food resource and with it many jobs," he said. "It's not a flag-waving maneuver for the American government."

Card Says Carter Universal Voter Plan 'Invitation To Fraud'

Rep. Andrew Card [R-Holbrook], a member of the Republican State Committee whose area includes Quincy, has castigated President Carter's universal voter plan as "an open invitation to promote and expand the opportunities for vote fraud which may undermine public confidence in our electoral process."

The President's proposal would permit prospective voters to register right up to the time of balloting at the polling places.

"While everyone favors broader citizen participation in the electoral process," said Card in a statement, "granting big city political bosses and organized special interest groups the opportunity to stuff the ballot boxes in every election is not in keeping with American traditions of fair and honest elections."

elections.

"For the President to say that our present registration laws discourage millions of people from voting is mere rhetoric. Despite all the talk of what might have been, the present system has served the nation rather well for many years."

"As proposed, the President's plan would serve to eliminate all safeguards for honest elections. It is no great burden to ask citizens to pay a simple visit to their city or town hall to register to vote. With rights come responsibilities. The American people understand and accept that premise. So must President Carter."

"President Carter's other proposal for taxpayer-financed Congressional elections will practically insure the re-election of the present Congress since spending limitations hurt challengers who must overcome the incumbent's name recognition advantage.

"This proposal amounts to life-long job security at a cost to the taxpayers of $60-150 million each election year. We have seen the President endorse a $12,900 pay raise for Congress. Now he proposes to pay for their re-election campaigns with the taxpayers' money."

"Taxpayers must remember that each member of Congress already has staff, travel, mailings, and other free benefits of office which can be used for political purposes at a cost of over $500,000 each year. In the Senate the cost is more than double that amount."

"How much advantage do Congressmen need?"

McCarthy Urges Elimination Of SS Limitations

Patrick H. McCarthy, the Randolph attorney who lost a bid to unseat Cong. James A. Burke [D-Milton] in the 1976 Democratic primary, found a receptive audience the other day when he proposed the elimination of earnings limitations for people on Social Security.

The place: Pagnano Towers, one of Quincy's Senior Citizen housing complexes where most of the residents receive some form of Social Security and have a ceiling of $3,000 on their outside earnings.

"Congress should at least raise the ceiling this year to $5,200," urged McCarthy. "Right now, if a Social Security recipient's outside earnings are in excess of $3,000 benefits are reduced by $1 for each $2 of earnings over $3,000.

"This is wrong."

McCarthy, whose topic was "What Senior Citizens Should Expect from the 95th Congress", also fielded questions on efforts to refinance the dollar-depleted Social Security Trust Fund and the possibility of expanding Medicare or Medicaid coverage to home care services.

3 Q-N Players Babson Standouts

Three Quincy-North Quincy players helped the young Babson College basketball team, which recently finished with an 11-14 record.

The trio, all returning next year, are Ken Marsters, Mike Cullen and Jay Nelson. Marsters and Nelson are former North Quincy players and Cullen played at Quincy High.

The season included many highlights and contained performances which are encouraging for next year.

Babson had four freshmen on this year's team and it will lose only two seniors to graduation. Thus it is expected that coach Bill Olson's squad will compile a better record in 1977-78.

Babson's biggest win this year came in January against rival Bryant. A decisive underdog, Babson upset its rival, 106-86, for the first of three straight wins.

Other good wins this season came against Bates (80-65), Coast Guard (77-72), St. Anselm's (78-71), and Lowell (90-85). Babson lost two close games to nationally ranked Division III teams. Brandeis beat Babson, 76-70, and Hamilton had to go into overtime to beat the Beavers by a score of 86-83.

With all but two of the team's members returning next year, all signs look good for a winning record.

Marsters and Cullen are juniors and both play guard. Each has been a three year regular for Babson's varsity and each started a number of games this season. Marsters is a natural leader and he served his team as a co-captain this year while still in his junior year.

A good floor general, he led the team in assists for the second straight season. The 5-11, 175 pounder was also Babson's fourth leading scorer. He is the son of Earle and Rosemary Marsters of 40 Estabrook Road in Quincy.

Cullen is also an excellent ballhandler. He is generally in the game to help Babson's running game move. The 6-2, 175 pounder is also a superb defensive player. He is the son of John and Louise Cullen of 40 South Walnut St., Quincy.

Nelson is a freshman at Babson. The 6-4, 210 pounder had an excellent rookie season while playing center. He is very tough on defense and he is a strong rebounder. Playing more and more as the season progressed, he showed that he is also a capable scorer. He is the son of Albert and Lita Nelson of 33 Royal St., Quincy.

Koch Broadmeadows District Presents Trophies At Banquet

The Broadmeadows District of the Koch Club held its 15th annual Basketball Awards Banquet recently at the Fore River Clubhouse, Quincy Point.

Some 125 members, parents, and friends were in attendance. Each member of the league was presented a trophy in recognition of good attendance and their responsibility as well as dependability to the league, and fellow teammates.

Richard J. Koch, Executive Director of The Koch Club was emcee, while Broadmeadows District Director Anthony T. Delmonico and Mrs. Delmonico were co-chairmen of the event.

Delmonico announced the Broadmeadows District of The Koch Club will open its 16th season of Girls Softball and Boys Baseball Tuesday, May 3, at Broadmeadows Junior High School Field.

The Broadmeadows District is completing 15 years of successful programs for boys and girls in softball, baseball, bowling, and basketball with thousands of children in the area enjoying the varied recreational activities.

Delmonico founded the Broadmeadows District of the organization in May of 1962.

John Riggs MCI Standout

John F. Riggs, son of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Riggs of 230 West St., West Quincy, was one of the leading scorers for the MCI Preppers basketball squad, which would up its season by coming within 10 points of winning the New England Prep School Championship.

The final game of a 14-3 season was the Preppers' loss to Worcester Academy at Brandeis University in the finals of the NEPSC.

Riggs, a 6'4" forward, ended the season, marked by wins against such teams as University of Maine at Orono, Boston College and Harvard, with a 13.5 points per game average. He plans to attend the University of New Hampshire, next fall, where he has been accepted to the Hotel Administration course.

Gibbons Hurls 2-Hitter

Quincy Slugs Cambridge-Latin, North Edged By Waltham

Quincy's inexperienced baseball team, which got a lot of bad baseball out of its system in two non-league losses to B.C. High, showed marked improvement last week when it clobbered Cambridge Latin, 9-0, in its Suburban League opener.

Southpaw Pat Gibbons pitched a strong two-hitter and Jimmy Maze had three hits for the Presidents. Gibbons threw only 81 pitches in going the route and struck out six.

Maze singled home a run in a five-run sixth inning. Rick Gilbody and Rich Gibbons each drove in two runs. Pete Niosi, Mike Murphy, Len Picot, Mark Giordani, Gilbody and Gibbons had one hit apiece.

North Quincy, which had bowed to Milton, 4-2, in a non-league opener, dropped a 7-6 squeaker to Waltham in its league opener.

In the Milton game Milton scored all four runs in the fourth inning, sparked by Bud Ross' three-run homer, and North scored both runs in the fifth.

Steve Bell homered to lead off North's fifth, Jim McGinley tripled and scored on a wild pitch but Milton relief pitcher stopped the Raiders over the last two innings.

Bob Stack had two of North's five hits and Jim McGinley, Ed McElaney and Bell had the others.

Friday Quincy will host Brookline at 10:30 at Adams Field and North will play at Cambridge Latin at noon. Monday Quincy and North will clash at Adams Field at 3:15.

North Romps Over Brookline, Quincy Bombed

Although North Quincy track coach Lou Tozzi lost five performers who scored 47 points in last year's state meet, the Raiders have proven in their first two meets they are again to be reckoned with in the Suburban League.

North last Friday romped over Brookline, 95-45, for its second easy win in a row.

Dan Cuddy was a double winner for the second straight meet, taking the high hurdles and high jump, as 10 Raiders took wins.

also won. Standouts Jerry MacKenzie, Bob Levenson and Mike Morin did not compete.

Earlier in the week the Raiders had paraded over Waltham, 108-31.

Cuddy again won the high jump and high hurdles. King took the dash, MacKenzie the 440, Kennedy the half-mile and triple jump, Levenson the mile, Morin the two-mile, O'Neill the long jump, Bonoli the pole vault, Mike Gallagher the discus and Hanrahan the javelin. Both relay teams won, the mile team of McIntyre, Pete Regele, Kennedy and MacKenzie, and the quarter-mile team of Chisholm, O'Neill, Powell and King.

Meanwhile, Quincy, under new coach John Laverty, was defeated handily by Newton's powerhouse, one of the league favorites, 105-40, following an impressive opening day win over Rindge Tech.

The Presidents took only three wins, John Saville in the two-mile (9:52); Paul Ladas the half-mile (2:06.5) and sophomore Steve Cacciatore the 100. The quarter-mile relay team won when Newton was disqualified.

Laverty was impressed with

Ken MacPhee, who clocked an even 10 minutes in the two-mile in only his fourth run at the distance. He placed second to Saville. Jim Oriola took second in the 440, sophomore Vin Lorenzano was second in the 220, John Carloni second in the discus and Ed Campbell second in the 100.

Yesterday (Wednesday) North hosted Cambridge Latin and Quincy ran at Brockton. Tuesday North will be home to Brockton and Quincy hosts Weymouth North at 3:15.

Executive League

Glynn's Hat Trick Powers Darcy's, 6-1

Other scorers for Darcy's were Alan Gullickson, Bob Donovan and Bob O'Connell. Jim Daly was credited with three assists, Donovan, two and Don Fawcett and Don Larkin, one apiece. Sportlight's goal was scored by Ralph Freeman, assisted by Ralph Younie.

Washington Tap and The Hofbrau fought to a 2-2 tie in the second game of the night. Warren Mills put The Hofbrau on the scoreboard early in the first period, assisted by Dave Towle. Tom Malchow made it 1-1 in the second, assisted by John Emmott and Ed Grogan. Bob Murray scored for Washington in the third to give it the lead, assisted by Bernie Toland - but, Joe Verlicco came right back for Hofbrau, assisted by Paul Lewis and Fran Whalen with seven minutes remaining to tie the game.

Goalie Paul Hack racked up another shutout as the Sundowner's Cafe bombed Al's Cafe, 12-0. Bob Bannister scored five goals and assisted on two others. Other scorers were Ken Gardner (2), Joe Cappolina (2), John Crossman, Tony Quintiliani, and Peter Pertrand. Curt Ford was credited with eight assists. Other assists went to Crossman (2), Bertrand, and Gardner.

MONEY TALKS

Why Not A Way To Help Retired Persons

Keep Their Homes?

By Philip J. Lawrence, President
Colonial Federal Savings
and Loan Association
of Quincy, Holbrook & Wareham
8-6 Weekdays 8-7:30 Thursdays

Wouldn't it be nice if older persons owning their own homes and feeling the pressures of inflation could tap the large reservoir of dollars tied up in those homes to carry them through retired years?

It would mean that fewer elderly persons would be forced to sell after living in familiar surroundings for many years and working so long to pay for a home they cherish.

This is a possibility that the savings and loan industry is pressing to make a reality. The industry is encountering the same resistance it faced when it sponsored the concept of home ownership by allowing families to amortize home loans through fixed installments over a long period of time. But just as this S&L idea irresistibly made home ownership the realization of a cherished American dream, so also the idea of enabling elderly couples to continue to live in their homes by drawing upon their investment seems too logical to be denied.

What is proposed is a "Reverse Annuity Plan" with a simple concept: A person or couple owning their own home would receive a regular monthly payment from the savings and loan which would not be repaid until death. No cash payment of interest would be involved, as the increase in the loan balance each month would represent the amount of cash advanced, plus interest on the outstanding balance.

This reverse annuity would enable the elderly home owner to make a friend of the inflation that has been his implacable foe. Because of inflation, the home has in all likelihood dramatically increased in value since it was purchased. But that same inflation has made the older person's fixed income shrink day by day. Without the reverse annuity, older persons are often forced to sell their homes and move into strange surroundings to make ends meet. With it, they can profit from the inflationary effect on their homes by using it for their daily subsistence.

If the trends in home values continue to outstrip the annual interest rate on home loans, the elderly couple will have at least as much equity in their homes as they had when they joined the reverse annuity plan. Even without the continuance of these trends, the erosion of their equity would be a small enough price to pay for the privilege of continuing to live in accustomed ways.

First Ladies Defeat Newton, Raiderettes Bow To Brookline

Things didn't look bright for the Quincy girls' track team last Friday when it had to face a strong Newton team with three of its top scorers vacationing in Bermuda.

However, the First Ladies came through with a big 61-57 win in their opener thanks to taking 10 of 15 events, including a clutch win in the mile relay.

Newton's depth kept the score close as it took second and third in six of the events.

"I was a little surprised," admitted Quincy Coach Cathy Ilacqua. "We were without those three girls, but all I ask is 100 percent and everyone gave me that today."

Cathy's sister, Mary, who has been working hard with Joe Catalano, Quincy cross country coach and a fine distance runner himself, won the two-mile in her first start at that distance. She ran the 880 a year ago.

Sophomore Paula Church won the 220 and built a six-second lead on the first leg of the all-important mile relay. Dottie Irvine, who won the mile and took third in the discus, doubled that lead on the second leg. Paula Constat, winner of the 440 and long jump, kept the lead and Marie Nichols finished 19 seconds in front.

Sophomore Lois Guglielmi won the 100 in her first try ever, Heidi Dolan won the 880, Julie Derry the hurdles and Clare Oliverio the shot put. Quincy swept the long jump with Guglielmi and Michelle Leaman finishing behind Constat.

Meanwhile, the North girls, under new coach Jeff Strungis, a former Raider star himself, have dropped their first two meets but there have been several fine individual performances.

Following a loss to Waltham, the Raiderettes lost to Brookline, 67½-50½ Friday.

Janice Kelly won the long jump and 100 and ran anchor on the winning 440 relay team. Rhonda Zoia won the 440, Carol Seagarber the two-mile and the winning relay team comprised Gail Meehan, Ruth Widman, Janice Troy and Kelly.

The Quincy girls will run at Weymouth North and the North girls will be at Brockton next Tuesday.

Nets Upset O'Brien Club, But Bow To Blue Magic

The Quincy Nets basketball team provided one of the year's big upsets in the semifinals of the annual TARO New England Semi-Pro Tournament last Sunday at Braintree, defeating the defending champion O'Brien Club of Quincy, 85-53.

The Nets, however, fell to the strong Blue Magic of Boston, 101-97, in the title game.

Positive And Negative Traits

Q. I was born on December 15, 1909 at 4:45 A.M. in Taunton Mass. Could you tell me a little about myself, positive as well as the negative traits?

M.K.

A. A chart calculated for your time of birth indicates that you have a magnetic personality with much inner drive. You are an intense thinker with high ideals yet you are able to work them out in practical ways. You are rather curious and have an insatiable thirst for knowledge.

While somewhat reserved and not likely to tell everything that you think, you can be open and frank. In fact at times you may be a little too blunt and when under nervous tension or pressure you will need to be careful not to resort to sarcasm. Even so your tone of voice is likely to imply your irritation.

You probably would enjoy traveling. If not convenient to travel physically, your mind is capable of traveling far and wide.

You are not inclined to be very patient with those whom you consider to be dull or stupid. This may be regarded by others as being inconsiderate of their feelings. Unless you learn how to relax you will be doing an injustice to your nervous system.

Your horoscope is one which is usually associated with good vitality and excellent powers of recuperation but this also depends upon your ability to ease up on your tensions and pressures.

There may be a tendency to waste your energy and resources when angry or when trying to assert yourself. Certainly this may not only prove costly but could cause the loss of some wish. As they say, it is possible to win an argument and lose a friend.

For any questions to be answered through this column, mail the year, month, day of the month, city of birth, time of day if known and question to Ask Oscar, Box 114, Canton, Mass. 02021. Please sign your name which will not be published. Selected questions can only be answered in this column.

Wollaston Glee Club

To Present Concert April 25

The Wollaston Glee Club will present the second concert of its 1976-1977 - season Monday, April 25, at 8 p.m. at Atlantic Junior High School.

Charles A. Dillingham will conduct and Donald B. Bradshaw will accompany the Glee Club. Guest artists will be the Codman English Handbell Ringers, Inc., founded in 1966 by Ella Whittridge Amidon. The name of the group honors the memory of Dr. Codman, first pastor of the Second Congregational Church of Dorchester from 1808-1847.

The Codman English Handbell Ringers ring a set of 38 White Chapel English handbells, ranging from low bass C to high C, three complete octaves. The bells were made at the famous White Chapel Foundry in London, where bells have been cast since 1700 and where Big Ben and the Liberty Bell were made.

The music of a handbell choir is unique in that each player has an individual part, but by teamwork the complete selection is played as though on a single instrument.

Bernice Hunt is the director of the Codman English Handbell Ringers.

The winner of the recently held Wollaston Glee Club Scholarship. Contest, Diane Nicholieris, will also perform. Miss Nicholieris, a student at Braintree High School, is a violinist of great talent and exceptional promise.

Raid Evidence Going To Grand Jury

QUINCY CITY HALL, located in the heart of Quincy Center. What will become of it, if it is someday replaced by a new City Hall?

Heirs To Property

What Happens To City Hall If New One Built?

By KAREN WEBBER

City Hall is an impressive granite structure located in the heart of Quincy Sq.

Many of us visit it to register to vote, obtain a marriage license, pay taxes, attend City Council meetings, etc.

Plans to build a new City Hall are being considered. If they materialize, what will become of the present City Hall?

City Hall's land deed charter raises a big question: who would own the City Hall property if it were not used for City Hall meeting purposes?

Daniel French and his wife Hannah, sold the land as a City Hall [then a Town Hall] site to the city of Quincy for $1,000 in 1844.

The sale, however, was conditional on the promise that the property only be used as a town house [City or town hall].

French's deed says:

"...Always, however upon this condition that said parcel of land shall not be used for any other purpose than as a place for a town house for said inhabitants and upon any breach of this condition, this conveyance shall be void to all intents and purposes."

Mrs. Ruth [French] Roberts of Pagnano Towers, 109 Curtis Ave., Quincy Point, is a direct descendant of Daniel French. Her daughter, Constance Burke, is the wife of Asst. City Clerk Thomas Burke.

Mrs. Roberts and her brothers and sisters, Dorothy Fryar, Charlotte Duff, Henry W. French, Jr., Alan H. French, Virginia Brooks, and Frances Pollard, are heirs with issue to the deed.

Does this mean construction of a new City Hall would return the land of the present City Hall to the French descendants?

According to City Planning Director Norman Lundin, if a new City Hall would return the land of the present City Hall to the French descendants?

Lundin said a ceremonial chamber would be kept in City Hall. Other proposed plans include using the Law enforcement officials and Mayor Joseph LaRaia exchanged barbs this week as evidence in a Quincy Point gaming raid was to be presented to a Norfolk County grand jury.

Both Dist. Atty. William Delahunt and Quincy Police Lt. David Rowell criticized LaRaia who said statements attributed to Delahunt appeared politically motivated.

Meanwhile, a source close to the investigation disclosed gambling in Quincy is controlled by organized crime figures from Boston's North End.

A total of 15 men were arrested in raids Saturday in Norfolk, Suffolk and Middlesex Counties in connection with what police described as a multi-million dollar gambling operation in the Greater Boston area.

Quincy police, led by Lt. Rowell and his special services unit, struck at Jimmy's Cafe, 23 Des Moines Rd., Quincy Point, breaking up what Dist. Atty.

Delahunt called a $2 million bookmaking operation.

Lt. Rowell said the raid had been jeopardized and delayed possibly two to three weeks by Mayor LaRaia's action Feb. 14 when he ordered Rowell transferred for refusing to give him information on the special services unit.

"Some of the information sought by Mayor LaRaia might have spoiled the whole show if it had gotten in the wrong hands," said Lt. Rowell.

"The sad part of it is," said Mayor LaRaia, "that he would despoil whatever good came out of the raid by getting involved in the political aspects of it."

"I'm not going to let those comments go unrecognized. I'm going to pursue the matter further. I'm going to look into his reasons for making those

Court Case Reveals:

LaRaia Considered Sweeping Shakeup Of Police Department

By TOM HENSHAW

Mayor LaRaia once considered a massive reorganization of the Quincy Police Department but the plan was never adopted, it was disclosed Tuesday at the trial of Chief Francis X. Finn's suit against the Mayor in Norfolk Superior Court.

LaRaia testified that he did not recall who proposed the changes shown on a chart that was introduced as evidence but he added that he looked at it and his consideration never went beyond that.

The contents of the chart were not disclosed.

Asked by Martin Cogrove, attorney for Finn, if the chart showed a change in the special services unit headed by Lt. David Rowell, the Mayor said that it did. Asked if he would consider the individual names on the chart to head the unit, LaRaia said: "Not necessarily."

After all testimony was taken, Judge Ellis Brown adjourned the trial until 2 p.m. tomorrow [Friday] when arguments will be heard.

Finn's suit challenges the Mayor's authority to transfer officers within the Police

Replaces Cronin

Ruth Janus Named To Hospital Board

Mayor Joseph LaRaia has named Mrs. Ruth Janus of 217 Highland Ave., Wollaston, to the Quincy City Hospital Board of Managers.

Mrs. Janus previously served as an honorary member of the Board.

She replaces Edward Cronin, who was fired by LaRaia who charged him with "excessive absenteeism".

Owner-manager of three rental properties in the City of Quincy, Mrs. Janus has been employed by the U.S. Civil Service Commission, Boston, and has been co-owner and operator of the Copeland Coin Laundry and Drycleaning Company, of Quincy.

She is a graduate of Bryant and Stratton Business College, Boston, has on-the-job training education from the American Motel School Inc. of Roanoke, Va. and received a certificate in Business Administration from Quincy Junior College.

Mrs. Janus is the mother of three children and has resided in Quincy for the last 19 years.

Third Candidate

Atty. Thomas Barron Enters Mayoral Ring

Thomas M. Barron, a 39-year-old Wollaston attorney who has never before run for public office, has announced his candidacy for Mayor of Quincy "to restore a professional, business approach to city government."

He invited "all who have 'had enough' and want to see changes made" to join him in arresting the city's "decline into a struggle of personalities, a situation of administrative inefficiency and bureaucratic chaos."

Barron, a graduate of Boston College, an Air Force veteran and father of six, announced his candidacy Tuesday night at a fashion show at Furnace Brook

Golf Club held to raise funds for his campaign.

He is the third candidate to enter the race, preceded by Atty. George M. Tull and City Council President and Sen. Arthur H. Tobin. Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia is expected to announce in two or three weeks.

Barron said:

"As an independent candidate with no allegiances to any persons or political machines I believe I am able to offer Quincy citizens a different concept in city management and I propose to run the city as an $80 million business drawing on my administrative background.

Proposed Constitutional Amendment

Tobin Bill To Block 100% Revaluation Gets Initial Approval

A constitutional amendment to block court-ordered 100 percent revaluation of real estate has been given initial approval by the legislature's Joint Committee on Taxation.

The bill, sponsored by Senator Arthur H. Tobin [D-Quincy] would have wide-ranging effects on real estate taxes by allowing local assessors to tax real estate according to its use.

Under present law, all real estate is taxed on the same basis, whether or not it is residential or commercial.

Tobin filed the proposed amendment in the wake of a 1974 state Supreme Judicial Court decision which ordered all Massachusetts cities and towns to assess real estate at full value without regard to whether it was industrial, commercial, or residential.

Under the Tobin proposal, residential property could be assessed at a significantly lower level than income-producing commercial and industrial properties.

Tobin seeks to have the proposed amendment brought before the full legislature in constitutional convention for a vote.

His action, and the initial approval, comes as many cities and towns are under order to conduct revaluation programs or face state-conducted revaluation, with the cost of the program deducted from the community's state aid "cherry sheet" figure.

"Massachusetts homeowners cannot survive the increased demands which the courts are demanding they bear," Tobin said.

"One hundred percent revaluation in Quincy, for example, would be disastrous for every homeowners taxpayer, particularly our elderly, widowed, and disabled citizens who are living on fixed incomes."

As a legislative amendment to the state constitution, the Tobin bill must first be accepted by two successive sessions of the legislature, and then be ratified by the voters in a statewide referendum question.

Tobin's bill was approved by the legislature during the 1975-1976 session. Passage during this legislative session would assure the question a place on the state election ballot in 1978 for approval by the people.

If accepted by the voters, the tax reform measure would then be implemented.

Tobin said he is actively seeking support for his legislation among his fellow legislators and other public officials throughout the state, but urged taxpayers who support the reform measure to inform their legislators.

Tobin said he is hopeful the bill will be presented for action by the full legislature in constitutional convention next month.

Public Works Committee

Tackles City Budget

The City Council's Public Works Committee takes over perusal of Mayor LaRaia's proposed $82 million city budget this week.

PW Chairman Leo J. Kelly set yesterday (Wednesday) at 5 p.m. as the time for discussion by the committee, which is made up of the Council as a whole.

Last Saturday, the Council's Finance Committee trimmed $50,000 from the Mayor's budget for the Police Department and $25,000 from his recommendations for the Fire Department.

It brings to $157,000 the total cut by the Finance Committee in three Saturday sessions.

The Council has until the May 18 deadline to act upon the budget.

Finance Committee Chairman John J. Quinn has set May 7, at 11 a.m., as the time for a hearing on the revenue sharing aspects of the budget.

There will be no Fin Comm meeting Saturday, he said, because of the Sons of Italy Walk-a-thon for the March of Dimes.

Law Day Ceremonies

Main QDC Courtroom To Be Named For Late Judge Kenneth Nash

The main courtroom at Quincy District Court will be named in memory of the late Chief Justice Kenneth L. Nash during dedication ceremonies on Law Day, Monday, May 2, at 8:30 a.m.

It will mark the first time in Massachusetts history that a courtroom is named for a judge, according to Court Clerk Dennis F. Ryan, who is in charge of Law Day festivities in Quincy.

Judge Nash, who was a justice in the Quincy court for 52 years until his retirement in 1970, died Feb. 16, at the age of 88 in his retirement home in Epsom, N.H.

His widow, Mrs. Herberta Nash of Epsom, N.H., and his brother, Clayton W. Nash, a Weymouth attorney, and his nephews will be on hand for the dedication.

The top Law Day prize, the Alfred E. Mullaney Award, will be presented to Sam Pitchell, a Quincy attorney for nearly 60 years, by Martin Cosgrove, president of the Quincy Bar Association.

Citations will be presented to the CETA Program by Judge Albert Kramer, to Fire

JUDGE KENNETH L. NASH

Capt. Joseph Jackson by Fire Chief Edward Barry, and to Patrolman Joseph Gillan by Police Chief Francis X. Finn.

Prayers will be offered by the Rev. William McCarthy of St. John's Church, Rabbi Jacob Mann of Beth Israel Synagogue and the Rev. Chester Porteus, rector emeritus of Christ Church.

The Quincy High School band will play for the flag-raising ceremonies.

Sees No Conflict

Ryan Refuses To Resign From Hospital Board

"Right now," said Dennis F. Ryan, "I honestly don't know where I stand."

Ryan, who is clerk of the Quincy District Court, was asked by Mayor LaRaia to resign his post on the Hospital Board of Managers as being in conflict of interest.

"The Mayor requested my resignation," said Ryan Tuesday. "I have not given it to him. I don't intend to do so. I suppose I'll just have to wait and see what steps Mr. LaRaia takes next."

"I have no plans right now," said LaRaia, who can remove Ryan only for cause, as he did Chairman Edward V. Cronin two weeks ago and Member John T. Williams in September.

"I'm not going to get into a contest," the Mayor said. "I thought the reasons were serious enough to require that I write him that letter and request his resignation."

The letter was sent to Ryan last Thursday and identified the conflict of interest as his relationship as court clerk with courthouse attorneys who also serve on the generally anti-LaRaia City Council.

"I don't feel that there is a conflict of interest," said Ryan, who has served on the hospital board for eight years.

Attorneys who sit on the nine-member City Council are Council President Arthur H. Tobin, Councillors Dennis E. Harrington, Daniel G. Raymond, Paul D. Harold and Warren A. Powers.

LaRaia expanded on his objections to Ryan and the lawyer-councillors, whom he referred to as "the courthouse crowd" in a TV interview recently.

"The majority of the City Council earns its living in the courthouse," he said, "I felt that influences their decisions as City Councillors."

"I'm not saying there is anything wrong with the law profession. I am saying that having a preponderance of people who work in the courthouse on the Council makes for a common basis for common actions."

"When I sat on the City Council, we had representatives of various segments of the public. We had a good mix. Their only association was that they were all members of the City Council."

"When I was on the Council there were only two or three lawyers at the most. There was George Burke and Dick Barry on one Council. There was Burke and Bill Ellis on another. Now there's practically a two-thirds majority."

In his letter to Ryan, the Mayor specifically cited as a conflict of interest his use of the clerk-attorney relationship to block the creation of two accounting jobs at City Hospital.

Ryan said the charge was "absolutely not true."

The dismissal of Cronin from the Hospital Board and the Mayor's subsequent demands for the resignation of board member Dennis F. Ryan brought angry reaction this week from City Councillor Paul Harold.

Harold said the Mayor's actions were an attempt to silence all criticism from the board members and to insure Mayoral control of the board.

Harold called the Mayor's demands for Ryan's resignation "one of the most irresponsible actions of his administration."

He said the Mayor was attempting to "denote criminal wrongdoing in this matter" with his accusations of a conflict of interest involving Ryan, accusations which Harold termed "ill-advised and grossly unfair," and "groundless in both law and fact."

MAY 2 DEADLINE TO PAY REAL ESTATE, PERSONAL PROPERTY TAXES

Monday, May 2, is the deadline for real estate and personal property taxes due the City of Quincy.

They must be paid by 4:30 p.m. at Quincy City Hall, Quincy Sq.

This is the second half payment of 1977 fiscal year tax bills which were issued in the fall of 1976. Tax payments received after May 2, 1977, will incur an 8 percent interest charge dating back to April 1, 1977.

The 8 percent interest charge and the 30 day penalty charge are mandated under the General Laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

Treasurer-Collector Robert E. Foy, III suggests that if the taxpayer is unable to make the full payment, that the taxpayer make a partial payment and the 8 percent interest charge will only be made on the unpaid balance.

Stay Alive!

YOUR OWN FIRE HOSE

The best piece of fire-fighting equipment you can have in your house is so common and cheap you may have overlooked it - a garden hose. Experts estimate that if a hose was readily available in the early stages of fire, about half of all home fires could be squelched before the fire engines arrive.

To be effective, one hose should be installed on each floor of the house, under a bathroom sink or in a utility room where it can be unwound quickly to reach all rooms - especially the bedrooms. A hose lying in the yard or piled on a shelf in the garage isn't going to do much good by the time you drag it inside and hook it up. And spraying a hose from ground to second story doesn't do much more than wash the windows.

If you hook up a fire hose yourself it should cost only about $10 [that's for parts]. If you feel more confident with a plumber, it's still not too expensive. The job shouldn't take more than an hour of his time. All that's involved is breaking into your cold water line.

Helping Patients 23 Years

Women Volunteers Raise Over Quarter Million To Aid Quincy Hospital

By KAREN WEBBER

A small red and white poster behind the cash register in Quincy City Hospital's gift shop reads:

"Cherry Shop - All profits are donated to Quincy City Hospital for patient care and comfort."

Manned by Quincy Hospital Women's Auxiliary Volunteers, the gift shop has profited and helped hospital patients for 23 years.

Auxiliary President Elsie Webby said, since its founding, the group has raised more than a quarter-million dollars and spent it on hospital needs. Gift shop profits represent a part of this sum.

Evidence of the Auxiliary volunteer's work is clearly visible around the hospital.

"Our most recent purchase was a few weeks ago," Mrs. Webby said. "We got two defibrators worth $14,000."

The Auxiliary has also provided the hospital with wheelchairs, solar glass for the windows in the West Wing, electric beds, yearly $500 student nurse scholarships, and tables, chairs, and draperies for the hospital dining room. Their contributions seem endless.

"We're compiling a list now," Mrs. Webby said. "I expect it will be about 20 pages long."

Mrs. Webby has been an Auxiliary volunteer for 22 years.

"I get great satisfaction from being a volunteer," she said. "I enjoy helping other people and getting my friends involved. I like organization work."

The Auxiliary has about 225 members. Out of those, about 60 actively participate as gift shop volunteers, buyers, or in organizer positions.

Eighteen women serve on the Auxiliary's Board of Directors. They hold monthly meetings.

Leila Baker founded the Auxiliary in February 1954 with 50 charter members. Volunteers delivered flowers and juices to the patients.

S & S Courier Service is now hiring additional carriers to deliver advertising circulars door to door in the Quincy, Weymouth and Braintree areas on weekends. If you are interested please call 384-8114 Monday thru Sat. 9 - 6:30 p.m.

The first gift shop was "just a niche in the wall" Mrs. Webby said.

Later the shop was moved to its present location off the first floor, and still later expanded to its present size when the new doctor's lounge was built.

The gift shop is open every day. Volunteers usually work in the shop once a week. Two women also operate the gift cart.

"The gift cart is a token assortment of what we sell in the shop," Mrs. Webby said.

The shop itself offers everything from "razor blades to stuffed angora cats," Mrs. Webby said.

Newspapers, books, cards, candy, baby clothing, toys, jewelry, toiletries and cigarettes are a few of the items available. Fresh flowers are a recent addition to the gift shop goods.

"Cherry Shop" is a traditional name for hospital gift shops staffed by women volunteers. The workers wear cheerful "cherry" colored smocks.

Mrs. Warren White is chairman of volunteers operating the gift shop. Miss Constance Lundy is the assistant chairman.

The Auxiliary also earns income from membership dues, a percentage on TV rentals, a percentage on candy machine sales in the coffee shop, memorial plaques and special fund raising events.

"I feel you should always have a purpose when you run things," Mrs. Webby said. "People are much more apt to give money for a specific machine rather than a general treasury."

Mrs. Webby started the "Thanksmas" Holiday Fair four years ago. Now it is a fall tradition which has cleared from $800 to $1,300 in one day.

Another fund raising event is the annual spring luncheon and bridge party.

The Women's Auxiliary will soon be facing its 25th anniversary.

It recently obtained representation on the hospital Board of Managers when Mayor LaRai appointed Elsie Webby associate member last January.

She will voice Auxiliary opinions on hospital matters including the long range building plans now being discussed.

Mrs. Webby hopes this representation will provide greater recognition for Auxiliary volunteers.

LaRaia Considered Sweeping Shakeup Of Police Dept.

Department and make duty assignments over the objections of the Chief.

Finn testified that he strongly objected to Mayor LaRaia's appointment of Lt. Coradi Solimini as inspector of divisions, which, in effect, is the No. 2 position in the Quincy Police Department.

He said the duties of the inspector is to coordinate divisions but that Solimini never attended staff or other meetings and "started immediately to report to the Mayor and take his orders from the Mayor."

Then, said Finn, Solimini started "giving orders directly to the men without my permission. This caused a number of grievances to be filed. The men wanted to know who had the authority."

The Chief said LaRaia agreed that Solimini should go directly to him [Finn] but, he added, "that never happened. I haven't seen him in months."

Lt. Rowell testified that his special services unit is a "rather covert operation" in which "security is the name of the game." He said he deals with informants and undercover agents.

Rowell said that Mayor LaRaia once asked him for reports on the investigation of three police officers who were involved in a gambling raid in November, 1975.

He said he told the Mayor he could not give it to him because it was an ongoing investigation in cooperation with the district attorney's office.

Rowell said there was possibly enough evidence against one officer to indict him but that there was not enough evidence against any of the three to convict them. He said they are still on the Quincy Police force.

A few days later, Rowell said, the Mayor called him and Chief Finn to his office and gave them both envelopes. He said that his envelope contained orders transferring him to street duty.

He testified that he was out of the unit for about nine days during which time the district attorney's office told him it could no longer work on a certain case until he returned and that it would withdraw support from the Quincy Police.

Three former mayors of Quincy, Thomas S. Burgin, James R. McIntyre and Walter J. Hannon, were summoned to testify but Judge Brown would not permit them to be asked questions about their relations with the Police when they were in office. Only Burgin was called to the stand.

"We are concerned," said Judge Brown, "with what this police chief's duties are and what this mayor's duties are."

Finn listed a number of orders he received from Mayor LaRaia with which he disagreed but he carried them out because "I didn't want to be suspended. That was not the route to take." Instead, he went to court.

He said he acquiesced to the transfer of Rowell for that reason and he assigned him back to the special services unit only after obtaining a restraining order from the court.

He said he also disagreed with the Mayor's order to disband the SOU Impact Unit, a sort of Tactical Police Force in the department, and with an order to take officers out of the parking garage.

As a result of the Mayor's actions, Finn said, the moral of the Police Department sank "to its lowest state in my 30 years on the force. But we have retrieved it to the point where at least the citizens are not in danger."

Under questioning by City

Solicitor Thomas Williams, the Chief conceded that crime in the city had dropped recently but he added that it was possibly due to the severe winter and "it has been going up in the past few weeks."

The Question:

Where can you get a free RCA 25" color TV, a Konica 35mm camera, a Zenith AM/FM stereo, and flowers too?

3 Opportunities For Each

Culinary Graduates: No Problem Finding Jobs

By TOM HENSHAW

Times may be tough but there is one division of the Quincy school system that is drawing three job opportunities for every graduating senior.

It's the Culinary Arts program at the Vo-Tech School where 135 undergraduate students, roughly divided 60-40 boys over girls, are taking the first training steps toward becoming chefs and restaurateurs.

"It is one field that is opening up in spite of the tight job market," says School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon. "More and more young people, both boys and girls, are going into it."

The growth is such that the Vo-Tech School has re-established its post graduate program this year, with 10 men and four women enrolled, and last week began a federally funded Culinary Arts course of CETA.

Culinary Arts has been offered at the Vo-Tech School since it opened in 1967. Creedon now calls it "one of the jewels in our crown."

Students from the Vo-Tech program have won the top prize in the New England Hotel, Motel and Restaurant Show in Boston in four of the past five years and the other year they were ineligible for having won three times in a row.

"They were not competing against culinary arts students from other schools," says Creedon, "but against hotels, motels and restaurants."

One of the current seniors, Mark Baker, has been accepted for further study at the Greenbrier Institute in West Virginia, which Creedon refers to as "the Harvard of the culinary arts."

"He is the first of our people to be accepted there," he says.

Roughly three out of every 10 graduates of the Culinary Arts program remain in the food profession, says George D. Cole, food coordinator for the Quincy schools. It's not an easy life to start with.

"Youngsters don't leave here to become executive chefs," says Creedon. "Undergrads from the program serve an apprenticeship. They start as salad chefs in restaurants or in lesser jobs."

The pay is not that good to start. Some jobs pay as little as $3 to $3.50 an hour. Those who have gone through the post graduate program may start at $4.50 to $5 an hour. Experienced, top-notch chefs can make up to $100,000 a year.

The showplace of the Vo-Tech School's Culinary Arts Program is the Three Seasons

THREE SEASONS Restaurant is the testing ground for the meals prepared by students of the Culinary Arts program at the Quincy Vo Tech School. Lunch is available to faculty members and visitors at reasonable prices.

Restaurant at the school, so-called because it is open for three seasons of the year when classes are in session.

Three Seasons seats 75 people, including 20 in a private conference dining area. Members of the faculty, staff and visiting dignitaries dine on the "lesson of the day" prepared by senior students. Prices are reasonable.

A typical luncheon fare might include emince of beef en Burgundy with egg noodles, wax beans and tubitini beef soup, omelette ala Lorraine with home fries, salad and garden peas.

There is even a weight watchers special - perhaps a Norwegian sardine salad plate with cottage cheese and egg garni - for those who are, counting calories. It's training for the kids in nutrition, too.

Quincy Man In Boston

Roadster Show

A Quincy resident is a member of the Boston Area Roadsters, sponsors of the International World on Wheels Show to be held at Hynes Auditorium, Boston, Friday through Sunday.

He is Vinnie Civla of Newton St., who owns a 1940 Ford Coupe.

The restaurant chef dodge used to be pretty much an exclusively male preserve but more and more women are entering the field, and not necessarily just because of the new emphasis on women's rights.

"There are more opportunities for women with the new machinery," says Cole. "Women have always adapted to the work as well as men. But it is not as laborious as it was years ago. There's no bull labor involved today."

Part of the post-graduate program is carried on at Point Junior High School where the post grads operate the kitchen for volume feeding of students and a restaurant type of operation for the faculty.

The revival of the post graduate program reflects to growing interest in culinary arts as a career and so does the new program started last week by CETA with 10 students but room for 30 in the class. More are expected.

The course is called "general cooking" and it's designed primarily for unemployed-heads of households who wish to develop an additional marketable skill. They'll go 900 hours and are compensated out of 100 per cent federal funding.

The whole culinary arts operation is under the direction of Edmund Reppucci, coordinator of foods at the Vo-Tech School, former executive chef at the Red Coach Grill restaurants.

statements. When I find out then I'll respond to them more accurately."

Rowell was restored to the special services unit under terms of an injunction obtained by Police Chief Francis X. Finn, pending legal resolution of his dispute with the Mayor over who runs the Police Department.

Mayor LaRaia also branded as political certain statements attributed to Delahunt which, said the Mayor, "singled out Quincy from other communities in the raid." Braintree, Weymouth, Cambridge, Waltham and Watertown also were hit.

"Any suggestion that this raid was politically motivated is just incredible," said Delahunt. "The men worked hard and long and made a significant dent in organized crime in the city of Quincy."

"The Mayor should be proud of the Quincy Police Department. The raid was a credit to Chief Finn, Lt. Rowell and to some 30 members involved. Lt. Rowell led it. He deserves a tremendous amount of credit."

And the district attorney added:

"When did the Mayor become so conversant with the extent of crime in Quincy? When did he become an expert?"

To which Mayor LaRaia responded:

"I have no reason to believe that there is more crime in Quincy than in any other community. The police chief would have to respond to that. He has given no indication to me. I have nothing to base such a belief on other than the comments of a few law enforcement officials."

"If the comments they made were an attempt to tie me in somehow to this type of activity then I say it is a sad commentary. If they are made with evidence that supports this then they should bring it to the proper authorities."

"I don't see any greater degree of criminal activity in Quincy now than there was prior to my stepping into office. But I suppose it makes good reading in the papers whether it is true or not."

Meanwhile, on the legal front, Delahunt said evidence in the case would be presented to a Grand Jury this week, adding: "I would anticipate indictments will be returned. We will move for a swift disposition of the case."

A source close to the investigation said that the raids were aimed at gambling in Quincy "which is controlled by organized crime figures from Boston's North End."

Testimony before a U.S. Senate committee has identified Gennaro [Jerry] Angulo, whose office is on Prince St. in the North End, as the key figure in organized crime in the Greater Boston area.

A source said Quincy gambling is actually conducted by a group based in the Winter Hill district of Somerville but under the supervision of the North End people.

Two of the 15 people arrested in Saturday's raids live in Quincy. They are Alan E. Johnson, 32, of Washington St., and William Thibodeau, 45, of Cherry St. Also arrested was Robert Mitchell, 37, of Braintree, son of the owner of Jimmy's Cafe. All pleaded innocent to gaming charges in Quincy District Court.

PROCLAIMING APRIL 24-30, as "Columbian Squires Week", in honor of the organization sponsored by the Knights of Columbus which guides young Catholic boys to maturity, Mayor LaRaia presents certificates of merit to members of the North Quincy Columbian Squires. No Rush For Tobin's Council Seat

No one seems to be in a rush to put a claim on the City Council at-large seat being vacated by Arthur Tobin to run for mayor. In fact, as of this writing, the seat might as well have the mumps or the measles. No one is publicly going near it.

Just about everyone figures Ward 6 Councillor Dennis Harrington will make a bid for the seat but he hasn't publicly committed himself to run for it.

Atty. Harold Davis who finished a close fourth to City Council "dean" John Quinn in the three-seat race two years ago admits he is "thinking" about it.

And politician watchers are wondering if Joseph Brett might be warming up to a comeback bid for the at-large seat. Brett, who lost his state representative seat to young Michael Morrissey last year, is a former councillor. Others, however, still think he may get an appointment from LaRaia.

But, wait a minute! What about Rep. Robert Cerasoli? Could he be a possible contender yet?

The "Committee To Elect Robert Cerasoli" is holding a reception for him Saturday, June 18 at the State Street South Courtyard, North Quincy.

Question: "The Committee to Elect Robert Cerasoli" to what? The state elections are not until next year. This is city election year.

Sources indicate that if Cerasoli is not satisfied with the redistricting of his House seat, he may run for the City Council at-large seat this year.

Meanwhile, nobody seems to be in a hurry to officially put a claim on the Tobin seat.

SPEAKING OF TOBIN, his workers are conducting a door-to-door opinion survey to determine voters mayoral preference. So far they seem to be encouraged by the results.

THIS MONTH in case you don't remember, marks the 25th anniversary of the downfall of Plan E in Quincy.

In April, 1952, City Councillor Carl Anderson was found innocent of a six-violation indictment brought against him by then City Manager William Deegan.

Deegan charged Anderson with interfering with administrative affairs of the city. But a Norfolk County jury deliberated only 73 minutes and found Anderson innocent.

The verdict was the banana peel under Plan E. It caused a strained relationship between Deegan and the City Council. Then disenchantment on the part of the people set in. Plan E didn't deliver the civic magic it promised.

Deegan resigned in 1955. A referendum followed ousting Plan E by a 1,500 majority. And Plan A returned in 1958.

Consensus is that the Anderson case was the axe that brought Plan E down. Anderson agrees. Deegan is now deceased.

THE RUMOR THAT Senator Edward Brooke may be in line for a TV network post is spiked by his press secretary, Hap Ellis. Ellis called from Washington regarding a recent item here on the rumor to insist: "There is no substance at all to that rumor. Senator Brooke is absolutely committed to re-election. And the man is running hard."

Ellis says the rumor got started a year ago and apparently has been re-fanned and is making the rounds again.

Ellis notes that a campaign birthday party for Brooke is already set for Oct. 21 at the Chateau de Ville in Framingham. Brooke, in case you're wondering, will be 58 that date.

FRIENDS WILL BE glad to hear that Tom Currier of Hum 'N Strum fame is convalescing nicely after and 8½ hour open heart operation several weeks ago. He's up and around down in Reston, Va. where he and his wife, Helen, now make their home.

ONE OF LAST YEAR'S Miss Quincy Bay contestants hopes to launch a political career in Hull. Pretty Anna Marie Lopez, 22, is a candidate for town clerk in that town, opposing 19-year veteran Jack Darcy. Anna, a former Quincy resident, is majoring in political science at Boston University.

Barron Enters Mayoral Ring

"My experience with meeting people throughout the city indicates voters are very much concerned with the rising tax rate, the problem of organized crime, the decline of the downtown and local business centers.

"Quincy needs long range fiscal planning to create new jobs, new business, new opportunities for a city at the crossroads of growth or decline.

"Quincy can benefit by a streamlined city government, improved systems and procedures designed with efficient service to the taxpayer in mind.

"People used to be very proud to live in Quincy and believed it was a clean, well-run city.

"It is my personal hope to be able to restore some old values, like common sense, courtesy and good fiscal management to a city torn apart by internal strife, clouded by charges of corruption and victimized by an unbelievable tax rate increase which few in power seem able, ready or willing to explain.

"As a candidate, I hope to offer a real choice to Quincy voters, a choice to vote for an independent, business-like candidate who doesn't seek personal political glory, but who seeks only to restore sound management policies to a city famous for providing national leadership; a city with a heritage of greatness.

"If our neighbor to the west, Newton, can be recognized nationally as an 'All-American City' there is no substantial reason Quincy cannot receive the same recognition."

Barron was graduated from Boston College in 1961 and served the next two years in the U.S. Air Force. He was an executive in the accounting and financial areas for Boston Gas until his graduation from Boston College Law School in 1971.

He served as Quincy chairman for the Massachusetts Bay United Way in 1976.

Barron and his wife, Dorothy, live at 48 Summit Ave., Wollaston, with their six children, twins Susan and Elizabeth 12, Thomas 11, Michael 8, Ted 6, and Jean 3.

Kelly Candidate For Ward 1 Re-election

Ward 1 City Councillor Leo J. Kelly announces that he will be a candidate for re-election.

He is the first councillor to announce his candidacy for re-election in this fall's city election.

"I have been privileged to serve two terms as councillor for the people of Ward 1," he said. "It has been a period of accomplishment for our ward and I look forward to working with the people for two more years as their councillor."

Kelly cited numerous improvements made in Ward 1, but stressed his success to date in halting plans for a secondary treatment plant at Nut Island and upgrading the Deer Island facility for secondary treatment was considered a priority issue for the Ward.

"The Congress," said Kelly, "is now considering legislation which will eliminate any possibility of filling in Quincy Bay. I am hopeful that with the assistance of our congressional delegation this legislation will be passed."

Kelly also cited several other major improvements accomplished in his ward, including:

The Merrymount School addition, reconstruction of Sea

St., approval of the Hot Lunch Program for senior citizens and the Meals on Wheels Program for Shut-ins, acquisition of the Uccello property in Germantown for recreation as The General Palmer Park, flood control dredging and beautification at Black's Creek, the Houghs Neck Improvement Program, Heron Beach Improvements, and the upgrading of Caddy Park.

"I am happy to have been able to work closely with many community groups and individuals to bring these projects to completion and I hope to have the opportunity to continue to serve," he said.

Warmington In Police Force Return Bid

Retired Police Sgt. Robert B. Warmington has asked for permission to appear before the Quincy Retirement Board today (Thursday) at 3 p.m. to pursue further his bid to give up his disability pension and return to duty.

But City Auditor Charles Shea, who is chairman of the Retirement Board, said permission is not necessary.

"Retirement Board meetings are open to the public," he said. "We will be happy to hear any comments, questions or petitions from anyone. We have never required people to make a formal request to be heard."

Warmington's bid to return to duty was turned down by the Retirement Board March 30, when it voted to restore his $6,614 pension retroactive to Jan. 1. He had been certified as physically fit by a medical panel.

Warmington, in a letter to Shea that was also released to Quincy and Boston news media, called the restoration of his pension "a give-away program."

"I have stated at my official meetings on two separate occasions," wrote Warmington,

"that I agree with the findings of your medical panel, whose vote was unanimous, and that it was my desire to be returned to work."

He said that Shea and another board member, Robert J. Kelley, "rammed through a motion to give me the disability pension anyway." A third member, Roger E. Perfetti, voted against the motion.

"It was obvious," Warmington continued, "that Mr. Perfetti was the only member who is taking his membership on the board seriously and acting in the best interests of the membership and the retirement system."

"It is my personal belief that the board's decision on March 30 was purely political even though the retirement system is supposed to be free from political interference."

More than a year ago, Mayor LaRaia attempted to reinstate Warmington to the Police Department and the proposed reinstatement was approved by the Massachusetts Civil Service Commission.

But it was blocked when Patrolman John McDonough, whose name appeared first on a Civil Service list for promotion to sergeant, obtained a temporary injunction. The sergeant's list has since expired, but there are still three openings.

Warmington said in his letter to Shea:

"Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia advised you in writing that if the board made a determination that Robert B. Warmington was no longer disabled and is physically fit to resume his duties as a sergeant on the Quincy Police Force and you discontinue his disability pension and order him back to work, that he, as the Mayor, intended to return Robert B. Warmington to work as a police sergeant."

At the time that he first attempted to reinstate Warmington, Mayor LaRaia said past efforts had been blocked by "certain individuals in the administration." He said he knew that Chief Francis X. Finn had strong objections to it.

The Mayor conceded that Warmington had worked on the LaRaia mayoral campaign, but he denied that reinstatement was a way of rewarding him.

City's Revenue Sharing Up $100,000

fiscal year.

Mayor Joseph J. LaRaia said the $100,000 represents about 35 cents on the tax rate and said that in the past the money has been directed to the police and fire departments at the end of the fiscal year so interest could collect on them during the year.

"Getting an increase in funds on the federal level is very important," LaRaia said, "this appears to be the only resource to help communities meet increased costs of operation."

"We have a long way to go, but every little bit helps," the Mayor added with reference to controlling the tax rate which he has said he hopes to keep to a $5 increase.

Hoppe To Be Tried For Patrolman Hollis Murder

Norfolk Dist. Atty. Winfield M. Wilbär moved to obtain custody of Stephen Hoppe, alleged slayer of Quincy Patrolman Alfred N. Hollis, so that he could be tried for murder in Superior Court in Dedham.

Hoppe surrendered to Vermont police a few days ago to resume a sentence of 14 years in the State Prison in Windsor, Vt. He was free after escaping from the jail when Hollis was slain after he interrupted a robbery.

ROUGHING IT

Ralph Kemp, 22, of 26 Des Moines Rd., Quincy Point, a pipefitter, left for New Hampshire and Maine on a wager to live in the woods for a month and earn his living by selling ferns and other growths to florists.

Kemp already had one order for five bags of moss, 50 pounds of princess pine and four bags of spagnum moss from Sam E. Quint's flower shop in Quincy.

BUILDING BLOCKED

Sen. Henry L. Kincaide [R-Quincy] charged that Quincy's building laws were blocking construction of a proposed two-story building to house a department store between the Kincaide and Kresge Buildings on Hancock St.

He was told the building would require a fire wall through the middle, he said, but "in view of the fact that we proposed to have the whole structure protected with automatic sprinklers, such a wall appeared to us ridiculous."

REIMBURSEMENT SOUGHT

Cong. Louis Fröthingham introduced legislation in the House of Representatives to reimburse Minnie A. Travers of 32 Billings Rd., Atlantic, for damage to her home when a plane from Squantum crashed into it.

Lt. Walter C. Greene, executive officer of the Squantum Naval Air Station, and Lt. Samuel Caldwell parachuted to safety just before the plane fell to the roof of the Travers home, leaving its engine in the attic.

Increasing And Indexing The Minimum Wage

Under pressure from organized labor, the U.S. Congress is preparing to hike the minimum wage again, with a new twist - "indexing" the rate so it will rise automatically each year hereafter.

The union-backed bill, H.R. 3744 [Dent, D-Pa.], would raise the minimum 30 days after enactment to 55% of the average hourly earnings of manufacturing production workers. Using the 1976 average of $5.19, the minimum would go from the present $2.30 to $2.85. Then, on January 1, 1978, the minimum would be increased again to 60% of the average for the 12-month period ending September 30, 1977. Preliminary figures indicate that would boost the minimum to over $3.00 - A WHOPPING 30% INCREASE OVER TODAY'S MINIMUM. Every Jan. 1 thereafter, the minimum would increase automatically to 60% of the average manufacturing wage.

Dent's bill would eliminate the "tip credit", which allows the minimum wage applicable to tipped employees to be reduced by up to 50% if the employee receives an equivalent amount in tips.

The Carter Administration has proposed a slightly less costly plan - an immediate raise to $2.50, with future automatic annual increases indexed to 50% of the hourly earnings of manufacturing workers. George Meany promptly termed this plan "shameful" - and a few days later, joined a new coalition of labor and civil rights leaders to press Congress for a bigger minimum wage package.

What's wrong with these proposals? THEY WOULD INCREASE UNEMPLOYMENT at the very time Congress is searching for ways to put people to work. U.S. Chamber economists estimate the DENT BILL would reduce full and part-time employment opportunities by 2.7 million - 700,000 by layoffs and 2 million in new jobs that would otherwise have been created except for the higher minimum. Estimated job loss for the CARTER PLAN is 900,000. Ironically, the Administration's economic stimulus plan was designed to create about 1 million new jobs. Any such denial of job opportunities in the private sector will increase pressure for still more deficit spending by government to create public jobs.

THEY WOULD ADD TO INFLATION - Already estimated at 6% for this year and threatening to go even higher. The Dent bill would boost inflation by 3%, and the Carter plan by 1%.

THE "INDEXING" SCHEME WOULD GUARANTEE ANNUAL UNEMPLOYMENT AND INFLATION. Traditionally, when the minimum wage goes up, other wages above that level rise, too - in order to maintain wage differentials. Because of these wage relationships, consider the self-perpetuating cycle of an indexing plan: A minimum wage increase MEANS an increase in the average manufacturing wage, MEANS an increase in the minimum wage MEANS an increase in the average manufacturing wage...and so on, year after year. The result would be guaranteed annual inflation - and guaranteed annual unemployment.

Eliminating the tip credit will sharply increase costs to employers of tipped people, with absolutely no increase in productivity. Only the very naive believe that the increased cost will not be passed on to the customers of that business - in higher meal prices, higher hotel room charges, or what have you. In some cases, the result will be fewer jobs.

Publicly, the union interest in minimum wage increases is always cast in terms of helping workers at the lowest pay levels. But layoffs and lost job opportunities clearly are no help for marginal workers. More realistically, unions want the minimum raised because, as the floor goes higher, this increased union power to negotiate higher wages for unionized workers. And indexing the minimum will augment that power.

It's as simple as that. In effect, a trade: Fewer job opportunities for unskilled workers...for higher pay scales for union members.

The unions will be lobbying fiercely to pass the Dent bill. They're still smarting from defeat of the construction site picketing bill, brought about by a massive outpouring of grass roots opposition from all parts of the country. And many in Congress, feeling they have to "give the unions something" to make up for their earlier defeat, hope to slip the minimum wage bill through with minimum public attention.

This is unsound legislation - whether the Dent bill, the Carter proposal, or anything in between. It will cost jobs; it will fuel inflation. And that's too high a price to pay just to help unions win bigger raises for their members.

What Happens If New City Hall Built?

building as a museum or as extra storage space.

The future of old City Hall depends on the approval of the new City Hall proposal.

Plans to build a new City Hall are still indefinite, Lundin said.

Quincy's EDA [Economic Development Administration] bid for federal public works funding was turned down in the first go around. Construction of a new City Hall is a major priority for the public works funding.

Lundin said Quincy will re-apply for public works funding in May or June. Congress has appropriated an additional $4 billion for such projects.

Lundin said with the new appropriation, Quincy has "a pretty good chance" of obtaining the dollars needed.

The proposed location for the new City Hall is behind the present City Hall, over the MBTA tracks. Proponents of the new City Hall say office and storage space is cramped in the present building.

City Hall was designed by Solomon Willard, famed architect for the Bunker Hill Monument in Charlestown, and constructed of sturdy Quincy granite. Each side of the building was done by a different contractor.

Total cost of the Hall: $19,115.93.

Walter J. Hickey Ward 6 Candidate

Walter J. Hickey of 155 Huckins Ave., Squantum announces his candidacy for the Ward 6 City Council seat comprising Squantum, Atlantic and parts of North Quincy.

Hickey, a registered professional engineer, is President of Walter J. Hickey Associates, Consulting Engineers of North Quincy.

In his first bid for public office in 1975, Hickey was edged out for the Ward 6 seat by incumbent Dennis Harrington. The margin was 141 out of more than 4,900 votes cast.

In announcing his candidacy, Hickey declared:

"I said two years ago that the city needs a better mix of skills in the Council. That is still true.

I hope to bring to the problems facing the Council an analytical approach that is second nature to an engineer. Confronted with a problem, an engineer says, "How can we solve it?" not "Let's talk about it; let's debate". My presence on the Council will help offset the domination of the Council by lawyers."

Hickey also said he would regularly seek the views of Ward 6 residents and keep them informed.

"Too often," he said, "we have been confronted with making a 'shotgun decision' with little advance warning on such important local issues as the Marina Development and, more recently, the Quincy Shore Drive Shopping Complex."

'Asphalt Jungle'

Residents Strongly Oppose Proposed $5 Million Shopping Center

Proposal for a $5 million shopping center, with parking space for 720 cars, between Quincy Shore Drive and Commander Shea Boulevard in North Quincy has drawn strong opposition from residents of the surrounding area.

Rep. Michael W. Morrissey (D-Quincy) called it "an asphalt jungle - 720 cars is a hell of a lot of cars."

Some 150 North Quincy residents demonstrated their opposition last week at a meeting in Myles Standish School called by Morrissey and City Councilor Dennis E. Harrington to discuss the proposal by developer Francis X. Messina of Braintree.

The proposal covers a 16-acre site and would include a supermarket, a discount department store in the old Stone's Express terminal and smaller buildings for specialty shops.

Access to the shopping complex would be cut through from Quincy Shore Drive not far from Bay State Rd.

Morrissey said that only one out of the 150 residents at the meeting spoke in favor of the center. Their chief objection, he said, involved the traffic problem that would be created on Quincy Shore Drive.

Troop 27 To Conduct Aluminum Drive May 7

Boy Scout Troop 27 of North Quincy will conduct an Aluminum Drive Saturday, May 7, from 8 a.m. to 1 p.m., to raise money for needed equipment, training programs and camping trips. The Troop which, in September of 1976 had 15 members and will have 50 by May. The growth is the result of a strong interest of younger boys in Cub Scout Pack 27.

A collection area will be set up in the playground of Sacred Heart School at the corner of Hancock St. and Glover Ave. for residents or businesses to drop off their aluminum. For those needing assistance, there will be Scout personnel with transportation to pick up. To get this help, call Joseph Gelsomini, Troop 27 Scouting Coordinator at 328-4411.

There will be another Paper Drive June 5.

Quincy Wins 3rd In Row, North Off To Slow Start

Quincy's inexperienced baseball team rebounded strongly from two non-league defeats at the hands of B. C. High and has won its first three Suburban League games.

Monday's scheduled game between the Presidents and North Quincy was postponed until Tuesday.

Coach Bud Mosher's Quincy team met Brockton yesterday (Wednesday), will host Waltham Friday at Adams Field and play at Weymouth North Monday.

Charlie Bunker's veteran-studded North Quincy team is off to a disappointing start with a 1-4 record and yesterday played Rindge Tech. The Raiders will play at Brookline Friday and will be home to Brockton at Adams Field Monday.

Last Friday Quincy came from behind to edge Brookline, 8-7, for its third straight Suburban League win.

The Presidents blew a three-run lead when Brookline scored six times in the third inning but rebounded and scored the two winning runs in the final inning in rather bizarre fashion.

Trailing 7-6, Sal Coscia singled and moved up on a wild pitch, Len Picot hit a soft grounder which looked like an easy out, but the pitcher failed to cover first on time and Quincy had runners at first and third. Rich Gibbons was tagged out at first but Coscia scored the tying run and Picot scored the winning run on a bouncer by Pete Niosi over the pitcher's head.

Mike Giordani had two triples and Pete Niosi a triple. Relief pitcher Artie Davis did an excellent job, coming in the fourth inning after Brookline had scored all seven runs and struck out three as he hurled shutout ball.

Hard luck North Quincy dropped its second extra inning decision, 2-1, to Cambridge Latin. North scored in the first on a walk to Walt McGinley, a passed ball and Bob Stack's single, but was blanked the rest of the way with only five more hits. Latin scored runs in the third and eighth.

Stack had two hits and Jim McGinley, Walt McGinley and Mike McCormick one each. John Wilkinson and Kurt O'Sullivan pitched well in defeat.

Earlier in the week, Quincy again rallied, this time from a 4-0 deficit, to nip Newton North, 5-4, in nine innings.

Quincy scored three runs in the fifth, tied it in the seventh on Jim Maze's double and Coscia's single, and won it in the second extra inning on Giordani's single and Pat Gibbons' double, his second hit.

Gibbons, Giordani and Maze had two hits apiece and Mike Murphy, Coscia, Rich Gilbody, Niosi and Brian Jolly one each. Keith Larson was the winning pitcher in relief of Gibbons.

The Presidents' game with Rindge Tech was called in the sixth inning with Rindge leading, 1-0, when its coach, Laurence Gibson, suffered an apparent heart attack and was taken to Mt. Auburn Hospital in Cambridge.

North edged Weymouth South, 4-3, in another extra inning game with two runs in the bottom of the eighth after South had taken the lead with a run in the top half.

The winning runs scored on a single by Ed McElaney, a double by Steve Bell and a two-base error, which allowed Bell to score.

North had only four hits, two by Bell and one each by McCormick and McElaney. Jim McGinley, in relief of O'Sullivan, was the winning pitcher.

Newton walloped North, 7-1, with four runs in the fifth inning. The Raiders had only two hits, one by Jim McGinley and the other by McCormick. Walt McGinley was the losing pitcher.

● Mite House

Village, Okie Tie, Barry's Upsets Lydon

Village Food tied Okie Club, 3-3, in the Mite House League, with Village goals by Bill Ferrara, Pete Scheurch and Kevin Kustka.

Scott Stirling, Kustka, Mike Benson and Scheurch had assists. Billy Roche had two Okie goals and Ed Flavin one. Roche, Dick Ames and Joe Lemieux had assists. Village moved to within one point of league-leading Baldacci Pizza, which was idle.

Barry's Deli upset Lydon Russell, 4-2, on goals by Jim Dunphy, Brian Mosher, Jon Hays and Mike Bartkus. Hays and Mosher had two assists apiece and Chris Doyle, Steve Constat, Adam McGregor and Shawn Craig one each. Lydon goals were scored by Dick Manupelli and Billy Lynch with assists for Steve Perdios, Chris Boussey, Mark Seghezzi and Bob Ellis.

Baskin Defeats Johnson, Doran Blanks Bersani In Bantam Action

Baskin Robbins defeated Johnson Motor, 4-2, to move to within two points of league-leading Johnson in the Bantam House League.

Don Reidy scored two goals for Baskin and Kevin Carney and John Kelley one apiece. Tony Chiochio had two assists and John Princiotto and Fran McCormack one each. Dave Nigro and Joe Carroll scored for Johnson, with assists for Tom Smith, Dennis Harrington, Kevin Burke and Gerry Redman.

Doran & Horrigan blanked Bersani Brothers, 5-0, with Ed Powers having the hat trick. Mike Looby and Bob Monahan had the other goals. John Coleman had three assists and Looby and Monahan one apiece.

Little Loop

Brett Club Clinches Title

The Joseph Brett Club, trailing by as many as 14 points and apparently out of the running a few weeks ago, climaxed a remarkable comeback last week by clinching the Quincy Bowling Little Loop championship with a 3-1 win over Bryan VFW post. Runnerup Quincy Elks were splitting with the Dick Morrissey Club.

With only one week remaining, Brett has a five-point lead.

Third place James McIntyre Club dropped a close battle to Granite Lodge 1451, 3-1, but is still in the thick of the fight for second place, trailing the Elks by two points.

Harold Davis Club swept four points from Atlantic Fuel Oil and Hennessy Plumbing Supply took four from Wollaston Bowladrome. Montclair Men's Club defeated the Paul Harold Club, 3-1, and George Burke Club divided with Hutchinson Oil, 2-2.

With just one week to go, the fight for high average is going down to the wire with Dick Hallberg leading Mike Regan by two-tenths of a point.

The standings: Brett, 67-29 (total pinfall of 32,887); Elks, 62-34 (31,935); McIntyre, 60-36 (32,585); Hutchinson, 55-41 (31,925); Hennessy, 54-42 (31,971); Granite Lodge, 52-44 (31,813); Bryan Post, 49-47 (31,683); Harold, 46-50 (31,127); Montclair, 44-52 (31,026); Burke, 43-53 (31,217); Atlantic, 40-56

(30,943); Davis, 39-57 (31,334); Morrissey, 33-63 (30,355); Bowladrome, 28-68 (30,693).

Hutchinson rolled the weekly high team three of 1367 and tied Harold Club for the high single, 484. Regan of Montclair had the high individual three of 339, and John J. Sullivan of Hutchinson rolled the high single of 125.

The Top Ten: Hallberg, 112.6; Regan, 112.4; Pete Martin, 107.2; Mike Hatfield, 101.4; Steve Anastas, 98.8; Joe Godas, 98.6; Andy Orrock, 96.4; Chris Butler, 96.0; Bob Kelliher, 95.5; John Reardon, 95.3.

The annual awards dinner will be held Thursday, May 12, at 7 p.m. at the North Quincy K. of C. Hall.

CAR CARE For Your Safety, Pocketbook

Tune-up could save up to $110 a year

How would you like to save yourself nearly $110? If your car is one of those described by the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and other sources as wasting as much as 25 per cent of its gasoline supply, then such savings are possible.

Simple mathematics

tell the story.
Say your car travels 15,000 miles a year and is capable of getting 15 miles per gallon.
If you are paying 60 cents a gallon for fuel, your annual expenditure would be $600.
Should you be losing 25 per cent in gas wasted, then you are out $150.

According to that same EPA report, keeping an automobile tuned up can improve fuel economy. And a recent survey shows the average cost of a tune-up today is around $42.

So a tune-up every 10,000 miles plus necessary minor adjustments along the way can save you a nice hunk of change.

Even if your car saves the U.S. and Canadian average of 8.2 per cent after a needed tune-up, you'll still save more in fuel costs than the price of the work. Gas savings under the circumstances described above would be just below $50 per year.

According to David L. Walker, Champion's director of automotive technical services, gasoline savings are only part of the value of a good engine tune-up.

Mr. Walker said, "In every test we've ever conducted, we've found a tuned car has better foul-weather starting success than a car in need of a tune-up. In fact, untuned cars have twice as many 'won't starts' than tuned cars."

A road service call for a start in a remote location where a tow is needed may cost about half the price of a tune-up, he noted.

Tune-up benefits that may not result in cash savings still make driving safer and more pleasurable.

In tests emission levels were sharply reduced after tune-up. Average carbon monoxide (CO) emissions were reduced 50 per cent (at idle) and hydrocarbon (HC) emissions were 47 per cent lower (also at idle) after tune-up.

Performance is also improved after tune-up. In moiré dynamometer tests there was an 8.6 per cent increase in power and an 8.0 per cent decrease in passing distance after tune-up.

Trade-in value of auto can increase by $500 when car in best shape

A survey of professional buyers who work for new and used car dealerships revealed some "tricks of the trade" that help them determine prices of cars.

Said one expert, "A used car that's in top condition can bring as much as $500 more than a nearly identical car that's been neglected. In fact, if the neglect is severe enough, the trade-in may have virtually only scrap value — even if it's a fairly late model car."

Physical looks of the car are important but appearance must be more than cosmetic deep, another expert claimed. A fresh paint job might look nice at first glance but if it's hiding damage, it could hurt the sale.

His advice, "As soon as a minor bump, nick or rust spot appears have it attended to by a good professional repair man."

Also, keeping a car clean at all times is the best protection against premature paint wear. Again, if you do need a paint job, a quality job by a well-equipped shop could pay off at trade-in time.

Engine condition is the next most suspect question of the potential buyer.

A California used car dealer advised, "A reverse twist on an old habit could bring in extra dollars, too. Smart buyers want to have their mechanics look over a car before they purchase to make sure there aren't any obvious and expensive defects. As a private seller, you might be smart to have your mechanic look over the car to take care of defects like obvious oil leaks that could kill a sale."

Naturally, the car should be cleaned and polished, inside and out. Upholstery should be cleaned with a good shampoo, glass and metal surfaces made spotless.

A gauge that is not operating or a light that is out can stick out like a sore thumb. It may cost only a matter of a few dollars to repair an item that could squeak the whole deal.

Antifreeze is a misnomer...

Shields engine from heat as well as cold

If you feel installing new antifreeze in the spring is like celebrating Christmas in July, then the new facts of motoring life haven't been made clear to you. When last winter's short supplies of antifreeze hit the car-owning public, a number of car owners either did without a fresh change or paid premium prices.

What these motorists may not have realized is there is no urgency to change antifreeze in late fall or early winter. It makes sense to change it any time a change is needed — in July as well as January.

Actually, car experts say, antifreeze is a misnomer. Coolant antifreeze is a more accurate description of the product. It is designed to both protect against the rigors of sub-zero weather and the plus 250°F operation of a modern, high compression engine in summer.

So installing a fresh cooling system protection may be smarter at times when the car's air conditioning is going full blast and warm air temperatures are making engines run hotter.

Most cars are purchased new in warm weather months. Therefore, if one heeds recommendations of annual changes of coolant antifreeze, then the change should come in these same warm weather time periods.

Historic patterns of late fall antifreeze changes date back to times when alcohol or methanol were used as bases of the product. These boiled away when warm weather came so it was important to put in new supplies when weather got cold again. Today's coolant base is ethylene glycol that can withstand both cold and hot temperatures.

Installing new coolant antifreeze at this time of year may save you money and long waits for the product next fall when most motorists start to worry about the need for change.

Don't kill 'cat'

Sometimes it isn't "business as usual" when servicing a new model car equipped with a catalytic converter. Take the matter of using a carburetor cleaner or other fuel additive. Unless these substances are used in a certain prescribed way, they could cause damage to the converter, rendering it useless. Read and follow the directions exactly.

BUSINESS NEWS

Edward T. Lewis Named Manager Mass. Electric Worcester District

Edward T. Lewis, Jr., formerly of Quincy, has been named manager of Massachusetts Electric Company's Worcester district by company President William J. Cadigan.

Cadigan also announced that Lewis will be nominated as a company vice president at the next Mass. Electric board of directors meeting June 15.

Mr. Lewis is the son of Mrs. Patricia Lewis of Clay St., Wollaston and the late Edward T. Lewis, who served as City Manager under Plan E and was executive secretary to Mayors Amelio Della Chiesa and James McIntyre.

His wife, Jeanne, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Cassani of Church Rd., Quincy.

A native of Quincy, Lewis received a bachelor's degree in business administration from Boston University in 1957. He joined the company as a power sales representative in Worcester a year later.

Lewis was named supervisor of commercial and industrial sales in Southbridge in 1962 and later in the year became district commercial sales manager in that town.

He was appointed manager of the company's North Adams district in 1968 and in 1971 was named district manager in Lynn, a position he has held to date.

Lewis, who is active in community affairs, currently serves as a director of the Lynn Chamber of Commerce and is a trustee and director of the First East Savings Bank in Lynn. He is also a member of the Rotary Club and is a Lieutenant Colonel in the U.S. Army Reserve.

Lewis will make his home in the Worcester area with his wife and their two children.

Davis Enthused About South Shore SBA Funding

Harold R. Davis, legal counsel for the South Shore Chamber of Commerce Economic Development Corporation appeared in Washington, D.C., recently before a House Sub-committee to report on the Small Business Administration 502 loans his group has helped organize over the past several years. He said they have "greatly aided" business and increased jobs on the South Shore.

He also appealed to the legislators to sustain federal funding for these loans, and was given a favorable response.

"The committee assured me that at least $45 million in direct funding will be provided nationally for this program over the next year," Davis said.

Davis later met with Congressman James A. Burke, who promised him "a continuation or possible expansion of the present program."

Davis was particularly enthused with the amount of money allotted the South Shore.

"Because of our continued efforts we'll be receiving $900,000 in our area alone," he said. "That's significantly higher than the national level."

The SSEDCC has been a major catalyst to business development in this area, particularly in recent years. Since 1974 it has helped gain $6.3 million in SBA loans for companies on the South Shore. The resulting economic growth has meant that 768 jobs were either created or retained here.

Davis is enthusiastic about the future as well. "There are indications that the Carter Administration would like to introduce legislation increasing 502 funding two to three times its current level."

'Tailor Lending Packaging'

Pearce Predicts New Approach To Mortgaging

Quincy Savings Bank President Charles A. Pearce, speaking at a mortgage conference of 100 members of the Jack Conway real estate organization, predicted a brand new approach in mortgage lending practices in the years immediately ahead.

"The day has come when the mortgage lender must tailor his lending package to the specific needs of the buyer," said Pearce. "There will be no more of the attitude 'Take it or leave it - this is all we have to offer'."

Pearce told the Conway real estate group that "today's buyers are highly sophisticated and they demand special programs." He added that "the use of computers by our banks makes it easy for us to now accomplish all sorts of things with mortgage figures."

The speaker pointed to new variable rate plans, adjusted rate mortgages, flexible plans and others as some of the mortgage lending innovations now in use by lenders.

"In addition, plans have been submitted in Washington by Senators like Ed Brooke of Massachusetts, Mathias of Maryland and Proxmire of Wisconsin.

"Senator Brooke's bill is particularly interesting in that it allows a young prospective home buyer to put up to $2,500 a year, with a four-year limit of $10,000, in tax-free money in a special savings account, providing the funds are used for housing," said Pearce who is also vice president of the Mutual Savings Bank Association of America.

"This is a fine provision in the bill because it helps introduce the young family to the thrift industry, gives us a stable deposit account and, most importantly, allows the young future home buyer to systematically save tax-free dollars for a home, new or used" said Pearce.

Pearce called on his audience to write to Senator Brooke giving support for the legislation.

SSB Realty Signs Lease With Value Exchange Corporation

Kevin C. Phelan, vice president, SSB Realty, Inc. announces his company has signed a lease agreement with the Value Exchange Corporation for office space at State Street South, North Quincy.

V.E.C. is a Massachusetts Corporation established in 1976 by the State Street Bank and Trust Company and Bankers

Data Processing, Inc., major providers of on-line banking services in New England.

The company's services include the installation of financial terminals in a variety of retail outlets throughout the Metropolitan Boston area where customers of Banks participating in V.E.C. will be able to cash checks. The terminal verifies the customer's account and insures that the draft is within the limits established by the issuing Bank.

The check cashing service is the first phase of a project which will eventually offer expanded banking transactions to several million customers through a variety of retail outlets as legislation permits.

According to V.E.C. spokesperson, Sid Horton, Marketing Officer for Value Exchange Corp., the company chose to locate at State Street South because the building's accessibility to the major highways in the area would greatly improve the Company's ability to reach and service its marketing area.

Hannon Discusses Fore River Bridge Replacement

Walter J. Hannon, manager of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce's Economic Development Group, was in Washington, D.C. recently to speak with Congressman James A. Burke about the Fore River Bridge replacement.

Hannon manages the Fore River BRAT, seeking reconstruction of the bridge, called vital to the business health of the area. To date, however, their efforts have been snagged in state-ordered environmental impact studies, and securing adequate funding for the project.

State Transportation Secretary Frederick Salvucci agrees the bridge should be widened so that larger tankers can move in and out of the Fore River basin.

He told a Chamber of Commerce audience recently, however, that the structure was found to be in such good condition that Massachusetts did not qualify for Federal funds with which to replace it. He said he hoped to work with the Coast Guard and other experts "to seek other funding sources."

HOME BUYER PSYCHOLOGY

Buyers buy homes by comparison. The average buyer is no slouch. He'll shop a particular neighborhood and home-type. He'll rarely buy the first one he visits. It's too big an investment to be nonchalant. He will then compare prices against COMPARATIVE value. He'll quickly throw out an obviously overpriced home.

If the buyer really likes one of these overpriced homes, he MAY make a counter offer at a lower price - closer to its true value. But history shows that he'll probably make his offer for one already realistically valued.

A Realtor can save the home seller much chagrin because he has accurate knowledge of what similar houses in his neighborhood are selling for, which have been taken off the market because of overpricing. Doesn't it make sense to work with documented facts instead of guesswork. Who knows, you may even be planning to sell your house for less than you should. Why not drop in and find out? We have the facts.

Thinking of selling your home? It makes sense to list it with PRESIDENT REAL ESTATE, 356 Hancock St., Phone: 328-8345.

SCHOOL CUSTODIANS, angered over not receiving a contract with a pay raise, picket outside City Hall in an effort to draw attention to their plight.

Contract Controversy

School Custodians Picket In Dispute

By MIKE WIGDOR

Over 100 Quincy public school custodians began informational picketing at City Hall and School Committee headquarters Monday to protest the lack of a contract with a pay increase they have not received since July 1975.

The previous two-year contract expired in June 1976 and ongoing negotiations with the school committee have resulted this spring in an impasse, though a state appointed fact finder, John T. Conlon, has recommended two retroactive payments of 3.5 per cent increases to July of 1976, and January 1, 1977. A 7 per cent pay hike would be effective from July 1, 1977 through June 30, 1978.

Robert Di'Ramio, National Representative of the National Association of Government Employees, the school committee has "refused to honor" the findings of an impartial fact-finder. He charged the school committee was denying the custodians "a salary increase of about a dollar-a-day over a six month period."

"In the meantime the money taxpayers are forced to get up is going for the services of an attorney rather than to pay the custodians a fair and equitable raise."

The salary of a custodian varies depending on the size of the building he works in and the length of service. A junior custodian's pay increases in four steps from $169.11 - $186.58 per week, according to the personnel office. A senior custodian's salary in a small elementary school goes from $191.52 - $197.88 per week, and a senior custodian for a large

'Political Talk' Says LaRaia

Tobin Sees More Indictments Coming

By TOM HENSHAW

"This is the most corrupt administration in the history of our city," Arthur H. Tobin told the Quincy Taxpayers Association last week, firing the opening gun in the gloves-off phase of the 1977 municipal election campaign.

Mayor LaRaia shrugged off Tobin's charges.

"He's just talking like a politician," he said. "He's running for Mayor, you know."

"Four people involved in this administration are either under arrest, indicted or convicted and the worst is yet to come," declared the City Council president, who is a candidate to oust Mayor LaRaia from City Hall.

He said he expects more indictments of city officials in the next two or three months, in addition to those already lodged against suspended Public Works Commissioner Vincent LoCicero and Herbert Reppucci, former assistant director of RSVP. LoCicero and Reppucci have both pleaded innocent to extortion charges and are awaiting trial in Federal Court.

"If the FBI is still in Quincy now then you have to conclude that there is something in the wind," he said. "Why are they still investigating? It couldn't be for a case that is already set for trial. They would have done all that."

"In my professional opinion I think we can anticipate further action."

Tobin assailed LaRaia for lack of leadership and for "manufacturing daily confrontations. The people are sick of it. The city is at a standstill."

"Monday, he's fighting the district attorney," he said. "Tuesday, he's in court with the chief of police. Wednesday, he's firing a respected member of the Hospital Board. Thursday, he's fighting the superintendent of schools. And Friday he's blaming the Council President for it all and we start over."

"He accuses me of holding two jobs," asserted Tobin, who is also a state senator. "Yet the finest chief executives in this city held two jobs and never had the problems that we have today."

Under those mayors we got a new registry building, State Street South, new bridges, a new MBTA line, new roads. This man has been in 16 months and can't point to a single accomplishment. The city is in the worst turmoil in its history."

Under questioning, Tobin defended Police Chief Francis X. Finn in his Superior Court suit against LaRaia and Lt. Corady Solimini, whom the Mayor appointed inspector of divisions over Finn's objections.

"If the Mayor thinks there is

Receipts Falling Behind

Hospital Could Have $3 Million Deficit In June

Quincy City Hospital could have a $3 million deficit by June 30 and there doesn't seem to be very much that can be done about it.

City Councillors told each other Monday night that monthly receipts are falling well behind the $2.4 million that Director Anthony DeFalco forecast would be collected each month when he appeared before the Hospital Committee.

"Last month's receipts totalled $1.8 million," said Councillor Leo J. Kelly, putting forth figures compiled for him by City Auditor Charles L. Shea. "This month is in the vicinity of $1.3 million."

"In order to avoid a deficit the hospital would have to collect a little better than $6 million in the next two months when about $3 million have been collected in the past two months."

Said Councillor Dennis E. Harrington, who is chairman of the Hospital Committee:

"Mr. DeFalco indicated that he would definitely collect $2.4 million a month for the remaining months of the year and he's in a position when he now needs to collect $6.2 million."

"A $3 million deficit was projected by the Public Health and Hospital Committee and it appears that that projection is going to be accurate."

Councillor Daniel G. Raymondi said that he had been at a meeting with Mayor LaRaia and the Mayor "made it quite clear that he expected the hospital to run a deficit of at least $1 million and he made that statement about two weeks ago."

"It would appear that that $1 million figure might be quite conservative and we all know the impact on the future tax rate if the hospital runs at a deficit of $1 million or $2 million."

DeFalco was scheduled to be at a meeting of Harrington's Hospital Committee last night (Wednesday) at 5:30 p.m. which time the committee was to discuss deletion, restriction or expansion of programs at the hospital.

Harrington said the hearing "will not be a page by page review for five gruelling hours of the $20 million hospital budget."

Confused Issue

Council, Mayor Clash Over Firefighters Pay, Appointments Lists

The City Council and the Mayor's office clashed Monday night over a new, slightly confused issue that ran the gamut from firefighters' salaries to civil service lists to disabled veterans. The Council blamed the Mayor's office.

The Mayor's office blamed Civil Service.

The issue was sent to Councillor Warren A. Powers' Ordinance Committee in hopes that it can be resolved by May 14 when Council President Arthur H. Tobin promised to call a special meeting of the Council to dispose of it.

It began with a proposed ordinance change that would raise the basic salary of Quincy firefighters from $12,846 to $13,488.

Powers told the Council that he had received a call from the Mayor's office asking him to expedite the ordinance change so that four vacancies on the Fire Department could be filled from a new Civil Service list.

Powers allowed that it was indeed worthy of expedition and the ordinance was speeding on its way to his committee when Councillor Paul D. Harold, a late arrival on the battleground, posed a provocative question.

"Why," he asked, "is it necessary to have a new Civil Service list when the Mayor's office received a new one only last Saturday? Why not fill the four vacancies in the Fire Department from that list?"

John Salemius, the Mayor's former executive secretary who was filling in for his successor Arthur Casey, conceded that a new list had arrived Saturday but that it did not include all the people who would be eligible under the revised salary schedule.

HAROLD - I'm talking about a list that has come out to fill four vacancies that was certified as of April 29. What is the timetable for these people who have been certified? When can they expect to be called? When can they expect to be hired?

SALEMIUS - What we're looking for is a new list which will include everyone who is interested in being a firefighter in Quincy and not just those who are interested in the lower salary grade.

HAROLD - Isn't it true that when you up the salary to make it the same as the statewide salary that it changes the preference for veterans and disabled veterans?

SALEMIUS - I don't know exactly how it would operate with regard to them. I think that more people would be included who were not before. Whether that

LaRaia Approves $4.3 Million Project Requests

Mayor Joseph LaRaia has approved requests totaling $4.3 million submitted to Quincy CETA and Advisory Manpower Planning Board sub-committee officials for funding as Special Projects under the Title VI allocation.

The local project requests, which have to be ultimately approved by the state Office of Economic Affairs, were submitted along with those of other South Shore cities and towns.

Project requests were originally presented to CETA and AMPB staff and advisors to be evaluated according to established rating criteria. Projects were recommended according to overall importance and necessity to the community.

Selected respectively from among public agencies, private industry, client groups and the Mayor's Office, the four-member AMPB board was composed of Earl MacLeod, Massachusetts Rehabilitation and Board Chairman; Eileen McGue, Personnel Department, State Street Bank and Trust Co.; Arthur Keefe, former client, and James Eddy, Downtown Development Coordinator.

Proposals submitted to Quincy, as the subgrantee, from outside the City may be funded with the stipulation that subgrantee residents will be hired to implement them.

Non-profit agencies' requests received special consideration because many municipalities have been saturated with CETA participants and are financially restricted in possibilities to continue providing employment without CETA support at the termination of the project, LaRaia said.

Among proposed projects in the Quincy area are:

A South Shore alcoholic clinic, South Shore mental health association, a public amphitheater, Parks and Recreation Department projects, Library Department projects, a Council on the Aging outreach project, a treatment project for juvenile offenders in conjunction with Quincy Juvenile Court, a youth involvement program, again in conjunction with the Court, and Cemetery Department project.

An Inside Look

Stock Market Topic For Women's Workshop May 11

By MARY WEAVER

Have you been baffled by the language of the stock exchange? Or have you considered investing in stocks, but wondered what is best for your financial means?

Helpful advice on the ins and outs and ups and downs of the stock market will be offered at a special workshop Wednesday, May 11, at the Adams Shore Library, Sea St.

Beginning at 7:30 p.m., this fifth and final workshop in a series on Women and Money sponsored by the Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women and the Quincy Cooperative Bank will feature Jeremiah Foley and Robert Keddy from Quincy Cooperative Bank and Thomas Hagan of Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith, Inc. as guest speakers.

"Making the decision to invest represents a major financial commitment for most people," said Foley who is director of marketing at the Quincy

Cooperative Bank. "Investments can accomplish many things for people - some offer long term stability, others quick profit and capital gain, others offer speculation and still others a hedge against inflation or excessive taxes. At this workshop we will discuss the different types of investment and the advantages and disadvantages of each."

Foley and Hagan will present an introduction to the stock market, including a lesson in how to read the financial page and in investment language. The meaning of such terms as dividends, stocks, price/earnings ratios, capital gains, bonds, mutual funds, averages and blue chips will be explained.

Other subjects which will be discussed include ways to enter the stock market, such as employee savings plans and investment clubs, how much money to invest, when to buy and sell, and factors to consider when stock has been inherited. How to choose a stock broker who can service your account properly, provide necessary advice on buying and selling stock, and accurately assess your financial circumstances will be examined and the key points in selecting a broker will be outlined.

"The language and workings of the stock market can often be confusing and sometimes overwhelming," said Foley. "Through a round table discussion of the stock market, we intend to make it easier for people to consider investing."

In addition to the discussion on the stock market, Robert Keddy, vice president of mortgages at Quincy Cooperative Bank will examine the pros and cons of stock investment vs. real estate investment. The elements of risk, possibilities of returns, impacts of inflation, and meeting expectations will be some of the factors considered.

The workshop is free and open to the public. Time will be allotted for questions and answers and literature will be available.

WOMEN ALCOHOLICS

Women, according to a recent government survey, comprise the largest increase in the problem drinking population in recent years. While past estimates indicated that one of every five alcoholics was a woman, now it is one out of three.

Why do women drink? Pressures, tensions, the inability to deal with problems, boredom and disappointments send many to alcohol.

Women who drink to excess, experts say, tend to lay the blame on family disagreements. Men are more likely to attribute it to job problems. Women alcoholics are also more likely to lapse into deep depression than men alcoholics and often suffer greater social isolation.

The most effective remedy for the disease, medical experts feel, is to stop using alcohol. After the drinking is halted, the problems that have been responsible for it can be better treated.

If you believe that alcoholism is a problem for you or someone you know, you should contact a physician, your clergyman or a family counselor for guidance on where to obtain help.

As a Multistatement customer, you can add to your home and subtract from your loan.

Insulating a house, adding a new room or a new roof... these can be pretty expensive propositions.

If you're thinking about doing any of them, this proposition should interest you:

At South Shore Bank, we're eager to build good, long-term relationships with new customers. So we'll give you a 1% discount on any home improvement loan over $1,500. (That can add up to quite a savings!)

In return, we ask that you open a Multistatement Account.

Multistatement:
What does that involve?

Actually, very little.

To become a Multistatement customer, you just have to open a checking account and a savings account with the bank.

No minimum balance is required in either. You deposit whatever amount you wish. And the discount on the loan is yours.

Look at it this way:

We get a chance to be your bank.

You get a way to cut your home improvement costs without cutting any corners.

People who live in the area have expressed complaints lately about several things which they claim can be corrected at small cost to the city.

"There are definitely some things that could be done," said Sheets. "I'm looking forward to listening to the ideas of the people who live there. I'm sure we can work together to make some needed improvements."

West Acres is the only city-owned veterans housing in Quincy, with 32 town house units.

Doris Day Fondly

Remembers Billy DeWolfe

Billy DeWolfe has been dead three years now, but he is fondly remembered by his close friend, Doris Day, the last person to see him alive.

Miss Day tells of her warm feelings for the Quincy-born comedian in a recent letter to another of his close friends, Eddie Scolamiero, the West Quincy barber.

Scolamiero, who ushered with DeWolfe at the old Quincy theater back in the 1920's when they were kids, and Billy's last name was Jones, had written to Miss Day after DeWolfe died March 5, 1974, at age 67.

He sent her copies of The Quincy Sun containing tributes to him at funeral services here and a photo of graveside services at Mount Wollaston Cemetery.

Three years later, Miss Day replied to Scolamiero and with apologies for being so tardy.

"This letter will come as a complete surprise to you after all this time," she wrote. "Goodness knows what you must think of me. I can't begin to tell you how sorry I am for only just answering your lovely letter.

"It's been buried under a mountain of fan mail for so very long, a mountain which has only just been discovered by my new secretary. I can only offer my sincere apologies and hope that you will understand."

"I must say that looking at the picture in the paper of Billy made me very, very sad. It goes without saying that I miss him more than words can say and not a day goes by when I don't think about him."

"I used to speak with him on the phone, sometimes three or four times a day and always laughing hysterically at his funny comments about everything."

DeWolfe was a heavy cigar smoker - a chain-smoker.

Miss Day recalled a birthday party given him shortly before he died and although he kept his illness a secret, friends attending "knew in their hearts there was a big, big problem."

"I think I was the only one who knew the truth and it was really hard on me to carry that in my heart. I was the last person to see him and I had been with him until about one o'clock in the morning on the day he passed away."

Miss Day said she visited DeWolfe every day and night in the hospital and despite his pain, he always made her laugh.

"I used to ask him to get out of the bed so that I could get in and if you had heard his comments you would have gotten hysterical."

"He was one of my dearest, dearest friends and my memories of him are the sweetest."

She recalled how much they enjoyed working together on her TV series, and how they used to "pal around and have fun."

DeWolfe often visited her at her home.

"He really had a good time here at my house with all the doggies and he absolutely adored them. They loved Uncle Billy the same way and he never failed to bring them a big bag of treats and toys, in fact everything you could think of."

She sums him up thusly:

"He was a super, super friend, a fabulous actor, one of the funniest men I've ever known and just plain good."

Billy would have liked that.

PAUL BENEDICT, another comic with Quincy ties, and co-star of the TV series "The Jeffersons", will play the role of Reverend Morell opposite Eva Marie Saint in the comedy "Candida" at the Shubert Theater, Boston, May 17-29.

Benedict's mother Mrs. Alma Benedict, lives on School St., Quincy Center.

A member of the Boston Theatre Co. for 12 years, Benedict performed more than 60 roles there, before he was cast as Harry Bentley, the zany Englishman who lives down the hall from the Jeffersons.

His film credits include "Front Page", "Jeremiah Johnson", "Up the Sandbox", and soon-to-be-released "The Goodbye Girl".

Former owner of the Image Theater of Boston, Benedict was graduated from Boston College High School and Suffolk University.

POLITICIAN WATCHERS expect to see Emery Fontaine make a run against incumbent John Lydon for the Ward 3 City Council seat.

MILESTONE: Former Mayor Thomas S. Burgin marked his 75th birthday recently [April 15] with a family get-together at the Neighborhood Club. Among those attending: his son, Jon of New York City, daughter and son-in-law, Dr. and Mrs. James Allen of Williamsville, N.Y., brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. C. Rodger Burgin of Milton, two grand children, Timothy Skudder Allen and Chris Jon Allen and his former wife, Mrs. Howard D. Johnson.

"It was nice having everyone together again," said Burgin who hardly looks 75.

SMALL WORLD DEPT: Charles McIntyre, 9, got up at bat for the first time as a Junior Leaguer Saturday and got his first hit off Matthew Tobin. Charlie, who plays for Colonial Federal, is the son of former Mayor-Senator James McIntyre. Matthew, a member of the Bryan Post team, is the son of Senator-City Council President Arthur Tobin.

OBSERVATION via the Quincy Kiwanis Club newsletter: "Did you know that Christopher Columbus holds the world's economy mileage record? He crossed the ocean with just three gallons." [Aw, c'mon!]

The Meanest Mother

Editor's Note: The following anonymous article first appeared in The Quincy Sun six years ago and from time to time since then we have had requests from readers to reprint it. Because Sunday is Mother's Day we feel it is quite appropriate this week to pay this tribute to all the "mean" mothers everywhere.

I had the meanest Mother in the whole world.

While other kids ate candy for breakfast, I had to have cereal, eggs or toast. When others had cokes and candy for lunch, I had to eat a sandwich. As you guessed, my supper was different from the other kids too.

But at least I wasn't alone in my suffering. My sisters and two brothers had the same mean Mother as I did.

My Mother insisted upon knowing where we were at all times. You'd think we were on a chain gang. She had to know who our friends were and what we were doing. She insisted if we said we'd be gone one hour that we be gone one hour or less—not one hour and one minute.

I am nearly ashamed to admit it, but she actually struck us. Not once but each time we did as we pleased. Can you imagine someone actually hitting a child just because he disobeyed. Now you can begin to see how mean she really was.

The worst is yet to come. We had to be in bed by nine each night and up early the next morning. We couldn't sleep till noon like our friends. So while they slept my Mother actually had the nerve to break the child labor law. She made us work. We had to wash dishes, make beds, learn to cook and all sorts of cruel things.

I believe she laid awake at night thinking up mean things to do to us.

She always insisted upon our telling the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth, even if it killed us—it nearly did.

By the time we were teenagers, she was much wiser and our life became even more unbearable. None of this tooting the horn of a car for us to come running. She embarrassed us to no end by making our dates and friends come to the door to get us.

I forgot to mention, while my friends were dating at the mature age of 12 and 13, my old fashioned Mother refused to let me date until the age of 15 and 18. Fifteen that is, if you dated only to go to a school function, and that was only once or twice a year.

My Mother was a complete failure as a Mother. None of us has ever been arrested, divorced or beaten by his mate. Each of my brothers served his time in the service of this country.

And whom do we have to blame for this terrible way we turned out? You're right. Our mean Mother.

Look at all the things that we missed. We never got to march in a protest parade, nor to take part in a riot, burn draft cards, and a million and one things that our friends did. She forced us to grow into God-fearing, educated, honest adults.

Using this as a background, I am trying to raise my three children. I stand a little taller and I am filled with pride when my children call me mean.

Because, you see, I thank God. He gave me the meanest Mother in the whole world.

Verdict To Establish Authority

Judge Takes Finn-LaRaia Case Under Advisement

Superior Court Judge Ellis Brown has taken under advisement Police Chief Francis X. Finn's suit against Mayor LaRaia and Lt. Corady Solimini to establish who has authority over the Quincy Police Department.

Judge Brown heard final arguments last Friday from City Solicitor Thomas Williams and Martin Cosgrove, attorney for Chief Finn.

Said Williams:

"The Chief is not directly answerable to the people. He is subject to the Mayor. When people call for more protection, they don't call the Chief. They call their elected representatives.

"Mayor LaRaia was elected by the citizens of Quincy who obviously wanted some policy changes. He changed the policies. Whether those changes were wise or not is not the issue. The issue is did he have the authority?"

Said Cosgrove:

"Sometimes the police are called upon to investigate people who are close to politicians. If the Mayor had the power to transfer police officers it might affect those investigations. It would be an awesome power."

The questions that Judge Brown will be called upon to answer include:

Did the Mayor have the power to appoint Lt. Solimini to the post of inspector of divisions, which is essentially the No. 2 job in the department?

Does the Mayor have the power to transfer police officers?

Does the Mayor have the authority to make duty assignments in the department?

His answers are expected in about a month.

Harrington Seeks Council At-Large Seat

Ward 6 Councillor, Dennis E. Harrington, 34, announced his candidacy for Councillor at-large.

Harrington who is completing his second term in Ward 6, said "It has been both a rewarding experience and a privilege to serve as City Councillor from Ward 6. I owe a great deal and a debt of thanks to the many residents of my district who have lent their effort and interest to assisting me as their Ward 6 Councillor."

He said, he would, if elected, Councillor at large, "maintain a strong interest in all issues affecting Ward 6 and pledged his assistance to whomever was elected as Ward 6 Councillor for the coming two-year term."

Harrington in announcing his first bid for city-wide office, pointed to his record as chairman of several important City Council committees.

He cited his chairmanship of the Environmental Committee which has led the fight to save Quincy Bay.

"The committee," he said, "is directly responsible for the legislation now before Congress which would eliminate the necessity for land fill in Quincy Bay. The legislation, if passed, will allow for a secondary treatment plant at Deer Island and eliminate all sewerage discharge from Quincy.

Dorchester and Hingham bays."

He also cited his chairmanship of the School Building Needs Committee and its accomplishment of solutions to the over-crowding and substandard conditions at both North Quincy High School and the Merrymount School.

If elected Councillor at-large, he pledged continued effort in representing all citizens of Quincy on important issues affecting their city and their neighborhoods.

A graduate of St. Peter's School, Dorchester and Christopher Columbus High School, Harrington received his AB degree from Boston College before earning his Doctor of Jurisprudence degree from Boston University. After graduation, he was appointed a special Assistant Attorney General by the then Atty. Gen.

Elliot Richardson and was reappointed as an Assistant Attorney General under Robert H. Quinn.

Harrington is presently a member of the Board of Directors of Quincy Youth Hockey Arena, as well as legal counsel to the corporation. He is a former Vice Chairman of the Sacred Heart Parish Council of North Quincy. He serves as Treasurer of the Quincy Bar Association and is a member of the Quincy Lodge of Elks, North Quincy Knights of Columbus and the Montclair men's Club.

Harrington is an elected member of the Ward 6 Democratic Committee and was recently elected as chairman of the Quincy Democratic City Committee.

He is married to the former Ellen Boyd of North Quincy and they live with their six children at 10 Hillcrest Rd., Squantum.

"What Do I Have?" Historical Society Interest Session Topic

Quincy Historical Society's next interest session will be on the subject "WHAT DO I HAVE?", Wednesday, May 11 at 7:30 p.m. at the Society's Adams Academy Building.

The meeting is open to the public.

Whether it be a family heirloom that is part of their heritage, something purchased, or part of a collection, people are constantly seeking information on their possessions.

How to find the answers to these questions will be the subject of this informal discussion meeting.

Quincy, Braintree Reject MTA Extension

Voters of Quincy and Braintree overwhelmingly rejected a proposal to extend Metropolitan Transit Authority rapid transit lines to the South Shore. Balloting in a special referendum was 11,463 to 1,909 against the proposal.

"The people have plainly said that they do not want MTA transit service and it is now up to the special commission to bring in something better," said Quincy Mayor Charles A. Ross.

MTA Chairman Carroll L. Meins explained to a public hearing at City Hall a plan under which Quincy and Braintree would shoulder the entire deficit for South Shore commuters boarding trains at their stations.

He said fares from Norfolk Downs and Wollaston stations would be set at 15 cents, Quincy and Quincy Adams stations at 20 cents and Braintree station at 25 cents.

Charged Rep. Avery W. Gilkerson [R-Quincy]:

"Recognizing the fact that Mr. Meins was formerly a distinguished Boston politician, isn't this whole proposition a part of your plan to bring Quincy into Boston?"

Meins said it wasn't.

SHORE LEAGUE OPENS

Johnny Fallon tripled and his brother, Charlie, singled home a pair of runs in a three-run ninth inning as the Quincy Knights edged Weymouth, 6-5, as the South Shore Baseball League opened its 10th season.

In other opening day contests:

Herb Dinsmore homered to lead Squantum, 9-5, over Randolph; Braintree White Sox pounded Red Lane and Frank Rouillard for 19 hits and a 15-7 win over Greens of Quincy Point; and Jim Pena's six-hitter allowed South Quincy to prevail over Milton, 9-2.

Vacancies List Among Items

Housing Probe Underway

The State Department of Community Affairs (DCA) opened a four to six weeks investigation of the Quincy Housing Authority last week, bringing to a temporary halt local developments on that controversial front.

Arthur Casey, the Mayor's executive secretary, said that, pending results of the state investigation, the LaRaia administration had agreed:

● Not to press for a court order forcing the QHA to make public its list of housing vacancies. The order was to have been filed in Norfolk Superior Court Tuesday.

● Not to submit to the City Council the name of a third candidate to succeed Dr. Peter Corea, whose appointment to the QHA expired Feb. 26. Two previous nominees were rejected by the Council.

● To halt an investigation of its own into petitions that were circulated among tenants in support of the QHA against their own Harborview Tenants Association. It has been alleged that some names were obtained by coercion and fraud.

Meanwhile, Casey said Mayor LaRaia has gotten from the state an extension of at least 30 days beyond the May 6 deadline in which to file for about $600,000 in state funds to modernize the Germantown housing project.

The QHA and the HTA, which represents all the city's public housing tenants, were unable to agree to priorities for the program. Since both have to sign the application, the city stood to lose the money.

Mayor LaRaia met with the members of the Housing Authority last Friday morning and with the tenants and their attorney in the afternoon in an attempt to act as an intermediary between the feuding parties.

Casey said it was planned to go into Norfolk Superior Court last Tuesday to force the QHA to publish the vacancy list.

"Three weeks ago we requested the vacancy list but we were told it was private," he said. "The DCA agrees that it is public. In Brockton, the vacancy list is posted on a wall. In Quincy, it's kept behind the door.

"We were preparing to go to court but the DCA asked us to hold back while its investigation was going on.

"We want the list posted. We want people to be able to see the list. If a person is fifth on the waiting list and there are a dozen vacancies and he doesn't get it then he has a legitimate gripe."

Casey said the DCA is conducting more than just an audit of the Housing Authority... "It's a review of management procedures. Six investigators were in Quincy last Friday."

He said the investigation will include an examination of the petitions, which were circulated when Mayor LaRaia attempted to name Mrs. Ellen Nieters, top choice of the Harborview Residents Committee screening group, to the Authority.

It was reported at the time the petitions contained 1,200 names but, by the time the Mayor's office obtained copies of them, Casey said, "the number of names had dwindled to about 500."

Cites Board's Record

Tull 'Shocked' Over LaRaia Seeking Ryan's Resignation

Atty. George M. Tull has expressed shock over Mayor LaRaia's request for the resignation of Dennis Ryan from the City Hospital Board of Managers.

Tull, who was a member of the board for eight years, two of them as chairman, is a candidate for mayor of Quincy.

"I was surprised at the firing of Jack Williams from the board and even more so when Ed Cronin was also fired," said Tull. "Now I'm shocked to hear of the request for Dennis Ryan's resignation."

"The record of the board for the last eight years speaks for itself. As a former member I speak with knowledge. Ryan, Williams and Cronin were active members throughout the period of which I speak.

"Many of the changes for the better were instituted during our service. Never during this period was the hospital in the red. Never did the hospital cost the taxpayers one cent.

"We contracted for an extended care unit which did not materialize because of others. The need is now apparent more than ever because of bed utilization.

"Long range planning was put into effect during this period and advances this board attempted were stalled or slowed by others.

"The Nursing School was a need that cost the people of Quincy nothing. Patient cost absorbed it and its need has always been an important one.

"It is suffice to say that the dedication of this board of which I was proud to be a member is one we could all boast.

"If this trend of firing or replacing dedicated members such as these three continues, the people of Quincy, the patients and the doctors, as well as the many departments, will be the losers."

Kelly Would Limit Quincy Clams To Residents

City Councillor Leo J. Kelly made it sound like Attila and his Huns were loose in Quincy.

"Outside clam diggers came in and depleted the clam beds in less than a day and a half," he told the Council Monday night. "They totally ruined the beaches. They came in en masse. They just tore out the clams."

"They left nothing for the people of Quincy who make a living off the harvesting of clams. These people were left almost destitute as a result of the depletion of these beds."

With that, Kelly introduced an ordinance that would, in effect, limit the taking of shellfish and sea worms in Quincy to Quincy residents by causing them to be licensed.

He said the proposed ordinance was patterned after those of Hingham and Hull.

"Residents of Quincy can't go in there and dig," he said. "So what is happening is those people are coming into the city of Quincy and depleting the clam beds and then going back to their own little areas and removing clams where no one else can remove them."

Kelly's proposal was referred to the ordinance committee for advertising.

He was named acting chairman of the Department of Communications this year. Poole's selection as a top teacher was based on a survey of student opinion taken by The Real Paper. The newspaper quoted students agreeing that Poole is "...a motivator, always encouraging and helping us to get our work published. He's dedicated, too. About 60 percent is his teaching abilities; the other 40 percent is the extra dedication he gives us."

A former executive news editor at the Boston Herald, Poole continues to work on the Sunday Herald American.

His wife, Janet, is a former president of the Quincy League of Women Voters and a substitute teacher in Quincy.

They have nine children.

Gallagher is a 51-year-old veteran and a resident of Quincy for 30 years. He has been in the heating and air conditioning business for 27 years. He is vice president of the Greater Boston Ten Pin Bowling Association and active in Cub Scouting.

He and his wife, the former Peg Cambria, have five children, all graduates of North Quincy High School, and eight grandchildren.

This is the tenth in a series of articles written

By Rep. MICHAEL W. MORRISSEY

The House of Representatives voted to engross a bill which would extend a cost of living increase to state employees, including members of the legislature. During previous debate on the bill, I supported an amendment to take elected officials out of the employee pay increase. A motion was made to reconsider the engrossed bill. I voted against reconsideration because I felt that it endangered a cost of living increase for state employees. I don't mind voting against my own pay raise or to remove elected officials from the pay increase; but I voted against reconsideration because I felt it endangered a cost of living increase for state employees. The bill was then sent to Senate Ways and Means.

Last Wednesday, the famous under-water explorer, Jacques Cousteau, addressed a joint session of the House and Senate. Mr. Cousteau spoke at length on the energy shortage, and future world fuel problems. The most important part of his speech dealt with strict controls and standards for the transportation of oil across the world's oceans.

The Senate bill 398, for continuing education for nurses has been sent out of Committee favorably.

Last Monday, the House voted on a bill that would extend the voting hours of all cities and towns to 12 hours. Quincy polls are currently open 12 hours. An amendment was attached so that the state would pick up any cost burden to those communities who were forced to extend their voting hours. The bill was sent to Ways and Means, where it will probably die.

The bottle bill may not be dead, and I will have more information on banning leg-hold traps in the next article.

If I can be of any assistance, please don't hesitate to call me at home, 328-0900, or in the State House, 727-7035.

My district office is located at 69 Billings Road. My office hours are MW 8:00 A.M. - 10:00 A.M. and W 6:00 P.M. - 9:00 P.M. I also have volunteers at the office every evening.

Recycling Project Catches On

100,000 Aluminum Cans Goal Of Broad Meadows

If you don't see as much aluminum around Quincy as you used to, thank the ninth graders of Broad Meadows Junior High School.

As an outgrowth of a classroom science assignment the students have become involved in a project to recycle all aluminum. According to Peter Swanson, who made the assignment, "we wanted to study our environment and find out just how important recycling aluminum is."

"We didn't intend to go as far as we have but the kids really got enthused and began putting what they had learned into practice."

The ninth graders presented their research findings to the other classes so that they all would be aware of the recycling process and its environmental importance. One fact that seemed to impress everyone was that to recycle aluminum it requires only 5 per cent of the energy needed to produce the same amount of metal from raw materials.

Then an aluminum collection program was organized within the school in which all 900 students could participate. Every morning at 8 members of the ninth grade class station themselves at the main entrance to the school to receive whatever aluminum is brought in.

"We keep track of how much each student brings in," Swanson explains, "tallying everything by the number of cans [22 aluminum cans equal a pound]. The average daily collection is about 45 pounds or 1,000 cans. On some Mondays we collect as much as 5,000 cans. At 17 cents a pound, which is the rate paid by the Reynolds Aluminum Recycling Company, the Broad Meadows recyclers have earned almost $300 in just five weeks.

"Our goal at the beginning of the year was 60,000 cans but in a few weeks we have already recycled more than 37,000 cans. The students decided to raise their goal to a more realistic 100,000 cans."

The recycling spirit has not just hit the science class. Students in the welding club, under the direction of George Ronan, have built a small trailer to carry the aluminum to the Reynolds recycling mobile unit stop. The students did all the welding, woodwork, wiring and assembly themselves. The trailer carries a motto which attributes its existence to recycling.

Each week Swanson attaches the trailer full of aluminum to his car and takes it to Reynolds to be recycled.

Swanson's science class is preparing a slide presentation describing the aluminum recycling process and their own role in recycling. They hope to present the slide show to the rest of the school and perhaps to community groups to demonstrate the meaningful activities junior high school students engage in.

BROAD MEADOWS Junior High School recyclers proudly display fruits of their labor: a load of approximately 150 pounds of aluminum for recycling, which represents a weeks collection and the "recycled" trailer they built to carry the aluminum to the Reynolds Aluminum Recycling Company. The 200 ninth graders are involved in an ambitious recycling program to clean up their community and to raise money for their special year end activities. The students who built the trailer from recycled materials are, standing at left, Fran Donovan, Tommy Brennan and David Burke. Active ninth recyclers are, standing at right, Richard Brill, who recycled more than 3,000 cans, Dale Solander, Jimmy Graham, Karen O'Rourke, and two other over-3,000 recyclers, Susan Callaghan and Maureen Maher. Kneeling are Tony Kraunelis, David Grindle and John Cascarano, all of whom have recycled more than 3,000 cans, and Carol Noone and Patti Morris.

The students plan to use the money they earn to pay for their away-day at the end of the year and for the annual ninth grade dinner-dance.

North Defeats Brockton, Quincy Faces Cambridge

The North Quincy baseball team, which got off to a disappointing start, has been red hot and Monday recorded one of its biggest wins, 7-3, over a strong Brockton team which had lost only one of eight games.

It was the fourth win in a row for the Raiders, who raised their record to 5-3 in the Suburban League and 5-4 overall.

Quincy's scheduled game at Weymouth North was postponed until Tuesday.

Charlie Bunker's North team yesterday (Wednesday) faced Weymouth North, will host Waltham Friday at 7:15 under the lights in the first night game of the season and Monday will be at Weymouth South.

Bud Mosher's Quincy team, which is 4-2 in the league and 4-4 overall, met Weymouth South yesterday, will go to Cambridge Latin Friday and will host Newton Monday.

North clinched its big win over Brockton with a six-run sixth inning, taking advantage of walks and key hits.

Steve Bell had two hits, while Ed McElaney, Bob Stack, Jim McGinley and Stevens one each for the Raiders, who again displayed strong pitching and defense, but the hitting remained disappointing.

"Our pitching has been outstanding and John Wilkinson was just superb in pitching a perfect game last week," Bunker said. "The defense has also been tight, but we should be hitting better. We are playing good ball right now and I just hope it continues."

Kurt O'Sullivan was the starting pitcher Monday, and worked three innings. Wilkinson worked the next three and was the winner and Walt McGinley finished up the last inning.

On Friday, Quincy edged Waltham, 3-2, behind the four-hit pitching of Pat Gibbons.

Rich Gilbody and Len Picot had two hits apiece and Mike Murphy, Jim Maze and Mark Giordani one each.

North defeated Brookline, 8-5, pounding out 13 hits, two each by Ed McElaney, Mike McCormick, Bob Stack, Ken Cobban and winning pitcher Kurt O'Sullivan, and one each by Jim McGinley, Steve Bell and Tom Nee. Relief pitcher Walt McGinley got a save.

Earlier, North defeated Ringe Tech, 4-0, as John Wilkinson pitched a perfect game. He struck out eight.

The Raiders clinched the win with three runs in the fifth inning.

North had only four hits, one each by McElaney, Walt McGinley, Bell and Stack.

Quincy dropped a 4-3 heartbreaker to Brockton on a hit batter with the bases loaded in the final inning. The Presidents lost a 3-1 lead.

Quincy outthit the Boxers, 7-3, with Pete Niosi having two and Pat Gibbons, Murphy, Maze, Picot and Sal Coscia one each.

Previously, North had handed Quincy its first league defeat after three wins, 5-3.

Bunker, taking a page from the book of New York Yankee manager Billy Martin, let the players pull names from a hat to determine the batting order, and it paid off.

McCormick, Walt McGinley and Stack had two hits apiece for North and Jim McGinley one. For Quincy, Pat Gibbons, Murphy, Maze and Niosi had two apiece and Gilbody one.

O'Sullivan was the winning pitcher and Gibbons the loser. Gibbons went all the way, while O'Sullivan gave way to Walt McGinley in the seventh.

Girl's Softball

Quincy Off To Good Start

Coach Barbara Webster's Quincy girls' basketball team had a disappointing season this past winter, but her softball team is playing good ball and going into this week's games the First Ladies were 3-2.

Quincy opened with a 13-12 decision over Cambridge Latin, after losing a 12-5 lead, lost to Brockton, 11-6; walloped Weymouth North, 17-1; outlasted Weymouth South, 15-15, and in its last game last Friday, lost to Waltham, 11-6.

The First Ladies yesterday (Wednesday) played North Quincy. Friday they will host Brookline and Monday will be home to Cambridge Latin.

"We have been playing without senior Lois Malvesti, one of our standouts, who is out with a torn thigh muscle," Ms. Webster said. "We had to move senior Claire Oliverio, from left field to catcher, and she has done quite well. Margaret Thorley was our starting third baseman and is now a starting pitcher."

Returnees are Maryanne McCarthy, right field; Tricia Connors, third base; Thorley, pitcher; Oliverio, catcher; Malvesti, all seniors. Juniors are Polly Albrecht, center field; Kathy Flaherty, second base; Virginia Connolly, first base, and one sophomore, Debbie Russo, shortstop, also starts.

"Hank Conroy is again coaching the junior varsity and he has some good sophomores who could step up to play varsity at any time," Barbara said. "Janice Russo, Karen Murphy, Denise Leonard and Lynne Powers are among the best."

Other jayvees are Dianne Nicholson, Susan Jacobs, Patty Maloney, Donna Maloney, Jeanne Dwyer, Maryanne Cuccinatta, Peggy Burchell, Kelly Morall, Sandy Gramazio, Claire Nye and Laura Light.

The Quincy boys' tennis team ran its record to 5-1 Friday with a 3-2 win over Waltham, after trailing, 2-0, after the first two singles matches.

Joe Gill won his singles match after losses by Leo Bottary and Gary Wilcoxon, then the Presidents continued their domination of the doubles by winning both matches to clinch the win.

Greg MacDonald and Jim Todd won the first doubles and Brian London and Bill Kelliher won the second. Earlier in the week, the Presidents had defeated Weymouth South, 4-1.

Ken Ames and Wilcoxon won in singles, while Bottary was defeated. In doubles, MacDonald and Todd trailed, 5-2, but won 10 straight games and their match. London and Kelliher also won again.

Coach Wayne Hamilton's Presidents played North Quincy yesterday (Wednesday), will play at Brookline Friday and will be at Cambridge Latin Monday.

The North Quincy girls' softball team defeated Weymouth North, 8-4, last Friday to even its record at 3-3.

Linda Henry had three hits and three RBIs and Susan Cooper had a home run and three RBIs. Sharon Cobban was the winning pitcher.

"We have some fine looking rookies this year, including sophomores Lisa Henderson catching, Jane McGuigan at third base and Ann Geribbo and Phyllis Germain in the outfield," Ms. Manoli said. "Linda Ayles and Judy Kane are newcomers but are seasoned athletes. Returnees are Joyce Flynn, Marie Nestor, Sharon Cobban, Donna Shaw, Susan Cooper and Jeanette Nolan."

The Raiderettes are batting nearly .500. Manoli rates her outfielders as among the fastest and best in the Suburban League and in the first two games accounted for 15 outs.

"The infielders are equally as good and each can boast of a more than adequate range," the coach continued. "We have promising pitching, including one of the best in the league and a better than average backup pitcher, and I think we should be able to make the tournament this year."

The Raiderettes will play at Cambridge Latin Friday, Monday will be at Newton and Wednesday will go to Brookline.

Asher Speaks To QHS Students On 'Economics For Young Americans'

James D. Asher, president and general manager of the South Shore Broadcasting Company, [WJDA] addressed students recently at Quincy High School as part of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce's "Economics for Young Americans" program.

Asher spoke to a group of juniors and seniors about "Profits at Work", the third of four scheduled presentations by area business people aimed at helping students interpret business.

The students at Quincy High heard Asher give a practical look at profits in the business world and had the opportunity to ask him questions afterwards.

Goal of the educational program, initiated by Chamber members, is to offer young adults on the South Shore a working knowledge of the economic system and its advantages. In addition to presentations by teachers and resource people, students have worked on related assignments and viewed slide shows on each topic presented. John Harrington, Coordinator of Social Studies for the Quincy Public Schools, helped implement the program at Quincy High School.

John Dugan, of Multi-Bank Consultants, Inc., will conclude the program there Friday, May 6, when he will speak on "Money Matters".

MONEY TALKS

Today's College Students Are Politically Middle-road

By Philip J. Lawrence, President
Colonial Federal Savings
and Loan Association
of Quincy, Holbrook & Wareham
8-6 Weekdays 8-7:30 Thursdays

Their elders may be surprised to learn that today's college students are not as radical in their views as they have supposed. One survey investigating the attitudes of 1976-77 freshmen reveals that over half [56%] have middle-of-the-road political views. One-fourth [25.6%] consider themselves politically liberal, and one of almost every seven [15.2%] conservative. Only 2.6% are "far left" and only 1% "far right".

Another survey of 25,000 undergraduate students, 25,000 graduate students, and 25,000 faculty members showed that the proportion of undergraduates who classify themselves as either "left" or "liberal" fell from 44% in 1965 to 35% in 1975. The percentages remained constant at 43% for graduate students and 41% for faculty members between the two surveys.

The same survey, reported by the Carnegie Council on Policy Studies in Higher Education, revealed that the proportions of all groups who agreed "strongly" or "with reservations" that "I believe in a God who judges men" remained fairly constant in the 1965-1975 comparisons, with over three of every five in each category responding affirmatively.

Entering freshmen in the survey published by UCLA and the American Council on Education believe women should have job equality [92%], the government isn't controlling pollution [82.4%], the wealthy should pay a larger share of taxes [76.2%], the same degree standards should be used for all [76.7%], courts are too concerned with the rights of criminals [59.7%], and grading in high school is too easy [53.1%].

Objectives considered essential or very important by the majority of freshmen include becoming an authority in a field [70.1%], helping others in difficulty [63.1%], developing a philosophy of life [60.8%], raising a family [55.2%], and being very well off financially [53.1%].

Financing their college education was a "major concern" or "of some concern" of two-thirds of this year's freshmen [64.9%]. The parental income of over half of the freshmen [54.1%] ranged between $10,000 and $25,000. One-fifth of the families [21.6%] had incomes under $10,000, and one-fourth [24.3%] had incomes over $25,000. One-third of the mothers [33.9%] are fulltime homemakers, one-tenth [9.3%] are unemployed, and the remainder [56.8%] have jobs ranging from unskilled laborers to professional persons, businesswomen, and educators.

Realtors Energy Saving Tips

Leaky Faucets Waste Money

A leaky faucet can cost you money, dribbling 50 gallons of water or more down the drain a month -- 600 gallons or more a year.

It may be water you are paying to heat, says the National Association of Realtors.

The problem, often caused by a worn out washer, usually doesn't require a plumber to repair it. You need a box of assorted washers and screws, a roll of masking tape, a Phillips screwdriver, a medium flat blade screwdriver and a smooth-jawed wrench.

Turn off the water supply.

either below the sink or at the main water supply in the basement. Wrap tape around the decorative housing or hexagonal nut below the handle to protect it from marring.

Open the faucet slightly to release pressure on the spindle shaft inside. Unscrew the hexagonal nut and pull out the shaft. Remove the screw at the base of the shaft and remove the washer above it.

Clean the washer housing, replace the washer with a new one and replace the old screw with a new one. Reassemble the faucet, turn on the water supply and you are in business. Ask your local Realtor for his conservation brochure, "The Energy Crisis Hits Home!"

Chamber Holds Reception At Stetson

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce held a reception recently for new and future members at the site of the former Stetson Shoe Factory on Rte. 18, now a first of its kind multi-purpose facility known as Stetson Place.

Hosts for the event were Robert Hidell and Lou Eyster, principals of an architectural firm responsible for the restoration of Stetson Place, and their real estate agent, Jack Conway & Company.

Eric Swider, executive vice president of the South Shore Chamber of Commerce, said it was fitting that new members be received in a new project that will mean so much to the Town of Weymouth and the South Shore. Historically the factory has meant a great deal to the economy of the area up until the time Stetson Shoe moved out of the building in the early 1970's, he said.

Now under the ownership of Stagecoach Associates of Cohasset, the building will once again serve a useful purpose supplying jobs and needed office, light commercial and retail space.

The site covers approximately eight acres with some 132,000 square feet of interior rental space, some of which has already been filled. Leasing for the complex is to be handled through the Commercial Division of Jack Conway Realtor.

'Legislative-Energy Update' Scheduled For May 13

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce, the New England Council and the Massachusetts Association of Chamber of Commerce Executives, will sponsor a "Legislative-Energy Update" Friday, May 13, at the Lantana, Randolph.

David Priestly of the Boston Gas Co. will be the moderator for a panel discussion on Massachusetts' energy needs, its present availability and the prospects for better energy sources during the rest of the 20th century.

Priestly, who is also chairman of the South Shore Chamber's Energy Resources Committee, will oversee a discussion by experts on gas, solar/nuclear and oil as energy sources.

The luncheon speaker will be Senator William F. Bulger.

Majority Leader of the Massachusetts Senate. Sen. Bulger will answer questions from the audience following his talk.

NEVER ARGUE WITH SUCCESS

There is a sound philosophy based on the premise: "Never argue with success." If you have the urge to invest in real estate, listen to what some of the most successful investors have to say about it.

Andrew Carnegie: "Ninety percent of all millionaires became so through owning real estate. More money has been made in real estate than in all industrial investments combined. The wise young man or wage-earner invests his money in real estate."

Marshall Field: "Buying real estate is not only the best way, the quickest way, and the safest way, but the only way to become wealthy."

John D. Rockefeller: "The big fortunes in the future will be made in real estate."

John Jacob Astor: [He's a little more specific]. "Buy on the fringe and wait. Buy land near a growing city! Buy real estate when other people want to sell. Hold what you buy."

Thinking of selling your home? It makes sense to list it with PRESIDENT REAL ESTATE, 356 Hancock St., Phone: 328-8345.

Through our nationwide network of ERA Realtors, we can help you relocate anywhere in the country.

Also, we have available a one year warranty on all plumbing, heating, mechanical, electrical systems and built-in appliances on homes that we sell.

Phone or drop in. We are here to help.

Over 600 Entries In First Fancy Guppy Show Here

By ED COLETTA

The first annual Fancy Guppy Show, sponsored by the New England Guppy Association (NEGA), was held over the weekend at the Carlton House.

More than 600 fish, from the U.S., Puerto Rico and Canada, were entered in the competition.

"This is the first show we've ever sponsored," said Bob Hoitt, president of the NEGA. "We've all put a lot of work into this show, but it's all been worth it."

Local winners in various categories included Hoitt, a resident of Plymouth, Al Prall of Wollaston, co-founder of NEGA, Hong Chin and Edgard Chiasson, both of Waltham, and Dwight Grimstead of Cambridge.

In the individual categories, "Fancy" guppies are judged on color quality and the amount of angle in the tail. In the breeder class (three fish or more), color quality and similarity of body markings are judged.

"Breeding guppies involves hard work and persistence," said Hoitt. "For every successful consider, and so many varieties you can come up with."

(NEGA) was founded in January, 1975, by Hoitt and Prall because of the "lack of interest of established all-species clubs in guppies."

There are presently 20 members in the South Shore-based NEGA, which is one of 40 guppy clubs across the country sanctioned by the International Fancy Guppy Association.

Those interested in knowing more about NEGA, are asked to contact Hoitt at 224-8228, Al Prall at 773-3877.

Tobin Hits LaRaia Administration

something wrong he should bring charges," he said. "He hasn't done this. He took a lieutenant and made him liaison officer with authority over the chief of police but he has not levied charges. That is the distinction in my mind."

"Everyone knows why he did it. He did it because the Chief made a contribution to the former Mayor's campaign. The Chief broke no law. The lieutenant he put over the Chief donated to his campaign."

"Remember the January Massacre?"

"I went to the Mayor's aides and told them this madness must stop. Why are we going after a widow with three children and a meter maid? Their answer was 'We have a right to establish policy.'"

"I've been in politics a long time in policy-making positions and I've never sat across the table from a meter maid. This was just raw political power."

Tobin took note of the Post Gazette, a weekly newspaper in Boston's North End that has been carrying a series of articles entirely pro-LaRaia and anti-Tobin.

"You can't get news in that paper without paying for it," he said. "The articles are being paid for and pumped into the city. The Mayor and his press secretary were seen in there. His press secretary admits it."

The Post Gazette accused Tobin of ordering the paper off the newsstands at Caradonna's in Quincy Center.

"I never ordered newspapers out of any store in the city," he said. "The owner's attorney demanded a retraction. They refused. They are not getting good legal advice. You must show malice to libel an elected official. The mere fact that they refused a retraction shows malice."

"We used to hear about Revere, Chelsea, Somerville," he added. "You never heard anything about Quincy. Now when I walk the corridors of the State House I am asked: 'What is going on in Quincy?'"

Raise Possible $125,000

Over 5,000 Walk For March Of Dimes

By KAREN WEBBER

More than 5,000 walked for the benefit of the March of Dimes Saturday when the Order of Sons of Italy Grand Lodge of Massachusetts sponsored "Paragon Super Walk '77".

The exact amount raised is not yet known but it could reach as high as $125,000.

Quincy Sons of Italy Venerable, Mario Salvatore of 39 Hughes St., South Quincy, was captain for the walk.

"I think the walk was very, very successful and the cooperation we received from all the police departments in the different cities and towns was excellent and appreciated," he said. "I personally want to thank every walker, every sponsor, and every person who made this such a success."

Co-captains for the walk were Anna Papagno of Canton and Vin Miele, former Junior Venerable of the Quincy Lodge.

The 3½ hour walk began at Merrymount Park, Quincy and proceeded along Route 3A for 20 kilometers [12 miles] to the finish line at Paragon Park.

Pledges were made on a flat rate basis. Walkers with $30 or more in pledges were awarded T-shirts and radios.

The walk was led by Grand Officers and Supreme Delegates of the Sons of Italy. An estimated 95 per cent of the walkers were under 18 years of age and over half were Quincy students.

Venerables from the South Shore Lodges of Hingham, Braintree, Weymouth, Stoughton, Canton, and Quincy marched in the walk. Stop stations for the walkers were at Burger King in Weymouth and the Hingham Bath House.

National Guardsmen and police helped patrol the route with jeeps.

The walkers were greeted at Paragon Park with free rides until 6 p.m.

The walk featured a special one mile segment, The Golden Mile, designed to give community leaders a chance to walk and be sponsored.

Among the Golden Mile walkers were Senator-City Council President Arthur Tobin, City Councillor-Rep.

A SONS OF ITALY banner starts the parade of an estimated more than 5,000 walkers who marched from Merrymount to Nantasket to benefit the March of Dimes during Paragon Super Walk '77 Saturday.

James Sheets, City Councillor Paul Harold, Rep. Robert Cerasoli, Rep. Angelo Scaccia of Boston, City Councillors

John J. Quinn and John J. Lydon and March of Dimes officials.

State chairman for walkathon, Josephine M.

Falco, said, "If 5,000 walkers turned out, we estimate that more than $125,000 will be raised in this walk alone."

'Open Meeting Law' Discussion At Quincy Court

Dist. Atty. William D. Delahunt is sponsoring an informational meeting tonight (Thursday) on "The Open Meeting Law: Our Responsibilities to the Public."

The program will be presented at 7:30 p.m. at Quincy District Court.

Special invitations have been sent to officials of Quincy and Avon, Braintree, Canton, Cohasset, Holbrook, Randolph, Sharon, Stoughton, Weymouth.

"There have been several questions which have come to the attention of our office regarding the Open Meeting Law," said Delahunt. "Therefore, the objective of this program is to inform all town officials and any interested citizens in simple layman's language of the requirements and responsibilities set forth in the Massachusetts Open Meeting Law. There are serious and costly consequences for failure to comply with the law. This meeting will help communities avoid these consequences."

Joining Delahunt in a brief panel discussion will be Atty. Ernest P. DeSimone, Chief of Attorney General Bellotti's Open Meeting Enforcement Program, and Charles J. Hely, Norfolk County assistant district attorney.

The program will include a discussion of town responsibilities under the law, the enforcement of the Open Meeting Law, and a discussion period on typical problems which may face a town board. Delahunt said the public is invited to attend the meeting. There is no charge.

Memorial Day Parade Meeting

A planning meeting for the Quincy Veteran's Council Memorial Day Parade and ceremonies, will be held tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. in Quincy City Hall.

Police, Firefighter Mercy Runs

Power Outage 'Short Circuits' City

By TOM HENSHAW

A freak storm of rain, snow and gale force winds knocked out electrical power in Quincy for most of the day Tuesday, bringing the City to a virtual standstill and sending police and firefighters scurrying about on errands of mercy.

The diesel generator that provides power during such emergencies at Quincy City Hospital kicked out in the midst of surgery in the operating room and a Fire Department rescue unit supplied power to finish the operation.

A firefighter with a portable generator at the ready stood by at 7 Carter St., South Quincy, at the bedside of Mrs. Sybil Mattson, who has been confined to an iron-lung-type ventilator since contracting polio in 1955. "She has her own emergency generator," said Deputy Fire

Chief Joseph McShane, "but if that went she would be helpless."

Firefighters also freed Shellie Talbest of 1025 Hancock St., who was trapped in the elevator of her apartment house when the power went off at about 9 a.m. The elevator was stuck between the first and second floors for about 45 minutes.

The Fire Department employed what it calls its "elevator kit" consisting of wires that can be used to trip the safety latches on elevator doors

In Wake Of Raids

Stiff Rules In Effect For QHS Drug Crackdown

Stiff new rules aimed at drug pushers went into effect at Quincy High and Vo Tech Schools this week in the wake of the mass arrests of students on drug charges, the culmination of a three-month undercover investigation.

Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon called the seven rules that were placed into effect the day after the raid only a temporary measure and promised to reassess the whole matter before the reopening of school in September.

The rules were presented to the School Committee at an emergency meeting at which Creedon asked for the funds necessary to implement the rules until the end of the school year in June.

Creedon's plan includes:

- In that most of the selling goes on between 7:30 a.m. and 8 a.m. in the morning and 2:30 p.m. and 3 p.m. in the afternoon, I am proposing to hire school personnel at twice the hourly rate of compensation in order to patrol the areas that are known to us both before and after school.

- That all members of the professional staff at Quincy High School and Quincy Vocational Technical School be required to report in to their respective department heads or other persons so designated in

Pleads Innocent

Tocchio Indicted On $26,000 Police Larceny

Patrolman John Tocchio, former president of the Quincy Police Betterment Association, has been indicted by a Norfolk County Grand Jury on a charge of larceny of $26,000 from the union treasury.

Judge Arthur M. Mason ordered the case continued until June 7, after Tocchio pleaded innocent during his arraignment Monday in Norfolk Superior Court.

Tocchio, a cousin of Mayor LaRaia, was suspended from the Police Department and then went on an unpaid leave of absence shortly after the shortage was discovered in February. He resigned as president of the association.

The shortage in the QPBA accounts was first noticed when a check for $150 bounced. Members checked the association's savings account and discovered only $8,722 instead of the $25,000 that should have been in it.

The missing money represented union dues that were deducted from police pay checks by the city and given to the QPBA in a weekly $375 check that was picked up at City Hall for deposit.

Dog, Cat Rabies Clinic Saturday

The annual rabies immunization clinic will be held Saturday, May 14, at the Public Works Department Garage, 55 Sea St., from 1-4:30 p.m.

Dogs and cats, three months of age and older, should have this immunization. A fee of $2 will be charged. Dr. Alan Morse will conduct the clinic.

Former Mayor Burgin Recalls:

New City Hall Designed 40 Years Ago As 'Urgent'

By SARAH RICHARDS

A new City Hall isn't exactly a new idea.

At least 40 years ago there was talk of the "urgent" need for a new City Hall and one was even designed back then.

So recalls former Mayor Thomas S. Burgin who was the city's chief executive in 1937.

The 1937 City Report even carries an artist's rendering of the proposed new building as it would appear on the present Quincy Sq. site.

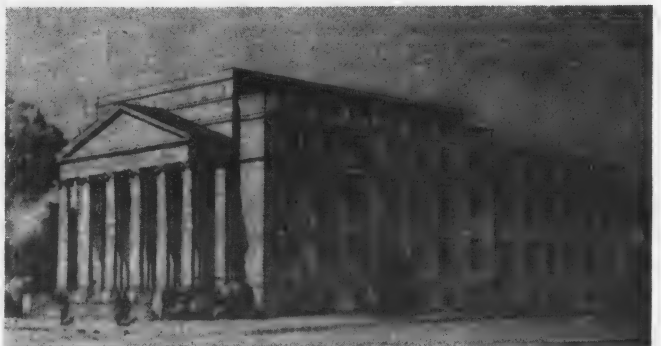

Burgin's memory of the 40-year-old proposal was jogged by an article recently in The Quincy Sun regarding a 1977 proposal to build a new City Hall to replace the present one constructed in 1844 at a cost of only $19,115.93.

Burgin recalls the prospect of a new City Hall had been discussed even before he first entered office in 1935 but he was the first mayor to actually take official action on the idea.

Early in his second term in 1937, Burgin authorized a commission to "survey the advisability of the City of Quincy erecting a new City Hall."

The Commission's report, dated June 30, 1937, concluded that "the city urgently needs a new or enlarged city hall," and suggested that it be built at the site of the present city hall.

The Commission suggested the new edifice be constructed of Quincy granite and the surface stone in the old building. It also noted that the front of the old City Hall could be used in the new facade. The front also would have granite columns similar to historic First Parish

NEW CITY HALL as proposed on present site in 1937.

Seeks Statewide Backing

Tobin Steps Up Battle Against 100% Revaluation

Sen. Arthur H. Tobin (D-Quincy) is taking the fight against 100 percent real estate revaluation to other parts of the state in letters to selectmen and mayors urging them to join him in opposition.

Tobin said his proposed constitutional amendment blocking 100 percent revaluation is in danger from "wealthy property interests" unless local citizens and officials unite behind his amendment.

The Tobin bill would allow assessors to value and tax income-producing commercial and industrial property at a higher rate than residential property.

The amendment was approved by the 1975-76 session of the State Legislature and must be approved once again before it goes on the statewide ballot as a referendum question.

Tobin asked local officials across the state to contact their local reps and senators and urge them to support the measure when it comes before the full legislature, sitting as a constitutional convention.

"Your help is sorely needed if this much-needed reform is to succeed and if we are to block the evaluation facing every city and town," he said.

The State Supreme Court ordered all Massachusetts cities and towns to assess real estate at full value without regard to whether it was industrial, commercial, or residential.

Under the Tobin plan, revaluation would no longer be necessary, because property could be assessed at different levels, depending on its use, so that income property could be taxed higher than residential.

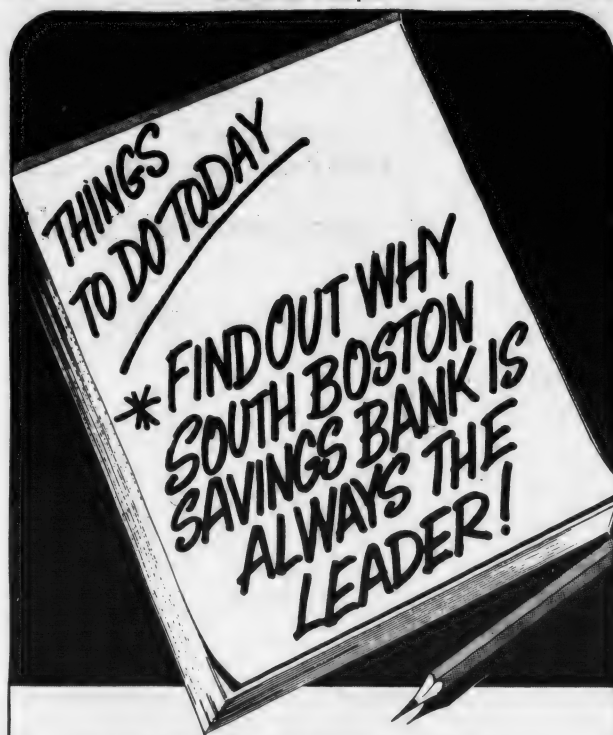

"This measure is the only thing standing between the overburdened homeowner and the disaster of revaluation," Tobin said.

Tobin Incensed At Loss

Sun Disclosed RSVP Problem March 31

City Council President Arthur H. Tobin disclosed last week that Quincy is to be replaced as administrator of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program [RSVP] on the South Shore.

He said Mayor LaRaia had been notified of the move by Action Regional Director Donald Wright during a meeting March 24 with the Mayor and the RSVP Advisory Council. Action supervises RSVP.

But the disclosure came as no surprise to readers of The Quincy Sun, which reported in its March 31 issue that Wright had met with the Mayor and discussed the removal of RSVP headquarters from Quincy.

Mayor LaRaia told The Sun at the time:

"We discussed whether it [RSVP] was best operated under the Council on Aging or another agency. It was the consensus that the Council on Aging was the best able to handle it."

Tobin, who is a candidate for Mayor, was incensed that the Mayor failed to notify the City Council that Quincy would lose its role as administrator of RSVP, which is funded by the federal government.

He urged Councillor Leo J. Kelly, who is chairman of the Council's Committee on Elderly Affairs, to convene a meeting of his committee to hold hearings into the situation.

Tobin said a letter from Wright to LaRaia, dated April 20, listed three reasons for removing Quincy as RSVP administrator:

- Unresolved difficulties among the sponsor, staff and advisory committee.
- Operating procedures in conflict with Action policy.
- Inappropriate reorganization of the project structure.

Explained the Mayor:

"Complaints have been received from citizens whose rubbish is left scattered by unleashed dogs overnight, whose lawns are ruined, who are awakened at night, or whose children have been bitten.

- Concentration of the project in Quincy.
- Failure to use acceptable methods for staff hiring.
- Failure to act on filling staff vacancies.
- Adverse public attention resulting from unresolved internal management problems.

Wright said the shift in sponsorship had nothing to do with the fact that a former assistant director of RSVP is under federal indictment for extortion in connection with a school construction contract.

State Representatives Seek MBTA Station Cleanup

Conditions are so bad at the Quincy MBTA parking garage and the Wollaston and North Quincy stations that three state representatives from Quincy have asked for a meeting with MBTA officials to see what can be done about it.

Reps. Thomas F. Brownell, Michael W. Morrissey and James A. Sheets noted that recent maintenance conditions have steadily declined at the facilities.

Mayor Plans To Establish Animal Control Commission

Mayor LaRaia has announced plans to establish a Mayor's Commission on Animal Control to "investigate new methods and suggest corrections and improvements on present methods used in Quincy."

He said the commission is his response to numerous

They called current conditions "disgraceful".

The meeting was set for yesterday [Wednesday] at 1 p.m. in the State House.

"The solution is rather obvious," said Brownell. "Regular police patrols and maintenance of the facilities will prevent litter and defacement. I cannot understand why the responsible authorities within the MBTA are not implementing them."

complaints from residents over the laxity in laws pertaining to animal control in the city.

It would consist of seven members and seven alternates, two of whom would be veterinarians, one a member of an organization dealing with animal control and four concerned citizens.

Germantown Center Representatives Attend Human Service Coalition

Two representatives of the Germantown Service Center, a member agency of the Quincy Community Action Program attended the recent coalition of human services agencies meeting at the office of the social and economic opportunity council, Boston, to formulate opposition to the proposed workfare program sponsored by Governor Dukakis. Patricia Peers, director of the Germantown Service Center said: "The problem with workfare is that real jobs are not being created. The workers can't earn money at them, and can't live from them.

"The 'slots' that the MDC, the Department of Public Works, and the Office of Environmental Management have come up with include cleaning the Franklin Park Zoo, painting the MBTA, and washing cars - hardly skilled jobs with a future.

"We are asking that the money which would be spent to administer workfare, instead be spent to administer workfare, whereby welfare recipients would be given meaningful employment at the prevailing wage with reasonable safeguards of recipients rights."

The anti-workfare coalition has arranged to meet with the Boston office of H.E.W. to present their views.

Date of the meeting will be announced in the near future.

PREGNANT DAD

In 1976, an estimated three million men will become fathers and several hundred thousand, give or take a dad, will experience their wives' pregnancy symptoms.

The University of Birmingham [England] says that the one in nine men who develops the symptoms may do so as psychological reaction to his wife's pregnancy.

The feeling, whatever comfort it brings has nothing to do with any men's liberation movement or even sexual identity confusion. According to psychologists, male symptoms of pregnancy are a reflection of anxiety stemming from the fear that a loved one may be in danger. The man who identifies strongly with his wife during her birth pangs, they say, undergoes something similar in order to share her burden.

Male pregnancy symptoms are not new. They date back to ancient primitive rituals during which a husband would act out his wife's labor with appropriate moaning and groaning during a "lying-in" period.

• That teacher personnel be assigned by the principal throughout the school to monitor areas that are known to us which are contributing to this problem.

• That the five-member CETA security force approved by the Quincy School Committee on April 27, be retained as soon as possible in order to monitor parking lots, school lavatories and to challenge school age personnel who are on school property and who seem to be wandering about unassigned to class.

• That off-duty police officers be retained throughout the school day in order to monitor those areas reasonably adjacent to school property where students are known to congregate.

Eighteen young people, most of them students, were arrested on 40 charges last Thursday morning, some prior to the start of classes and others at their homes. Some of the charges date back to incidents that took place March 4.

Lt. Walter Lynch, head of the Quincy Police narcotics unit, said one of those arrested was a Sterling Junior High School student who went to Quincy High School every morning to sell or buy drugs. Others were from Central Junior High.

Lynch said police employed an undercover agent who posed as a student during the three-month investigation.

He said a lot of LSD was involved, some marijuana and barbiturates, and a lot of PCP pills. LSD is a chemical known as "acid" and PCP is an animal tranquilizer sometimes called "T" which disorients users but does not produce a "high".

Lynch said the PCP pills made a number of youngsters ill during the period of investigation, possibly because they were tainted.

Recipients since the start have included 38 from North Quincy, 28 from Quincy and nine boys and eight girls from the Vo Tech School.

Members of the scholarship committee are: Chairman Anthony T. Delmonico, Vice Chairman Thomas F. Nestor, Mrs. Anthony T. Delmonico, Mrs. Richard J. Koch, Mr. and Mrs. Howard F. Crowley and David J. F. Donaghue.

MBTA Bus Service Study Underway Here

Quincy has been selected by the Community Affairs and Marketing Department of the MBTA as the subject of an intensive review of bus service, starting this week and continuing through the remainder of the year.

For starters, said Mayor LaRosa, the MBTA surveyors are conducting "onboard surveys to determine who is riding, where they are going and what comments they have on service."

"They will also be talking to the operators and other garage personnel to obtain their input on service-related issues."

"In late spring, representatives will survey community residents who utilize the MBTA buses and also explain how the T operates.

"Over the summer, all the gathered information will be synthesized and recommendations on service changes will then be submitted to the service committee in the fall for implementation with the winter time schedule."

"The final phase will be an evaluation of the project in terms of impact on ridership, attitudes of the participants to the project and the T and the applicability of the techniques developed for systemwide use."

The Mayor said Quincy was chosen for the survey because of the manageability of its size and area "and, based on recent ridership trends, the potential for change is favorable."

A PAID UP SHARE IS REALLY SOMETHING TO APPRECIATE.

Here's a great gift that we guarantee will increase in value every day.

A Paid Up Share in Quincy Cooperative Bank. It's ideal for family, a friend, for young or old. And, it comes in multiples of $100.

Because first of all, we pay a generous 5½% interest on a Paid Up Share. Higher than that paid on regular savings accounts. And, the owner automatically becomes a shareholder in Quincy Cooperative. Plus there are no restrictions. A Paid Up Share can be cashed anytime without penalty. So the next time you're thinking of a gift, think first of a Paid Up Share. When you buy one, we'll give you a handsome greeting card that perfectly complements it.

A $100 Paid Up Share.

It's such a great idea you might want to get a share in Quincy Cooperative Bank for yourself.

And there's no question,

JOSIAH WOULD HAVE LIKED THAT.

How much should a funeral cost?

A funeral is no place for on-the-job training. So we're offering a booklet that talks openly about prices, optional services available, and the countless little details that could add to your grief—if you're not prepared for them.

The booklet doesn't recommend funeral homes...ours or anyone else's...but it will make you knowledgeable enough to plan wisely and help you from possibly spending more than you should, or may need to, for a funeral.

Mail the coupon for your free booklet, or call for an appointment.

When's The Election?

Just about everyone knows—or should know—this is city election year. But: when's the election?

The preliminary election will be held in September on a Tuesday as is customary. But: which Tuesday?

The first Tuesday of the month is Sept. 6 but that comes the day after Labor Day. So it is doubtful it will be then.

The next Tuesday is Sept. 13. But that is the Jewish New Year. And it is doubtful it will be then.

So it would appear the preliminary election date will be Sept. 20 which would make the election date a little later than usual.

The date of the election has to be approved by the City Council after City Clerk John Gillis proposes the date.

But until that is done nomination papers cannot be issued because no deadline to return them can be set until the preliminary election date is set first.

Confusing?

THE WARD 6 City Council race is already shaping up as one of the better ballot battles.

The expected entrance of Michael Kelly will bring to four the number of contenders for the seat being vacated by Dennis Harrington to run at-large.

The others, who have previously announced: Joanne Condon, Walter Hickey and Harold Gallagher.

And, there could be another one or two yet.

IT'S A LONG way from May to January but reports are there is already behind-the-scenes campaigning underway for the presidency of next year's City Council.

Arthur Tobin, of course, is relinquishing the gavel after eight years, to run for mayor.

Sources say that at least one present incumbent is not only trying to line up support among colleagues but is also wooing possible commitments from among non-incumbents running this year.

But promising to vote for a council president too early can boomerang as Councillor John Quinn found out some years ago.

He pledged his vote early to then Councillor Charles Shea. And when it came January, Shea and Quinn were tied for the presidency. But true to his word, Quinn who alphabetically voted last, gave his vote to Shea to make him council president.

Strong contenders at the moment [but who knows what will happen in the city election] would seem to be Quinn, James Sheets, Daniel Raymondi, Dennis Harrington.

DON'T LOOK NOW, but isn't that Pat McCarthy still running for Congress? The young [30] Randolph Democrat who waged an all-out but unsuccessful campaign to unseat Congressman James Burke last year, seems to be popping up here and there as a speaker. Now he's got a newsletter called "Impact". First issue carries a boxed editor's note that starts out like this: How do you walk away from a guy like Pat McCarthy who dared greatly and came out of nowhere to just miss?"

Burke no doubt would contend he missed by a mile.

Anyway, it would seem that McCarthy who once said he doubted he would again run for Congress, is already off and running.

A FUND-RAISER dance for Joan Picard, candidate for the School Committee, will be held Saturday, May 21 at the Quincy Armory. Music and entertainment by the Jack D' John group from 8 p.m. to midnight. Tickets are $5.

HERB FONTAINE is pretty well known as WJDA news editor and newscaster. But his fame as a fence viewer is also spreading.

Herb, who has been a member of the Quincy city fence viewing board for 15 or so years, received a call the other day from a Holbrook man who had a fence question and problem. Herb solved it.

Herb, who was first appointed to the board by Mayor Amelio Della Chiesa and re-appointed by Mayors James McIntyre, Walter Hannon and Joseph LaRaia, says you've got to be a diplomat because some of the arguments over fences between neighbors "are like wars".

Morris Family Thanks

'Professionals' In Emergency

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

In this day and age when the so called "professionals" that work for the city, state or Federal Government are under so much fire and criticism from the people and the press - it is time to throw a few bouquets and thanks in their direction.

On Saturday, March 19, 1977, our mother suffered a cardiac arrest at her home. The 911 call we made had hardly faded away when the Quincy Police and Quincy Fire Departments, Rescue Squads and all concerned were on the scene. They administered to our mother, removed her from the house and had her on her way to Quincy City Hospital. Watching them work in their cool professional manner was indeed a sight to behold. Not once did they lose sight of the fact that they were working on a very sick human being.

Our thanks also to the nurses, doctors and technicians in the Emergency Room, Intensive Care Unit and the Progressive Care Unit at the Quincy City Hospital for the loyal professional care they gave to our mother.

In short, our heartfelt thanks to all concerned,

Sincerely,

The Morris Family

Auxiliary Police Deterrent To School Vandalism

By MIKE WIGDOR

For Most Quincy residents weekend nights are spent leisurely at a movie or dining out at a favorite restaurant, but a small rotating group of about 50 volunteer adults work Thursday through Sunday nights protecting public places from potential vandalism.

These men and women are the Quincy Auxiliary Police. Their beat covers the schools, parks, and playgrounds of Quincy.

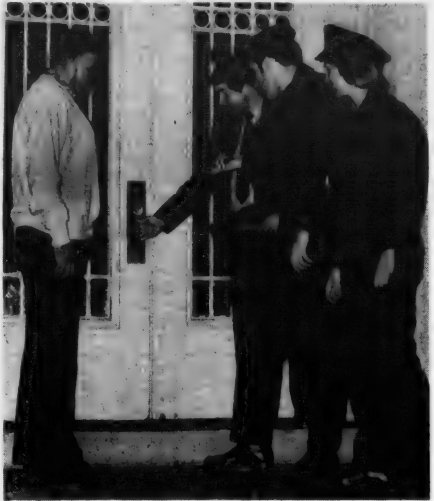

At North Quincy High School, Sgt. William Griffin, 25-year-old electronic technician with the serious demeanor of an Army commander, explains the patrol, including two other volunteers, checks for open doors, broken windows, and youth drinking on the premises. Under a city ordinance, no one is supposed to hang around school property after dark. The auxiliary police prevent or disperse youth gangs from congregating on school property.

An interested party whose cardigan sweater and slacks contrast sharply from the navy blue auxiliary police uniforms which closely resembles regular police uniforms, is School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon. On his first patrol, he got a full sampling of the operation of auxiliary police. During the night broken windows and open doors were found at North Quincy High School, there was a gang at Quincy Point, and Car 40, Creedon's car, answered four or five other typical calls.

Supt. Creedon says vandalism to Quincy public schools cost about $50,000 a year. He said that due to the patrols of the auxiliary police, vandalism has been reduced over the past three years.

The patrols, which usually consist of three auxiliary police cruisers on any night, check and doublecheck schools in a random pattern, or answer calls of other cruisers on patrol. They are intended to augment patrols of Quincy Police department, and work closely with the Quincy police.

"I support the Auxiliary police," Creedon says, "It is a deterrent to vandalism to have them." He would like to see the vandalism patrols on more nights. "The more visibility we have in the vandalism hours, the better the deterrent."

Creedon described the vandalism problem:

"Youth gangs usually get to drinking, and one thing leads to another. They litter, playgrounds with broken bottles, and there is a constant clean-up problem. It is a regular event to have kids cut themselves the next day from all the broken glass."

Creedon indicated that some schools created more problems than others.

The Auxiliary police are equipped to handle youth problems. They receive emergency medical training, and they are armed with guns, handcuffs, and mace. They are trained for nine months with pistols, before a gun license is given. They pay for their guns. Civil Defense supplies uniforms. They have limited powers, including holding or detaining people when necessary. In case of a problem where arrests are likely, they radio regular police patrol cars. A journal is kept of patrols throughout the night that is later turned in to the police department.

Michael Tesler, 25, a Quincy resident who teaches in Weymouth, and Paula Bielefeldt, 21, an office worker, taking law enforcement courses at Boston State College, are the other volunteers in Car 40. Griffin and Tesler have been auxiliary police officers for over three years. Bielefeldt since last November. Griffin and Bielefeldt want to join the regular force. Tesler is interested in possibly pursuing some aspect of law enforcement, but he says he joined because of "a need to help perform a volunteer service to the community."

"There is a big vandalism problem," Tesler says. "Quincy has a large student population. Drinking is a major problem and there's a high rate of juvenile delinquency. As soon as they see us, they run off."

Random patrols prevent kids from predicting where auxiliary police will be at any hour of the night, and guarantees the continued effectiveness of this volunteer but committed police force.

New City Hall Proposed 40 Years Ago.

Church.

Cost of the new building was estimated at $500,000.

It would increase floor space in the current building by about 10,000 square feet to 25,000 square feet, enough to be "adequate for at least 50 years or more," according to the commission.

Some well known Quincy names were members of the study commission:

Former Mayor William

Bradford, chairman; Councillors Aldo Della Chiesa, Neil McDonald and Roy Means, Clarence Burgin, president Quincy Savings Bank; Assistant City Assessor Harold Crosby, Fred Leach, secretary Bricklayers' & Masons Local 52; Alexander Ross, Granite Cutters Executive Council; Matthew Cushing, Vice-president Granite Trust Co., Frank Remick, businessman and David Cutler, president-treasurer

Alfred Hale Rubber Co. Burgin believes perhaps the main reason nothing came of the commission's recommendation was that World War II got in the way.

"I think it just got shelved by the war and got forgotten," he says.

What would he estimate the cost of that $500,000 proposed City Hall if it were to be built today?

"I would say," he smiles, "between $2 and $3 million."

The first flood in America of which there is any known record was that of the Mississippi River. It was recorded by Fernando De Soto in 1543!

First Italian Restaurant Opens Here

The Bella Napoli, believed to be the first restaurant in Quincy specializing in Italian food, opened on Chestnut St. with Phillip Zona, the owner himself, serving the delicacies to some of the city's top politicians.

Sampling the dishes were Mayor Joseph L. Whiton and his secretary, Jimmy Burke; City Council President Alfred H. Richards; and Councillors William A. Bradford, Thomas Griffin, Charles A. Ross, Alexander W. Russell and Russell A. Sears.

They were served, an observer reported, "large platters heaped full of steaming hot spaghetti and the way that spaghetti disappeared, by the yard as one guest said, convinced the host that his cooks had not failed him."

FORE RIVER WINNS OPENER

Patsy Duggan and Leo Dowd slammed home runs and Mameaux pitched a six-hitter as the Fore River baseball team defeated Wilmington, Del., 4-2, in its Steel League home opener at Fore River Field, Quincy Point.

The Fore River lineup, managed by Jack O'Hara, included a number of former major league players, Clyde Engel of the Red Sox, George Twombly of the Braves, Larry Kopf of Cincinnati, Jacobson of the Giants and Mameaux from Pittsburgh.

Other members of the Steel League included Sparrow Point and Bethlehem, Steelton and Lebanon, all in Pennsylvania.

FEDERAL AID FOR RAILWAY

The U.S. government declined to take control of the overworked Bay State Street Railway lines in Quincy but, said J. J. Coleman of the Emergency Fleet Corp., it was willing to chip in to a $150,000 fund to improve the facilities.

The company's trolley lines were taxed to the utmost by the influx of workers at the Bethlehem Steel Co.'s Fore River Shipyard where employment had soared from 3,500 to 16,000 in the space of a year.

Power Outage Brings City To Standstill and suction cups that can be used as portable door knobs.

A false alarm was turned in at Quincy High School early in the power failure but there were no more after a man from the Fire Department explained to students the problems they were facing with emergency vehicles tied up.

"The kids are pretty good," said Deputy McShane. "Once they got the explanation they were cooperative."

Fire and burglar alarms were set off all over the city by the sudden loss of power in the systems.

The power failure lasted until about 2:10 p.m. in North Quincy and 3 p.m. in Quincy Center. Other sections of the city were without electricity for longer periods. The massive failure affected all southeastern Massachusetts.

The Fire Department received its first call only moments after the lights went out as the drop in voltage caused a boiler fire at Temple Beth El at the corner of Furnace Brook Parkway and Hancock St. The temple was damaged by smoke.

Heat from the muffler of the emergency generator at Fenno House, a facility for the elderly in Wollaston, activated the fire alarm and brought fire engines racing to the scene. There was no fire.

Deputy McShane said the Fire Department also was on emergency power and used its vehicles sparingly in order to save on fuel. Gasoline pumps at the station are powered by electricity.

Traffic lights all over the city went out promptly at 9 a.m. and minor accidents were reported at the intersections of Southern Artery and Washington St., Upland Rd and Dimmock St., McGrath Highway and Washington St., Furnace Brook Parkway and Quarry St., and Newport Ave. and Beale St.

City Hospital was unable to take heart patients and X-ray machines were out of use. Surgery other than emergency operations were postponed until power was restored.

Ted Johnson of Granite Hardware Store reported a run on flashlights, camp stoves, camp lanterns, candles, batteries and sterno as reports circulated that the power failure might extend into Tuesday night.

City workers were sent home at 12 noon and a skeleton staff manned City Hall which was cool and dark through the afternoon. Restaurants, except those with gas appliances, served only cold food and drinks. Quincy High School closed at 12:30 p.m.

The power failure extended all the way from Quincy to Cape Cod and Rhode Island. Boston was not affected.

The MBTA's Red Line was out of service from 9:05 a.m. to 10:44 a.m. with passengers bused from the Quincy station to the North Quincy station where trains were running to Boston.

After the commuter rush hour, the MBTA was able to get enough power to run two-car trains to Quincy. By the evening rush hour, full service was restored with some delays.

Tobin Seeks Insurance Relief For Drivers Under 25

Sen. Arthur H. Tobin [D-Quincy] has called upon the Joint Legislative Committee on Insurance to include specific relief for drivers under the age of 25 in legislation that provides up to $42 million in rebates on 1977 auto insurance.

"Young motorists in my district have been faced with exorbitant rate increases which have actually forced some policy holders to take their cars off the road," said Tobin.

"This is an intolerable situation where the insurance industry is reaping excessive profits at the cost of our motoring public, particularly our young drivers who do not have the financial resources to pay such excessive premiums."

Tobin urged immediate enactment of legislation which would limit all increases to the under 25 driver to 25 per cent, producing a $5 million rebate to 1977 policy holders.

Sheets Hopes To Preserve Child Support Division

Rep. James A. Sheets [D-Quincy] is working to preserve the Child Support Division of the Public Welfare Department, which brings in some $24 million a year in revenue to help unburden the taxpayer.

"The unit now does a job with about 100 dedicated, hard working people," said Sheets. "The Civil Service Commission is insisting that all these people take a professional examination so they might qualify as Civil Service Employees.

"However, as the exam is written, more than 80 per cent of the present staff will not be able to qualify. This means that a new and untrained staff will then take over the program."

Sheets noted that two bills have been reported favorably out of the Legislature's Public Service Committee that would give exam credits to experienced temporary employees and which would allow additional employees to take the exam.

"These two bills do not adequately protect the personnel in the child support area," he said, "but they are part of an ongoing attempt to resolve the problem."

Charles Hasey of Fenno St., Wollaston, legislative chairman of Quincy Chapter, National Association of Retired Federal Employees, was recently presented a plaque and gift upon his retirement.

Mrs. Helen Murphy of Wollaston was appointed the new legislative chairman.

Guest speaker was William Peterchelli of the regional IRS office who gave suggestions to retirees concerning pension and insurance problems.

Juvenile Problems Being Solved In Area Says Condon

Joanne Condon, candidate for the Ward 6 City Council seat, discussed youth problems in the North Quincy area at a meeting held recently at the home of Mrs. Beverly Reinhardt, 128 Sagamore Street.

"At the request of residents, we recently held a meeting at the Atlantic Neighborhood Center about juvenile problems in the Appleton-East Squantum Street area," she said. "Mayor LaRaia, Police Chief Finn, Lt. Murphy and Detective Flynn listened to the concerned residents and promised that they would give the problem immediate attention. I am happy to say that the problems in this area are in the process of being solved. We are very pleased that the officials acted so quickly."

Mrs. Condon said the juvenile problems concern many residents in the North Quincy-Squantum area, especially since these usually increase in the summer time.

"I believe that this meeting and the youth activities planned by the Atlantic Neighborhood Center are positive steps toward alleviating this problem," she said.

Plans for a reception to be held for Mrs. Condon were also finalized at this meeting. The event is being held Saturday, May 14, at State Street South, North Quincy. Tickets are available from either Mrs. Reinhardt or Mrs. Norma Barriere of 627 Quincy Shore Drive.

Tobin Seeks Cleanup At Wollaston Beach

Sen Arthur H. Tobin (D-Quincy) has called on the MDC to begin an intensive cleanup campaign on Wollaston Beach.

"The summer is just ahead of us and there are cans and bottles, not to mention all sorts of winter debris littering the beach area," he said in a letter to MDC Commissioner John Snedeker.

"We in Quincy take pride in our city and its cleanliness. I urge the MDC to be a good neighbor and keep its property clean."

Tobin also advised the MDC commissioner that he is opposed to a proposal to install portable toilet facilities at Wollaston Beach because of the sanitation hazard.

"The plan for a permanent comfort station at the site of the former Kimberly property should adequately serve the beach area without inviting health hazards, sanitation problems and the obvious possibility of vandalism," he said.

Fenno St. Lighted Recreational Area Open For 15th Season

The Fenno St. lighted recreational area, with two tennis courts, two basketball courts and a shuffleboard court, is open for its 15th season of evening enjoyment under supervision of the Park and Recreation Board.

The Recreation Department has assigned a supervisor to the area from 6-10 p.m., Monday through Saturday, to guarantee a fair allotment of time to the people using the courts. The lights go out Oct. 1.

Last year, the cost of lighting the Fenno St. area was the highest in 14 years, with the major factor the fuel adjustment charges. The cost of electricity was up 145 percent from the opening year, 1963.

Nevertheless, the 14-year cost has been only $5,403.92.

The overhang lighting installation in 1963 at a cost of $7,000, paid for by the Merrymount Park Rental Fund, a Park Department account set up with money derived from the rental fee charged the U.S. government for use of the Nike Site.

The Fenno St. area was renovated several years ago. Cracks in the surface of the double tennis courts were filled in, asphalt sealer was applied, and two coats of colored sealer painted over that. Benches were repaired and painted.

The double basketball court was refurbished with black asphalt sealer; the jump circles were done in two colors and white lines were painted. The playing surface was extended four feet beyond the backboards.

A section of permanent chain fence was installed across the rear of the basketball courts to stop loose basketballs that once rolled down the adjacent kettle hole and interrupted the games.

A rustic-looking fence made of old public utility poles was constructed around the area to prevent cars from being driven and parked on the asphalt surfaces. Chain link fence was deemed susceptible to vandals.

The Fenno St. corner was widened in 1969 to make a safer entrance and exit for vehicles entering and leaving Merrymount Park.

MOVING EXPENSE TAX DEDUCTION

Prior to 1970, your moving expense tax deduction was limited to the cost of transporting your household goods and family transportation costs for the move [including food and lodging].

Little by little, other expenses of making the move were added to the deductible expense list. Now they have been liberalized even more with the 1976 tax reform bill. Effective in 1977, here is how the new scoreboard reads.

* You can deduct up to $3,000 for the cost of real estate commissions, mortgage costs and similar items incurred in buying or selling your home or settling a lease. Of this $3,000 total - one half [or up to $1,500] - may be deducted for expenses incurred for pre-move house-hunting expenses as well as temporary living expenses for up to 30 days at your new location. These benefits apply to the self-employed as well as employees. In order to qualify for this moving expense deduction, the reason for the move must be a job change and the new job site must be at least 35 miles away.

Thinking of selling your home? It makes sense to list it with PRESIDENT REAL ESTATE, 356 Hancock St., Phone: 328-8345.

Through our nationwide network of ERA Realtors, we can help you relocate anywhere in the country.

Also, we have available a one year warranty on all plumbing, heating, mechanical, electrical systems and built-in appliances on homes that we sell.

Phone or drop in. We are here to help.

The Glass Showcase Offers A Different Kind Of Gift

By KAREN WEBBER

Gift shop co-owner, Nicholas Kardose wants to offer the people of Quincy "a different kind of gift that they can't find anywhere else."

His answer is The Glass Showcase, a new specialty Shop at 1608 Hancock St., Quincy Center, featuring hand blown glassware.

Kardose and his partner, William Trindafolis, opened the shop two weeks ago.

"I think we have the best selection of hand blown glassware in New England," Kardose said. "The water filled rain spray sets are our most popular item."

The sets include a blown glass vase and swan, with "rain" made from thin fiberglass strands. The vase and swan are clear, but may be filled with colored water to produce a variety of shades.

"Most people think hand blown glass is expensive," Kardose said. "We offer ours at reasonable prices because we're wholesalers and we have a low overhead."

Glassware figures, ranging from animals to tiny tea cups, are attractively displayed in the shop on mirrors.

Pendants and earrings are also available.

The shop features spun or woven glassware, made by melting hollow glass rods and working the glass into artistic shapes.

A different effect is produced when solid glass is melted and shaped.

In addition to glassware, the shop has cards, paintings and some houseware items.

Kardose, who has been self-employed for the past year, also works on glassware concessions for other stores.

Kardose and Trindafolis are both Quincy residents. Trindafolis runs a trucking business and is a contract carrier for Zayre stores.

"We're hoping that once people get to know us, they'll appreciate our low prices," Kardose said. "I think we'll be a successful business in Quincy Square."

Concannon, Foley Receive Court Clerk Certificates

James J. Foley, a clerk at Quincy District Court and Superior Court Clerk John P. Concannon, were recently awarded certificates for completing a Clerk's Management Training Program.

The program was sponsored by the District Court Clerks Association, the Administrative Office of the District Courts and the Office of the Executive Secretary to the Justices of the Supreme Judicial Court assisted by the Institute for Court Management.

The three week program included sections on personnel management, budget preparation and fiscal affairs, the management role of clerks, courthouse facilities, caseflow management, public information and records maintenance.

Quincy, North Face Uphill Fights For Tourney Berths

The Quincy and North Quincy baseball teams are having up and down seasons and face uphill fights if they hope to qualify for the eastern Mass. Tournament.

Quincy is 5-4 in the Suburban League and 5-6 overall, while North is also 5-6 overall and 5-5 in the league.

Monday's games were postponed.

Today (Thursday) North hosts Cambridge Latin at Adams Field. Friday Quincy goes to Brookline and Monday Quincy and North will clash under the lights at 7:15 at Adams Field. Next Wednesday Quincy will be home to Brockton at 7:15 at Adams and North plays at Rindge Tech.

Last Friday, Quincy staged a five-run rally in the final inning but fell short as it dropped a wild 13-10 decision to Cambridge Latin. With the bases still loaded, Pat Gibbons was robbed by an outstanding leaping catch above the fence to end the game.

The Presidents had a 5-4 lead going into the bottom of the seventh, but Latin exploded for nine runs in the seventh and eighth for a 13-5 lead.

Ron Donovan, the losing pitcher, led the 12-hit attack with three hits. Len Picot had two hits, Jim Maze and Brian Jolly a home run apiece and Pete Niosi, Rick Gilbody, Pete Cassidy, Mike Murphy and Keith Larson one hit each.

North Quincy, in the first arclight game of the year at Adams Field, was held to four hits and lost to Waltham, 5-1.

Waltham scored all its runs in the first two innings. North scored its lone run in the third on Bob Stak's single, a stolen base and Jim McGinley's single. Kurt O'Sullivan was the losing pitcher. Earlier in the week Quincy had one of its better days as it walloped Weymouth South, 9-3, sparked by Pat Gibbons.

In contrast, North had its worst day of the season as it was clobbered by Weymouth North, 10-1, ending a four-game win streak. Everything went wrong for the Raiders.

North was held to six hits, two by Steve Bell and one each by Ed McLane, Stack, Jim McGinley and O'Sullivan. Weymouth had 11 hits off four pitchers and clinched the win with five runs in the second and four in the fifth.

Previously, Quincy had lost to Weymouth North, 7-2, when Weymouth exploded for all its runs in the sixth inning.

The Presidents had only four hits, one each by Picot, Donovan, Gilbody and Sal Coscia.

S.S. Bankers' League

South Shore Bombs Quincy Savings

In the opening game of the South Shore Bankers' League, South Shore Bank scored 12 runs in the first two innings and ran away to a 20-8 win over Quincy Savings.

It was evident that the Savings was in for a long night when the first batter of the game lined a shot at right fielder Tom Kazanowski which eluded him and before the inning was over, six runs had scored. Savings bounced back with four runs in its half of the inning.

In the second SSB continued its torrid hitting and added six more runs. QSB mounted a threat in its half, putting men on first and third with two outs, but Jim Rusconi grounded into a force play.

SSB added two in each of the next two innings and starter Bill Parker was relieved by Pat McCauley, who held SSB scoreless in the fifth and sixth.

Meanwhile, SSB started a comeback in the fifth with four runs to narrow the gap to 16-8. Highlight of the inning was Dan Shea's tremendous home run to left field. But SSB added four more runs for the easy win.

Encouraging for the QSB was the play of Sumner Smith and Corky Wells in the infield.

Leading the Savings Bank offense were Paul Cuniff with three hits, Steve Banks with two and Dan Shea with his homer. Rookies Rich Reidy and Rusconi are welcome additions to the team.

Report of President John R. Herbert at the Annual Shareholders Meeting of the Quincy Co-operative Bank May 4, 1977 -

This has been a truly wonderful year of growth for The Quincy Co-operative Bank.

It has been a gratifying year for your management.

We closed our books on April 30, 1977 nearing the $112 million mark - actually $111,517,177. This represents a growth of $17,697,558 since the close of the year in April, 1975 when we had assets of $93,819,619. Our past year's growth alone was $9,446,473 or $1,195,388 more than our gain the previous year.

The gross asset figure includes our Share Capital, that is, money on deposit, which grew $16,620,451 in two years from $79,974,722 in April of 1975 to $88,133,827 on April 30, 1976 and now, $96,595,173 in April, 1977.

Percentage-wise, our asset growth has been 18.86% for two years and our Share Capital increase has been 20.78% over the same two year period. Our Surplus shows an increase of 11.78% over a two year period. We added $345,290 to Surplus last year and $794,560 this year for a combined 24 month total increase of $1,139,850. Last year we opened approximately 2,000 new accounts. This year we will have opened 6,200 new accounts. Last year we paid our Shareholders dividends in the amount of $4,861,358 and, this year paid $5,402,319, an increase of 11.13%.

$355,850,000 Transactions

We are a busy Bank—in our main office and in our branches. The fact that we now have total assets of nearly $112 million tells only part of the story. Your Bank transacts $355,850,000 worth of business a year. How do we do it? We cite our transactions in the following categories: Savings deposits, savings withdrawals, mortgage payments, checks cashed, register checks sold, loans granted, investment purchases, and investment maturities and sales. Everyone of these required work many times over for your Bank staff—for instance, we cashed $87,500,000 worth of checks this past year. This volume of business required additions to the staff, and we are stronger today than ever before in banking talents and skills. Some of our new people include our new Administrative Vice President Francis J. Mitchell, who came to us from a distinguished financial management career with Old Colony Crushed Stone and Construction Co. and as a veteran Selectman in Hanover. Leo C. Sheehan, who formerly aided our Bank when he was with Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co., joined us as Internal Auditor. Jeremiah J. Foley became our Marketing Manager after a career in the investment field. Norman J. Walsh, a long time expert for branch management in Boston branches, joined our staff as Manager for our Braintree branch, and Jean Kelleher strengthened our Mortgage Department operation in addition to her expertise in the field of compliance regulation know-how.

Ours has been a year of growth and momentum despite the problems all banks have had with the fairly low interest rates in government issues. The sluggish mortgage market during the terrible days of the past winter was understandable, but we had funds available, and we went after the mortgage business. The business was out there to get, as we discovered when we dropped our mortgage interest rate to 8½% with a 20% down payment. We believed that it was the lowest mortgage interest rate in our area and the response pretty much confirmed our belief: In less than two weeks after the announcement we had more than $3 million in new mortgage applications. And interestingly most of them were excellent applications.

Certificate Activity

One of the problems during the year faced by all banks related to Term Deposit Certificates. One by one, all around us, most banks shut off the longer term, higher yield certificates. Or they simply increased the terms to the point where the certificates in the higher range were no longer attractive investments. But we clung to our range from 1 to 5 years, and this has paid off handsomely, particularly in bringing new customers into the Bank. This decision to hold the line on certificates was not made lightly. We are monitoring our certificate business every day to be sure that the "hot money" or the "parked money" does not overwhelm us. We hope the gradual upward trend in investment interest rates will continue and that we will not have to change our present schedule for term or interest for our certificates. But, if the days ahead fail to achieve a higher general investment return, prudent judgement could force us to change either rate or term. We can report that most of the parked money is in the lower interest or shorter term area because those particular investors do not want to tie up their funds for 5 years. Most of our long term new money has been for older persons, regular customers and new customers, who want to use the long term certificates for retirement income purposes.

And we applaud this. We are, after all, a co-operative bank. We have no stockholders who badger us for better returns on their stocks in this Bank. Our "stockholders" are our Shareholders, and our profits belong to them within the limitations set by the government with Regulation Q. We believe that our great growth over the past two years is a spectacular achievement that can be attributed to our dedicated employees; excellent promotional activities; and overall concern for customer needs.

A small item, perhaps, but typical of what we have been doing to serve customers and noncustomers alike is our new contract with Massachusetts Electric to allow their customers to pay their bills at our Bank. From a modest start some weeks ago, we are now receiving 1,000 payments a month for electric bills. We regard this as a good service to both customers and to noncustomers.

Marketing Activity

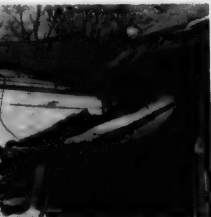

We face the fact that all banks are getting to be more and more alike—and competitive, too—in services offered. The success of any bank depends on services for customers backed by an intelligent marketing program. [When we named a Marketing Manager this past year, one of our customers observed that we must be buying a lot of food for our employees' lunch room!] Marketing, or selling, or promotion, whatever you call it, means one thing: A realization of our place in the community and what we can do for this community not only within the Bank but outside.

Here is an example: In Quincy, we have a Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women. We have funded, somewhat modestly, the activities of this organization in the area of consumer information. In one case, a seminar at Quincy High School projected for 75 women had an actual attendance of 150. We were delighted. One of the speakers was Mrs. Jean Kelleher from our Lending Department who talked on mortgages. Some weeks later, there was a similar session at the Adams Short Library, and Mrs. Kelleher and our Marketing Manager, Jerry Foley, were speakers.

Whether this kind of typical activity in the consumer area was responsible or not, your President was named this year to the Consumer Relations Committee of the United States Savings and Loan League.

There are other ways, of course, to show concern for our very wonderful community that extends basically from Quincy to Plymouth. We have established a scholarship program with $100 awards for outstanding young people in the high schools of Quincy and in communities where we have branch offices.

Scholarship Program

This year we will give to the Quincy Junior College the largest scholarship the school now has: A scholarship of $1,500 for a student to continue his or her work in a four year college. We have provided financial help in varying amounts to the Cardinal Cushing School; the Quincy Historical Society; the South Shore Natural Science Center; various art festivals on the South Shore; youth athletic programs in the community, i.e., baseball, soccer, hockey, and basketball; amateur theater groups and other activities related to the arts; and we have supported the various professional organizations of our community who insure safety and well-being of our citizens with police and fire protection. We had a chance to buy garden diaries for home gardeners, giving times of planting, and other data. We sent copies to every garden club member in our area, with a brief tribute on the front cover hailing garden clubbers for their great contributions to the beauty of our area.

Our love affair with the South Shore area we serve is backed with an investment of well over $75 million, most of it in single family homes.

Our involvement in community affairs might be regarded as a form of enlightened self-interest, but it goes beyond this. Most of our employees and officers live in the area we serve, and many participate to a great extent in community activities.

Our branches have had some interesting growth patterns. Our new branch at Braintree, for instance, was predicated on a three year projection showing we needed to reach $3 million in that period to make the branch profitable. However, Braintree reached its first million in 7½ months and not one year.

Our small, limited service branch at 1000 Southern Artery reached its first million some weeks ago in, approximately 18 months after opening. We had been running this branch three days a week from 12:00 noon to 3:00 p.m. but business there was increased so much that our three day a week hours are now 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. We are especially proud of this branch because it provides a service for about 1,500 people in a totally secure atmosphere. These senior citizens can use direct deposit for their social security and pension checks, and never have to leave the 1000 Southern Artery complex to do their banking.

Our Cohasset branch has developed tremendous community area interest in its on-going art show in cooperation with the South Shore Art Center.

Hanover Progress

Last fall when our Hanover branch [for many years our first and only branch] celebrated its 20th anniversary, we had an appropriate birthday party, inviting people in the communities the Bank serves to join us for the festivities. We are grateful to the Hanover Historical Society for its help in presenting a display of pictures and historical memorabilia in the Bank; and we appreciate the assistance from the Town Public Works Department in displaying on the grounds of the branch the anchor and plow replica which are part of the symbolism of the Town seal.

When we celebrated our Hanover anniversary, we provided the Town with a football scoreboard.

Speaking of Hanover, a major acquisition during the year was our purchase of 45,989 square feet of land next door to our branch in Hanover. We had tried to purchase this property for the past 20 years, and recently when the owners made the property available to us, we moved quickly to buy the land, tear down the stores on the property, and develop a landscaping program. There were two advantages to getting rid of the stores: Demolition provided a tremendous enhancement of both our site and our attractive colonial branch building; and we could now go ahead with the development of twin drive-in facilities, something we have needed for months. Our rapid growth at Hanover has made our single drive-up window inadequate. Landscaping is underway on the newly acquired land, and we feel this will give the Town of Hanover a handsome intersection at Route 53 and Rockland Street. We hope that the new double drive-in facility will be ready within several weeks.

Environment is a very fragile thing, and your Bank is sensitive to the challenges to protect and to beautify areas we control. We feel we have made a major contribution to the Hanover environment in the orderly development of this newly acquired property.

Professional Activities

In our professional activities we should report on several steps of significance:

1. We have joined NEACH - New

JEAN KELLEHER from Lending Dept. conducting seminar on Mortgages at a workshop entitled "Woman & Money" given by Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women.

England Automated Clearing House - an important step toward the ultimate Electronic Funds Transfer. By joining NEACH, for instance, we are now in a position to set up a program for direct payment of payrolls by business firms to employees' accounts at our Bank.

2. Another step has been the rapid development of the Money One program, a service of The First National Bank of Boston which we have joined. We are now issuing Money One cards for our customers. These provide check cashing identification in many supermarkets. The VEC - Value Exchange Corporation of State Street Bank - has not yet penetrated into the South Shore area, but we would plan to join it, too, if local supermarkets become involved.

3. We have made considerable use of membership in the Massachusetts Purchasing Group, a consortium of banks using this service for out-of-state investments.

4. We are deep into a study of our accounting processes as they relate to the latest electronic equipment. We expect to move on any updating, if needed, in the next few months.

During the past year the operations area of The Quincy Co-operative Bank has developed a formal, in-house training program for new personnel. This program, developed by Joan Iacocca of our staff, and under the direction of Carl R. Abramson, Assistant Treasurer, has proven to be effective in preparing employees for their new careers with The Quincy Co-operative Bank. The program consists of a period of concentrated classroom type instruction, followed by actual on the job training. I would like to point out, too, that several of our employees donated blood when the Red Cross Bloodmobile was at the Woodward School some weeks ago.

The Bank received the Massachusetts Bay Award from the United Way Fund for the Bank's support, and one of our Branch Managers, Jim Sheard at Hanover, was singled out for a Key Person Award for his outstanding efforts in the Drive this year.

Dedicated Directors

The management of the Bank, as provided by statute, is the direct responsibility of the Board of Directors. No bank has a more dedicated group of Directors than ours, and their hard work and enlightened guidance played a major role in the successes of the past year. Whether serving the Bank as Board members or in their individual roles as members of the Finance, Security, or Executive Committees, all of our Directors are active in their work for The Quincy Co-operative Bank.

Finally, after this past winter with the challenges it presented to all of us, I cannot help but turn to Charles Dickens to sum it up as he did in "A Tale of Two Cities".

"It was the best of times, it was the worst of times, it was the age of wisdom, it was the age of foolishness, it was the epoch of belief, it was the epoch of incredulity, it was the season of Light, it was the season of Darkness, it was the spring of hope, it was the winter of despair."

For those of us trying to operate your Bank in the horrible weather of the past winter, it was surely "the

Slashes $1.4 Million

Council Puts Axe To City Budget, Eyes More Cuts

By TOM HENSHAW

The City Council's Finance Committee went through Mayor LaRaia's $82 million budget like a jungle explorer wielding a machete Monday night, bringing to $1.4 million the total trimmed with more to come.

"The intent of the Council is the same line item status as last year," said Councillor John J. Lydon Jr. as Committee Chairman John J. Quinn conducted Councilors on a whirlwind tour of the budget, slashing as they went.

Later, of course, there will be a supplementary budget of some $3 million that will include salary hikes yet to be negotiated and job vacancies yet to be filled.

Employing the old rule-of-thumb which says that $250,000 in the budget is equal to $1 on the tax rate, it might be said that the Council cut nearly $6 from the 1977-78 tax rate Monday night - before the supplementary budget, that is.

One job cut by the committee was that of the Mayor's information officer, the $11,700 post held by Jeanne Umana. It was voted out 4-3, with Councillors Paul D. Harold, Warren A. Powers and Quinn dissenting.

Also cut was the $6,500 expense budget of Budget Coordinator Sarah Saccone, who pleaded: "If you don't give me

Creedon, DiRamio Clash

School Custodians' Wage Dispute Continues

By MICHAEL WIGDOR

Robert DiRamio of the National Association of Government Employees (NAGE) and School Supt. Dr. Lawrence P. Creedon engaged in a verbal skirmish this week as school custodians continued to picket City Hall in their wage dispute.

DiRamio urged Mayor LaRaia to move to end the contract impasse between the custodians and the Quincy School Committee.

The NAGE national representative accused school officials "of whacking up taxpayers' money to grant themselves huge salaries, while custodians are left with pennies-and they have to fight for them."

John T. Conlon, a state appointed fact finder, recommended a 3.5 per cent pay increase for custodians retroactive to July 1976. They are seeking salaries equivalent to those of municipal custodians, and three additional sick days, from 15 to 18 days. No progress has been made so far in negotiations with the school committee.

DiRamio said it is a "moral wrong" for School Supt. Dr. Lawrence Creedon to accept what he called a recent $7,500 pay/fringe benefits' increase while denying 110 custodians a "dollar-a-day pay increase."

Creedon responded that he got a $1,900 raise effective Jan. 1, after 28 months with no increase, and that he has no more fringe benefits than any other school employee.

DiRamio said Creedon's salary had risen from $43,500 to $51,500, but Creedon said that his salary now is $45,400. His raise was also negotiated with the school committee.

DiRamio said that Creedon is also given use of an automobile plus $100 a month expenses, but Creedon countered that two autos in the department pool are used by the department, and are not personal cars.

DiRamio said Norfolk County commissioners gave school administrators the use of the former Quincy District Court for classrooms for free, and "now they have rented at $35,000 a year the entire top floor of a new Quincy bank for the same class space," Creedon said that the court cost over $100,000 to renovate and $23,000 in rent and insurance. The classroom is used by Quincy Junior College and Quincy High School, he said.

Creedon said that the schools use less than half a floor of the Quincy bank at an annual rent of $23,175 including utilities.

DiRamio said another instance of waste included restoration of a payroll office into plush offices for two assistant school superintendents, which would cost $50,000. Creedon said that there had been no bid yet on the cost, and that 12 people, the entire personnel department, the director of academic education and secretary, assistant superintendent and secretary, and machine room persons would use the new office, which would hardly be plush.

To charges by DiRamio that "the school administrators have just come off a 16 per cent pay hike and are now seeking 28 per cent over the next two years," Creedon said that there was no foundation in fact at all as to pay raises, and that administrators haven't asked for anything yet.

New Public Works Bill Hailed By LaRaia

Mayor LaRaia has hailed the new $4 billion federal public works bill as a vehicle for putting more than 500 persons to work and building a new City Hall and public works complex for the city of Quincy.

The same construction projects were sought by Quincy in a previous public works act but, like many cities in Massachusetts, they were lost through a confusion in specifications for allotment.

LaRaia said he has "received assurance from Congressman

Burke that he will assist the city in obtaining these funds."

The new City Hall, which has been proposed for a location over the MBTA tracks, is a project that would "coincide with a master development plan currently under discussion," said the Mayor.

Ordinance Bans Outsiders From Digging Clams

The City Council Monday night passed an ordinance which, in effect, would enable the city to ban outsiders clam diggers from working the beds within the city of Quincy.

The ordinance licensing diggers was proposed by Councillor Leo J. Kelly who noted that Hull and Hingham have such ordinances which keep Quincy diggers from their beds.

The Hull and Hingham ordinances are currently being tested in court and rulings would determine the legality of the Quincy ordinance also.

Confusion Continues

R.S.V.P. Status Still Muddled

The status of the Retired Senior Volunteer Program [RSVP] in Quincy and the South Shore was not perfectly clear this week even after most of those concerned on the local level had had a crack at explaining it.

The person who could clear things up, Donald Wright, state program director of ACTION, which supervises RSVP, was not available for comment.

About the only fact that emerged from the welter of charges, counter-charges and conflicting reports was that sponsorship of RSVP probably will remain in Quincy, although not with the Council on Aging.

John J. Burke, chairman of the RSVP Advisory Board in Quincy, told the City Council's Committee on Senior Citizens Activities last week that he had

Firefighters Retroactive Pay May Amount To Half-Million

City Auditor Charles L. Shea has begun the long and tedious procedure of calculating retroactive pay due to firefighters for the six-month period July 1 through Dec. 31, 1974.

The city was authorized by Suffolk Superior Court to make the payments which were awarded in compulsory arbitration but which the city had refused to accept.

Shea said the retroactive pay and other benefits could total as much as a half-million dollars.

He said it might take as long as three or four weeks to recompute all the money owed the firefighters since it includes not only base pay but shift differentials based on percentages, overtime and pensions.

MBTA Braintree Extension Cost Climbs 85 Percent

The cost of the MBTA's Red Line Extension from Quincy Center to South Braintree has gone up 85 percent since the project was first approved in 1968, and funds were allocated in November, 1974.

The MBTA announced last week, that it will seek an additional $24.5 million in federal funds and a $6.1 million state bond issue, bringing the total cost of the two-year project to $66.4 million.

Available funds amount to $35.8 million.

The MBTA said that about two-thirds of the additional cost, or $20.6 million, can be attributed to changes in design since 1968, including the depressed tracks through Quincy Center and parking and access facilities at South Braintree.

"Both the South Braintree and Quincy Center improvements respond to specific requests and preferences expressed at numerous meetings with Braintree and Quincy officials," the MBTA said.

Some $7.1 million is attributed to cost escalation for two years, "while community acceptance of the project was obtained," and $2.9 is due to costs of land acquisition, relocation and demolition not included in the original application.

The 3.2-mile extension from the Quincy Center station to a new station in South Braintree is expected to be completed and opened in the summer of 1979. It is expected that most major contracts will be awarded this summer and fall.

Tobin Urges Seniors Housing Included In Development Plan

City Council President Arthur H. Tobin has called for additional senior citizens' housing as part of Quincy's master development plans.

In a letter to Councilor Leo J. Kelly, chairman of the city council's special subcommittee on downtown revitalization, Council President Tobin urged that additional senior citizen housing be considered in master plans the subcommittee is working on.

Tobin's letter came after a request earlier this week that the special subcommittee begin hearings on revitalizing the downtown Quincy Center business district.

In that request, Tobin asked for a report to the City Council, including the potential for attracting new business and development to the Quincy Center area, and a timetable, at the earliest possible time.

He urged meetings be begun immediately with the city planner, building trades, merchants, businessmen, the Chamber of Commerce, and potential developers, to gather data for a downtown master plan.

He said the plan should be coordinated with the depression of the rapid transit tracks so that full advantage of that construction can be taken in planning new downtown development.

In his letter to Kelly, Tobin noted that one element of a downtown master plan could be senior citizen housing.

"We have a waiting list of 3,000 persons waiting for apartments," he said. "Quincy has made great strides toward satisfying our need for senior citizen housing, but we are a long way from finished with this huge waiting list."

He said the Quincy Center district would be an ideal spot for additional senior citizen housing, since the center is close to shopping areas, banks, doctors' offices and public transportation.

"From the senior citizens' point of view, nothing could be more convenient," he said.

"And, from the businessman's point of view, nothing could be more conducive to better business. We need more people with access to shopping in Quincy Center, and one good way is by helping senior citizens with housing at the same time."

Tobin said the city should also have senior citizen housing in West Quincy and North Quincy, which presently lack such facilities.

He said the Quincy Housing Authority should seek sites in these areas for future senior citizen complexes.

SAFETY CAPS SAVE LIVES

The next time you grope around with the safety cap of an aspirin bottle, think twice before complaining. In the short time since they have been required, child-resistant packaging has been credited with a tremendous reduction in accidental aspirin poisonings by children.

In 1971, the year before child-resistant packaging was required for aspirin, Poison Prevention Control Centers reported 8,146 aspirin ingestions for children under five. By 1974, that figure had dropped to 4,837. In just two years after child-resistant packaging was required, the number of reported deaths from aspirin poisoning of children under five dropped in half.

In my mind, I believe government authorities should look closely into other common child poisoning sources, such as household cleaners. It must be remembered that poison warnings label mean nothing to children under five who cannot read. Perhaps the same type of child resistant packaging used for medication would cut these child poisonings in half also. It's worth the effort.

St. Joseph's Observes Holy Childhood Day

A special Mission Liguria highlighted the observance of Holy Childhood Day at St. Joseph's Church, Quincy Point. Students and faculty of the parish school participated in the Mission Mass celebrated by Rev. Joseph Downer, pastor, assisted by Rev. Robert Townner, school chaplain.

The Mission Theme was expressed throughout the celebration of Mass. The Epistle read by James Noenick, a grade six student, was taken from the book of St. James 2:14-17: "Faith without good works is dead." The Responsorial Psalm read by Scott Gillis was taken from Ps. 33 and 63: "O Lord hear the cry of the Poor." This psalm was sung by the children of the school. "Through giving to others, we give to Christ, was the message of the holy Gospel of St. Matthew 25:31-40 read at the celebration.

An Offertory Procession followed the homily in which symbolic gifts were presented at the altar to represent the necessities provided through donations to the Holy Childhood.

Participating in the Offertory Procession were students from Grade six: Paul Roche, globe; Thomas Corliss, medicine; David Matzel, clothes; Charles Morrissey, bread; Patricia McBride and Allison Bright, Eucharistic Gifts. Jonathan Beniers, also a student of grade six, read a special prayer to coincide with the presentation of gifts.

At the Offertory, a special collection was taken up by Angelo Russo, Daniel McGowan, William Foley and Raymond Miscioscia. The children of Saint Joseph school donated $51 to the Holy Childhood Association. Music for this special Mission day was under the direction of Sister Agnes Keating, C.S.J.

Sister Falisa Drew, C.S.J. is principal of St. Joseph School, conducted by the Sisters of St. Joseph.

Mayor Proclaims Cerebral Palsy Month

May has been officially proclaimed Cerebral Palsy Month in Quincy by Mayor Joseph LaRaia.

At the proclamation signing in his office were William J. Trifone, President; Sabina Stenberg, First Vice-President, and Executive Director, Arthur Ciampa, of the Cerebral Palsy organization.

LaRaia cited the Quincy Cerebral Palsy agency for providing care, treatment, training and other vital services to the cerebral palsied and multiply handicapped and their families in the South Shore. He noted that Cerebral Palsy attacks approximately 25,000 infants annually and that only in research lies the hope of ultimately stopping this cruel, multiple cripler which has already disabled more than 600,000 Americans.

The Mayor pointed out that, although the Cerebral Palsy agency is a financially participating member of the United Way of Massachusetts Bay, it still must raise funds in non-federated communities it serves.

Tobin Urges State DPW To Resurface Hancock St.

Sen. Arthur H. Tobin has asked the State Department of Public Works to give immediate priority consideration to the resurfacing of Hancock St., the primary business artery into downtown Quincy.

In a letter to Commissioner John J. Carroll, Tobin said the roadway has been in serious need of repair, a situation that was worsened by the ravages of snow storms and other weather conditions of the past winter.

He said his researches have shown that Hancock St. from the Neponset River Bridge to the junction of Southern Artery is a "federal aid primary route" and that there is $11 million available in that fund for resurfacing.

Furthermore, he said, Hancock St. from Southern Artery to its end at Quincy Ave. is designated an "urban systems route" and there is $9 million in resurfacing money available for this category.

"Out of the $20 million available, I believe priority consideration should be given to a major artery so badly in need of attention," said Tobin.

He urged Carroll to advise him immediately of the procedure that the city would have to follow to insure that Hancock St. be resurfaced in the near future.

MONEY TALKS

Heavy Savings Inflow Did Not Produce Housing Boom

By Philip J. Lawrence, President
Colonial Federal Savings
and Loan Association
of Quincy, Holbrook & Wareham
8-6 Weekdays 8-7:30 Thursdays

One would expect that with the record inflow of money into the nation's savings and loans, the housing market should have enjoyed a new boom. Why this did not happen is explained in a study by the United States League of Insured Associations. The study notes the inconsistency between the record lending in 1976 by savings and loan associations and the very modest improvement in new housing starts. It finds three principal reasons:

1. While savings and loans have historically been the principal source of funds for homes and home improvements, they have traditionally concentrated their lending in single-family housing. This accounts for the report by the National Association of Realtors that the numbers of sales of existing single-family homes through the first three quarters of 1976 were at record-breaking levels, with August 23.3% above the corresponding month of 1975. The demand for the associations' major product - single-family mortgage credit - was therefore strong. But any boom in housing starts was lacking because of the softer development of multi-family units.

2. Inflation has camouflaged the real gain in home investment. As the U.S. League study notes, it took a monthly lending rate of $7 billion in 1976 to finance the same number of units as $4.8 billion financed in 1970.

3. Savings institutions have been left largely to themselves in recent years as other private lenders virtually deserted the home mortgage market in favor of higher returns elsewhere. The U.S. League points out that savings associations accounted for about 75% of the nation's mortgage market in 1975-76, as compared with 60% during 1970-71.

Of these factors, the major culprit, according to the U.S. League, has been inflation, which ate up about 60% of a 100% increase in 1976 lending over 1971. The National Association of Realtors reported that median sales prices of existing single-family homes rose to $39,400 in August 1976, 7.1% above a year earlier. I saw hope in the possibility that 1976 may have marked the first time in three years that gains in family income kept pace with the advance in existing home prices.

New Downtown Plan For Real?

It seems like every time you turn around someone has a new plan for the revitalization of downtown Quincy.

Optimistic projections are made, enthusiastic words written and spoken, money and more money spent for more and more studies and kerpunk! Nothing of major consequence really ever happens.

In 1973-four years ago this October-the highly acclaimed Hilgenhurst Report was unveiled during Mayor Walter Hannon's first term.

The plan called for a face-lifting of the downtown area at a then estimated cost of $100 million for new construction, rehabilitation of existing buildings, creation of a pedestrian, shopping mall on Hancock St., etc., etc., etc.

It was estimated it would take $80-$85 million in private funds for new development, $5-$10 million in private monies for rehabilitation of existing structures and another $5 million from federal, state and local government sources to make the dream come true.

Models of the "new downtown" were exhibited here and there and we all "oohed" and "ahhed", over the downtown Quincy of the future.

Well, nothing really came of it other than growing grass and trees here and there and putting in benches for shoppers to rest on. It helped pretty up the downtown area but none of the major proposals saw fruit.

There have been other proposals since and more money spent but nothing has come of them.

Now, four years after Hilgenhurst, the LaRaia administration is preparing to unveil another downtown revitalization plan which reportedly includes an enclosed shopping mall, [not on Hancock St.] and an access way for pedestrians and vehicular traffic over the depressed MBTA tracks to link the Parkway area and the Grossman-Grante St. section.

Planning Director Lars Norman Lundin describes the proposal-most of which is still under wraps but gradually leaking out-as "one of great magnitude".

Well, let's hope something comes of it. And let's hope that it isn't timed for this year's mayoral campaign. And let's hope it doesn't become a political football.

Let's also hope it is a sincere effort to give downtown Quincy a healthy shot in the arm. Not a political pat in the pants.

CRYSTAL BALL DEPT: Excerpts from this column April 18, 1974: "Politician watchers are just about convinced that Arthur Tobin and Joseph LaRaia are on a head-on collision course."

"But they really don't think the pair will politically collide this year though there have been indications that LaRaia might challenge Tobin for his senatorial seat."

They feel it will come in a mayor's race because the issues LaRaia has been involved in are primarily at the city level.

"Tobin and LaRaia are now so far apart in political philosophy and on local issues that they are natural opponents if not enemies."

LOOKING AT THE council at-large picture, former School Committee member Harold Davis seems to be warring up for a bid. Davis finished a close fourth to Councillor John Quinn in the three-seat finish two years ago.

COUNCILLOR Paul Harold has cocktail-reception fund-raiser coming up May 20 [6-8 p.m.] at the Brintree Yacht Club. Ticket chairman is Philip Shea. [$25 per.]

A FUND RAISER dance for Mayoral candidate Thomas M. Barron, will be held Friday, May 27 at the North Quincy Knights of Columbus. Music and entertainment by the Guildsmen group from 8 p.m. to midnight. [Tickets are $2.50].

A CAMPAIGN PARTY with a Greek flavor is on tap for James Miller, candidate for the Ward 1 City Council seat, Friday night at St. Boniface's, Germantown. His grandfather, 83-year-old Nick Danos is roasting up 125 pounds of spring lamb. A native of Greece who came to this country at age 16, Danos operated the "Famous Lunch" in Boston for 44 years. Tickets for the 4-7 p.m. event are $5 and are available by calling 471-4137 or at the door.

FORMER Rep.-Councillor Joseph Brett doesn't sound like he's going to attempt a political comeback bid this year.

He's been mentioned as a possible candidate for City Council at-large.

"People have suggested I run, but I don't know," he says.

Today [Thursday] is his 70th birthday but he hardly looks it. He says he's beginning to enjoy the retirement forced on him by his upset defeat at the hands of young Michael Morrissey last year.

"But I had planned only to serve one more term in the House anyway," he confides. "So I retired two years sooner than I planned."

He was down to Winter Haven, Fla. this spring to watch the Red Sox get ready. He and his wife, Ruth, like the area so much, they plan to spend next winter there.

"If I ran for council at-large and won, it wouldn't look right for me to be away from Quincy January, February and March," he notes.

Well, he's still got the old confidence.

Council Slashes $1.4 Million supplies I can't function."

Councillor Dennis E. Harrington noted that the funds for supplies should come from the Mayor's budget since the City Council had never created an independent department for the budget coordinator.

A couple of cheery notes among the flood of figures:

• Miss Saccone disclosed that the municipal report for 1974-75 is now at the printers and the 1975-76 report should go to the printers in a couple of weeks. State law requires that they be published annually.

• Treasurer Robert Foy said that the city's bonded indebtedness is going to drop from $4.63 million to $4.3 million next year, despite the newly added bonds for construction at North Quincy High School and the Merrymount School.

The City Council was required to act on the Mayor's budget by last night at which time Monday night's recessed meeting was to be resumed, following further hearing by Quinn's Finance Committee.

been in touch with Wright, who was out of his office each time The Sun called.

"I was told that ACTION has no intention of moving from the city of Quincy unless all else fails," said Burke. "But unless the matter is straightened out ACTION funds will be withdrawn."

Burke said Wright had asked him to appeal to the City Council to continue its financial support of the RSVP program, which serves some 250-260 senior citizen volunteers from Quincy and about 150 elsewhere on the South Shore.

And the City Council committee responded by approving a proposed RSVP budget of $11,411 for 1977-78 and sending a written vote of confidence in the program to John F. Torian, the regional director of ACTION.

Meanwhile, there was some confusion about what had happened to RSVP and who was responsible for it.

Burke told the committee that "the RSVP program has not progressed to the liking of the ACTION people in the last 16 months. The people I talked to said their superiors were asking them:

"What the hell is going on down in Quincy? Can we straighten it out or should we dump the whole program?"

Burke said that the turmoil surrounding RSVP has been hurting the program.

"People have told me that as long as these conditions exist then they won't show their faces in the office," he said. "No one wants to get involved in such turmoil."

"Seniors are funny people. All they want is a pat on the back. They don't want to be ignored or treated like idiots."

There were different versions or interpretations of a March 24 meeting among Wright, LaRaia, Robert Tweedy, director of the Council on Aging, and others in LaRaia's office.

Council President Arthur H. Tobin said Wright and Torian told him that they "communicated to Mayor LaRaia and Mr. Tweedy of March 24 and informed them they were going to stop RSVP under the Council on Aging."

"They said they were disturbed over internal problems and gave them a time schedule within which to respond. No response was made."

Tobin cited a letter from Torian to LaRaia and Tweedy, dated April 20, part of which read:

"You may submit written material or request to meet informally with ACTION representatives to why your application [for funding] should not be denied. Should you elect to submit written material or request an informal meeting, please contact Mr. Tom Enders, program operations officer...by April 30."

The purpose of the March 24 meeting, said Burke, was "to put the Mayor and the director of the Council on Aging on notice that the grant in all probability will not be refunded. Wright said the undercurrent was getting too political."

Mayor LaRaia said the status of RSVP in Quincy was discussed at the March 24 meeting, adding that "the possibility of a change in sponsorship was mentioned but not decided upon. The change in sponsorship was left up in the air."

The Mayor said the letter of April 20 from Wright and Torian "merely suggested a tentative arrangement to change the sponsorship and that only after the 90-day extension period had expired."

Another section of the letter said:

"Enclosed please find a Notice of Grant Award [NGA] extending the current budget year for 90 days... This extension and supplemental funding will enable RSVP volunteers to continue their involvement and activities, provide time to fully resolve this matter, and facilitate an orderly transfer of responsibility to a new sponsor with minimal disruption of the project."

Burke said he understood from Wright that the change in sponsorship was definite.

Mayor LaRaia and Tweedy, he said, "were supposed to appeal in a certain time [by April 30] or forfeit the right to appeal. When they didn't ACTION felt there was no further interest in RSVP in Quincy."

Mayor LaRaia said the difficulties in Quincy RSVP were "brought on by conflicts among the advisory board, the director of RSVP [Win Pulsifer] and the state in its desire to expand the regional program to other communities."

He said his role was that of mediator.

At the March 24 meeting, the Mayor said, Wright and other ACTION officials "were concerned that the program was not moving out into other geographical areas. There were conflicts over management of the program with some siding with the director of RSVP and some with the director of the Council on Aging."

"The state felt it could promote its objectives best through a change in sponsorship."

The state wanted to fill its own objectives in its own way."

The Wright-Torian letter of April 20 listed these reasons for changing sponsorship:

• Unresolved role relationship difficulties among sponsor staff [Council on Aging], project staff [RSVP] and the advisory committee.

• Establishment of operating procedures in conflict with ACTION policy, including unauthorized and inappropriate reorganization of project structure and contrary to sound management practices.

• Concentration of the project in the city of Quincy with the result that the cities and towns in the service area are not adequately served as required by the grant.

• Failure to use an acceptable method for staff hiring as embodied in ACTION procedure.

• Failure to act on filling staff vacancies.

• Adverse public attention resulting from unresolved internal project management problems.

It was emphasized at the meeting of the Council's Committee on Senior Citizens Activities that problems at RSVP were not related to the arrest of former assistant director Herbert Reppucci on extortion charges involving a school construction contract.

But it was indicated that Reppucci's appointment by Mayor LaRaia may have been made contrary to ACTION rules and guidelines. The question came up at the March 24 meeting, said Burke, and someone showed the ACTION rule book to LaRaia.

"He said he did not realize that appointment of the assistant director was not within his power," said Burke. "I'll not say it was a deliberate action on his part. It may have been a misunderstanding."

Mayor LaRaia agreed it might have been a misunderstanding.

"A lot of the federal guidelines were not available to us when we came into office," he said. "As we became more knowledgeable we always moved to correct any situation."

It was agreed, however, that the new assistant director of RSVP, Diane Mackie, was legally appointed.

Want To Quit Smoking?

An intensive five-day "Quit-Smoking" program is being offered to residents of the 32 communities served by the Norfolk County-Newton Lung Association, including Quincy.

The group program will be held from May 16-20, 7:30 to 9 p.m. at Heritage Hill at Newton House, 2101 Washington St., Newton.

The program is open to high-schoolers through senior citizens. Registrations are now open at the Association's office, 745 High St., Westwood, Mass., telephone 326-4081.

According to the F.B.I., the most probable night for a burglary is Saturday night.

Curley, Burgin Preside At FR Bridge Opening

Mayors James Michael Curley of Boston and Thomas S. Burgin of Quincy presided over ceremonies at the much-postponed opening of the new 2,116-foot bridge over the Fore River between Quincy Point and North Weymouth.

"Out of evil cometh good," said Curley, ever the phrasemaker, noting that one of the chief reasons for building the new bridge was to provide employment for the jobless and pump money into the Depression economy.

"And let us thank God for a man like Franklin Roosevelt," the Boston mayor added, since $2 million to make the span possible was put up by the federal government.

State Public Works Commissioner William F. Callahan estimated that the bridge, which provides easy access to the South Shore and Cape Cod from Greater Boston, will handle 60,000 autos a day in the summer.

POLICE SHAKEN

New Police Chief John J. Avery shook up the Quincy Police Department by transferring 11 officers, some because of recent promotions and others "for the general good of the department."

Lt. William Ferrazzi was assigned to the inspector's office, succeeding Avery; Sgt. James Mullin went to the traffic accident bureau; and Patrolman John Daniels to the motorcycle squad.

Other officers transferred included Patrolmen Michael Connolly, George Ogle, Lawrence Broderick, Everett Reid, George Wyman, Leonard Ferguson and Alexander McDonald.

VINCENNES LAUNCHED

The 10,000-ton cruiser USS Vincennes, sister ship of the USS Quincy, was launched at the Bethlehem Steel Corp.'s Fore River Shipyard, sponsored by Miss Harriet Kimmell, daughter of the Mayor of Vincennes, Ind.

Admiral William H. Standley, acting secretary of the Navy, told a reception at the Neighborhood Club: "When bigger and better ships are built Fore River will get a chance to build them."

HIGH SCHOOLS SPLIT

Bibs Brodyck contributed four hits and North Quincy came up with six runs in the seventh inning for a 13-5 victory over Hingham.

The Raiders starting lineup included: Workman 3b, Amann ss, Brodyck 2b, Doherty cf, Frazer 1b, Johnson c, Welch p, Merrill 1f, Guilmarin rf.

Meanwhile, Quincy suffered its first home defeat of the season, 6-4, at the hands of Everett as the visitors Dick Conley homered with two on in the fifth.

Quincy starters were: Lemco cf, Birch 3b, Carella ss, Menz 1b, McKenna lf, Osborne c, Franchuk rf, Whelan 2b, Paluzzi p.

Fore River Bridge Progress Report

The South Shore Chamber of Commerce has an active program aimed at replacing the Fore River Bridge that runs between Quincy and Weymouth on Route 3A; and while we don't send out weekly news releases reporting the progress on our efforts, the project receives' daily staff attention and substantial progress is being made.

The Fore River Bridge Replacement Action Team (BRAT) is composed of members of organized labor, state and local government officials, environmental and conservation groups, and members of the Chamber. The reason for replacing the Bridge is that the current span, built in 1936 for $2.4 million, has a 171 foot opening which limits the size of ships that can be constructed at the Quincy Shipyard of General Dynamics to 144 feet wide and 1,100 feet long. The need is to replace the Bridge with one that has a 300 foot span that will allow for the construction of any size ship. Cost estimates range from $30 to $50 million to accomplish this project.

The BRAT, organized in 1973 after the completion of an alignment study done by the Sverdrup and Parcel Engineering firm, has subsequently been instrumental in gaining a completion of a $293,000 economic impact study by Parsons, Brinckerhoff, Quade and Douglas; Booz, Allen, Hamilton; Harbridge House; and Regional Science Research Institute. Currently, an Environmental Impact Study done by Parsons, Brinckerhoff for a cost of $100,000 being accomplished under Federal guidelines, is going on.

The economic study basically concurs with the concerns expressed by Shipyard management since 1953 - that is, without a bigger front door out of which to remove the ships from the yard, the market for which they can effectively compete becomes smaller each year.

The study indicates that 1985 is the year of no return without the Bridge. The proud Quincy Shipyard, now with a billion dollars in LNG contracts, will slowly move, at best, towards becoming a second class shipbuilding and repair facility.

General Dynamics has invested over $40 million to date modernizing the yard and is prepared to spend considerably more as it secures contracts for wide-bodied ships. With the Bridge as an obstacle, they are now precluded from going after this growing market.

Replacement of the Fore River Bridge is the single greatest economic issue confronting Southeastern Massachusetts. The Shipyard represents about a quarter of the region's manufacturing payroll. It is estimated that in 1977 the 5,500 employees at the yard will earn $85 million in pay. That is an average of $15,500 per employee.

Regional Science Research Institute reports that in our area here lots of families are Shipyard, and therefore Bridge, dependent. For instance, 1690 people in Quincy, 1308 in Weymouth, 835 in Baintree, 140 in Randolph, 253 in Hingham, 199 in Scituate, 195 in Rockland, 130 in Mansfield, 184 in Holbrook, 148 in Ilanover, 137 in Hull, 137 in Norwell, and 154 in Cohasset, as an average, are employed at the Shipyard.

Economists tell us that for every one manufacturing job that exists in the marketplace, an additional two jobs in the local economy in the retail, service and supply sector result. This means that in excess of 15,000 jobs are Bridge dependent, or about 10% of the South Shore's jobs.

Bridge replacement will cost some $30 to $50 million or about $5000 per direct job it will save or about $2000 per job when considering the indirect employment that the Shipyard generates. By any standard, it is substantially less than the unemployment compensation bill for the same group for a 39-week period.

Massachusetts government needs the help of the United States government to successfully replace the Fore River Bridge. Governor Dukakis and Lieutenant Governor O'Neill have both supported our concern for the issue and the matter also has bipartisan support as well as support from all identifiable special interest groups.

We are now working through Congressman James A. Burke's office to secure United States government financial participation through the Federal Highway Administration, the United States Coast Guard or the United States Army Corps of Engineers in replacement and reconstruction of the Fore River Bridge. Considerable effort is being expended by our staff in gathering the statistics and arguments for the Congressman to use before the appropriate Congressional committees.

READER SPEAKS OUT

Maybe Annex Would Suffice Instead Of New City Hall

Editor, The Quincy Sun:

I enjoyed Karen Webber's article in The Quincy Sun [4/28/77] on the Quincy City Hall and the nice photo which brought out its beauty and historical value.

The conditions on the sale of this property seem clear. Mr. French stipulated that the sale was conditioned on the promise that the property only be used as a town house and any breach of this condition, all would be void to all intents and purpose.

It seems to me that City Planning Director Norman Lundin considers Mr. French's desires to have little meaning. I do not think Mr. Lundin displays much honor regarding Mr. French's wishes, by the trickery he proposes. What if a court ruled in favor of the deceased Quincy citizen who left us the Hall?

Probably we do not need a new City Hall - maybe an annex would suffice. Another city has a new City Hall but at the rate things are going, there will be a new Hall but few to sit in it!

Our problem is lack of tax money in Quincy, not lack of space. Uncle might erect the building but Quincy taxpayers will have to pay to staff it and furnish it.

Tobin Urges United Effort To Keep ENC Here

City Council President Arthur H. Tobin has urged cooperation by all city officials in finding ways to keep Eastern Nazarene College in Quincy.

In calling for a coordinated effort to retain the college, Tobin noted the facility serves a vital function in the higher education of Quincy-area youth, and that it is a valuable asset to the city.

"It appears that all options and alternatives for the use of this campus are unacceptable to the neighborhood and the city, but everyone agrees that Eastern Nazarene is an asset to the city, and ought to be encouraged to remain," Tobin said.

"It is regrettable that the college administration has plans to leave the city, but perhaps these plans can be changed if we all work together, and do everything in our power to convince the college administration that we in Quincy appreciate Eastern Nazarene, and wish they would remain with us. "Our options for other alternative uses are gone. We must now turn our attention to efforts to retain the college, by working together to help the college administration," Tobin said.

Re-Districting - The House Cut

Monday the Massachusetts Legislature began hearing arguments on the re-districting plan that would cut the size of the Massachusetts Legislature from 240 to 160 members. The City of Quincy, with a population of 90,000 will only have 2 1/2 seats. The average size district will grow from 23,000 to 36,000 inhabitants.

The re-districting plan has created many hard feelings because the obvious geographic solution was not always the best political solution for some individual interests. The biggest problems with the plan are in Danvers, and the islands of Nantucket and Martha's Vineyard. The Legislature voted against all amendments to the plan including those for these two areas.

The House cut has also kept the Committee on Election Laws very busy. The House has passed bills that relate to elections which I consider pre-emptive. Two bills, one that would forbid the use of the word "Independent" from being used on the ballot by a candidate. Instead, it would read the candidate's name, and then the word "Unenrolled" would appear next to his name. The other bill would require so-called "Unenrolled" [independents] to declare their non-party affiliation 90 days before the filing date of nomination papers. I voted against both these bills. I believe in competition and giving the underdog a chance. I know what it feels like.

The Legislature is currently considering a $5 million appropriation for 2 new correctional institutions. One in Bridgewater, the other is in Gardner.

My office is located at 69 Billings Road, office hours are MW 8 A.M.-10 A.M., and W 6-9 P.M. The office is currently staffed every evening except Friday. I can be reached in Quincy at 328-0900, or in the State House at 327-7035.

Tobin Urges Dukakis Release Funds For College

Sen. Arthur H. Tobin has urged Gov. Michael S. Dukakis to reconsider his position on impounding $1.7 million earmarked for construction of the proposed South Shore Community College in Broadmeadows.

In a letter to the governor, Tobin said the proposed college is "vital to the higher education of numerous Quincy-area and South Shore students, who must live at home to assist their families while they are attending college."

Tobin noted that the site of the college has already been acquired, and that the Quincy School Committee recently voted for the state to assume responsibility for Quincy Junior College, the last-remaining junior college in the state operated by a city.

He also reminded the governor that Eastern Nazarene College may relocate, so that the result would be a serious shortage of facilities for higher education. "The proposed South Shore Community College would provide a much-needed modern facility for Quincy-area students, and would help replace the losses in higher education space occasioned by overcrowding at Quincy Junior College and by plans of Eastern Nazarene College to relocate to another state," Tobin said.

"I urge you to reconsider your position, and to release these funds so that this new community college may become a reality at the earliest possible date."

QCA Suggests Revenue Funds For Hiring Orderlies

The Quincy Citizens Association has voted to recommend that part of Quincy's revenue-sharing funds be used to hire additional orderlies to assist elderly and incapacitated patients at Quincy City Hospital.

The Association at its May monthly meeting also recommended that the balance of the revenue-sharing money be used to reduce the tax rate.

The QCA also voted: • To oppose variances for the proposed shopping plaza between Quincy Shore Drive and Commander Shea Boulevard.

• To support a bill filed by Sen. Arthur H. Tobin that would assess property according to use. Selection of the two winners of the Joseph Brett-QCA scholarship winners has been postponed for two weeks because of the great number [43] of applications received.

Harold Seeks $3,000 For Adams Birthplaces

While the City Council was busily slashing a couple of million dollars out of Mayor LaRaisa's $82 million budget, Councilor Paul D. Harold asked the Mayor to add a $3,000 item. It seems that with the demise of Quincy Heritage there is no department left in city government to pay for maintenance at the Adams Birthplaces on Franklin St.

"When work is done by the Park Department or the Public Building Department they have to have an account against which to charge expenses," said Harold. "There have been two broken windows in the Birthplaces for a couple of years."

Harold called $3000 a minimal amount.

IN GOOD HANDS for a good cause is this check for $725.10 given by the Quincy Firefighters to the Muscular Dystrophy Association. North Outlasts Quincy For City Championship

The Quincy and North Quincy baseball teams won't make the Eastern Mass. Tournament this year, but North Monday night clinched the city championship by topping Quincy for the second time, 8-6, under the lights before a large crowd at Adams Field.

For eight innings the game was a rout with the Raiders leading, 8-0, but pitcher Kurt O'Sullivan, trying to pitch nine innings for the first time [the Suburban League only recently returned to nine inning games after several years of seven innings], weakened and before Walter McGinley could put out the fire, the Presidents had scored six runs.

North scored single runs in the first two innings, then exploded for six in the third off losing pitcher Pat Gibbons, who was victimized on defense. Pat went six innings and Mark Giordani pitched the final two innings.

For the Raiders Steve Bell had a triple and single, Jim McGinley and Josh Alberti two singles each, Bob Stak a triple and Ed McElaney, Mike McCormick and O'Sullivan a single each.

Quincy collected four of its six hits in the ninth, with Pete Cassidy hitting a long two-run triple and then scoring himself.

Gibbons, Jim Maze, Rich Gilbody, Mike Murphy and Sal Coscia each had a single.

North, with a 7-6 Suburban League record and 7-7 overall, will host Brookline Friday, will entertain Milton at 7 Saturday night at Adams Field, will play at Brockton Monday and wind up the season next Wednesday at Weymouth North.

Quincy, 7-7 in the league and 7-9 overall, will be at Waltham Friday, will host Weymouth North Monday and will meet Weymouth South in the finale Wednesday at 7:15 at Adams.

Last Friday, Quincy exploded for six runs in the seventh inning and went on to outlast Brookline, 15-14, in a wild one.

There were 30 hits in the game, 15 by each team. Pete Niosi was four for six with two doubles and four runs batted in. Mark Giordani was three for five, Pat Gibbons, Rich Gilbody and John Houten had two hits apiece and Len Picot and Mike Murphy one each.

Earlier in the week, Quincy defeated Rindge Tech, 8-2, after losing, 1-0, in the continuation of an earlier game which was called in the sixth inning when Rindge Coach Laurence Gibson collapsed. He later died in Cambridge.

The Presidents had only three hits in that game, one each by Gibbons, Giordani and Sal Coscia.

In the second game, Quincy pounded out 13 hits, two doubles by Niosi, two hits each by Gibbons, Giordani, Murphy and Pete Cassidy and one apiece by Picot, Gilbody and Houten.

North Quincy erupted for seven runs in the seventh inning and rolled over Newton North, 10-4.

Bob Stak and Jim McGinley had three hits apiece, Kurt O'Sullivan and Mike McCormick two each and Ed McElaney one. O'Sullivan went all the way for the pitching win.

Quincy, North Clash In League Finale

The Quincy and North Quincy track teams meet today (Thursday) at 3:15 p.m. at Veterans Memorial Stadium with the Presidents hopeful of their best showing in several years against the Raiders.

The meet is the last of the Suburban League season for North, 7-2 overall and 5-2 in the league, and Quincy, 3-4 on the season.

Last week, Lou Tozzi's Raiders rolled over Rindge Tech, 95-45, while John Lavery's Presidents lost to Weymouth South, 98-47.

Winners for North Quincy were Matty King, 100; John O'Donnell, half mile; Paul McCormick, two-mile; Dan McIntyre, tie in low hurdles; Tim O'Neill, long jump; Rich Kennedy, triple jump; Steve Bonoli, pole vault; Mike Larsen, shot put; Fran McLaughlin, javelin, and the mile relay team of King, Kennedy, O'Neill and Jerry MacKenzie.

Quincy met Weymouth South on South's best day as many of its competitors turned in their best efforts of the season.

The only Quincy winners were Jon Golub, 100; Paul Ladas, half mile and triple jump; Ken MacPhee, two-mile and Tod Caffisch, javelin.

Recently Quincy romped over Brookline, 94-51, with Vin Hart winning the shot put, Tod Caffisch the javelin, Dennis Campbell the pole vault, Bill Shea the low hurdles, Vin Lorenzano the 220, Paul Ladas the half mile, Ken MacPhee the mile and Kevin Murphy the two-mile.

Earlier in the week Lorenzano, a sophomore, was a double winner as the Presidents defeated Waltham, 76-67.

Lorenzano won the 220 and long jump and other winners were John Carlone, discus; Campbell, vault; Ladas, half mile; John Saville, mile; MacPhee, two-mile, and the mile relay team.

Meanwhile, Lou Tozzi's North Quincy trackmen, for the first time since joining the Suburban League three years ago, defeated Weymouth South, 80-65.

"Nine of our guys had their best efforts ever, which certainly helped us," said Tozzi, whose Raiders are 6-2. "It was a highly spirited meet by both clubs."

Weymouth raced away to an early 17-1 lead in the long and high jumps. After the field events Weymouth still held a 33-29 edge, but North Quincy showed their strength in the running events, losing only one, the 440.

North sophomore, Dan McIntyre broke a school record in the low hurdles, winning in 42.1 seconds, 7/10ths better than Pete Donovan's previous record set last year.

Other Raider winners were Russ Chisholm, 100; Matty King, 220; Jerry MacKenzie, half mile; Mike Morin, mile; Mike Barrett, two-mile; Dan Cuddy, high hurdles; Rich Kennedy, triple jump; Steve Bonoli, pole vault; Mike Larsen, shot put; Jim Frye, discus; Jim Hanrahan, javelin; the mile relay team of McIntyre, John O'Donnell, Kennedy and MacKenzie, and the 440 relay team of Chisholm, Tim O'Neill, John Pawell and King.
